METHODISTS CLEAR CANNON AFTER SECRET 5-DAY HEARING

Finding of Committee of 12 Ministers Announced From Steps of Washington Church Where Sessions Were Held.

NO TRIAL NECESSARY, INQUISITORS SAY

Accused Prohibition Leader Absent When Decision Is Reached — Bishop Only Witness to Appear in Own Behalf.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., militant prohibition leader of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, tonight stood clear in the eyes of his church of grave charges brought by four fellow clergymen.

A committee of 12 ministers, gathered from widely separated sections of the church, after two hours of deliberating on evidence it heard during the last five days, found "no trial necessary."

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of Birmingham, Ala., who presided over the investigation, stood in the rain and announced the decision from the steps of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, where the hearings were conducted.

The accused bishop was not present when the decision was reached. He was in Sibley Hospital; his son, James Cannon III, of Durham, N. C., was in the church, however, and ran across the hall to telephone his father when the news was given him. He then left the church and hurried to his father's bedside.

No Individual Statements.

The members of the committee left the church and hurried away without making any statements.

Bishop Cannon faced suspension until the 1934 general conference of the church if the committee had found the charges had weight.

For three days Dr. Forrest J. Prettyman of Baltimore, Dr. I. P. Martin of Abingdon, Va., Drs. Costen J. Harrell and J. T. Mastin of Richmond, Va., presented the charges they had brought. For the last two days Bishop Cannon has presented his defense.

From his hospital bed the Bishop told the Associated Press that he had "no statement to make now on any subject." He expects to take a long rest, in an effort to complete his recovery from a three months' illness of arthritis. He attended the hearings on crutches. The charges against Bishop Cannon were grouped under six heads and involved over 48 specific indictments. In his defense he took up each indictment and answered it. He called no witnesses and conducted his own defense, assisted by his son, James Cannon, III, and Dr. J. Sidney Peters of Newport News, Va., a lifelong friend.

Second Time in Year.

The action of the committee tonight clears the bishop entirely. Those who brought the charges have the privilege of renewing them at the general conference in 1934, but all four clearly indicated, during the course of the hearings, that they had no such intention.

It was the second time within a year Cannon has beaten charges brought against him within his own church. He was cleared of stock gambling charges by the general conference in Dallas last summer after appearing before the conference, admitting error and expressing repentance.

During the course of the hearing the committee heard those who brought charges, summoned a number of witnesses, including Dr. W. A. Christian of Richmond, who succeeded Bishop Cannon as president of the Blackstone Female Institute of Blackstone, Va., Frank Morgan, a Richmond detective; Austin O'Malley, a reporter for the New York Journal, George P. Adams, Secretary and Treasurer of the Blackstone Institute, and Dr. Eugene Crawford, an associate of Bishop Cannon on the Church Board of Temperance and Social Service.

Guards and Locked Doors.

Secrecy marked the conduct of the hearing from its start. Police guards walked around the church and a detective sergeant guarded the closed and locked doors of the big church. Members of the com-

20 MEN ADRIFT ON ICE FLOE IN BLIZZARD IN LAKE ERIE

Coast Guards Rescue 20 Buffalo Fishermen After Fighting Storm—Shift in Wind Gives Hope of Rescuing Others.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 7. — A fickle wind snatched more than 20 fishermen from almost certain death tonight and whirled the ice floe, on which they were trapped, out into the open waters of Lake Erie once again, raising fresh hopes of rescue if they could hold out until dawn.

Only a few degrees, from north by northeast to east, did the treacherous wind that sweeps Lake Erie shift, but it was enough to drive the ice floe away from the rocks of Sturgeon Point where veteran sailors of the Great Lakes had feared it would be smashed with its living freight.

Twenty-one fishermen were missfrom their homes tonight and all were believed to be drifting helplessly several miles off shore in the grip of waves lashed to fury by a driving wind which blew throughout the day. The wind died down late tonight but long hours still must elapse before the turbulent waters would sink to their normal swell.

Twenty other fishermen were rescued late this afternoon by Coast Guards and volunteers; eight reached shore by using a smaller ice floe as a raft and paddling into the teeth of the wind; six others fought their way ashore from one cake of ice to another, while still another reached the Canadian shore after wandering across the broken ice for six miles.

The men went adrift in two groups early in the day.

Five boats—two ice skiffs, two tugs and a cabin cruiser—put out in search of the first group of men. The ice skiffs alternately were slid over the ice or plunged through open lanes of water. While the tugs smashed their way through the thinner ice, breaking a way for the cabin cruiser. Commander Rasmussen held a plane in readiness, manned by two flyers, prepared to join the search, but it was unable to take off because of the blizzard.

When the second call for help came in, Rasmussen loaded another ice skiff and crew into a truck and sent them southwest along the lake shore to begin another rescue attempt.

DOCTOR ROBBED OF AUTO ON LINDBERGH BOULEVARD

A. F. Hartmann of University City Held Up by Men When Driving With His Wife.

Dr. Alexis F. Hartmann, 7433 Teasdale avenue, University City, and Mrs. Hartmann were held up on Lindbergh boulevard, north of Clayton road, last night by five men in an automobile who crowded their machine to the side of the road.

They took $8 from Dr. Hartmann and drove away in his automobile, abandoning the one they had been driving.

CLEW TO "TRADEWIND" PLANE

Wreckage Which Looks Like Wing Sighted Near Azores.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—When Capt. Albin Johnson of the steamer Youngstown landed today at Havre he said that 130 miles northwest of the Azores his vessel had passed a piece of wreckage which looked like an airplane wing and might have been a part of the trans-Atlantic plane Tradewind. The wreckage was gray, he said, about three feet wide by seven feet long. "We also saw other wreckage," he said, "which looked like part of a cork life ring and had a new piece of manila line attached.

The airplane Tradewind carrying Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren, Americans, disappeared Jan. 10 when attempting to cross the Atlantic from New York by way of Bermuda and the Azores.

FUGITIVE CONVICT DROPS UNIFORM FOR A CUTAWAY

One of Pair Who Fled From Dartmoor, in Long-Tailed Coat, Striped Trousers.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETOWN, Devonshire, England, Feb. 7. — Two desperate criminals who escaped from Dartmoor Prison yesterday in a fog were thought tonight to be fleeing amid the dangerous bogs of this moorland country, one of them dressed ludicrously in the formal garb of a man about town.

Some time after the prisoners, John Mullins and John Gaskin, made their getaway, they entered a house and stole clothing to replace their prison uniforms.

There was only one lounge suit in the house, however, and one of the men had to be content with a long-tailed morning coat and striped trousers.

If the two make good their escape they will be the first to do so in the history of the prison. They slipped away from a long line of marching prisoners within the prison enclosure and scaled a high wall by means of a rope ladder.

More than 50 armed wardens took up the search.

The region through which they are fleeing is one of the most forbidding in England. Houses are far apart and the moors abound in bottomless bogs and dense bracken.

BOY SCOUT, IN UNIFORM, FOUND SLAIN IN CHICAGO

Lame Lad Killed in Alley at Door of Polish Church—Crutches Missing.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Dressed in his Boy Scout uniform, Andrew Radecki, 15 years old, who was lame, was found shot to death tonight in an alley a block from his home. He had been shot once through the heart and his body shoved partly through the basement door of the Trinity Polish Catholic Church. Although a pistol lay nearby, police were sure he did not shoot himself. His crutches were not found and friends said he could not have walked unassisted to where his body lay.

The boy's brother, John, 7, told police a youth in the neighborhood had planned to run away from home and had stolen a pistol and tried to persuade Andrew to accompany him.

Residents of the neighborhood reported they had seen another boy carry Andrew's body into the alley and leave it there. Police proceeded on the theory the youth either was shot accidentally while the other boy was showing him the pistol, or was intentionally slain to prevent him from telling of the other's escapade.

Migrating Birds Killed in Storm.

By the Associated Press.

MANDAN, N. D., Feb. 7.—Several thousand birds—all chestnut-colored Lapland longspurs—started their northward flight too early and flew to their death last night. The birds lay in heaps today on Mandan streets. A taxidermist said the longspurs, akin to the sparrow, apparently were attracted by the city's light on their premature northward flight and, blinded by a snowstorm, flew into wires and other obstructions.

ASSERTS STIMSON POLICY TENDS TO RECOGNIZE RUSSIA

If Doctrines He Enunciated Were Applied, Recognition Would Follow, Borah Says.

ROBINSON RAKES CRITIC OF WILSON

BY CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, declared in debate this afternoon that if the doctrine enunciated in New York last night by Secretary of State Stimson were applied, the recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States would follow.

Borah's significant utterance was made in reply to a question by Minority Leader Robinson of Arkansas, who had opened the debate with an attack on what he termed "stupid" criticism of Woodrow Wilson by Secretary Stimson.

Robinson asked whether Stimson's views with regard to recognition of foreign governments, if applied to Russia, would not result in recognition.

"Undoubtedly they would" emphatically replied Borah, who has long stood for official recognition of the Soviet government.

Robinson himself, while not criticising the failure of the State Department to recognize Russia, had previously asserted that if Stimson were consistent, he would take steps to bring about recognition.

Recognition of Russia.

"If President Wilson is censured for refusing to recognize the Huerta regime in Mexico," asked Robinson "how is Secretary Stimson to save his face in the refusal to accord recognition to Russia? The latter is more firmly established than was the Mexican government under Huerta when President Wilson announced his policy toward Mexico."

Approaching Stimson's remarks from a different angle, Borah said he was glad to see the Secretary of State had abandoned the Wilsonian policy toward governments brought into being by revolutions and had gone back to the traditional policy set forth by Thomas Jefferson in 1792.

Except for departures under Secretary Seward and later under Wilson, whose policy was carried forward by Secretary of State Hughes under President Harding, Borah said the Jeffersonian view had controlled the foreign policy of this Government throughout its history. He hoped, he said, there would be no more digressions from it.

Borah quoted with approbation, as Stimson did last night, the words of Thomas Jefferson: "We certainly cannot deny to other nations that principle whereon our own Government is founded, that every nation has a right to govern itself internally under what forms it pleases, and to change these forms at its own will; and externally to transact business with other nations through whatever organ it chooses, whether that be a king, convention, assembly, committee, President or whatever it be."

Conflicting Policies.

Borah outlined the conflicting policies. On the one hand there was the policy which led Wilson to refuse recognition to Huerta, and which later prompted Secretary of Hughes to promote the treaty under which the Central American republics agreed to not recognize a Government set up by revolution or a coup d'etat. He pointed out that this treaty of 1923, though not signed by the United States, was engineered by this Government and represented the Harding-Hughes attitude toward recognition.

On the other hand, Borah continued, there was the traditional policy of the United States, as laid down ably by Jefferson, to the effect that we should recognize any Government which attained control in another country. It was not a proper function of the United States, said Borah, to inquire into the methods by which a foreign Government came into power, nor did the United States, under the Monroe Doctrine, have the authority to say what kind of government should be established in any Latin-American country.

In other words, said Borah, the United States should pursue its age-old course of recognizing de facto governments and should definitely

FIVE MEN POSING AS DRY AGENTS GET $10,000 IN BONDS

Five men, posing as prohibition agents, ransacked the home of Charles and William Reuter on the outskirts of East Alton at 8 o'clock last night, broken open a safe and escaped with $10,000 in Liberty Bonds before the elderly farmers realized the imposture.

The Reuter brothers, both advanced in years and reputedly wealthy, reside a short distance from Illinois Highway No. 3 between Alton and East Alton. Last night, they told authorities, William Reuter and Charles Reuter Jr. were standing in the yard when a sedan, which appeared to be a green Chevrolet, drove in the lane to the yard and turned, heading toward the highway again.

As William Reuter approached the machine, five men got out. Two were young and of medium build. One, considerably older, was of unusual height and powerfully built. The fifth, a short, bulky man about 30 years old, tossed back a lapel, displayed a revolver and told Reuters he and the others were prohibition agents.

Search House With Flashlight.

As the Reuters made no protest in leading them into the house, he replaced his revolver in its holster. Finding the elder Charles Reuter in the kitchen of the farmhouse, the leader called each of them by name, and delegated two of his men to guard them, while, producing flashlights, he and the other two searched the lower part of the house.

Returning, the three took Charles Reuter, Jr., to the bedrooms on the second floor, and proceeded with their search in leisurely fashion and without further display of arms. Reuter's mother was ill and had retired early. Over his protest they entered her bedroom and then the leader, stepped out to direct one of his companions to take Reuter downstairs.

"As we passed through my bedroom," Reuter told the Sheriff, "I noticed my Browning automatic shotgun standing in a corner, loaded. But I never thought to get it. I had no idea the men were not really prohibition agents."

Heard Safe Being Opened.

As he reached the foot of the steps, he related, he heard a metallic sound, which he later judged was the sound of a safe door being opened. The leader and the tall robber came down the steps, announced that they were ready to depart, and left with their companions.

Mrs. Reuter followed them down the steps, and, as they went out the door, cried, "They've broken open the safe. We've been robbed."

The robbers had worked so rapidly that Mrs. Reuter was unable to say how they had entered the small safe, which was standing against the wall a few feet from her bed. The heavy outer door had been standing open, and they had broken the lock on the inner door.

Charles Reuter, Sr., told authorities that the safe had contained two registered $5000 Liberty bonds, besides several hundred dollars in time deposit certificates and stock in an East Alton Bank in an undetermined amount.

William Reuter said that a sedan like that used by the robbers had driven up in front of the house about noon yesterday. He walked toward it, observing that two men were riding in it, and they turned and drove away.

$25,000 in Flowers for Bootlegger.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. — Friends sent $25,000 worth of flowers which filled 40 cars of the funeral cortege of Joseph Catania, Bronx bootlegger, today. Mourners filled 85 more cars and the body was moved to its last resting place in a $10,000 casket of statuary bronze. The casket was placed in a temporary receiving vault at Woodlawn Cemetery until a $20,000 vault in another cemetery is completed. Ten thousand persons lined the streets, while many detectives watched for disorders. The police searched some of the mourners for weapons.

200 RESCUED IN STORM AS FERRY RAMS SHIP

Three Persons Injured in Collision Off Jersey City Waterfront.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—In a blinding snowstorm in mid-stream between the New York and Jersey shores, the ferryboat, Elmira, and the freighter, Marion, of the Colonial Navigation Co., collided tonight. The more than 200 passengers aboard the ferryboat were thrown into a panic and three of them were injured so seriously they were taken to a hospital.

A hole was torn in the side of the Marion, bound from New York for New Bedford, Mass., and she was forced to return to her berth. The ferryboat, owned by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, was towed to its slip in Hoboken.

Tugs put out immediately to the rescue. The 200 ferry-boat passengers were with some difficulty transferred to the tugs and taken to Jersey City.

Capt. Harry Angell of the Marion said the Elmira was crossing from the New York to the Jersey shore. He gave one blast of his whistle as a signal to the captain of the ferry boat that he was going to continue on his way and that the Elmira was to cross the Marion's stern. Instead, he said, the Elmira continued to approach the Marion at right angles and struck the freighter amidship, tearing a hole 10 feet long and four feet wide in the Marion's side above the water line.

WRECKERS USE BATTERING RAM ON 25-YEAR-OLD BUILDING

Pick and Crowbar Futile Against Concrete Structure, a "Daring Experiment" of 1906.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Engineers are using a battering ram in wrecking a building at Ninth avenue and Sixteenth street, erected in 1906, when concrete was still thought to be of doubtful value as a building material. Construction experts found pick and crowbar helpless against the 25-year-old flinty reinforced concrete of a five-story bottling works which they are tearing down to make way for a new building.

They were able to remove only a few barrelfuls a day until a thousand-pound battering ram was brought up to hammer down the solid walls.

In 1906 the building was considered a daring experiment, and authorities debated long over whether the concrete would be able to withstand the wear of the years.

MISS EARHART WEDS GEORGE P. PUTNAM

Trans-Atlantic Flyer to Retain Maiden Name and Position in Aviation Firm.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. — Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flyer, and George Palmer Putnam, publisher-explorer, were married today at the home of Putnam's mother, Mrs. Frances Putnam, at Noank, Conn. Announcement of the marriage was made by Putnam's secretary in New York and confirmed by relatives at Noank.

Judge Arthur Anderson performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by the groom's mother and Judge Anderson's son, Robert.

The bride said she would retain her maiden name and continue her executive position with an aviation company operating hourly planes between New York, Philadelphia and Washington. She said she would be at her desk Monday and that her husband would be at work as usual in the New York publishing firm of Brewer & Warren with which he is associated.

In the application for a marriage license Miss Earhart gave her age as 32. Putnam is 42.

The romance is traced by some of their friends to a meeting at which Putnam represented Mrs. Frederick Guest in a search for an aviatrix to fly across the Atlantic in the plane Friendship. Mrs. Guest had hoped to make the flight, but her family opposed her, and through the mutual acquaintance of Admiral Richard E. Byrd Mrs. Guest met Putnam and agreed to let the plane be used for a trans-Atlantic flight in which a woman would be a passenger or pilot.

Miss Earhart, then a social worker in Boston, who had learned to fly for the fun of it, was selected by Putnam to join the flight, and she left her work as director of the Denison Settlement Center to that end.

On June 17-18, 1928, she flew from Trepassey, N. F., to Burryport, Wales, with the late Wilmer D. Stultz as pilot and Lou Gordon as mechanic.

Putnam has been married before. His first wife was Mrs. Dorothy Binney Putnam. They were divorced in Reno in December, 1929, and she later married Frank M. Upton, a hero of the rescue of the Antinoe's crew by the liner President Harding in midocean.

Putnam has a son by his first wife, David Binney Putnam, now 17 years old, who sailed with his father to Baffin Island on an exploration tour in 1927 at the age of 14 and wrote a book about his trip.

While Miss Earhart was preparing for her trans-Atlantic flight in 1928, the then Mrs. Putnam was quoted as describing her as "the most delightful person I ever met."

NOT IN VIOLATION OF DISSOLUTION DECREE OF 1911

Three U. S. Appellate Judges Declare Present Proposal Is Not in Restraint of Trade, in Construing That Order.

CHANGED BUSINESS CONDITIONS CITED

"No Monopolistic Tendency," They Assert — Government Expected to Take Appeal That Will Delay Decision for Year.

Merging of the Standard Oil Co. of New York, with $434,000,000 capital stock and $708,000,000 assets, and the Vacuum Oil Co., with $128,000,000 capital stock and $205,000,000 assets, into the proposed General Petroleum Corporation was sanctioned by three Judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in a decision of nation-wide importance, given in St. Louis yesterday.

The decision was that the proposed merger would not create a new monopoly in restraint of trade, and that, therefore, it was not forbidden by the historic decree which dissolved the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey 20 years ago. The decision is expected to encourage other large mergers in the oil industry, but the Judges state that such proposals will be dealt with upon their merits in future, and that no new merger will be permitted which would actually create conditions in restraint of trade.

Finally Dissolved in 1911.

Standard of New York, known by the trade name of Socony, and Vacuum were two of the 38 companies which formed Standard of New Jersey, then dominated by John D. Rockefeller, until that company was dissolved as a monopoly in restraint of trade, by a decree given in St. Louis in 1909, and approved by the United States Supreme Court in 1911. The decree of 1909-11 forbade the subsidiaries of Standard of New Jersey, including Socony and Vacuum, to form any new combination in restraint of trade.

Nearly a year ago Socony, which does a large gasoline business in New York and New England, and Vacuum, which does a world-wide business in lubricants, announced their plan to merge in the General Petroleum Corporation. The new company, it was estimated, would have a market value of $1,100,000,000 on the basis of quotations then current for the stocks. The Department of Justice was notified, and in March it filed suit, in St. Louis, to enjoin the merger under the terms of the 1909-11 decree.

Appeal by Government Likely.

Judges Kimbrough Stone, Wilbur F. Booth and A. K. Gardner of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit heard evidence and arguments in Omaha last October, sitting as District Judges. Their decision rendered yesterday was written by Judge Stone. It is expected that the Government will appeal to the Supreme Court, and that a year or more will elapse before a final decree.

The three Appellate Judges, in their decision yesterday, construed Section 6 of the Supreme Courts Standard Oil dissolution decree of 1911. This was the section which forbade the formation of new combinations in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. The question considered by the Judges, as to the proposed Socony-Vacuum merger, was whether it would be in violation of the law.

They found that the Socony-Vacuum merger was not intended to operate in restraint of trade or to destroy competition, and that it would not do either, although a small amount of local competition now existing between the two would be removed. The more important effect, the Judges held, would be to add the merged company as a new competitor in many

CONFEREES AGREE TO $20,000,000 COMPROMISE AID

Senators La Follette and Wheeler, However, Assail Drouth Loan Fund as 'Face-Saving Proposition'

PASSAGE BY SAFE MAJORITY FORECAST

Secretary Hyde, Who Will Administer Agreement, Asserts It Avoids Doles or Direct Charity.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The $20,000,000 drouth loan compromise on relief was formally approved today by conferees of the Senate and House as rebellion against it broke out in the Senate from the ranks of the Republican and Democratic independents.

Senators La Follette (Rep.), Wisconsin, and Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, assailed the loan fund as a "face-saving" proposition and announced they would oppose it because it contained no Federal fund for relief in the cities.

Chairman Smoot of the Senate conferees announced he would bring it up for a vote Monday and the Democratic and Republican leaders are prepared to throw their full strength behind the measure.

New Threat of Extra Session.

The insurgency of La Follette and Wheeler brought a new fear to leaders who were hopeful of completing business by March 4 and avoiding an extra session. In the new Congress the Republican independents will have the balance of power in both branches.

La Follette told the Senate he would speak at length against the report on Monday, but he said he had no intent to filibuster. Both Senators Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, and Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic chieftain, are confident tonight the settlement will be approved and an extra session of the new Congress avoided.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who will administer the relief agreement, described the measure tonight as one which "avoids doles or direct charity from the Federal Treasury, or any implication thereof."

A letter from him to Chairman Wood of the House Appropriations Committee was read in the House by Wood.

The letter outlined the methods by which the Secretary plans to distribute the funds and told of the banking situations to be met to rehabilitate the farmers.

Hyde's Letter to Wood.

The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Wood: Your request for my views upon the pending amendment to the seed loan appropriation has been received.

"The proposed measure is intended to take care of another phase of the credit problem in the drouth-stricken area which is economic in character and not covered by other services.

"The critical condition in the drouth area arises not only from the drouth but also from the weakened banking situation. There are two phases of the whole problem:

"First, relief to the distressed who have no resources and therefore no security to offer for loans.

"Second, the provision of adequate credit for those who can offer security for loans to enable them to carry on their usual operations.

"The Red Cross is adequately caring for the needs of the first class. The appropriation already made of $45,000,000 for seed, feed and fertilizer loans to be secured by liens on the crops, will provide for a large number of the second class.

"There remains the general problem of furnishing essential credit to those who have security, but who cannot obtain it because of the breakdown of normal credit facilities.

How Requirements Will Be Met.

"The requirements are to be met in two ways:

"First, secured by loans to individuals of capital to assist them to strengthen the existing agricultural credit corporations or to set up new agencies which can in turn operate through the Intermediate Credit Banks, and second, by other emergency loans on adequate security to be made by the Secretary of Agriculture.

"A part of the normal agricultural credit operation in the drouth area consists in financing from month to month by the landlord of his tenants. This financing goes to buy food and clothing, as well as for other purposes. It is principally this system which, due to a weakened banking structure, has broken down, thus depriving the community of the credit essential to economic recovery.

"The provision in the pending bill would answer the needs of all of these who can offer security. It will relieve the burden upon charity by aiding to restore normal credit condition. It leaves to the Red Cross the responsibility of the field as agent for human relief to those who do not have security and to whom Government loans for food, such as were at one time proposed, would have been mere charity by creating obligations from large groups far beyond their ability to pay.

Economic Rehabilitation.

"This situation was foreseen last September when the President called a conference of bankers in the drouth stricken states and recommended that agricultural credit corporations be formed to function under the intermediate credit system. The bankers undertook to assist in the creation of such corporations and a number of them were formed, but not to the number or strength which is now necessary.

"The present bill rounds out the program of economic rehabilitation in much better fashion than the legislative proposals heretofore made. It fills out the pattern of measures necessary in the drouth territory:

"First, human relief by the Red Cross to farmers and to industrial people who have no resources in the drouth region.

"Second, loans for seed and fertilizer secured against the coming crop.

"And finally, this last provision aimed to restore credit facilities for those who have security to offer.

"This program avoids doles or direct charity from the Federal Treasury, or any implication thereof."

Meets President's Position.

From administration House members there came expressions of satisfaction at the agreement. Congressmen Tilson of Connecticut, the majority leader, and Cramton of Michigan, chairman of the subcommittee in charge of the bill, said in statements that it was in entire harmony with the attitude taken by the President.

Senators Robinson and Caraway of Arkansas both announced they were satisfied that under the drouth loan terms that money could be made available for purchase of food by the farmers. The measure provides for loans for agricultural rehabilitation.

However, some other Democrats were skeptical. Senators Barkley, Kentucky, and Connally, Texas, both Democrats, said they wanted written assurance that loans for all purposes necessary would be allowed. Demands for similar assurance came from Congressmen Byrns of Tennessee and Aswell of Louisiana, Democrats.

Comfortable Majority Forecast.

The fact that both Robinson and Caraway, who have led the Democratic fight for relief legislation, were satisfied with the compromise is expected to go a long way toward insuring a comfortable majority for the measure.

The $20,000,000 provision was incorporated in the Interior Department appropriation measure in the place of $25,000,000 Red Cross relief fund to which the administration objected.

The bill also includes more than $25,000,000 to become available immediately on public works in the Government reservations of the West.

Senators La Follette and Wheeler demanded that the language of the appropriation be made to include the word "food" to which the administration has objected.

"If an agreement has been reached," said La Follette, "that the money can be used for food, let us have the courage and the manhood to write that into the law."

Demand Relief in Cities.

The two objectors insisted that it was up to the Government to appropriate money to help relieve suffering in the cities.

"Back of this controversy," asserted La Follette, "is the determination on the part of the administration to establish a precedent which will stand for all time to come against appropriation of money from the Treasury of the United States to assist millions of people who are suffering for want of food, clothing and shelter through no fault of their own.

"It is time for Congress to face the real issue involved in this controversy. If you don't face it now, you will face it at the next session and at the next session after that, until it is settled."

Senator Wheeler said the agreement was "not very creditable to the President and not very creditable to the Senate."

Senator McKellar of Tennessee, one of the Democratic conferees on the Interior bill, did not sign the report which included the relief compromise.

He said later that he was not entirely satisfied with the language of the agreement. He did not say that he would oppose the report in the Senate.

Congressman La Guardia of New York, a Republican, called it "economically impossible, politically disastrous, morally insincere and practically ineffective." He urged that the fight be continued for a direct relief appropriation and said if the sponsors were sincere in using the fund to relieve the drouth-stricken they "know they can never be repaid."

Chairman Wood of the Appropriations Committee said the compromise includes a settlement of the Senate proposals to give 20,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat to the Red Cross, to expand the capital of agriculture credit corporations by $5,000,000 and to create a $2,000,000 revolving fund for the benefit of those who were unable to repay drouth-relief loans made last year.

"It wipes the slate of all the differences between the two houses in order that relief may be had and in order to avoid an extra session, which I am sure a majority of the members do not want," he said.

16 Arkansas Counties Cared For.

Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell B. Hodges, aid to President Hoover, telegraphed Secretary of War Hurley today that the Red Cross and local agencies are adequately meeting conditions of suffering in 16 counties of Arkansas.

Hodges and Maj. Oliver S. Wood of the Militia Bureau were sent to Arkansas by Hurley to investigate drouth conditions.

"Survey has covered 16 counties, including the hardest-hit sections of the State," Hodges telegraphed. "Red Cross and local agencies are now adequately meeting situation. Careful search fails to reveal any presence of suffering from hunger and cold."

The Red Cross today had received $6,787,720 in its campaign for a $10,000,000 drouth relief fund.

Poison Murderess Free After 12 Years

A SEATTLE court last Thursday released RUTH GARRISON from the criminal insane ward of the State penitentiary. She was sent to the asylum when 18 years old after she had been found not guilty by reason of insanity of the murder of Mrs. Douglas Storrs because of her infatuation for the victim's husband. She met Mrs. Storrs in a tea room to discuss her affair with Storrs and scattered poison on the salad her victim ate later. Storrs, who was sent to the penitentiary on a statutory charge, was paroled some time ago. The photograph shows MISS GARRISON (right) in court in charge of a penitentiary matron.

20,000,000 IDLE OR WORKING PART TIME IN WORLD

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON,

GENEVA, Feb. 7.—More than 20,000,000 workers are either partly or totally unemployed at present in the world, according to conservative and mostly official, statistics collected by the International Labor Office.

In European countries from which the Labor Bureau gets weekly reports, there are at the moment more than 11,000,000 unemployed. The figures for overseas countries are incomplete, American estimates ranging from the official figure of 4,000,000 to double that number consequently the world situation cannot be as accurately gauged as that of Europe itself.

In Germany there are 4,500,000 without work; in Great Britain 2,500,000, in Italy more than 500,000; in Czecho-Slovakia, 150,000; in Poland more than 200,000, and in Japan nearly 400,000. France, the labor office reports, is now beginning to show a decided slackening in industrial activity. Compared with a year ago, unemployment in all parts of the world has more than doubled.

Joining in the campaign to seek alleviation for the industrial depression the Labor Office already has summoned an international unemployment committee to draw up a general plan of research in co-operation with other international institutions. Its first meeting was held Jan. 28.

Situation in Austria.

A casual survey of some of the reports reaching the Labor Office shows that in Austria there are 57 per cent more workers receiving aid now than a year ago. Belgium has five times as many unemployed and Czecho-Slovakia is extending government aid to two and one-half times as many jobless as a year ago. The registered unemployed in Czecho-Slovakia have increased four and one-half times during the same period.

Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden report increases in unemployed of 22 per cent, 94 per cent, 41 per cent and 60 per cent, respectively. In Germany the government and insurance benefit funds were distributed among 2,549,115, while Great Britain and Ireland paid benefits to 2,368,798.

An interesting disclosure is that while in 1919 there were about 4,500,000 workers in all countries eligible for unemployment insurance, of whom 3,700,000 were British, today unemployment insurance, either governmental or private, exists in 10 countries and applies to about 47,500,000 workers.

U. S. Without Benefit System.

The United States is the only large industrial country which does not have some system of unemployment protection for its workers. Russia, where insurance was obligatory until a few months ago, indefinitely suspended that law because of a dearth of labor.

In the last 12 months, Holland's unemployed have increased by 124 per cent so far as insured workers are concerned while in Rumania the gain has been 6½ times. Switzerland's unemployed have doubled in number and Jugo-Slavia reports a gain of 39 per cent. Japan reports 38 per cent more unemployed than a year ago and in Palestine, where controversy has arisen over the bar against immigration of Jews, there are twice as many idle as a year ago.

The one spot in Europe that reports a decrease in unemployment is Ireland, where latest figures show actually 55 per cent fewer unemployed than a month ago on the same date.

Oil Tank Burns; Worker Hurt.

NORTH BALTIMORE, O., Feb. 7.—Fire starting from an explosion which caused probable fatal burns to one employe, tonight destroyed a 30,000 barrel oil tank of the Imperial Oil Co., five miles north of here. Eugene Hampshire, 40 years old, who was caught in the explosion, was said at a Findlay hospital to have slight chance for recovery.

Socony-Vacuum Oil Merger Approved

Changed Conditions Cited.

Changed conditions in the oil business, shown in the testimony last year, were cited by the Judges in their decision. When Standard of New Jersey was dissolved as a monopoly, it was distributing 82 per cent of all petroleum products marketed in the United States. Today, a foreign-owned company, Royal Dutch Shell, is a powerful competitor of the companies of the former Standard family. Shell was first in crude oil production in 1929, Standard of New Jersey being second.

The change in the character of product was another factor. At the time of the 1909 decision, kerosene was the chief product, and hardly one-third as much gasoline as kerosene was produced. In 1929, eight times as much gasoline as kerosene was produced. Kerosene was sold through grocery stores, while gasoline is sold directly by the producing companies, through service stations which handle only petroleum products.

"There is, and could be," the Appellate Judges say, "no contention here that the present contemplated merger is a continuance, carrying into further effect or a prolongation of the conspiracy and monopoly found to exist in the main suit (the suit to dissolve Standard of New Jersey). The contention is, and must be, that it is an entirely new undertaking.

"As applied to the situation now before us, our conclusion is that the Supreme Court has construed Section 6 as enjoining a merger or transfer of property between the subsidiary corporations which are potentially competitive, only if and when such merger or transfer, at the time it may occur, constitutes an 'entering or performing any like combination or conspiracy, the effect of which is, or will be, to restrain commerce.'"

Restraint of Trade Denied.

The Judges hold that "whether the decree (of 1909-11) is violated by this merger involves (a) existence of an intent to so restrain commerce or (b) the effect of resulting in such restraint."

They find that there is no evidence of an intent to restrain commerce, but that, on the contrary, "the intent and purpose of the merger is solely to meet the normal and natural business necessities of the two companies, brought about by the development of, and the changed competitive and business conditions in, the industry."

The present state of the oil industry, the decision says, is "that of integrated companies having an ownership of crude, refining capacity, producing gasoline, lubricants and other petroleum products, selling to each retailer or to the consumer as near a complete line of products as the consumer uses. The unquestionable tendency is, as to a very important class of customers, the owners of automobiles, to sell direct to the consumer and to sell both gasoline and oil at the same time and place."

The Judges find, from their survey of evidence as to the business of the two companies, that the inducement for Socony to enter the merger is expansion, but that with Vacuum the situation is more urgent, since it has been losing retail outlets and distribution points, through the desire of other companies to push their own products.

Business Reasons for Merger.

"For this reason," the decision says, "it is clear that there are sound business reasons for this merger, which are entirely sufficient, and are wholly unconnected with any desire to create a monopoly.

"The Government argues that to hold this merger lawful will result in nullifying the effect of the main decree dissolving the old unlawful combination. It is not contended that this merger, of itself, will have such result, but the argument rather is that allowance of this merger will result in other of the parties to the old combination making mergers so that, ultimately, the old combination will, in effect, be recreated.

"It is not claimed that the present merger is a step in pursuance of a plan to bring about such ultimate result, and the evidence is strongly that no such design exists. If it were present, this merger would be readily forbidden.

"The situation presented here is purely of two, of the 38 corporate parties covered by the injunctive feature of the decree, desiring to merge for reasons and purposes affecting them alone. What other of such defendants may do in the future is no part of this case. Any action they may take will and must be determined by the facts and circumstances which may then be present. There can be no doubt that the decree does forbid any of them from entering into arrangements to violate the act. When any of them attempt so to do, they will find the (1911) decree a very effectual bar. Such situations will be dealt with when they arise. We are and can be concerned only with what is properly before us.

Expects It to Meet Competition.

"The results which we believe the evidence shows will follow from this merger are that the merged business will more rapidly expand at home and abroad; that it will be the third or fourth in financial strength in this country; that it will be sixth in crude production and fourth or fifth in refining capacity; that it will not dominate, or approach domination, of the industry in the United States or in the New York and New England area; that it will meet keen, effective and continued competition in every substantial market throughout this country; that the present genuinely competitive condition in this industry in the United States will be affected principally in that it will be an additional competitor in states and localities where neither company is now substantially established; that it will protect and preserve the Vacuum market for automobile lubricants, which is now threatened, and that it may, like other companies in the process of expansion, purchase and replace independent wholesalers and retailers who now operate in the localities into which it will expand.

"No Monopolistic Tendency."

"Since it is not claimed, and the evidence shows that such merger is not induced by any motive or purpose to monopolize commerce in petroleum products, as an entirety or in any locality, but by legitimate business reasons alone, and since the evidence convinces that the result of such merger will not carry power to suppress competition, or to keep others from entering the business, will not have a monopolistic tendency, will not prejudice the public interests, or injuriously affect the public, will not have the result, and is not an attempt, to override normal market conditions, and will not produce the same result as monopoly, we conclude that it is not an undue or unreasonable restraint of interstate commerce within section 1 of the Sherman anti-trust act or a monopolization within section 2 thereof, and is therefore not in violation of that act. From this conclusion it results that the merger is not within the inhibitions of section 6 of the decree, and therefore will not violate the decree."

In the last paragraph quoted, the Judges cited in parentheses many decisions of the United States Supreme Court, including decisions in the American Tobacco Co., Terminal Railroad of St. Louis and International Shoe Co. cases.

Supreme Court's Decree.

The Government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, as a combination in restraint of trade contrary to the Sherman anti-trust act, was filed in St. Louis Federal Court Nov. 15, 1906, in President Roosevelt's second term. The decision of the United States Circuit Court, dissolving Standard of New Jersey, was rendered here in October, 1909, and the Supreme Court affirmed the St. Louis decree, and explained its significance, in its decision of May, 1911. Section 6 of the Supreme Court's decision of 1911, on which the argument in the Socony-Vacuum case hinged, is:

"The defendants (Standard of New Jersey and subsidiary companies), their officers, directors, agents, servants and employes are enjoined and prohibited from continuing or carrying into further effect the combination adjudged illegal hereby, and from entering or performing any like combination or conspiracy, the effect of which is, or will be, to restrain commerce in petroleum or its products among the states, or with foreign nations, or to prolong the unlawful monopoly of such commerce, either (1) by conveyance of the property and business of any of the parties to a potentially competitive party to this combination, or (2) by making any express or implied agreement or arrangement, like that adjudged illegal hereby, relative to control or management of any of said corporations, or the price or rates of transportation of petroleum or its products, which will have a like effect in restraint of commerce to that of the combination hereby enjoined."

Interpretive Paragraph.

A paragraph in the Supreme Court's decree, interpreting its action, was important in the arguments in the Socony-Vacuum case. This paragraph was:

"We construe the decree, not as depriving the corporations, after dissolution of the combination, of the power to make normal and lawful contracts or agreements, but as restraining them from recreating, directly or indirectly, the illegal combination which the decree dissolved. In other words, we constitute the decree, not as depriving the corporations of the right to live under the law of the land, but as compelling obedience to that law."

Heard in Omaha Last Fall.

Following the filing of the Government's suit last March, to enjoin the Socony-Vacuum merger, testimony was heard in New York for four weeks in June and July by Fred L. Williams of St. Louis, former member of the Missouri Supreme Court, as special master. Judge Williams prepared an abstract and summary of the extensive testimony, and of the many exhibits, for Judges Stone, Booth and Gardner, who considered them in connection with the arguments, heard in Omaha in October.

Government counsel in the case were John Lord O'Brian, assistant to the Attorney-General, District Attorney Louis H. Breuer of St. Louis, and four special assistants, John Harlan Amen, Charles H. Weston, Wendell Berge and W. B. Watson Snyder. The defense attorneys were Hines, Rearick, Dorr, Travis & Marshall, Walker D. Hines, G. H. Dorr, Lon O. Hocker of St. Louis, A. C. Rearick, Austin T. Foster, L. M. Treadwell and William B. Hubbell.

Figures on Business.

As bearing on the possibility that a monopoly might be created by the Socony-Vacuum merger, it was shown in the testimony and exhibits that Socony, in 1929, did 8.1 per cent of the country's gasoline business and Vacuum .8 of 1 per cent; Socony, 8.2 per cent of the kerosene business and Vacuum .3 of 1 per cent; Socony, 6.2 per cent of the country's lubricating oil business and Vacuum 6.6 per cent.

Figures on gross production of crude oil for 1929, submitted by the Vacuum company counsel, placed Shell and its subsidiaries first, with 176,000,000 42-gallon barrels; Standard of New Jersey second with 101,000,000 barrels; Gulf Oil Co., estimate of 100,000,000 barrels; Standard of Indiana, 89,425,000 barrels, and Socony and Vacuum combined, 58,000,000 barrels. It was stated that Standard of California was believed to exceed Socony-Vacuum in gross production, but the figures were not obtainable. The Texas Co. was credited with 50,000,000 barrels.

In trying to show that other mergers might follow the one proposed, the Government questioned Harold F. Sheets, a director of the Vacuum Co. He said, in reply to a question, that he did not know of any plans for further mergers. Asked regarding a report that Socony-Vacuum would seek to absorb the Shell Co., the witness said, "We are very ambitious."

MORE STANDARD OIL MERGERS SUGGESTE

St. Louis Decision May Ha Bearing on Similar Reunion in Future.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The cial approval of the merger of Standard Oil Co. of New York the Vacuum Oil Co., in St. L today, is of particular interes Wall street, in the bearing it have upon future consolidation units of the original Standard Co.

This is the first time units of original Standard Oil Trust sought to consolidate, in a mea undoing the work of partition the old company in 33 new cerns in 1911 and 1912, as the sult of proceedings under the S man anti-trust law.

Wall street understands that keen competition which has dev oped in the oil industry in the la few years, together with numer mergers among so-called in pendents, have led various St ard units to consider reunion.

Merger of the Standard Oil Co panies of New Jersey and Cal nia has been mentioned as a log development, since Standard New Jersey, with its extensive keting system and refining capa ty, might eventually use to adv tage the huge crude oil reserves Standard of California, which is ready the largest crude producer the United States.

The combination of Standard New York and Vacuum, it is poin ed out, however, was perhaps m logical than other combinations Standard units might be. Dome cally, Vacuum is primarily a ref er and distributor of lubrican while Socony is primarily a ref and distributor of gasoline, so t in a sense they are not competi

The stock market appears have anticipated a favorable de sion in the Vacuum-Socony merg for Vacuum stock sold up $4.3 share today and $2.87 yesterda The stock of General Petrole Corporation, formed as a holdi company to effect the merger, a vanced $4 a share today. Standa of New York stock, however, worked only 50 cents a share hig er in the last three days, gaini 25 cents today.

On the basis of the latest ba ance sheets, the combination w create an oil company second on to Standard of New Jersey amon American concerns. The Roy Dutch Shell group is still t world's largest petroleum organi tion.

The consolidated company w have a total book value of abo $1,000,000,000, of which appro mately one-quarter will be contri uted by Vacuum. Standard of N Jersey's balance sheet at the end 1929 listed assets in excess of $1, 700,000,000.

21 FIREMEN, TWO POLICE OVERCOME BY PAINT FUMES

Affected While Fighting Blaze at Bed Concern on Second Floor of 5249 Delmar Boulevard.

4 TO HOSPITALS FOR TREATMENT

Damage Slight, About $100 to Three-Story Building and $40 to Contents—Traffic Halted for Hours.

Twenty-one firemen and two policemen were overcome by fumes from burning paint and lacquer in fighting a fire late yesterday at the Hide-Away Space Saving Bed Co., which occupies the second floor of a three-story brick building at 5249 Delmar boulevard. The damage was slight, amounting to about $100 to the building and $400 to its contents, as estimated by Fire Chief Alt.

After firemen who responded to an alarm given through an automatic sprinkling system at 4:45 p. m. were overcome by the fumes, a second alarm was turned in. As many of the additional forces succumbed to the fumes in helping their comrades from the building, inhalators were placed in use and ambulances called from St. John's and St. Luke's Hospitals.

Those Taken to Hospitals.

Those taken to hospitals were: William Buck and James Lossos, Engine Co. No. 43; Clarence Felter and Edward Riek, Engine 48; Louis Sauers, Engine 36; Capt. Joseph Catelli, Clarence Bruno, Joseph Haberstroh, and Harry Knichel, Truck Co. 15; Ben Callahan, Truck 17, who also suffered an injury to the collarbone; Lieut. Clem Kowp, Joseph Haberstroh Jr., Ned Wilders, and Harry Felder, Salvage Corps. Of the 14 men taken to hospitals, seven were able to return to the fire after treatment.

Those who were overcome but revived at the fire were Capt. George Rucker, Melvin Brugere, Gus David, and James Ferrill of Engine 30; Lieut. Edward Rauth, Engine 43; Robert Morris, Engine 36; Capt. Frank Holliday, Truck 17, acting district chief, and C. L. Yeager, Truck 15.

Throng of Spectators at Scene.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was confined to the assembly room of the bed company. Dense clouds of smoke attracted several hundred persons to the scene. Automobile traffic was congested for several hours and Delmar and Union car lines were blocked for more than an hour.

The Delmar-Union Garage, occupying the first floor of the building, was slightly damaged by water. Most of the automobiles were wheeled outside. The third floor of the structure is unoccupied. The building was formerly occupied by Marshall Brothers' livery stable, for many years a West End landmark.

BISHOP CANNON CLEARED AFTER SECRET INQUIRY

mittee hurried from the church through different doors as each session ended. They explained that Bishop Ainsworth had told them they were on their honor not to talk.

As Bishop Cannon left the hearings for the last time a photographer attempted to take his picture, but a Washington policeman jumped in front of his lens. Bishop Cannon laughed and said "they are wasting a lot of flashlight bulbs on me." That was at the close of today's afternoon session, at which he had completed his defense.

The committee of Ministers who conducted the investigation consisted of Dr. H. B. Porter of the North Carolina Conference; T. C. Herbert of the South Carolina Conference; R. E. Stackhouse of the Upper South Carolina Conference; A. M. Hughlett of the Florida Conference; W. L. Duren of the North Georgia Conference; E. M. Overby of the South Georgia Conference; W. E. Arnold of the Kentucky Conference; B. P. Taylor of the Western Virginia Conference; A. T. McIlwain of the North Mississippi Conference; R. H. Harper of the Louisiana Conference; W. P. 21 FIREMEN, TWO POLICE OVERCOME BY PAINT FUMES

14 TO HOSPITALS FOR TREATMENT

The damage was slight, amounting to about $100 to the building and $400 to its contents, as estimated by Fire Chief Alt.

After firemen who responded to an alarm given through an automatic sprinkling system at 4:45 p. m. were overcome by the fumes, a second alarm was turned in. As many of the additional forces succumbed to the fumes in helping their comrades from the building, inhalators were placed in use and ambulances called from St. John's and St. Luke's Hospitals.

Those Taken to Hospitals.

Those taken to hospitals were: William Buck and James Lossos, Engine Co. No. 43; Clarence Felter and Edward Riek, Engine 48; Louis Sauers, Engine 36; Capt. Joseph Catelli, Clarence Bruno, Joseph Haberstroh, and Harry Knichel, Truck Co. 15; Ben Callahan, Truck 17, who also suffered an injury to the collarbone; Lieut. Clem Kowp, Joseph Haberstroh Jr., Ned Wilders, and Harry Felder, Salvage Corps. Of the 14 men taken to hospitals, seven were able to return to the fire after treatment.

Those who were overcome but revived at the fire were Capt. George Rucker, Melvin Brugere, Gus David, and James Ferrill of Engine 30; Lieut. Edward Rauth, Engine 43; Robert Morris, Engine 36; Capt. Frank Holliday, Truck 17, acting district chief, and C. L. Yeager, Truck 15.

Throng of Spectators at Scene.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was confined to the assembly room of the bed company. Dense clouds of smoke attracted several hundred persons to the scene. Automobile traffic was congested for several hours and Delmar and Union car lines were blocked for more than an hour.

The Delmar-Union Garage, occupying the first floor of the building, was slightly damaged by water. Most of the automobiles were wheeled outside. The third floor of the structure is unoccupied. The building was formerly occupied by Marshall Brothers' livery stable, for many years a West End landmark.

BISHOP CANNON CLEARED AFTER SECRET INQUIRY

mittee hurried from the church through different doors as each session ended. They explained that Bishop Ainsworth had told them they were on their honor not to talk.

As Bishop Cannon left the hearings for the last time a photographer attempted to take his picture, but a Washington policeman jumped in front of his lens. Bishop Cannon laughed and said "they are wasting a lot of flashlight bulbs on me." That was at the close of today's afternoon session, at which he had completed his defense.

The committee of Ministers who conducted the investigation consisted of Dr. H. B. Porter of the North Carolina Conference; T. C. Herbert of the South Carolina Conference; R. E. Stackhouse of the Upper South Carolina Conference; A. M. Hughlett of the Florida Conference; W. L. Duren of the North Georgia Conference; E. M. Overby of the South Georgia Conference; W. E. White Canes Mark Paris Blind.
By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—White canes are being given to all blind persons in the Department of the Seine by the Paris police. This was decided upon so the unfortunates might easily distinguished and receive consideration from the public. Distribution began Feb. 1. Those blinded in the war were the first to get them. The canes are embellished with the shield of the City of Paris.

AMERICAN GIRL TELLS OF TALKING TO WALES

Miss Eleanor Nichols Found Him "Charming," Liked Brother's Dancing Better.

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 7.—Miss Eleanor Nichols, the American girl who last night attracted the attention of the Prince of Wales at a dinner given in his honor at the Union Club, thinks his royal highness "is one of the most charming men I have ever met," but considers Prince George a better dancer.

Miss Nichols, who is the daughter of Commander Newton Lord Nichols, in charge of the Balboa naval radio station, was the center of interest in Panama City and Balboa today, for the Prince of Wales gave her his undivided attention as they danced beneath a tropic moon shining over the Bay of Panama.

She had hardly returned home from the dance with her father and mother when the telephone bell and door bell began to ring—and they have been ringing ever since. Press photographers went out to the home, and London newspapers even cabled for photographs. She had to have new photographs made, for the only one at the Nichols home was a simple portrait made five years ago.

Not a Bit Offish.

Although Miss Nichols appeared as much at ease dancing with the Prince last night as did he, the attentions showered upon her today were slightly bewildering.

"It's so silly," she commented. "Why, the Prince of Wales has danced with hundreds of girls before.

"But I think that he's one of the most charming men I ever met. He isn't a bit offish, he talks slang, and one never would think, just my meeting and talking with him, that he is anything but just one of the nicest young men imaginable."

During his conversation with Miss Nichols the Prince practised some of the Spanish he learned in preparation for his South American trip.

Speaks Spanish Slowly.

"He speaks Spanish rather slowly," the girl continued, "but I can understand him much better than the people here who rattle it off so fast."

Then as to the dancing:

"And he's an awfully nice dancer," she went on, "but I believe Prince George is the better of the two. He doesn't have as much to say, though."

Miss Nichols was seated with her parents last night when one of the royal equerries came over and invited her to sit at the table occupied by the Princes. She was presented to Prince George, who danced with her.

Hardly had she sat down again when the Prince of Wales walked over and asked for the next dance—"without sending a messenger or anything," was the way the delighted girl put it.

The Nichols home is at Newport, R. I., but Miss Nichols was born in Baltimore.

Drouth Health Conference Called.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — Surgean-General Hugh S. Cumming of the Public Health Service today issued telegraphic invitations to the public health officers of the drouth States for a conference in Memphis, Tuesday. The purpose of the meeting, Dr. Cumming said, will be to plan expenditure of a $2,000,000 fund allocated to rural public health work under the relief measure passed by Congress.

RELATIVE HELD IN MYSTERIOUS KILLING

Others of Family of Molder Found Slain in Cellar Are Released.

A relative of Louis Bauer, unemployed molder, found murdered in the basement of his home, 1909 South Eleventh street, early yesterday, was ordered held for the Coroner last night by police, who had said a short time earlier that the relative had a satisfactory alibi. At the same time, the police, who had previously announced that Bauer's wife and elder daughter would be held for the Coroner, released the two women, after hours of questioning.

Bauer, who was 45 years old, went into the basement about 7:45 a. m., police were told. Fifteen minutes later he was followed by his 5-year-old daughter, Evelyn, who found her father lying on the floor near a fruit closet. The hatchet lay three feet away.

Last night, after releasing Bauer's widow and 20-year-old daughter, Anna, detectives advanced the theory that Bauer surprised a vagrant sleeping in the cellar, or a burglar, and the intruder had first struck him with a mallet and then with the hatchet. Police expressed the opinion that the killing was not premeditated.

Policemen who questioned other occupants of the four-family building where the Bauers lived, were unable to find anyone who heard any disturbance or had seen anyone leave the basement between the time of Bauer's starting to the cellar and the finding of his body. Mrs. Bauer and Anna told police that they were in the kitchen during the entire time and heard nothing until they were notified of the tragedy by Evelyn.

Mrs. Bauer told police that her husband had been in ill health and very nervous recently. Besides his widow and two daughters, he is survived by two sons, Willam, 22, and Alois, 15, shoeworkers.

GREEK RED CROSS SENDS CURRANTS TO DROUTH AREA

An international gift, 4116 pounds of currants from the Junior Red Cross of Greece, was announced yesterday by William M. Baxter Jr., manager of the Midwestern Area of the Red Cross.

The fruit is to be distributed among the school children of 39 drouth-stricken counties in Arkansas. County superintendents, through whom the Red Cross distributes school lunches, have been provided with instructions on various uses of currants by the home economics division of the State Department of Education, which stated that the fruits, a source of minerals, would make a valuable contribution to the diet of children under the straitened conditions of the drouth section.

Arkansas relief headquarters of the Red Cross at Little Rock reported that 280 tons of food was distributed daily in Arkansas. Each family of four gets a basic ration of 128 pounds for 30 days, including 48 pounds of flour, 24 pounds of meal, eight pounds of lard, six pounds each of meat, beans, rice and sugar, four cans of tomatoes, a gallon of molasses, coffee, baking powder and salt.

Third Year of Drouth.

A field representative in Texas reported that the families on 556 of the 1208 farms in Dickens County were receiving some form of Red Cross aid. Last year was the third consecutive drouth. In 1926, last normal year, the county ginned 39,049 bales of cotton at 20 cents a pound, and last year it ginned 8000 bales at 8 cents a pound.

"The farmers often live two or three miles from the nearest neighbors," said the Red Cross representative. "They own their farms, and heretofore they have always been prosperous and independent. In some cases, three visits had to be made before a family would admit it needed any kind of aid.

"They have been pooling their resources. Those with milk and eggs have been sharing with their less fortunate neighbors. Those who are still running automobiles are providing transportation in some cases for a whole community. Two farmers who need groceries have given the Red Cross beef animals. The home demonstration agent superintends the work of canning through local women's clubs, which own the pressure cookers, while the Red Cross donates the cans.

A Red Cross Pasture.

"A farmer, who three years ago paid cash for 170 acres a mile and a half from Spur, is 'on the Red Cross,' but some of his neighbors' mules at the same time are on his 30-acre 'Red Cross pasture' planted last fall with free seed."

St. Louis contributions towards a $220,000 quota reached $128,260 yesterday, including $1616 from Postoffice employes, many of whom had made other contributions through other channels. St. Louisans are sending their donations to the Red Cross through Oliver F. Richards, treasurer, at the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co.

Following a long distance telephone conversation with Chairman John Barton Payne of the American Red Cross at Washington, Mrs. Frank V. Hammar, chairman of the St. Louis Chapter, reiterated the urgency of promptly completing the $10,000,000 National Red Cross fund. She said it was not affected in any way by relief legislation now proposed in Congress.

Arkansas Governor Fears Widespread Suffering From Cold.
By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 7. — Gov. Parnell said tonight he believed the Red Cross was "doing all it can" to relieve drouth sufferers in Arkansas, but he feared widespread suffering would result from cold weather such as may be expected this month.

Commenting on the report today of Col. Campbell Hodges, military aide to President Hoover, after a survey of several hard-hit drouth counties in Arkansas, the Governor said:

"The Red Cross is keeping thousands of people from starving. We had etxremely mild weather the past month, and therefore there is little suffering from cold. However, we can always expect a severe cold spell in February and if it comes I believe there will be considerable suffering.

"Many people do not have sufficient clothes for severe weather, and while I am not prepared to say whether they are receiving now as much food as they should, I feel sure it will be necessary to increase their rations if cold weather comes."

'LOS ANGELES' IN CANAL ZONE MOORED TO ITS MAST SHIP

Will Continue Cruise Today; Trip Made to Take Part in Navy Maneuvers.

By the Associated Press.

COLON, Panama, Feb. 7.—The naval dirigible Los Angeles was moored to its mast-ship, the U. S. S. Patoka, at 8:45 o'clock this morning after she had maneuvered over the canal zone all night on arrival from Guantanamo, Cuba.

The dirigible left its home hangar at Lakehurst Wednesday to participate in the annual United States naval war maneuvers beginning in the Panama region Feb. 15.

Those who made the trip enjoyed stepping down to the Patoka for trips to the ship's canteen and to use the laundry. All meals today were taken aboard the mastship. In the meantime the Los Angeles was supplied with water, food and fuel that it may continue its cruises about Panama, beginning tomorrow morning.

The Potoka is equipped with 3800 containers of helium gas for the big dirigible, with ample oil, gasoline and food, and also an extra airship motor. It will act as a base for the Los Angeles throughout the war maneuvers.

AUTO SHOW CLOSES; TOTAL WEEK'S ATTENDANCE 136,597

Dealers Report Many Sales Made on the Spot and Prospects Names Taken.

Attendance at the Automobile Show, which closed last night at The Arena, was approximately 19,650 for the day and evening, bringing the week's total to 136,597.

While the attendance was not unusually large, dealers saw in the active buying interest of the spectators a trend toward renewed activity in the automobile business and, inferentially, in other business. Many sales were made on the spot, they reported, and salesmen for the exhibitors obtained the names of enough prospects to keep them occupied for several weeks.

BRIDE OF 4 MONTHS SUES C. F. LUTZ, 76

Seeks Separate Maintenance—He Is Worth $150,000, Attorney Says.

Suit for separate maintenance has been filed against Charles F. Lutz, 76 years old, wealthy retired decorator, by Mrs. Rosa Wilder Lutz, 34, it became known yesterday. Eighteen months ago Lutz was present when his son, Charles, killed his sister and inflicted fatal wounds on himself.

Mrs. Lutz, the plaintiff, alleges she and the decorator were married Oct. 7, 1930, and lived together at 739A Dover place until they separated last Sunday. Her attorney, Leo Laughren, associated with the firm of Foristel, Mudd, Blair & Habenicht, estimated Lutz' fortune at $150,000.

The suit, filed last Tuesday, charges general indignities, alleging that Lutz "was of a cross and quarrelsome nature, frequently nagging about trifling and trivial matters," and that he told the plaintiff he "was through with her and hated her."

At a deposition hearing held Friday, Lutz identified a letter in German which he said he had written to himself. He offered no explanation of the communication. His wife who had turned it over to her lawyers, said it was one of many which he addressed to himself and left about the house. "What is there to do?" the note read, "Can I stay in my house if it comes to a suit? Must I eat with her after that? Can she throw me out? Can she force me to give her entry to my box?

"How much must I give her a week? Must I admit what I did with my money? Can I also lie that I misled her when I told her my income is $5000, and she saw in my books that I had $100,000?"

The suit also alleges that Lutz told his wife he planned to leave the State and evade service if she filed suit against him.

Charles Lutz, 40 years old, shot his sister, Mrs. Olga Held, June 3, 1929, in their father's home at 6127 Grand-Kingshighway, as the result of a family dispute over the elder Lutz's estate. She was killed outright and he died a week later. Mrs. Held was the wife of Patrolman Louis A. Held, and Charles Lutz was a salesman for the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. He was married and lived at 2138 Stansbury street.

CHICAGO MAYOR'S FLOOD RELIEF FUND UNDER FIRE

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—A suit asking for an accounting of the $139,000 flood relief fund raised by Mayor William Hale Thompson in 1927, was filed in Superior Court today.

The bill, filed in behalf of Charles S. Smith, who contributed $50 to the fund, also requests that a receiver be appointed for the Waterway and Flood Control Association of the Mississippi Valley, organized and headed by Mayor Thompson.

Among the expenditures classed as "unauthorized" by the petition were thousands of dollars spent in the flood control convention called by the Mayor in Chicago last month, bills for Mayor Thompson's 'prosperity drive," a $3500 check to Bishop A. J. Carey of the African Methodist Church, a political ally of the Mayor.

A total of $139,772.47 was raised for the relief fund, the bill states, and only $31,200 of this went for actual flood relief.

POLICE CHARGE CHICAGO CROWD DEMANDING BREAD PRICE CUT

Five Arrests in Street Protest Against 10-Cents a Loaf Charge of Bakers.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Serious disorder broke out tonight when police attempted to disperse a crowd of more than 500 persons in the Humboldt Park district who had assembled to protest against refusal of bakers to lower the price of bread from 10 to 6 cents a loaf.

Police charged into the crowd and arrested five of their number—two women, two men and a youth of 14. The throng quickly regathered however, and thronged through the streets bearing banners demanding six-cent bread.

The outbreak had its inception several days ago when women of the district, convinced that 10 cents was too much to pay for bread, began picketing nine bakeries in the vicinity, stopping prospective purchasers and advising them to boycott the bakeries.

The bakers retaliated by obtaining an injunction. This afternoon a protest meeting was arranged in a West Side hall, attended by a capacity crowd vociferous in its demands.

As the meeting broke up, the crowd assembled in the street and began a march on one of the largest bakeries in the vicinity. It was then the police appeared.

At a banquet later tonight of the United Workers' Co-Operative, more than 2000 residents of the Humboldt Park neighborhood pledged themselves to demonstrate again tomorrow. At the banquet, the audience was urged to "smash the combination between Chicago judges and the boss bakers."

NEW DEEMS TAYLOR OPERA WELL RECEIVED

New York Audience Not Wildly Enthusiastic at Premiere of "Peter Ibbetsor."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The premiere performance of "Peter Ibbetson", Deems Taylor's opera, was given today by the Metropolitan Opera Company.

From the first 16 bars of climbing grass—there is no overture—to the swelling, sustained chord on which the final curtain falls, the opera followed closely the stage production by Constance Collier and the Barrymore brothers of 14 years ago, with the spirit of the Du Maurier novel accorded equal respect.

Edward Johnson, American-born tenor, sang Peter Ibbetson and Lucrezia Bori Mary, Duchess of Towers, and Lawrence Tibbetts, Col. Ibbetson.

The keynote of the opera of the book and play is the line given almost at the close by Mary who speaking from the grave to the dying Peter, says: "Life is the dream. Death is the awakening."

The dream scenes, in which Peter Ibbetson looks back upon himself as Gogo, the little French boy, and upon Mimsey, his happy playmate, were effective, providing the production's scenic color.

The score often sought to efface itself in the composer's obvious effort to prevent the music's interfering with or delaying the movement of the story.

Rather than providing a powerful structure on which the play could be hung, themusic served as a brilliant background against which the strange story of Peter Ibbetson was told.

Taylor, Tulio Serafin, the director, and the principals took many curtain calls from an audience that was friendly but not wildly enthusiastic.

The use of English was generally regarded as having been especially successful in Taylor's treatment. French was employed in some passages where, as Taylor said, the action called for it, and French folk songs provided an effective background in some of the dream scenes.

662,000 REPORTED HELD IN SOVIET LUMBER CAMPS

High Official of Russian Secret Police and Others Said to Have Made Affidavits to That Effect.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—An affidavit to which a "high official of the Ogpu" (Russian secret police) is said to have sworn and in which it was asserted there were 662,200 prisoners working in soviet lumber camps on May 1 last year, was forwarded to Premier Ramsay MacDonald today by Carolyn Bellairs, Conservative member of Parliament.

With it were nine other affidavits signed by escaped Soviet prisoners, describing conditions in convict labor camps of Russia, the identity of most of the signers was not disclosed for "fear of reprisal on their families still residing in Russia."

In one of the affidavits Nicholas Ivanovitch Malyshev said he had spent the year in a convict camp at Solovky. The prisoners, he asserted, lived in shacks with earthen floors and leaky rooms, slept on bare planks and worked from 5 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock at night.

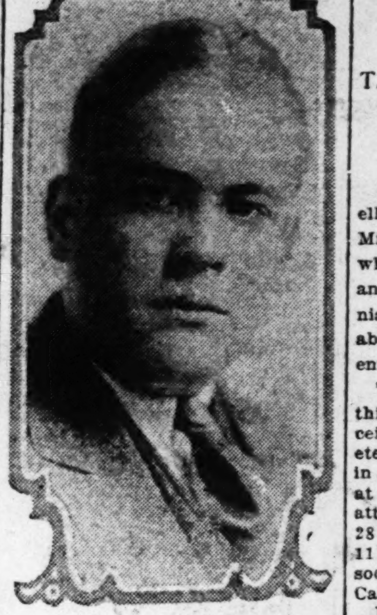
They were scantily dressed and cases of freezing were of daily occurrence. Every prisoner had to fell and trim five trees each day, he asserted, and those who failed were severely beaten and given short rations.

The affidavit of another man, whose name was not made public, said he had been arrested and without trial sentenced to five years labor and five additional years of exile. He worked in a lumber camp where there were 1000 prisoners.

He said that if the daily work had been completed the men were allowed to buy extra food with money paid them for their labor. The daily allowance of food was about 1¾ pounds of bread, ½ pound of threshed grain and about 1½ ounces of fish.

The affidavits were made public by the central office of the Conservative party. There was a covering letter from Bellairs saying that he had been invited by the Government to supply evidence of Soviet prison labor, but that later the president of the board of trade and the Secretary for Foreign Affairs had said no consideration would be given the matter since no public body had protested.

KILLED BY LIVE WIRE



THOMAS MITCHELL.

KILLED IN ACCIDENT; WILL BE BURIED HERE

T. N. Mitchell's Funeral Delayed Because of Wife's Illness in California.

The funeral of Thomas N. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Mitchell, 5544 Bartmer avenue, who was electrocuted Friday in an engineering accident in California, will be held in St. Louis, probably several weeks hence, his parents said last night.

The body will be brought here this week, and placed in the receiving vault at Bellefontaine Cemetery until Mitchell's wife, who is in a serious condition at their home at Ventura, Cal., is well enough to attend the services. Mitchell was 28 years old and had been married 11 months. Employed by the Associated Oil Co. he had lived in California since July, 1929.

Details of the accident were obtained from his father.

"Tom was holding one end of a steel tape," his father said, "and two men were unreeling it from a leather case. They crossed a little canyon and climbed up the other side. When they pulled the tape tight, it came in contact with a high tension wire, and Tom was killed. They were protected by the leather case to some extent, but both were seriously burned."

A graduate of Clark School and Soldan High School, Mr. Mitchell completed two and one-half years of an engineering course at Washington University before starting to work for the Government on the Mississippi River. Later he worked for the Missouri Pacific railroad.

The Laymen's Faculty Club of St. Louis University held a smoker at Melbourne Hotel last Tuesday evening, Dr. Ralph Wagner, president of the club, presided.

CHICAGO EVENING POST INTO RECEIVERSHIP

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—The Chicago Evening Post, after a 40-year struggle in the local newspaper field, will go into a friendly receivership Monday. It is controlled by John C. Shaffer, who retired some time ago in favor of his son, Carroll Shaffer.

George W. Dickson went into court today and obtained a judgment which was not satisfied. George Getz and Charles Fitzmorris, former Chief of Police, will be named receivers at a hearing Monday. The Post was founded in 1890 by James W. Scott.

The Shaffer interest bought it about 30 years ago. Three years ago the paper erected a new building on Wacker Drive. Among its early reporters were Peter Finley Dunne, whose first "Dooley" papers appeared in the Post. Brand Whitlock and Theodore Dreiser were on the staff at one time.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—John C. Shaffer, editor and publisher of the Chicago Evening Post since 1901, today retired from both offices. The newspaper will continue under the temporary direction of his son, Carroll Shaffer. In a formal announcement printed in this evening's final edition, Shaffer said: "The financial burden of carrying the Post as a public-service enterprise has become greater than my other responsibilities justify me in bearing."

In addition to the Post, he is publisher of the Indianapolis Star, the Muncie Star and the Terre Haute Star, all Indiana morning papers. He emphasized that "none of my other business interests is involved in the affairs of the Chicago Evening Post."

Shaffer assumed control of the Post in 1901, succeeding the late Herman S. Kohlsaat. At that time he emphasized that the newspaper's purpose would be to "take an active interest in the higher life of Chicago."

In his formal announcement, he said, in part:

"After 30 years of service to the city, state and nation, under my ownership and editorial direction, the Chicago Evening Post, with today's final edition, passes out of my control. I have given to it my time and money without financial reward. I have believed that the old saying, 'A good name is rather to be chosen than riches,' has special application to a daily newspaper, and I have been concerned chiefly that it should be true of the Post."

ASSERTS STIMSON POLICY TENDS TO RECOGNIZE RUSSIA

abandon the principle of recognizing only those which gained power through orderly processes approved in the United States.

"I agree," said Borah, "that there was justification for the effort of President Harding and his Secretary of State to carry out the Wilsonian theory. But that policy has now been found unworkable. The great comfort that I get out of Secretary Stimson's speech is that he has restored our traditional policy."

"The great question," he added, in obvious reference to the Russian problem, "is whether he intends to follow the same doctrine in all the relations of the Government."

It was then that Borah, quizzed by Robinson, said that application of the doctrine "undoubtedly" would mean recognition of the Soviets.

Senator Robinson, who was one of Stimson's colleagues in negotiating the London naval treaty last year, warmly assailed what he declared was the inconsistency of the Secretary in criticising Wilson's attitude toward the Huerta regime.

"Whatever distinctions may be made between the two cases (Mexico and Russia)," he said, "it is a fact that Mr. Stimson himself, for reasons which find strong support in public sentiment, has failed to follow, in the case of Russia, the rule of which he boasts—the general rule of international law that a defacto government is entitled to recognition.

"The Secretary spoke of President Wilson's intrusion in Latin-American affairs. What about the marines in Nicaragua today? And has Mr. Stimson forgotten that President Coolidge came near intervening in Mexico? No Secretary of State impressed with the responsibilities of his high office would inject partisan policies into international affairs. No one other than a partisan would have mentioned incidents under President Wilson without calling attention to the Nicaraguan situation today. What answer can Mr. Stimson make when it is brought to his attention that he has announced a recognition doctrine to which, in his own mind, he makes exceptions?"

Stimson Declaration Featured in Argentine Newspapers.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 7.—Morning papers today published the Stimson declaration on foreign policy of the United States in Spanish America with editorial comment. La Nacion featured the Secretary of State's interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine as the United States against Europe rather than the United States against Latin America. El Mundo headlined the criticisms of the Wilson administration while La Prensa captioned the speech as an attempt to explain United States policy in Latin America.

MISSOURI ORDERS FOUR FIRMS TO STOP SELLING OIL STOCK

None Licensed in State; Permits Have Been Refused to Two Concerns.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 7. — Four Kansas City companies were ordered today to stop selling and offering for sale oil securities in Missouri. They are: Tampa Oil and Refining Co., Mid States Oil and Gas Co., Tiger State Oil and Gas Co., and Scott & Co.

Fenton T. Stockard, State Securities Commissioner, in announcing the cease and desist order, said the companies had sold about $500,000 worth of securities to investors in and near Kansas City in Oklahoma City oil fields.

None of the companies is licensed to sell securities in Missouri, Stockard said. Both the Tiger State Oil Co. and Scott & Co. were ordered to stop sales of securities by Stockard in September, 1930. Following cease and desist orders, the companies applied for a license to sell stocks in this State, but were refused.

France Cuts Naval Expenditures.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—During the fiscal year 1931-32, France will spend about $4,000,000 less on her Navy than during the year 1930-31. Estimates for the current fiscal year approved by the Chamber Finance Committee total about $39,560,800 as compared with last year's $43,571,200.

SUICIDE THEORY IN DROWNING

Detroit Girl Had Said She Planned to Jump Into River.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 7.—Police investigating the drowning in the Detroit River Thursday evening of 12-year-old Doris McDonald today revived the theory of suicide. The girl's body was taken from the river off the Belle Isle Bridge. An automobile seen on the bridge a short time before led police to believe she might have been thrown into the river.

Two youths who drove across the bridge shortly before the girl's death told police they saw a girl walking across the bridge and that she resembled Doris. A short time later they saw Doris in the water about 200 yards down stream, calling for help. Friends told police that Doris had informed them she planned to jump into the river.

After 7 Years of Planning
The new FARNY Grand is ready!

After years of patient research, testing and improving, Wurlitzer is proud to offer the Farny Grand to those who appreciate the best.

Its loveliness of tone, and its beauty of case, are the result of the combined experience and critical judgment of an unequalled staff of experts. Among those collaborating in giving the Farny Grand a tone quality never before attainable in so compact a grand piano, were the acousticians responsible for the tone of the great Wurlitzer Cathedral Organs and the world-famed Wurlitzer Concert Harp; also William M. Bauer, builder of one of today's most costly and exclusive pianos. The technical staff was given unlimited freedom in drawing upon the skill and resources of the great Wurlitzer organization, so that this modern piano might set a new standard of quality and value.

Now the Farny Grand Piano is here. We invite your most critical judgment.

TO ASK FOR FINAL RULING ON COUNTY SUPERHIGHWAY

Engineer Cutler Will Call on Highway Board to Decide on Location at Meeting Tuesday.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 7. — State Highway Engineer T. H. Cutler said today he would ask the State Highway Commission to make a final designation of the route for the proposed superhighway through St. Louis County, at its meeting, here Tuesday. The route for the highway, a traffic relief road to extend from St. Louis to connect with United States Highway 40 at Wentzville, has been in controversy for more than two years.

Location of the highway was taken under advisement by the comsion after a hearing in St. Louis Jan. 14, at which three suggested routes were discussed.

Engineers of the State Highway Department have recommended the selection of what has been known as the Clayton-Conway road route, which however, has been opposed by the St. Louis County Court, numerous property owners and the City Plan Commission of St. Louis, which recommended another route with Page boulevard as the point of entry into St. Louis.

A letter from the St. Louis County Plan Association, opposing the Clayton-Conway road route, will be submitted to the commission at its meeting Tuesday.

Cutler Favors Clayton Route.

The State Commission usually follows recommendations of the department in disputes over routes, but has departed from them in some instances. Cutler said he favored the Clayton-Conway road route and had selected it as a desirable route when the department first began seeking a location for the superhighway.

This route would extend from the St. Louis city limits along Clayton road to North and South road, southwest on a new location south of the Log Cabin Club, thence west across Clayton road at a point near its intersection with Warson road, thence west on a route about midway between Conway and Clayton roads to a junction with Olive boulevard at Bellefontaine. The route would continue from Bellefontaine across the Missouri River on a new bridge to be built near Chesterfield, and would connect with Highway No. 40 at Wentzville.

"We want a final decision as soon a spossible," Cutler said. "The route has been under discussion for a long time and many persons have been holding up building plans for a decision."

Cutler said the Clayton-Conway route provided the most direct route, would cost less than other suggested routes, and would involve less damage to property in obtaining right-of-way.

Free Right-of-Way a Factor.

The State has followed a policy of not buying right-of-way for State highways, except where it cannot be obtained by local donations or through purchase by local interests for free conveyance to the State. Cutler said he believed 75 per cent of the right of way for the route would be donated to the State.

He said the engineers had been making a study of the various routes at intervals for a year. The plans call for a right-of-way 200 feet wide, but the intital constructions would be a 40-foot paved roadway near St. Louis and a 20-foot roadway for the remaind of the route, with provision for widening if necessary. A preliminary estimate of the cost of the Clayton-Conway route is $2,682,000, exclusive of purchase of any right-of-way. Cutler said this included $849,000 for grading, $900,000 for a bridge across the Missouri River near Chesterfield, and $933,000 for paving.

He estimated the construction of the road would require about two years. No apportionment of funds for the superhighway was made in the 1931 construction program of the Highway Department, because the route had not been designated, and construction would not begin until 1932, Cutler said.

BEER DEALER AND A SALOON PROMOTER SLAIN IN CHICAGO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Joseph Tanzillo, 34-year-old beer dealer, was shot twice through the head and his body tossed in an alley early today in the rear of 602 Miller street. His hands had been bound behind his back with strips of sheeting. Police say rival bootleggers were responsible for his death.

Thomas P. Constanz, a wealthy Greek, who financed his countrymen in restaurants and saloons, was found shot through the mouth near Belden avenue and Halsted streets. He died a few hours later without recovering consciousness.

Detectives are attempting to find a special delivery letter which was delivered to Constanz last evening. He left his apartment after receiving the letter, and the police suspect that this may have been used to lure him to a spot where he was thrust into an automobile and carried to the alley where his body was discovered.

MEXICAN SEEKS TO FREE NICARAGUA OF MARINES

Gov. Alamazan of Puebla, Calls on All Governors in Mexico to Protest to U. S.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 7. — Gov. Leonides Andru Alamazan of the State of Puebla, today undertook to start a movement to free Nicaragua from the American Marines. Gov. Alamazan, brother of Gen. Juan Andru Alamazan, Minister of Communications, presented his views to the agrarian Congress at Puebla concerning his reaction to Secretary Stimson's revised version of the Monroe Doctrine.

"We must put a stop to American imperialism," he said. "I call on the Governors of the 28 states of Mexico to address themselves to the Government of the United States, demanding that the violation of Nicaragua cease. We should make known to this bad government of the United States that we raise our voices in protest against the outrages committed against our brother peoples."

The Congress voted to support Alamazan's foreign policy. It also passed a resolution calling on President Ortiz Rubio to apply article 33 of the Mexican constitution—a provision for expelling obnoxious foreigners—to the former American Consular agent at Puebla, William O. Jenkins, now a manufacturer of cotton goods in that state, giving employment to hundreds of Mexicans.

SENATE VOTES $100,000,000 FOR PUBLIC BUILDING WORK

Measure Goes Back to House for Concurrence in Amendments Made.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Senate today passed the House bill authorizing the appropriation of another $100,000,000 to expand the public building program. The bill now goes back to the House for action on Senate amendments.

It provides for the expenditure of the entire amount outside the District of Columbia. It contains a Senate amendment increasing from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 the amount permitted to be spent annually in any one State, designed to speed up construction already authorized.

Another amendment would allow contracts to be entered into up to 5 per cent above the estimated limit of cost, but limiting the operation of this provision to June 30, 1932.

NEON PATENT SUIT DECIDED

Judge Rules Corporations Infringed on Inventor's Rights.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. — The American Neon Light Corporation and the Neon Tube Sign Corporation were found guilty of infringing on patents obtained by George Claude covering the Neon light principle, in a decision handed down today by Judge Frank J. Coleman in Federal Court. Claude's patents now are owned by the Claude Neon Lights, Inc.

Judge Coleman decided that only two officials of the American Neon Light Corporation were responsible for the infringement. They are Otto B. Schulhoff, president, and chairman of the board, and John W. White, secretary. The complaint was permitted to stand against White, William J. Rose, J. A. Greene and Eugene I. Doctor of the Neon Tube Sign Corporation. By this decision the injunction obtained in 1928 is made permanent and Claude Neon Lights, Inc., may sue the individuals named.

BILL PROVIDES STATE LOANS TO FARMERS

Proposes $15,000,000 Bond Issue to Aid Victims of Drouth and Depression.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 7.—Loans to farmers of Missouri by the State would be provided under a measure introduced in the House of the Legislature today by Representatives W. A. Despain of Shannon County and Elmer O. Jones of Macon, Democrats. The proposal is intended as drouth and business depression relief.

The bill would create a farmers' State loan board, made up of the Governor, Auditor, Secretary of State, Treasurer and Attorney-General, to issue $15,000,000 in State bonds for the loan fund and supervise its disposition.

A farmers' county loan board would be created in each of the 144 counties, each made up of the presiding Judge of the County Court, the Clerk of the Circuit Court and the County Treasurer.

Any farmer a resident of the county for more than a year could apply to the county board for a loan to be used in making a crop this year. The county board would investigate and pass upon the loan applications, certifying them to the State board.

The loans would be limited to $2 per acre for hay crops, $4 an acre for grain and $7 an acre for cotton, fruit and berry crops. The farmers would give the county boards mortgages on the crops and sign notes and pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent a year.

After the loan was approved, the farmers could get $1 per acre of the total amount of the loan and $1 per acre each month thereafter until the total amount was received, if satisfactory progress was shown on their crop.

The measure carries an emergency clause to make it effective at once, if passed, because of "drouth and general business depression."

All the loans would be payabl Dec. 31, 1931, and the bill said was contemplated the farmers w not need aid to such an extent ne year as they do now, but provide that the State loan board may, i its discretion, continue such loa to counties if needed.

ITALIAN STATESMAN, TITTONI, DIES AT 75

Four Times Foreign Minister—President of Senate 8 Years Under Mussolini.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 7.—Tommaso Tittoni, Italian statesman in the pre-Mussolini era, died here today. He had been ill for a week with influenza at his home in the Via Rasella.

He was one of the few political leaders of the old regime who remained after the advent of Fascism. Mussolini let him stay in his post as President of the Senate for eight years.

He was 75 years old and had been in politics since he was 29. He was president of the Royal Academy of Italy until last year, when Senator Guglielmo Marconi succeeded him.

Four Times Foreign Minister; Premier for Brief Period.

Tittoni was four times Foreign Minister, Premier for a brief period, Ambassador to London and Paris and in addition President of the Senate from 1919 to 1929.

In the summer of 1922, Tittoni visited the United States as Italy's spokesman at the Institute of Politics at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. On adjournment of the institute he gave several lectures in various cities.

President Tittoni, as he generally was called in Italy, was born in Rome, Nov. 16, 1855, the son of Vincenzo and Elisa Silvestrelli Tittoni. He was educated in the law department of the University of Rome and augmented that course with studies at Oxford and the University of Liege, Belgium, which gave him a sound knowledge of English and French.

Soon after his return to Italy he entered politics. He assumed his first portfolio, that of foreign affairs, in the second Giolitti Cabinet, serving from 1903 to 1905, and as Premier ad interim in March of the latter year. He then went to the Court of St. James's as Ambassador until May, 1906, and left that post to become Foreign Minister again in the third Giolitti Cabinet.

After three years as head of the Foreign Department, he returned to the diplomatic service as Ambassador to France and was in Paris from 1910 to 1916. It was he who in August, 1914, announced to Premier Viviani of France the decision of Italy to remain neutral in the war and a year later the decision to cast in with the allies. Tittoni was one of Italy's negotiators of the pact of London, which preceded Italy's entrance into the war and as a reward for his services was made a Minister of State in 1916.

Back in the foreign post again in the first Nitti Cabinet, he represented Italy as first delegate at the peace conference in Paris from June to November, 1919, and was his country's spokesman at the League of Nations until 1921. He had been a member of The Hague Court of Arbitration since 1912.

Tittoni was elected President of the Senate in December, 1919, and served until March, 1929, when he became the first president of the Royal Academy of Italy, which is limited to 30 members. In April, 1923, he received the supreme tribute from his King, being made a chevalier of the Order of the Annunziata.

He was the author of numerous works on political and economic subjects. In addition he devoted much time to critical studies of Italian, French and English literature.

COUNTY COURT SEEKS RULING ON PAY OF VARIOUS OFFICERS

Asks Attorney-General's Opinion in View of Increase of Population.

An opinion on statutes covering the pay of various elective officers of St. Louis County was requested of Attorney-General Shartel yesterday by the St. Louis County Court.

Existing sections of the statutes under which St. Louis County has been regulated restrict their application to counties of less than 150,000 population. A question on the pay of officers has been raised as a result of the recent census showing a population of 211,000 for the county. The officers concerned include the Sheriff, Assessor, Collector, Treasurer, Prosecuting Attorney, Recorder of Deeds, Counselor, Surveyor, and the Clerks of the Circuit and County Courts, and their deputies and assistants. Several of the officers are paid by fees collected by their offices up to a certain limit.

Bills fixing the compensation of elective officers of St. Louis County are now before the Legislature.

Average Treatment of Maimed Children Lasts Three Months; 395 Received Last Year.

In the seven years of its operation the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, Kingshighway boulevard and Clayton avenue, has corrected the deformities of approximately 3000 children. All were treated free of charge, the institution being strictly benevolent.

During 1930 the hospital received 395 patients and discharged 389. The average time of treatment in the hospital was three months. A large number of cases required further treatment at home. During the year 1465 children were treated as out-patients.

There are nine other permanent and five mobile hospitals operated by the Shriners in the United States and Canada.

Boy Falls Down Old Mine Shaft.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEBB CITY, Mo., Feb. 7.—Firemen and volunteers were still dragging an abandoned mine shaft south of Carterville tonight in an effort to locate the body of Junior Medley, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben G. Medley of Carterville. The boy had been rolling boulders into the shaft with another playmate when he slipped and fell in. The shaft is 70 feet deep, contains 35 feet of water.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR UPHELD 3 TIMES; BUDGET TO PASS

Communists and National Socialists Suffer Severe Setback in Reichstag.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—Three times today Chancellor Bruening turned back the opposition in the Richstag and the Government whose fate seemed to hang by a thread before the Christmas recess emerged in full control. The Boerse, showed a sharp recovery and nobody doubts now that the budget will be a law by the end of March.

The three-fold defeat was a severe setback to the Communists and the National Socialists. A joint no-confidence motion by both parties was defeated, 293 to 221; a similar motion directed against Gottfried Traviranus, minister without portfolio, was lost 312 to 206, and a National Socialist motion requesting President Von Hindenburg to dissolve parliament was voted down, 318 to 207.

After that the Government parties and the Social Democrats voted as a unit to accept the budget. The Reichstag adjourned until Monday.

10-YEAR PRISON TERMS GIVEN THREE ROBBERS

Two Plead Guilty—Week's Record of Sentences in Criminal Courts.

Three robbers were sentenced to the penitentiary for 10 years each in Circuit Court last week.

A jury found Edward Sandel guilty of robbing McClelland Zent, 4336 Forest Park boulevard, of his automobile and $21.

Anthony Coggiano and Lindsay Taylor, a Negro, pleaded guilty to charges of violating the Henry law—robbery with a deadly weapon. Coggiano assisted in the robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gershon of 1515 Burd avenue, last March 2, when $140 and a diamond ring were taken by four men who entered their apartment. Taylor robbed two restaurants, taking $25. Romeo Luckett, a Negro, charged with grand larceny for the theft of a ring from Ben Magidson of 2600 Lawton avenue, was acquitted after a jury trial. Another charge is pending against him.

Two former employes of the Missouri Theater entered pleas of guilty to criminal charges during the week. One of them, James V. Noel, former treasurer of the theater, was sentenced to three years for embezzling $9000. The other, Harold J. Werner, former chief usher, was sentenced to a year in the workhouse.

Others charged with felonies who pleaded guilty and who received penitentiary sentences are: Louis Sherman and Ike Washington, burglary, two years; James White, arson and grand larceny, five years; Earl Chapman, forgery, two years; John B. Maddox, prior conviction and forgery, three years, and Lawrence Williams, larceny from the person, two years.

Other charged with major crimes who were permitted to plead guilty to charges of lesser degree and take less than penitentiary punishment are: Hal Curtis, petit larceny, six months ,city Workhouse; Andrew Spera, permitting gaming device on premises, $100 and costs; Edward Corey, forgery fourth degree, one year; Jim Scott, malicious destruction of property, three months; Frank Wingenback, forgery fourth degree, six months; Howard Morton, forgery fourth degree, six months; Walter Wilson, carrying a concealed weapon, four months; Tony Commarata, felonious wounding, $100 and costs; Edward Stankiewicz, carrying a concealed weapon, three months; John Meszaros, keeping a gaming device, $100 and costs; Nathan Clay, assault with intent to rob, six months; Fred Mathews and Charles Johnson, larceny from the person four months in jail; August Licavoli, petit larceny, six months; Theodore Schultz, petit larceny, nine months; Henry Brown, common assault, 70 days in jail; Philip Grissinger and Charles Lair, carrying a concealed weapon, six months, and Claude Dodson, tampering with an automobile, six months.

Insufficient evidence caused dismissals by the Circuit Attorney of charges against Frank Nicoletti, Joseph Dolejsi and William Crowder. Nicoletti was charged with burglary, Dolejsi with keeping a gaming device and Crowder with robbery. Death caused the abatement of criminal charges against Timothy Lahart, Theodore Kaminski and Eugene Stauble.

79 TONS OF NARCOTIC DRUGS IN ILLICIT TRAFFIC, 1925-29

League of Nations Committee Expresses Deep Concern Over Exports from Turkey.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Feb. 7.—Seventy-nine tons of narcotic drugs escaped into illicit traffic during the five years 1925-29, inclusive, according to an analysis of drug statistics mde by the Secretariat of the League of Nations and made public today.

The analysis was made for use of the Narcotic Limitation Conference, which is to be held in Geneva next May and was alluded to in a report of the Advisory Commission on Opium of the League of Nations, which closed its fourteenth session today.

The committee's report expressed deep concern that at a moment when "this grave situation" had apparently been remedied, a "new danger of the first magnitude had appeared as the result of the manufacture on a very large scale of morphine and heroin in a country, Turkey, which is not a member of the League of Nations or a party to the opium conventions."

The report records the fact that in several notable seizures of narcotics, virtually the entire correspondence of drug gangs over a period of years had been seized.

Turkey has signified its itnention to participate in and co-operate with tha May conference.

SNOWSTORM IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—A blinding snowstorm tonight caused the collision of a steamship and a ferryboat and the grounding of an oil tanker in New York harbor and laid a 1.8 inch fall on city streets, somewhat hampering traffic.

Several thousand snow removers were called out by the Street Cleaning Department, from the ranks of the unemployed. They reinforced many machines struggling to keep ahead of the snowfall, so far the winter's heaviest here. The storm, Weather Bureau officers said, was general over New York and Pennsylvania and might be expected to delay rail and other traffic. It was predicted to continue with diminishing force until midday tomorrow, the snow probably turning to rain, with temperatures slightly above freezing.

BILL TO LIMIT OIL IMPORTS GETS RIGHT OF WAY

Tariff Commission Discloses Venezuela Has $1.19 a Barrel Advantage Over Midwest Fields.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — The movement for legislation to limit oil imports was given impetus today by a Tariff Commission report showing a wide difference in the cost of crude oil delivered at Atlantic Seaboard refineries from Venezuela and from mid-continent fields.

Almost simultaneously with the announcement of the report, the Senate Republican Steering Committee gave privileged status to the bill offered by Senator Capper (Rep.), Kansas, to limit imports of crude oil to 16,000,000 barrels a year for the next three years. It will probably reach the floor next week.

The report showed a difference of $1.19 a barrel in the cost of mid-continent and Venezuelan crude oil delivered at Atlantic Seaboard refineries, the latter being 79 cents and the domestic $1.98.

The report, however, said the domestic oil was of a superior quality, having a higher gravity and gasoline content and therefore the articles compared were not similar.

Despite this contention, Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, author of the tariff act amendment directing the cost investigation said the report proved the independent oil producers' demand for a tariff of a least $1 a barrel was justified.

The Oklahoman said he held no hope of obtaining a tariff on oil at this session, but expressed confidence that action would be taken before adjournment on the Capper bill.

The Tariff Commission's report was based on average costs of production for 1927, 1928 and 1929 in Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico, and the average cost in the Maracaibo Basin of Venezuela for 1929, the last year for which figures on casts were available there.

It found the cost in the Mid-Continent field to be $1.10 a barrel, which, with a transportation cost to Eastern refineries of 88 cents, brought the total to $1.98. The cost at embarkation points in Venezuela was listed at 56 cents, with transportation cost of 23 cents, a total of 79 cents when delivered to the same American refineries.

It was added, however, that domestic crude has an average gravity of 33 degrees as compared with 18 to 19 for the foreign, and the domestic yielded 36 to 44 per cent gasoline as compared with 9 to 12 per cent gasoline and 75 to 83 per cent fuel oil for the foreign.

"Gasoline has a much higher unit value than fuel oil," the report said, adding the difference in quality of domestic and Venezuelan crude "is reflected in the wide difference in the price paid by the Atlantic Coast refineries."

The three year weighted average price paid for domestic crude was $2.06, as against $1.10 for the foreign. The 1929 prices were $2.03 for domestic and $1.02 for foreign.

The value of products obtained from a barrel of domestic oil in 1929 was $2.97, as against $1.15 for Venezuelan, the report said, adding:

"The average expense a barrel for refining is much higher in the case of the domestic than the Venezuelan."

Thomas said the report showed a tariff of even $1 a barrel would not give "temporary relief, as South American countries could ship in, pay the tariff and yet undersell American producers."

Standard to Buy 300,000 Barrels From Small Kansas Wells.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 7.—The Kansas distress oil problem has been temporarily solved, Gov. Harry H. Woodring said tonight in announcing that the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana had agreed to buy 300,000 barrels of oil from small wells that outlet of which was cut off Jan 1, when the Prairie Oil and Gas Co. ceased buying crude oil.

The Standard Oil of Indiana, Woodring said, will buy 6,000 barrels a day for not more than 60 days. This temporary relief for the southeastern Kansas producers, the Governor said, would "afford sufficient time to put this situation up to other companies in such a manner that they will do their share to bring about a permanent solution.

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR INDORSED BY FARMERS FOR PRESIDENCY

Impromptu Mass Meeting Held on 6 Street in Bristow Demands Drouth Relief.

By the Associated Press.

BRISTOW, Ok., Feb. 7.—Called together in ten minutes, an impassioned mass meeting of Creek County farmers this afternoon indorsed the policies of Gov. W. H. Murray and passed a resolution nominating him as President of the United States. Murray, addressing the State Legislature this week, told it to pass his relief program or he would "carry it to the people" and call mass meetings in every town in the State.

Some participants in today's mass meeting urged a march on the State Capitol to help bring about passage of drouth aid legislation and other administration measures. Standing in the rain at a downtown corner, W. L. Cheatham, former legislator, called the meeting which was attended by about 150 persons, mostly farmers.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO DIES OF SKULL INJURY

Death of Mrs. Christina Stoddard 20th Motor Fatality of 1931.

Mrs. Christina Stoddard, 64 years old, 6024 Lucille avenue, died at City Hospital yesterday morning of a fractured skull suffered Friday evening, when she was struck by an automobile at Kingshighway boulevard, Northwest, and Lucille avenue.

The driver of the car, Ercle Kent, 2516 Margie avenue, Jennings, told police he and Mrs. Stoddard saw each other in the street and both stopped. At the moment he started again, however, Mrs. Stoddard started too, and when he tried to stop, he said, his machine skidded and struck her.

The fatality is the twentieth this year due to automobile accidents, as compared with 16 at this time last year.

SHORTAGE OF WATER IN 50 ILLINOIS CITIES

Many Have Only Three Weeks' to 90 Days' Supply—Stringent Regulations Ordered.

By the Associated Press.

CENTRALIA, Ill., Feb. 7.—In an effort to prevent a water famine in the Southern Illinois drouth area as a result of the most severe winter drouth in half a century, many cities suffering from water shortage have adopted stringent methods to conserve their supply.

A survey, made by the Associated Press, shows the majority of 50 communities suffering from a shortage have from three weeks to 90 days' supply of water available.

Many cities which have supplied railroads with water have cut off this service while use of water by filling stations and for washing of automobiles is prohibited by many communities.

Although an average of .37 of an inch of rain fell throughout Little Egypt in the last 24 hours, it did little to improve conditions. It is estimated approximately six inches of rain will have to fall before any material improvement will be noticeable in the drouth area.

Christopher, in Franklin County, has only three weeks' supply available, Mayor O. H. Lewis said today. He said the city has stopped the sale of water to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and other railroads in an effort to prevent a famine.

West Frankfort, also in Franklin County, which normally has 600,000,000 gallons of water, has now only 80,000,000, or approximately 90 days' supply left. West Frankfort officials pointed out today should their supply become exhausted they would have to purchase water from Benton or Johnston City.

Approximately two months' supply is available at Marion and severe restrictions have been placed on the use of water, while at Paulton, eight miles away, the supply is said to be practically exhausted.

Mayor Joe E. Schwartz of Salem said that city has approximately 18,000,000 gallons available, or about 64 days' supply. The normal supply at Salem is 173,000,000 gallons, Railroads supplied with water by Salem also have been cut off and washing of automobiles is likewise prohibited.

Pana has about two months' supply, Mayor W. H. Alexander said. This city has approximately 110,000,000 gallons available, whereas normal supply is 310,000,000 gallons.

The water supply at Ramsey is reportd nearly exhausted, while the supply at Shelbyville and Paris is alarmingly low.

Edinburg, in Christian County, has been experiencing a water famine for weeks, and industries there are being supplied with water hauled in tanks from Taylorville.

Mayor G. W. E. Griffin of Centralia described the water supply here as not critical, but said he was issuing orders Monday for all persons and rairoads to conserve as much as possible. About 200,000,000 gallons is available at the new reservoir, or three months' supply, compared with a normal supply of 935,000,000 gallons.

At Jacksonville, in Morgan County, the supply is nearly depleted and that city has prohibited use of water for bathing purposes within homes, under threat of turning off the supply of consumers.

Other cities facing a water famine include Carbondale, Carlinville, Carterville, Hamburg, Mount Olive, Litchfield, Olney, Pittsfield, Sparta, White Hall and Carrier Mills.

Precipitation General in Midwest but too Light to Bring Relief.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—There was little promise tonight of substantial rains in the midwest, needed to break one of the worst winter drouths in years. Precipitation of rain or snow was general yesterday from North Dakota to the Ohio River valley, but insuffiicent to allay fear of water shortage in Wisconsin, Southern Illinois and Indiana. In many sections it was the first rainfall since early in January.

Clear weather prevailed today over the Central Plains. Temperatures were slightly higher. Snow, however, covered most of North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Northeastern Iowa and Southern Michigan, averaging three and a half inches over Wisconsin and totaling eight inches at Bertha, Minn.

Christopher, Salem and Marion, Ill., have stopped the sale of water to railroads. Jacksonville has forbidden its residents to use water for bathing on pain of having their supply cut off. Conservation measures in world war times have been adpoted, Mayor John L. Reeves says.

West Frankfort, Pana, Centralia and other county seats have from three weeks' to two months' supply on hand. A fraction of their usual reserve.

40 WOMEN WITNESSES MISSING

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Moves to indict policemen charged at a magistrate's inquiry with grafting from immoral women received a setback today when the District Attorney learned 40 women who were to have been witnesses before the grand jury are missing.

Two detectives and "Chile" Acuna, former vice spy, searched a week in vain for the missing women.

James G. Wallace, Assistant District Attorney, was instructed to prepare for immediate trial the cases of seven policemen already indicted for perjury in connection with alleged "framing" of immorality cases. He hopes to have the first of the trials underway by Feb. 16.

MARYVILLE LYNCHING CAUSES REPORTED ON

The Rev. G. S. Cox Finds Race Prejudice High, Social Structure Weak.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The Rev. Gilbert S. Cox, former pastor in Maryville, Mo., emerged from his investigation of the lynching of Raymond Gunn, a Negro, at Maryville Jan. 12, with a "terrifying sense of the weak foundation upon which our modern social structure seems to rest," his report, made public today, disclosed.

Dr. Cox, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of South Bend, Ind., conducted his investigation at the request of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and as a representative of the Council's Commission on Race Relations.

Several deep-seated circumstances made inevitable the lynching of Gunn as punishment for his murder of Velma Colter, 19 years old, a school teacher, Dr. Cox reported.

First, Dr. Cox found that "the community is only one generation removed from a pioneer society, and since it is somewhat isolated, there is a hangover of those rugged methods of justice that have on other occasions attempted to ignore the processes of law."

Furthermore, Dr. Cox reported, there existed in the Maryville area "an age-old race prejudice," which a neighborhood newspaper reported was "so bad that the sale of a certain tooth paste had decreased rapidly due to a Negro dialect program used to advertise it over the radio."

Dr. Cox found, too, that the economic depression "has created a spirit of restlessness and rebellion."

Finally, the investigator found that there was a "lack of moral leadership" and in the churches a "stubborn opposition to the ethical demands of religion."

Of Gunn's guilt, Dr. Cox reported there could be no doubt. Evidence in addition to the confession of Gunn, was overwhelming, he said.

As precautionary measures against recurrence of the incident, Dr. Cox suggested there should be a race relations committee in every community where there are a few Negroes and that some social agency should be made responsible for persons such as Gunn, who Dr. Cox reported, was mentally diseased.

He added that "if the law is such that the Governor cannot send agents in to provide for the security of prisoners under such circumstances, it should be changed."

He observes that "a local community cannot always be depended upon for enforcement of the law."

Extends Thanks to Maj. Lambert.

A telegram of appreciation for his co-operation in arranging a luncheon at the dedication program of the Newark, N. J., airport was received last night by Albert Bond Lambert, chairman of the St. Louis Air Board. Food for the luncheon was shipped by air from all parts of the United States. Missouri's contribution, forwarded by Lambert, consisted of apples, strawberries and cigarettes.

THERE'S been a lot of sound progress made in the treatment of colds during the past few years. And the "Pineoleum" oil spray method, recommended by thousands of doctors, has radically changed the public's ideas about the treatment of colds.

"Pineoleum" is modern . . . speedy . . . effective. It does three things, and does them well: (1) It bathes the inflamed membranes in a spreading, penetrating film of oil that protects the tissues and inhibits the growth of germs. (2) It acts at the seat of the trouble—the passages of nose and throat. (3) Its bland and healing oils clear the air passages, soothe the angry membranes and rid you instantly of that stuffed-up feeling.

Use it for the children before they start for school. They like it . . . it's not like "taking medicine" . . . and there's nothing to upset the stomach! At your drug store.

LOCUST STREET AT 23RD
ST. LOUIS, MO.

February 7th, 1931

St. Louis Post-Dispatch,
St. Louis,
Missouri.

Gentlemen:

That business conditions are far better than is generally believed is evidenced, we think, in the results of our new car sale advertised exclusively in the Post-Dispatch last Sunday.

During the forty eight hours the sale was in progress two hundred and fifty seven new cars were sold at retail at an average price of $599.00, totaling $153,943.00.

Our Wholesale sales amounted to four hundred and ninety three new cars - a grand total of seven hundred and fifty automobiles. We estimate the total sales, including retail and wholesale, at $449,250.00.

Thousands of people attended our sale. Had our organization been able to handle the large crowds we are confident our entire stock would have been sold within ten hours.

We heartily congratulate you on the advertising value of your publication.

Yours very truly,

Vice Pres. and Gen'l Mgr.

J.S.Mitchell-vl

An advertisement placed exclusively in the big Auto Show Number of the Sunday Post-Dispatch by E. J. Johnson, Inc., Willys-Overland distributors, produced a sales volume unparalleled in the records of St. Louis—and perhaps marks the highest point ever reached in one day in retail sales of any car anywhere.

257 cars were sold at retail

$599 was the average retail price . . . .

More than half were cash sales . . . .

Only 47 were trade-in sales

493 cars were sold at wholesale from the same advertisement . . . . .

Combined wholesale and retail sales amounted to $449,250.00 . . . . . .

Certain body types were sold out before noon . . .

More than 4000 persons came into the salesroom . .

Many prospective buyers were lost by the inability of salesmen to give everybody attention . . . .

For Low Selling Cost, Advertising in the Post-Dispatch Is Never Approached by Any Other St. Louis Newspaper, or Combination of Newspapers

Dr. Becker, Accused of Homicide in Coroner's Verdict, Denies Performing Illegal Operation.

Dr. George W. Becker, chief surgeon for the Police Department, was ordered held for the grand jury yesterday after a Coroner's verdict charged him with homicide in the death of Mrs. Opal Mitchell, 1605 Missouri avenue, following an illegal operation. His $5000 bond, which has been in effect since his arrest on Friday, will be continued under the grand jury investigation Feb. 17.

Dr. Becker testified at the inquest yesterday that he had only treated Mrs. Mitchell, and had performed no operation. Roy Mitchell, an automobile mechanic and husband of the dead woman, testified Friday that he was present in the doctor's office at 3115 South Grand boulevard on Jan. 18 when Dr. Becker performed an operation on his wife. Mrs. Mitchell died at City Hospital Thursday night of blood poisoning.

Woman Convicted of Child's Murder.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, W. Va., Feb. 7.—A verdict of first degree murder with a recommendation for life imprisonment was returned today by a jury that tried Mrs. Minnie Stull, 30 years old, for fatally scalding her stepson, Mickey, aged 8.

The boy died after he had been scalded in a tub of hot soapsuds.

PLAZA CONDEMNATION HEARING NEAR END

Further Evidence on Exceptions to Awards Will Be Offered Thursday.

Trial of exceptions in the Memorial Plaza condemnation suit was virtually concluded yesterday by Circuit Judge Bader with oral testimony in the two remaining cases on his docket. Attorneys announced they desired to introduce documentary evidence and the Court told them to return Thursday.

The exceptions will be taken under advisement with 178 others in the same case. Judge Bader has been at work on the Plaza case more than a year, which he sandwiched in between the trial of damage suits. Most of the exceptions are based on benefit assessments, it being contended that cost of the entire Plaza project should come from bond issue funds; further that the assessments were excessive and the property assessed would receive no special benefit.

The cases yesterday related to benefits levied against the site of the new Federal Building at Twelfth and Market streets and the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. property at Johnson street and Clark avenue, which face the Plaza. The Federal site was assessed $57,433. The tax is being resisted by the owners, represented by Oreon E. Scott. The Loose-Wiles property was assessed $11,040.

Realty operators testified the property in question would receive no special benefit by reason of its proximity to the plaza. Oliver T. Johnson, associate City Counsellor, contended that the plaza would furnish better air, light and visibility.

In the case of the Loose-Wiles Co., Johnson said its factory will face the plaza to the north. He contended that "north lights," which will be enhanced by three blocks of open space, were best for workers in a factory. A representative of the company disagreed with Johnson, stating other lights were just as good.

SCOUT ANNNVERSARY WEEK BEGINS TODAY

"Coming of Age" Celebration of Chartering of Order in This Country.

Special programs and activities, ranging from church services to scout exhibits in store windows, will mark the celebration by the St. Louis district this week, of the twenty-first anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America. It is part of an anniversary week observance participated in by scouts all over the United States.

The Boy Scout movement, started by Sir Robert Baden-Powell in England in 1909, was officially brought to America 21 years ago today, when the national scout organization received its charter.

Special services will be conducted today at virtually every church sponsoring a Boy Scout troop—in many cases by the scouts themselves. All scouts are expected to attend the services in uniform, preferably with their troops, as units. In some cases, however, the scout services will be held next Sunday.

A special non-sectarian service will be held at the Lafayette Park Presbyterian Church tonight, under the supervision of Troop 167, which has headquarters at that church. The entire program will be carried out by scouts. The sermon will be delivered by Charles H. Mills, activities director of the St. Louis Scout Council.

Dr. James E. West, national Boy Scout Executive, will speak over a national radio hook-up this afternoon, together with Scout Paul A. Siple, who accompanied Admiral Byrd on his Antarctic expedition. At the conclusion of the program, West's son, Scout Robert West, will repeat the Scout oath. This broadcast may be heard in St. Louis over Station KSD, from 12:30 to 12:45 o'clock.

Starting tomorrow, individual troops will begin a series of Parents' nights, banquets, troop courts of honor, and Father and Son dinners, in order to acquaint parents of the scouts with scout work. At these gatherings, individuals and patrols will demonstrate scouting activities, and exhibit specimens of their handiwork. Several scoutcraft exhibitions will be placed in neighborhood store windows.

All former scouts or scout leaders will be invited by their old troops to attend both the church services and the special troop meetings, in an attempt to make the "coming of age anniversary" a reunion of everyone connected at any time with scouting. An anniversary button is being issued by local scout headquarters for these former members, to be presented and worn during the week.

Troop Notes

West District.

The Bear Patrol won first and the Beaver patrol second place in a contest, similar to the old district rallies, conducted by Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A. a week ago Thursday evening. A new individual test-passing contest has been started, points being awarded for all tests passed before March 19. All Scouts obtaining 30 points will receive medals. One point will be given for each second or first class test passed; three points for each merit badge and 10 points for advancement in rank, or winning a Star, Life or Eagle badge.

A Father and Son banquet was held by Troop 49 of the First Presbyterian Church in the church dining room last week. In addition to the Scouts and their fathers, members of Cub Pack 3 were guests. Charles H. Mills, activities director of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, made an address. Entertainment was furnished by Miss Celeste, pianiste; Percy, the clown; Baby Capps, the Anderson twins and Harry Mayer, a magician.

Twenty Scouts and two assistant Scoutmasters made a hike with Troop 94 of St. Barbara's Church to the troop camp site near Ferguson last Sunday. The Scoutmaster, three assistant Scoutmasters and three committeemen represented the troop at the annual Scout banquet held at Hotel Chase two weeks ago.

Junior Assistant Scoutmasters Miller and Hemker and Senior Patrol Leader Hochstein received silver medals from Troop 113 of the Church of the Messiah, in recognition of the work they performed for the merit badge show last fall. The troop re-registered last month with 31 old Scouts and six recruits.

A school day minstrel show will be given by Troop 171 of Notre Dame de Lourdes at St. Barbara's Hall this evening. Such comic strip characters as Mickey McGuire, the Powerful Katrina's Little Brother and Tomboy Taylor will be impersonated. The curtain will rise at 8:15 o'clock. A dance will follow the show.

South District.

Six South District troops, Troops 66, 163, 180, 214, 244 and 245, registered for the coming year during January, thereby completing that portion of their requirements for winning a streamer in the 1931 achievement roundup.

A program of handicraft and camping projects was conducted at a camp of the South District Scout leaders at the Scoutmasters' Lodge last week-end. A. W. Lantz, chairman of the district board of review, gave a talk on anniversary week plans and investiture ceremonies.

Troop 25 of the Christy Memorial Church, held its regular monthly stunt night Friday evening. Scouts Elmer Mayer and Martin Breidenbach of the Scrawny patrol and Lone Eagle and Shawnee patrols presented sketches. Blindfold boxing matches were also held.

Troop 200 of Rose Fanning School, defeated Troop 167, 34 to 32, in a basketball game held at the victor's court a week ago Friday evening. The winners have issued a challenge to any other troop in the city. Arrangements may be made by telephoning Laclede 6117. Seven new recruits were presented with their Tenderfoot pins in an investiture ceremony recently.

Plans for a troop court of honor are being made by Troop 178 of the Scruggs School. The court will be the first ever held by this organization. The troop re-registered last month with 33 active scouts, 17 associate scouts, five troop committeemen and three officers.

Central District.

Twenty tests were passed by scouts of Troop 32 while on a 14-mile hike to Morschels, Mo., last Sunday. The troop is playing basketball every Wednesday evening under the supervision of Assistant Scoutmaster Herman.

Four scouts received second class awards at a Troop Court of Honor conducted by Troop 37 of the Hodgen School last Friday evening. The Court of Honor was held to meet one of the requirements of the 1931 achievement roundup.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Spanish-American War Veterans will present an American flag to Troop 177 of the Compton Heights Christian Church during a flag ceremony at the church this morning. The ceremony will start at 10:30 o'clock.

A Parents' Night was held by Troop 189 of the Shaw Avenue Methodist Church in the recreation hall of the church last Tuesday evening. Stunts and exhibitions were given by scouts of the troop and refreshments were served.

North District.

A musical comedy, "Filling the Bill," will be given by the scouts of Troop 148, of Hyde Park Congregational Church, next Friday evening, to raise money to buy equipment. The playlet was written by the mother of Assistant Scoutmaster Eberle. A dance will be held afterwards. The troop will attend church in a body at the 10:45 o'clock service this morning, in observance of the twenty-first anniversary of scouting. Tests are being passed by the scouts on week-end camps at the troop cabin near the Chain of Rocks.

Holy Cross House, sponsor of Troop 3, has turned its gymnasium over to the troop every Monday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock, for games. The games are part of an effort being made by the troop to enlist new members from that neighborhood. The troop, one of the oldest in the city, meets on Friday evenings, under the leadership of Scoutmaster J. P. Simons, who has headed the organization for 14 years.

ADVANCED TRAINING COURSE FOR GIRL SCOUT LEADERS

Miss Joyce Wolton, English Guide, to Give Instruction at St. John's M. E. Church.

An advanced training course for Girl Scout leaders in the St. Louis area will be given at St. John's M. E. Church by Miss Joyce Wolton, an English Girl Guide instructor, every evening this week from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. The course is being given under the sponsorship of the St. Louis Girl Scout Council.

Miss Wolton is Guider in charge of Foxlease, the training center for Girl Guides in England. She has been in this country explaining English Girl Guide methods for the last six months.

In addition to the evening course, Miss Wolton will conduct three classes in outdoor games at the Girl Scout Little House, 4253 Magnolia avenue, Wednesday and Friday afternoons and Saturday morning. The afternoon classes will meet from 3:30 to 5 o'clock, while that on Saturday will meet from 10 o'clock to noon.

K. OF C. TO GIVE CIRCUS AT COLISEUM, FEB. 14-15

Money to Go to Order's Building and Welfare Funds; 24 Acts on Program.

An indoor circus is to be presented at the Coliseum next Saturday and Sunday under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus. Two performances will be given Two performances will be given building and welfare funds of the organization.

The 24 acts include regular ones of the Correll circus and others open for engagements in the off-season. All of the usual circus features, wild animal acts, trained elephants and horses, aerial performers, clowns and acrobats are to be presented.

Richard C. Hart is chairman of the committee in charge. Other members are: Luke E. Hart, Thomas A. Langan, James T. O'Donnell, Walter M. Smith, Charles M. Lee, Joseph H. Ebeling, Robert P. Cummins, Vincent A. Lanigan, Julius Horning, Michael J. Hart, Harry J. Padberg, John C. Kappel, Charles A. Boggiano, Robert T. Mollencott, Thomas J. Kinsella, John T. Gorman, A. J. WANTS TO COMPLETE PAVING OF KINGSHIGHWAY NORTHWEST

Board Favors Another 20-Foot Roadway From West Florissant to Hall's Ferry Road.

Paving of Kingshighway Northwest, between West Florissant avenue and Hall's Ferry road, to make the thoroughfare complete for its whole length, is to be carried out by the city if a plan approved by the Board of Public Service Friday is adopted by the Board of Aldermen. There is now a 20-foot concrete roadway on this section, about a mile and a quarter long.

The city proposes to lay another 20-foot roadway, paved with Warrenite, a patented asphaltic material. The two roads would be separated by a park strip, corresponding to Kingshighway Northwest between Penrose Park and West Florissant. The last section of Kingshighway Northwest, between Hall's Ferry and Broadway at Riverview drive, will be paved after work on the Maline Creek sewer is completed.

The Board of Public Service also decided to repave Westminster place, between Spring and Boyle avenues, where the wood block surface is from 23 to 27 years old. Following the wishes of property owners, the board dropped a plan to widen the roadway from 30 to 36 feet by moving back the curbs. Asphalt pavement will be laid.

Inventor Sues for $100,000.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Harry R. Warren, inventor of a seed cleaning and separating machine, began suit for $100,000 damages against Barratt O'Hara and Ronald C. Oldham, attorneys, in Superior Court today charging he had been bilked of his patent in a settlement in which the attorneys represented him. Warren said he was paid $25,000 under the agreement, paid the attorneys half of this amount as a free settlement and found later the agreement forbade him to work on further seed machine devices.

The Players In a Comedy By Moliere

Organization to Present "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" Saturday Afternoon and Following Monday Night.

PLAY-ACTING among the socially prominent has come into its own this week as a temporary bridge over a period of prelenten inactivity. Members and others interested in the histrionic ability of The Players are working for the success of their productions next Saturday afternoon and the following Monday night of Moliere's comedy, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," to be given in the auditorium of the Wednesday Club, Taylor avenue and Westminster place. The C. H. Page translation will be used, with music by George Vieh, and the presentations are in charge of Mrs. Everett W. Pattison.

The Saturday performance will be given for the Wednesday Club as the program for its annual play day, under the auspices of the Dramatic Study Section, with Mrs. Ray A. Burns as chairman, and will be followed by a tea for members and their guests in the reception rooms on the second floor of the clubhouse. It is the largest club performance since the recent reconstruction of the stage to accommodate chorus work, and marks the reassembling of the charter members of The Players, many of them members of the Wednesday Club, into one cast.

The action of the play, which has three acts, takes place about the year 1670 in Jourdain's salon in Paris, on the morning, afternoon and evening of the same day. While given in English, the play will otherwise be in French style, with orchestra, vocal music, ballads and pageants. Henri de Lecluse will play the long and difficult part of Jourdain, a favorite role of Moliere himself, and of Coquelin. Other characters in the order of their appearance are:

Music Master .... David Hallman

The Players In a Comedy By Moliere

Organization to Present "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" Saturday Afternoon and Following Monday Night.

PLAY-ACTING among the socially prominent has come into its own this week as a temporary bridge over a period of pre-Lenten inactivity. Members and others interested in the histrionic ability of The Players are working for the success of their productions next Saturday afternoon and the following Monday night of Moliere's comedy, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," to be given in the auditorium of the Wednesday Club, Taylor avenue and Westminster place. The C. H. Page translation will be used, with music by George C. Vieh, and the presentations are in charge of Mrs. Everett W. Pattison.

The Saturday performance will be given for the Wednesday Club as the program for its annual play day, under the auspices of the Dramatic Study Section, with Mrs. Ray A. Burns as chairman, and will be followed by a tea for members and their guests in the reception rooms on the second floor of the clubhouse. It is the largest club performance since the recent reconstruction of the stage to accommodate chorus work, and marks the reassembling of the charter members of The Players, many of them members of the Wednesday Club, into one cast.

The action of the play, which has three acts, takes place about the year 1670 in Jourdain's salon in Paris, on the morning, afternoon and evening of the same day. While given in English, the play will otherwise be in French style, with orchestra, vocal music, ballads and pageants. Henri de Lecluse will play the long and difficult part of Jourdain, a favorite role of Moliere himself, and of Coquelin. Other characters in the order of their appearance are:

Social Gayeties At Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7.

A CONCERT by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra Monday opened a series sponsored by the Society of Arts, of which Edward T. Stotesbury is president.

Numerous dinner parties preceded the concert, among them one given by Mr. and Mrs. John M. Pillsbury, Minneapolis. Former Gov. Small of Illinois entertained a party of friends from Kankakee, Ill., in the oleander gardens of the New Palm Beach Hotel after the concert.

Tuesday afternoon a large crowd attended the recital by Louise Homer Stires and Katherine Homer, sponsored by the Palm Beach Parent-Teacher Association.

Another fashionable audience listened to an address on Wednesday afternoon, given by Hamilton Fish Jr., at the E. F. Hutton villa.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin P. Hilts and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mersman, St. Louis, who are spending the winter in Miami Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Hewett Brown, St. Louis and Coral Gables, were among the guests entertained at the Bath Club dinner dance Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Poor, Chicago. Mrs. D. B. Delevan, New York, a sister of Mrs. Hilts, also was in the party.

Mrs. Henry W. Peters of St. Louis was hostess at luncheon Friday at the Surf Club, Miami Beach, to Miss Gay Lawrence and Miss Frances Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lawrence, New York; Mrs. William Whitney, Miss Jane Whitney and Mr. C. M. Dering. At another luncheon party there later, Mrs. Peters entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Breit, Chicago; Mr. C. M. Dering and Mr. I. W. Miller. Mrs. John B. Denvir Jr. of St. Louis was hostess at the Surf Club at luncheon to a number of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Parson, New York, have returned from a four-day fishing trip aboard their yacht Spindrift, on which they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hilts, St. Louis, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Garlick, New York and Youngstown, O.

A party of St. Louis residents returning to Miami Beach for the season includes Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Peters, their children, Lewis and Fred, and Mr. Peters' mother, Mrs. F. W. Peters. They are staying at the Fleetwood Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Moss and Mrs. R. L. Goode of St. Louis have arrived at Miami Beach and are staying at the Roney Plaza.

Mrs. Elzey G. Burkham, St. Louis, is spending the season at the Lincoln Hotel, where she is with her daughter, Mrs. E. Lansing Ray. Mrs. Ray will sail in the spring for Europe with Mr. Ray.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Garrison of St. Louis have returned to the King Cole for the season.

Lund-Seay Wedding To Be Next Saturday

THE wedding of Miss Dorothy Seay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard Seay, 7162 Cambridge avenue, University City, to Eugene Herluf Lund, son of Dr. and Mrs. Herluf Gyde Lund, 7110 Washington boulevard, will take place Saturday evening at St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church South, at 6:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt will officiate.

Miss Seay is a direct descendant on her paternal side of Lord Seay, who received a grant of land from the King of England, near what is now Trenton, N. J. On her maternal side she is descended from Maj. Hunt and Capt. Quicksell of Revolutionary times, and Gen John Morgan, Capt. George William Smith of the Fifth Kentucky Cavalry and Commodore Richard S. Taylor of the United States Navy of Civil War times.

Bridlespur Hunt Club Will Give Steamer Party

Games Popular on Ocean Liners Will Be Played —Dinner Will Be Brought by Members From Homes.

THE Bridlespur Hunt Club has found a new diversion in entertaining—a steamship party, to be given at its clubhouse in Huntleigh Village next Saturday night. The party takes its name chiefly from the form of entertainment to be given following a dinner. All games popular on the decks of ocean going liners will be played. There will be deck tennis and deck golf squash, deck horse races, the details of which have not been announced, and turtle races for the less ambitious. The dinner will be brought by the members from their respective homes and will be served by the otherwise dignified members of the board of directors of the club, with their wives assisting in various capacities as water carriers, etc.

Shore dinners have proved themselves another popular form of party at the Bridlespur Club and are given each Friday night. Last Friday about 40 members ate fresh oysters from an oyster counter and proceeded to a fish dinner beginning with clam chowder.

Aside from a few parties there is little of interest socially with the exception of a few visitors in St. Louis, two important post-Lenten weddings and winter trips being planned.

Mrs. Charles Alexander Madill and her daughter, Miss Delphine Madill, who have been spending much of their time in Europe for the past few years, arrived in St. Louis last night for a winter visit and are at the Park Plaza. They landed in New York early in January and have been visiting friends there for a month. Mrs. Madill and her daughter were in London for the holidays with another daughter, Mrs. Henry Savile Jerome and Lieut. Jerome, Royal British Navy, who live near there, and whose marriage took place in London a few months ago. Mrs. Jerome was Miss Thelma Madill.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Bissell Jr., whose marriage took place a few weeks ago in West Roxbury, Mass., have arrived in St. Louis from their honeymoon at the summer lodge of Mrs. Bissell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Gibson in Casco Bay, Me., and are with Mr. and Mrs. Bissell Sr., 6939 Waterman avenue, until they find an apartment. The bride was Miss Catherine Alice Gibson.

Mrs. John Preston Phillips of Yonkers, N. Y., formerly Miss Louise Lake, will arrive tomorrow to be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Lake Sr., 4360 Westminster place. Tuesday afternoon she will be the guest of honor at a tea to be given by Mrs. Frederick C. Lake Jr., 5247 Waterman avenue, at which those serving will include Mrs. Joseph A. Hafner Jr., Miss Jane Rule and Miss Pamela Harrison, who were bridemaids at Mrs. Phillips' wedding; Mrs. Henry H. Mudd and Mrs. Alfred W. Brown. Mrs. Duncan I. Meier and Mrs. Louise Nugent will assist, and Mrs. Lake Sr. will complete the receiving line.

Mr. and Mrs. Balfour Stuart Craib of New York, former St. Louisans, have been the guests this week of Mrs. Craib's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. I. D. Kelley Jr., 32 Portland place, and were honorees at a dinner given Tuesday night by Dr. and Mrs. Kelley at the Bridlespur Hunt Club. Mr. and Mrs. Craib will sail Feb. 14 for Africa, accompanied by their niece, Miss Adelaide Mahaffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Birch Oliver Mahaffey.

The wedding of Miss Jean Wright Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Ford Jr., 54 Westmoreland place, and Edward C. Simmons, son of Mrs. Wallace D. Simmons, 46 Westmoreland place, has been set for Wednesday, April 8, the ceremony to take place in the late afternoon at St. Peter's Episcopal Church. A few days later Miss Mary Lees Kennard, daughter of John B. Kennard, 4960 Pershing avenue, will become the bride of Rolla Wells Streett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark Streett, 36 Kingsbury place. The marriage will be solemnized Wednesday afternoon, April 22, at 5:30 o'clock at the Church of St. Michael and St. George.

Party for Debutantes

MRS. MARION CLIFFORD BLOSSOM, 4526 West Pine boulevard, will give a buffet dinner and bridge party Friday evening in honor of Miss Mary Francis Day, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Day of Ferguson, and Miss Margaret Vieths, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Vieths, 6432 Cecil avenue. There will be 25 guests including members of the debutante set and their escorts.

A valentine dinner dance will be given Saturday evening by Mrs. Edwin S. Elder, 6359 Waterman avenue, at Bellerive Country Club for her debutante sister, Miss Louise Goddard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Goddard

Weddings and Engagements

THE marriage of Miss Bernice La Rue,, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. La Rue, 705 Interdrive, to Oscar Arbogast, 7130 Dartmouth avenue, took place quietly Friday morning at University City Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. C. Wesley Webdell officiating.

The bride wore a gown of light blue crepe with a felt hat to match, and her flowers were gardenias and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Louise La Rue, was her only attendant and wore a frock of rose beige crepe with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of talisman roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Arbogast attended Washington and Missouri universities and his bride was graduated from Washington University. She is a member of Gamma Phi sorority.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mossop, 6017 Eitman avenue, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Florence, to Alfred Goeke of Bushnell, Ill., at a party on the evening of Jan. 31.

Mrs. Johanna Jacoby of Newberry terrace, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Bertha Jacoby to George Newberg of Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 31, at the home of Rabbi Mayer in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. King of Detroit, Mich., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Nathalie, to Dr. Harvey Francis Brown, also of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin B. Brown of Youngstown, O.

Mrs. Esther Rosensweig, 5478 Delmar boulevard, announces the engagement of her granddaughter, Miss Margaret Irma Morris, and Marx J. Borod of Memphis, Tenn. The wedding will take place in the early fall. Mr. Borod is a graduate of Vanderbilt University and is a member of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity.

A reception will be given from 8 to 11 o'clock this evening by Mrs. Rosensweig for her granddaughter.

The engagement of Miss Ernestine Goldstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goldstein, 5780 Westminster place, and Charles Horwitz, 721 Westgate avenue, has been announced. Receptions for Miss Goldstein and her fiance will be given next Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m. and 8 to 11 o'clock p. m. at the home of her parents.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Cicardi Truax, daughter of Mrs. Harry J. Klinger, 522 South Hanley road, to Edward Closs Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Closs, 7047 Maryland avenue, took place Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's Church in Clayton, Father Stepka officiating. A wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Klinger. Miss Virginia Bruce, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Madelon Closs, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Lynn Kroennung was best man, and the groomsmen were Cicardi Bruce and Merle Boggiano.

A reception was held Tuesday night at the Klinger home for the wedding party, after which Mr. and Mrs. Close departed on a short wedding trip. They will live temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. Klinger.

The engagement of Miss Pearl A. Michel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Pierre A. Michel, 914 Buena Vista avenue, to Albert A. Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Klein, 4558 Wichita avenue, was announced at a bridge luncheon given for the prospective bride by her mother yesterday in the gold room of the Knights of Columbus Club, 3917 Lindell boulevard. The table was decorated in pink roses and lighted by ivory tapers and the announcement was written on the place cards which were afterwards used as tallies. The bride-to-be wore a gown of rose pink flat crepe trimmed in white fur.

Miss Margaret Dayball and Miss Elizabeth O'Keefe, who will be in the bridal party, assisted. Miss Michel was graduated from Visitation College. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Lynch to Wed H. F. Kriegshauser

ANNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Margaret Ann Lynch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lynch, 5360 Bartmer avenue, and Herman F. Kriegshauser, son of Mrs. George Kriegshauser, 7121 Westmoreland place, and the late Mr. Kriegshauser.

The betrothal was announced at a tea given by Mrs. Lynch for her daughter, at which they were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Kriegshauser. The reception rooms were decorated in spring flowers and smilax. The guests called between 4 and 6 o'clock.

The tea table, adorned with a center piece of pink roses and baby's breath, surrounded by silver candelabra filled with pink tapers, was presided over by Miss Imelda Kriegshauser, sister of the prospective bridegroom; Miss Eleanor Lynch, sister of the bride-elect; Miss Mae Pikett, Mrs. T. N. Chase, Miss Laura Bassett and Miss Judith Moerrings.

The announcement was made on ribbons pulled by each guest from the bouquet of a doll bride, standing with a doll bridegroom beneath a trellised arbor covered with smilax and lilies of the valley.

Miss Lynch attended the Sacred Heart Convent and Kriegshauser received his education at St. Louis University, where he was a member of Phi Sigma Eta. The wedding date has not been set.

Third Liberty Ball Held in New York

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.

HIGH spots of the social week were the Liberty Ball at Park Lane, the Yale Junior prom and a further exodus to the South.

The liberty ball, third of the name, was held Thursday under the auspices of the 77th Division Association. It assembled what was left of society after Palm Beach, Europe, Canada, West Indies and California had taken their toll.

The debutantes are doing their best to keep the gaiety going. Under the captaincy of Catherine Averill, chairman of the deb committee for the Liberty Ball a whole company of them turned up in their prettiest dresses. Her assistants at the ball were Mary Delafield, Polly Pope, Comfort Tiffany Parker, Ella Milbank, Theodora Crimmins, Cynthia Dickinson and Carolyn Saltus.

Among debutantes who went up to the Yale Prom, a big event in the first-season-set, were Charlotte Milburn, Gretchen Uppercu, Leta Morris, Alice Tenney and Lois Moran. Miss Tenney's home is in Minneapolis, but she is studying art in New York this winter.

One of the most popular debutantes has gone to Palm Beach. Doris Duke is the house guest of Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean of Washington, D. C., who is occupying the Villa Oheka, which formerly belonged to Otto Kahn. Mrs. McLean has issued invitations for a supper dance for Miss Duke at the Florida Embassy Club.

Cast for St. Louis U. Play.

Many Pre-Lenten Parties in Capital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.

WITH little more than a week before Ash Wednesday and the start of Lent, Washington society is having its last gay whirl.

For the President and Mrs. Hoover there are yet many events in store. They are not only carrying out the set formula of state affairs, but adding to it.

Chief of their entertainments this week was the annual dinner in honor of the Speaker and Mrs. Longworth Thursday night. Next week the Army and Navy reception tops the list. Before the reception the President and Mrs. Hoover will dine with the Attorney-General and Mrs. William Dewitt Mitchell, who have as a house guest Miss Helen Bunn of St. Paul. Miss Bunn has been invited to attend the Women's National Press Club cabaret dinner Monday night, and Mrs. Mitchell will give a luncheon or something of the kind for her.

Princess Margaret Boncompagni, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William F. Draper of Washington and Massachusetts, is in Washington, never having missed a winter here since the annulment of her marriage to Prince Andre Boncompagni some years ago. With Mrs. Walter E. Hope, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Karl Klemm and others she will attend the last of the series of Bachelors' Cotillions Monday night.

Mrs. Hoover finds time to sit for her portrait, carry on her correspondence and activities for the Girl Scouts, attend concerts and many other lesser affairs. Wednesday morning she took with her to a musicalo Mrs. Edward Everett Gan, Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr., who has arrived for a visit; Mrs. John Q. Tilson, Mrs. Wallace H. White Jr., Mrs. Trubee Davison and Mrs. Lewis Strauss of New York.

While the President and Mrs. Hoover were entertaining the Speaker and Mrs. Longworth, the Vice President and his sister, Mrs. Gann, were enjoying a reception at the Congressional Club.

The arrival of the Princess Alexandria Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein and her husband, Capt. Arnold Ruemjnn, late of the German Navy, early in April, is anticipated with great interest. They will again be the guests of Mrs. Francis J. E. Junkin.

Just before leaving Washington for her home in Chicago last week, Mrs. Junkin took a large apartment and it is there she will entertain her guests. Mrs. Junkin will be in Chicago for three weeks and then will go to Palm Beach where the Princess and the captain will be her guests at the Everglades Club. The party will return north by motor, stopping in Charleston, S. C., to see the magnolia gardens.

The Princess is an artist and has arranged for several exhibitions in this country. She is finishing a portrait of the Bishop of Chicago, and is painting a portrait of the Bishop of Washington. The Princess is the daughter of the Duke of Schleswig-Holstein, her mother being the youngest sister of Empress Augusta Victoria of Germany, first wife of Kaiser Wilhelm II.

WOMEN'S EXPOSITION TO HAVE BABY SHOW

Program of Events to Be Held at Coliseum Starting March 5 Is Announced.

A baby show, with prizes for the "perfect baby," and the prettiest one, will be among the new features augmenting the program of the Sixth Annual Women's Exposition to be held for one week beginning March 5 at the Coliseum. The exposition, sponsored by local women's organizations, will include in addition to various programs of entertainment at least 100 commercial exhibits of feminine interest, it was announced today.

The Washburn-Crosby Co. will sponsor a cooking school, with classes each day. With the assistance of the Missouri Ruralist and the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce, the evening program March 5 will open the exposition with hog calling, chicken calling, and cow calling contests, and will conclude with an old-fashioned corn shucking bee in which, according to sponsors of the exposition, several prominent St. Louisans, once farmers, will compete. Music for the evening and a square dance will be furnished by "the old fiddlers of St. Louis County."

Christian Citizenship Pageant.

Women more than 50 years of age will contest for supremacy at a quilting bee sponsored by the Mooseheart Legion during the afternoon of March 6. A pageant, "Festival of Christian Citizenship," will be produced in the evening by the women of 26 Methodist churches. Saturday, March 7, is children's day at the exposition, and a program sponsored by the St. Louis Democratic Clubwomen will be presented.

Saturday night, Masonic bands, drill teams and drum corps will feature a carnival sponsored by the Alhambra Grotto and Auxiliary. Sunday afternoon and evening events will include Negro spirituals by a chorus of 100 picked singers from Negro churches, and a program sponsored by the Joint Council of Women's Auxiliaries of Trade Unions.

Features presented by local women's clubs will be the center of attraction Monday afternoon, and in the evening the Missouri Fraternal Congress will hold a "rally." Tuesday afternoon's entertainment will be provided by groups of school mothers' clubs and parent-teacher associations, and will include a spelling match sponsored by the commercial schools of St. Louis.

Catholic Night March 10.

The evening of March 10 is designated Catholic night. A program of music, drum corps, drill teams and choruses is scheduled, with the entire affair arranged to conclude as a carnival.

The final day of the exposition will include a recreational program sponsored by the Public School Playground Mothers' Circle, and a program of entertainment in the evening. Lectures and demonstrations of interest to women will be held every day.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union and the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, each will conduct a booth for the distribution of propaganda.

Young People's League To Give "The Tinker"

THE Young People's League of Bethel Evangelical Church will present "The Tinker," a modern play by Fred Eastman, based on the spirit of St. Francis of Assisi, in the Wednesday Club Auditorium on Tuesday evening, Feb. 17. Members of the cast are Ethel Provost, Dolores Schaales, Charles Vedder, Cletus Gerdel, Arnold Liles, Earl Klockenbrink and Ruth Cornelius. Olivia Gregory is director.

Readings will be given from Edna St. Vincent Millay and Vachel Lindsay by Ruth Kellerman and Marie Clark. Music will be furnished by Martin Lottman and William Miller.

BAPTIST MISSION SERVICES

At 3 P. M. Today in Building at Hanley Road and Maryland Av.

The first services in the building at Hanley road and Maryland avenue recently purchased by the St. Louis Baptist Mission Board will be held at 3 p. m. today. The building has a main hall with 200 seats, and a number of Sunday school rooms. The Rev. Ryland Knight of Delmar Baptist Church will give the address.

Laymen's League Banquet.

The fourth annual banquet of the Laymen's Retreat League will be held at Hotel Jefferson next Wednesday evening with Archbishop Glennon as guest of honor. Prof. E. A. Fitzpatrick of Marquette University will be the principal speaker.

The four fundamentals of skin care are condensed into a single, 3-minute application.

A Scientific Discovery that Condenses a Complete Professional Facial Into a Single Application, Taking Less Than 3 Minutes, That Combines the 4 Fundamentals in Skin Care Urged by Experts!

NOW comes a remarkable new development in beauty science. A discovery that experts predict may soon change all previous methods in skin care.

A way that condenses the four fundamentals of scientific skin care into a single, three-minute home application! And that provides the exact and same effect of a complete Professional Facial costing $3 or more.

A way that combats blackheads and enlarged pores; often with almost unbelievable results. That banishes premature age lines, and the lines of strain and worry. For each application works directly on each and all of these conditions.

Hence, a way that completely eliminates the need of costly special creams and lotions. Of old-time cleansing creams, of "skin foods" and astringents. Yet—that is as easy to use as an ordinary cleansing cream.

Do you wonder, then, that largely on expert advice tens of thousands of women are adopting this unique creation?

What It Is

It is called Lady Esther Four-Purpose Cream. And it marks the application of totally new principles in skin care as defined by the most recent scientific findings of ablest specialists in the field of beauty culture.

Each application has four distinct actions on the skin.

Cleansing action that cleanses the pores. And thus ends the use of an ordinary cleansing cream.

Tissue stimulating action that invigorates the deep tissues of the skin. And thus that ends the use of a special "skin food."

Astringent action that eradicates worry, strain and premature age lines, refines pores. And thus that makes the use of youth creams and astringents a folly.

Softening action that forms a perfect base for powder. And thus banishes the need of a powder base. Thus the four fundamentals of skin care are condensed into a single, 3-minute application.

Age lines soon go under this daily care. Flabby tissues strengthen and become firm. The skin is kept clean—for the astringent action of this cream closes the pores after they've been cleaned. And thus closes them against accumulations that foster imperfections.

It is sold under the name of Lady Esther at all drug and department stores at 50 cents and $1.25 a jar. The $1.25 size contains four times the amount in the 50 cent size.

SOME COMMON SENSE ABOUT flu

This is the time of the year when flu, colds, and pneumonia are on the spread. And health authorities are urging all precautions.

Just what causes flu is not yet scientifically known. But a weakened, run-down condition may lessen our chances of escaping flu—just as it lessens our chances of escaping other winter ailments. So it's wise to keep our vitality and resistance high during these critical months. Avoid worry and exposure. Eat wholesome food. Get plenty of rest, fresh air and exercise. And start at once to take a good, fortifying tonic.

Doctors advise Scott's Emulsion

Scott's Emulsion is recommended by doctors because it brings the remarkable health-building and disease-resisting vitamins of cod-liver oil—in the pleasantest, quickest way. Scott's Emulsion is emulsified. So it's free from that strong "fishy" taste. It's easier to take—easier to digest—and it's more quickly absorbed into the blood stream.

As a result, Scott's Emulsion benefits you almost immediately. It promptly strengthens and revitalizes weakened systems. It improves your weight and appetite. It increases your resistance against the dread attacks of pesky colds and other winter diseases.

Try Scott's Emulsion for pale, thin children, too.

Made of purest, Norwegian cod-liver oil, Scott's Emulsion is rich in vitamin A, the growth-promoting vitamin that helps guard against disease. It is rich in vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that prevents rickets. It also contains vital mineral elements that aid in forming sound bones and teeth. This gives Scott's Emulsion a special advantage for growing children, infants, nursing and expectant mothers.

Try Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil confidently. Doctors urge it. Millions have taken it. It tastes good! Children as well as grown-ups take it willingly. And it does good! Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day!

Simple Home Mixture Darkens Gray Hair

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes.

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

Missouri Boy Amazes Mother

"Leslie's stomach was often upset and he suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. L. E. Vogt, 4119 N. Florissant Ave., St. Louis. "He was feverish and his breath was unpleasant. We found he was constipated.

"My mother used California Fig Syrup with us, so I decided to give Leslie some. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his feverishness, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a happy, strong and energetic boy again."

Millions of mothers know the quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor. It acts without griping or discomfort, increases appetite; helps tone and strengthen weak stomach and bowels.

For 50 years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product for constipation; to open the bowels during colds or children's diseases.

AREN'T WASHING MACHINES MARVELOUS! THEY SAVE SO MUCH TIME
YES. THIS ONE'S GREAT. BUT I DO WISH I KNEW HOW TO KEEP MY CLOTHES FROM GETTING THAT GRAYISH LOOK I'LL TELL YOU HOW. USE RINSO. IT MAKES MY CLOTHES AS WHITE AS SNOW. SUCH SUDS, TOO!
THAT'S RIGHT... I MEANT TO TRY RINSO! THE MAN WHO SOLD ME THIS WASHER TOLD ME ABOUT IT
NEXT WASHDAY
MOTHER, I'M OVERJOYED! SEE HOW WHITE MY WASH IS. I'M USING THAT WONDERFUL SOAP—RINSO
I JUST BOUGHT A BOX OF RINSO MYSELF. MY GROCER TOLD ME IT'S GREAT FOR DISHES, TOO AND

"It's so safe, too!" says Mrs. F. Albrecht, 1207 Sidney St.

"The man who sold me my washer said, 'Use Rinso. It gets clothes much cleaner than ordinary soaps.' It's the sudsiest soap I ever used in our hard water, and so safe, too! No more softeners for me! How those quick, lasting Rinso suds loosen dirt! I tried Rinso for dishwashing, and for general cleaning, too and it's great!"

MRS. F. ALBRECHT,
1207 Sidney St., St. Louis, Mo.

All you need—in hardest water

Rinso is recommended by the makers of 40 famous washers. All you need, even in hardest water—no bar soaps, chips, powders, softeners. Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Marvelous for tub washing, too. Soaks out dirt—saves scrubbing, boiling. Get the BIG package. You'll like Rinso for dishes, too.

In itself, such a declaration cannot effect any material economic development, but the economic life of the world can nevertheless now turn with a certain feeling of security to the task of solving its complex and extremely difficult problems, unhampered by the imminent specter of armed conflict.

Unwarlike Germany.

Let us consider the basis and weight of the declaration in question. No living person who can claim serious consideration for his views will assert of Germany that the possibility of any warlike action exists on her part. With almost 5,000,000 unemployed, in a time of the gravest financial and economic depression, with an army of 100,000 facing opponents armed to the teeth, it would be absolute madness to succumb to any sudden temptation to make war. Even if there were a sufficient number of able-bodied men available, where could one find weapons for successful attack?

No matter how much bravery the National Socialists may display vocally, words cannot furnish a substitute for arsenals and batteries. If France did not suffer from such terribly unfounded delusions, there would be nothing in the way of sincere co-operation between these two countries which nature has made so dependent on each other. One cannot comprehend the deductions which France has drawn from the statement made by the prelate, Monsignor Kaas, chairman of the Center party.

He said: "If the mad actions and lack of understanding on the part of the German Samson's oppressors should drive him to desperation, the time might come when the Samson tragedy would be re-enacted politically, and the guardians of the status quo would be buried under the splintering beams of their own house." Who can deny the truth of this sentence? "The physical and psychical ability of any people to bear burdens has its limits," said Monsignor Kaas. One thing cannot be doubted: If the German people be driven to desperation by the mad obstinacy of their creditors, what follows will be not the victory of the National Socialists, but the triumph of Bolshevism, which is beginning to make its evil influence felt everywhere, in India as well as in America. The overwhelming majority of the German people want peace. President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Bruening are sturdy guarantors of that.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.

AT last the League of Nations has done something! There has been made at least a hope-inspiring gesture, testifying to the activity of the states united in the league! On the evening of Jan. 21 the Foreign Ministers of France, England, Germany and Italy jointly presented a declaration which, on the motion of Aristide Briand, the presiding officer of the commission named to consider the Pan-European question, was unanimously adopted.

With due solemnity the Foreign Ministers named emphasized that they were acting as responsible representatives of their countries and at the same time declared they wished to announce officially that they were more determined than ever before to make use of the machinery of the League of Nations to prevent any future resort to force.

Although in view of the many unfortunately futile similar pronouncements in world history, the importance of such declarations should not be overestimated, it is nevertheless true that precisely at this time of economic crisis throughout the world such a four-square stand on the part of the leading countries of Europe will have the greatest influence for good in current political and economic developments. In itself, such a declaration cannot effect any material economic development, but the economic life of the world can nevertheless now turn with a certain feeling of security to the task of solving its complex and extremely difficult problems, unhampered by the imminent specter of armed conflict.

He said: "If the mad actions and lack of understanding on the part of the German Samson's oppressors should drive him to desperation, the time might come when the Samson tragedy would be re-enacted politically, and the guardians of the status quo would be buried under the splintering beams of their own house." The overwhelming majority of the German people want peace. President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Bruening are sturdy guarantors of that.

France Is Saturated.

England's relations to France cooled off markedly in the last months of the past year. France's gold holdings have restored their former warmth. Indeed, France is saturated in more than one respect. Her eastern borders are acknowledged by Germany, large reparation sums flow in punctually, the holdings of gold of the French Bank of Issue have increased in the single year 1930 from 11 to over 53,000,000,000 francs, which is four times the amount of gold holdings of the German Reichsbank.

Unemployment in France is hardly noticeable. Even English gold helped to swell the stream of her hoardings in a menacing manner. Proud England is also experiencing such unemployment as she never saw before. France readily acceded to England's wishes for economic aid, on the basis of the negotiations carried on in Paris at the beginning of January. Thus France somewhat lightened what she had already come to regard as a burdening surplus of gold and at the same time strengthened the friendship with England, who, she felt, had entered into somewhat too intimate relations with the United States.

Gold won a victory, in a manner of speaking, over Anglo-Saxon ties of blood. At the same time England's voice, which had been heard raised too favorably on the subject of revision of the Young Plan and the Treaty of Versailles, was stilled.

France and Italy.

France's relations with Italy remain to be considered. In May, 1930, Mussolini delivered a splendidly resonant war speech. France responded with a marked increase in her armaments. Briand uttered the significant words that France "was conscious not only of having the right on her side but also of having at her disposal the means of securing justice, if that should become necessary."

Although dark storm clouds may have shown themselves for a time on the political heavens of Europe, they disappeared by the end of 1930. It is true that Mussolini initiated negotiations with Turkey and even Russia, and carried them through to a certain extent. But cooling floods soon descended on these lit fires of warlike preparations.

In Jugo-Slavia certain organizations which before the war were directed against Austria are now directed against Italy. The notorious Obrana is again making its sinister power felt; in the border province of Venezia-Giulia the Irredentists' idea is being nourished in a menacing manner. In addition to all this is the economic depression, which is also making itself felt in Italy to a very considerable degree.

Quite characteristic, in this connection, is the message which Mussolini sent to America on New Year's day. After the flattering admission that "without the help of the United States, which was inspired above all by idealistic reasons, the great war could not have been won," there came the very materialistic conclusion that "without the action of the United States we cannot emerge from this period of post-war depression and get back again to times of prosperity."

An Economic Conference.

It is understandable that the following passionate declaration by Mussolini was sincerely meant: "I fought in the late war as a private soldier; I know what war is. Neither I nor my Government nor my people want to bring about another war." The greatest force was added to this declaration by the new rapprochement between France and England, already mentioned. The failure to renew the treaty of friendship between Italy and France, on the other hand, is hardly important. The incidence of political necessity is often stronger than the power of political treaties.

In view of all that has been said above, one fact is established: The declaration of peace of four foreign ministers must be taken as most seriously meant and as supported by the strongest reasons. Now the League of Nations must solve one more difficult problem, which is the economic crisis paralyzing the industrial motors of the world. To this end there must be above all a conference of the countries chiefly involved. It need not be a conference of the scope of the disarmament conference, a date for which has finally been set; also it need not be postponed so long. The distress of all peoples is great, monstrously great. Now, if ever, danger is at the very threshold.

Tax on Payrolls, to Create Fund For Unemployed, Urged on Missouri And Other State Legislatures

Modest Weekly Payments Planned for Those Honestly Idle, and Not Highly Paid When Working—Comparison With English System, Where Workers Themselves Contribute About One-Third of What Is Collected.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 7.

UNEMPLOYMENT insurance, like that of European countries, for American industry, is being offered to the Legislatures now in session in most of the states.

Back of the proposals is the 20 years' experience of England and the less matured systems of continental nations, in dealing with the problem. Back of them, too, is the idea, often heard in current discussions, that labor should be protected against periods of depression in the same way that capital is protected, and that reserve funds should provide for wages as well as for dividends.

The Missouri State Senate's committee on Labor, Commerce, Manufactories, Mines and Mining now has the measure submitted to it, as to legislative bodies in other states, by the American Association for Labor Legislation. Missouri employers will have an opportunity, at a hearing next Thursday night, to express their views on the pending bill. It would require industrial concerns to contribute to a State reserve fund, for payment of benefits to those out of work.

No representative of the employers, so far as could be learned, was in the small group which attended the hearing held two evenings ago upon the measure. The committee heard advocates of the bill, St. Louis clubwomen, a university instructor and a labor leader. The chairman, Senator Albert M. Clark of Richmond, then decided that the employers should have a further chance to be heard, and he fixed the time for the second hearing.

Employers to Contribute.

Other members of the committee are Senator Michael Kinney of St. Louis, who introduced the bill by request; Senators Carter M. Buford of Ellington, J. H. Gunn of Otterville, Derwood E. Williams of Troy, W. F. Depelheuer of St. Louis and P. S. Terry of Festus.

The proposed State law, which its backers expect to see amended in some ways before final action in the Senate, provides that an employe shall be entitled to benefits for unemployment not less than two weeks after notification of such unemployment. An employe shall receive benefits only if he has been employed in the State for not less than 26 weeks in the two preceding calendar years. One employed for other than manual labor at $1500 a year or more is not eligible.

To receive benefits, it is further provided, the applicant must show that he is "capable of and available for employment, and unable to obtain his usual employment or another for which he is reasonably fitted." He shall not be required to accept employment in a vacancy due to stoppage of work in a trade dispute, or where wages, hours and conditions are below the standard prevailing for similar work.

An employe, it is provided, shall not be entitled to benefits if he was discharged for misconduct, if he has quit voluntarily without reasonable cause, or if he left or lost his position because of a trade dispute, so long as the dispute continues.

Modest Weekly Benefits.

The rate of benefits is fixed at not more than 60 per cent of weekly wages, or not more than $10 a week to an adult, or $5 to a person under 18. Benefits shall be paid for not more than 13 weeks in one calendar year, and not for more than one-fourth of the time for which the person was employed in the two preceding calendar years.

The proposed law creates a State Unemployment Reserve Fund, to which employers shall be required to contribute 1½ per cent of the total sums paid by them as wages to employes. Record and audit of payrolls, for the purpose of determining the amounts for which employers are liable, are provided for. "In the event of bankruptcy or insolvency of an employer, the amount due for contribution shall be a preferred asset second only to wages."

The fund is proposed to be administered by the State Labor Commissioner, who would appoint an Employment Stabilization Board for each classified industry or group of industries. Each board shall have not less than five members, at least three to be employers. These boards would have power to fix periodically the amounts of benefits payable from the fund in its particular industry. These benefits should be as near to the amounts previously stated as can be paid, consistently with keeping the fund solvent. An employe shall receive benefits from the particular fund to which his last employer contributed.

Employes, the bill provides, may make voluntary arrangements to contribute to the fund, in order to provide additional benefits; but no agreement of an employe to pay any portion of the employer's payment to the fund shall be valid, and no such contribution shall be deducted from an employe's salary.

Really Not a Dole.

Advocates of the measure heard by the Senate committee last Thursday night were Mrs. Walston Chubb of Webster Groves, representing the American Association for Labor Legislation; Mrs. E. M. Grossman and Mrs. George Gellhorn of St. Louis; R. C. Fletcher, instructor in economics in Washington University, and R. T. Wood of Springfield, president of the State Federation of Labor. Senator Kinney, who sponsored the bill, was kept from the hearing by illness.

England's system of unemployment insurance was mentioned, and "indiscriminate use of the term 'dole'" was condemned by the speakers. In this connection, Robert S. Field of Philadelphia, a leader in the work of the Association for Labor Legislation, said recently:

"Interests opposed to this plan point to British experience with the 'dole' as a horrible example. The two plans have important differences, but aside from that fact, very few realize that six-sevenths of the persons drawing unemployment benefits in Great Britain are receiving protection for which they have helped to pay on an actuarial basis; only one-seventh are really getting a 'dole.'"

The English Plan.

Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor for Great Britain, in a recent detailed statement describing the British system, said:

"The unemployment insurance scheme is administered by the Minister of Labor through the national system of employment exchanges. The country is divided into areas, for each of which either an employment exchange or a branch employment office is provided.

"The contributions from employers and employed are paid by means of unemployment insurance stamps purchased by the employer from the postoffice and affixed by him, week by week, to unemployment books issued to his work people. Benefit is paid weekly to insured persons who furnish evidence of unemployment. The Minister has power to arrange for payments through trade unions to their members when unemployed.

"When a man loses his employment he attends the Exchange to register for fresh employment and to claim benefit. In every case his last employer is asked to give the reasons why employment terminated, and the claimant is given an opportunity of commenting upon the employer's statement if the reply indicates that benefit should not be allowed. Before benefit can be paid, the man must show that he has paid the minimum number of contributions and that he is capable of work, available for work, and is unemployed within the meaning of the act. He must also show that he is free from disqualification.

"No person can get benefit if he has left his last employment voluntarily, or has lost it through his own conduct or because of a trade dispute. The decision whether or not the claimant is qualified for benefit is given by independent authorities appointed by the Minister for this purpose. Their decisions are not subject to review by the Minister or the Department. There is a right of appeal in certain cases to a central umpire whose decision is final. So long as the claimant is unemployed and in receipt of benefit he must attend the Exchange regularly, usually once a day or, in districts where unemployment is severe, every other day. By this means he keeps in touch with the Exchange and there is a check on the continued fulfillment of the conditions.

Must Be Qualified.

"It has often been said that persons are in receipt of benefit who are not entitled to it. These allegations have been examined from time to time by independent authorities and on every occasion it has been found that they had no foundation.

"Unemployment insurance is gradually losing the provisional character that marked its earlier stages, and is being placed on an increasingly scientific and permanent basis. At present the question of the administrative and financial organization of unemployment insurance is one of the most important problems of social policy.

"One of the great advantages of 20 years' experience of unemployment insurance is that we know more about our unemployed than any other country. In order to get benefit, a man must register himself at an exchange where he gives full particulars of his industrial history, his age, qualifications and the reasons for losing his employment. This gives us a very sensitive register of the unemployed. It is in some ways a disadvantage. You all know the weekly dose of depression which appears in the English press. We are the only country in the world to advertise the fact. America gives no such return, and there is no accurate measure of the amount of unemployment. The result of our publication of a weekly figure is that people, both at home and abroad, think this country has a standing army of a million and a half unemployed. This of course is quite untrue.

Groups of Unemployed.

"Of the unemployed 90,000 are boys and girls, many of whom have left school and are awaiting the opportunity of entering industry. About a quarter of the total are women. Nearly 100,000 of the total are persons in casual employment, who are not at work when the count is taken, but who are at work on other days of the week. Another half million are persons who are temporarily stopped owing to short time, bad weather, breakdown of machinery and other causes; they are claiming benefit because they have insured themselves against that risk. No person can get benefit unless he is unemployed for three days out of six.

"Many people register as unemployed, on a day when they are involuntarily idle, as a precautionary measure; they may find they have to claim benefit if they are unemployed so long. If you look at the industrial distribution you find that the export trades are responsible for two-thirds of the total number of unemployed. Nearly one-third of the total number of women unemployed are in the cotton trade of Lancashire, which is going through a period of severe depression and reorganization.

"This extreme 'patchiness' in the incidence of unemployment has not been caused by the shortcomings and defects, physical, mental or moral, of individual men and women. The workers in the least fortunate export industries have been no more lacking in the social virtues than the workers in the trades that have suffered scarcely at all. The workers in shipbuilding have had as many as 45 per cent of all their number registered as unemployed, and the percentage has seldom fallen below 20. During the last four years they were joined in this melancholy pre-eminence by coal miners and, more recently, by cotton trade workers.

Length of Idleness.

"If we analyzed the alarming total on any day, we should find that more than half had been employed less than a month, three-quarters less than three months, and even of the remaining quarter, consisting of the poorest, least efficient and least trustworthy type, including the inevitable mixture of shirkers, only a small proportion had not found work within six months. This effectively disposes of the idea that there is a standing army of unemployed. It still leaves us with a very difficult problem.

"A good deal of the criticism of unemployment insurance, and the quite erroneous idea that it is a dole, have been due to confusion between unemployment insurance and poor law. Outdoor relief or poor law relief is administered by bodies appointed by the county councils. It is essentially a local government and not a national government responsibility.

"It is the duty of these authorities (known as public assistance committees) to relieve destitution. That is to say, their payments are discriminating and discretionary. They are based on need, whereas the rates of unemployment benefit are fixed by act of Parliament for each class, and are paid not according to need but in return for premiums paid to cover the risk of unemployment.

"Under a strict contributory insurance scheme a man who is qualified for benefit has not been unemployed long enough to feel the demoralizing effects of idleness. It is not generally realized that over 60 per cent of the persons registered as unemployed at any time have been unemployed for less than a month. There is a constant change in the personnel of the unemployed, and there is no stigma attached to the receipt of unemployment benefit during periods of temporary unemployment.

Better Than Savings.

"An unemployed workman who has paid 15 shillings ($3.75) by way of contributions in two years is able to draw benefit at the rate of 17 shillings ($4.25) a week if single, and 26 shillings ($6.50) if he is married, with an allowance of two shillings (50 cents) for each child. This provision would be quite beyond the power of the individual workman to make by thrift.

"It is probable that in the present time of economic difficulties this arrangement best meets our needs. Any system of insurance by industry would probably have failed to withstand the heavy unemployment in the last few years in the export industries."

Who Pays the Bill?

By MARGARET BONDFIELD

MISS MARGARET BONDFIELD.
Minister of Labor for Great Britain

THIS question of the payment of benefit to large numbers of unemployed workpeople leads to another question, namely, who pays the bill? There is a good deal of competition for the credit—or as it is usually regarded—the discredit of meeting the cost of involuntary unemployment. It is like the song "Who Killed Cock Robin?" All claim some share in the funeral.

The middle class taxpayer grumbles and the industrialist talks vaguely of the burden on industry. Under the present system the cost of unemployment benefit is paid practically in equal thirds by the worker, the employer and the state. As regards the first two partners in this tripartite arrangement the cost is distributed evenly per capita of the insured population in employment. Probably about one-third of the insured population of 12,000,000 persons never claim benefit at all in their industrial lives, though, of course, it cannot be foretold which individuals will escape the risk of unemployment. The fact remains that it is the persons in employment and their employers, assisted, of course, by the state, who pay for the persons out of work. The cost is easily borne when it is spread over 11,000,000 workers in employment, their employers and the state.

Futility of State Regulation Of Public Utilities Is Shown By Union Electric Rate Case

Two Years Likely to Elapse Before Commission Will Have Reached a Decision; Appeal to Courts Will Further Prolong the Delay; All of the Heavy Costs Borne by the Consumers.

By Sam J. Shelton,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 6.

Experience has, I think, demonstrated that public regulation through State Commissions is, in most states, unsatisfactory to the point of being a failure. . . . Even when there is well-intentioned regulation, it is cumbersome and inefficient. . . . You cannot successfully conduct a business enterprise through a succession of judicial orders and decrees.—SAMUEL UNTERMYER.

THE foregoing statement by the noted lawyer who represents the City of New York in transit cases, was made in an authorized interview published in the Post-Dispatch Sept. 1, 1929, in which Untermyer advised the City of St. Louis to grant no more franchises to public utilities.

A striking example of the clumsy and costly processes of State regulation is found in the Union Electric Light & Power Co. case in which the Public Service Commission of Missouri has been conducting hearings in Jefferson City for four weeks.

Already this case has demonstrated the slow and inefficient methods hampering the action of an admittedly well intentioned State Commission; before it is finished, the consumers of electricity in St. Louis will realize the virtual futility of this elaborate proceeding. They will find, among other things, that the major part of the cost, likely to run to $200,000 or more, will be collected from them in the rates they pay for electric service.

Sham Battle Over Rates.

This is, in fact, a sham battle over rates. On one side is the largest public utility corporation in the State, one of the biggest in the Middle West, a subsidiary of the powerful North American Co. On the other side is the largest city in the State, represented by its law department, struggling against odds to attain the doubtful advantage of a rate reduction order.

A brief review of the case, with a finger pointed to the probable outcome, will show why Samuel Untermyer made the statement quoted at the beginning of this article.

Early in 1928 the Post-Dispatch showed by the company's annual statement that Union Electric was earning a return in excess of 8 per cent on the value of its property as carried on its books. The State Public Service Commission and the courts have held that a reasonable return is between 7 and 8 per cent—never exceeding the latter figure—on the fair present value of property used in the public service.

Thereupon the Public Service Commission held informal conferences with executives of the company, as a result of which the company reduced its rates to industrial customers about $700,000 a year. The household rate was not changed. City Counselor Muench asserted residential consumers were entitled to a reduction and filed a petition asking the Public Service Commission to make an audit of the company's property and revenue accounts for the purpose of determining the fairness of rates.

Audit Required Two Years.

The company had not been valued for rate-making purposes by the commission since 1915 when $26,000,000 had been fixed as a fair rate base. Its books showed it had more than doubled its investment in the intervening 13 years during which it had operated practically without regulation.

In response to the city's petition the commission ordered an audit to determine, first, the net additions to the property account up to June 30, 1929, and, second, the operating revenues, expenses and net earnings for the year ending June 30, 1929.

This audit required more than two years and was completed last September. The cost was $36,109.71, which was collected by the commission from the company and was charged by the company to the consumers as an operating expense.

In the audit the commission accountants did not undertake to calculate the rate of return earned by the company, but in a supplemental estimate giving the property a value obtained by averaging the original cost and the cost of reproduction, including land at present value, Harold W. Ross, chief accountant, arrived at the following rates of return: For the Missouri business, 1929, 10.34 per cent; 1930, 10.46 per cent; for St. Louis alone, 1929, 10.61 per cent; 1930, 11 per cent.

Projecting his estimates into the future, Ross calculated the returns would be: State, 1931, 7.42 per cent; 1932, 6.84 per cent; 1933, 7.34 per cent; city, 1931, 7.81 per cent; 1932, 6.73 per cent; 1933, 7.11 per cent. The lower estimates for years beginning with 1931 were due to the fact that before the end of this year the company will put into service its hydro-electric plant on the Osage River with an added investment of some $33,000,000, but will not immediately receive commensurate additional revenue.

Tedious Examinations.

Upon the filing of the audit with the commission, the company sought to have the proceding dismissed on the ground that the audit was not competent evidence of value; that present fair value for rate-making could be determined only after a complete physical appraisal by engineers, and that even the 1915 valuation used as a starting point was not based on an appraisal.

The City countered with a claim for a greater reduction than was first sought; $1,000,000 could be saved to the consumers, it said, without reducing the company's return below the reasonable level.

The hearing now in progress is before the commission, with Chairman Milton R. Stahl and Commissioners John H. Porter and S. M. Hutchison sitting, to determine whether the evidence is sufficient for a valuation and whether earnings on that valuation would justify a rate reduction. Both sides have many expert witnesses, and lawyers indulge in long and tedious direct and cross examinations.

It has been in progress four weeks. The most optimistic estimates are that as much longer will be required to finish it, using four days a week. Louis H. Egan, president of Union Electric, estimated the minimum cost to the company at $5000 a day, all of which becomes an operating expense and is paid in the end by the consumers of electricity, not by the stockholders of the company. In addition, a considerable commission expense payable out of State general revenue will be incurred and the City's law department will spend several thousand dollars.

Cost May Reach $196,000.

The greater part of the cost, however, will be chargeable to the company and will be borne by the consumers. If the hearing requires 32 days at the minimum of $5000 a day the amount will be $160,000 to which should be added $36,000, cost of the audit, making a total of $196,000. The company's two chief executive officers, President Egan and Vice President Frank Boehm, have been in constant attendance. It has constantly at hand several other executives and expert witnesses, and is using many employes to prepare and assemble evidence.

The history of such cases indicates quite clearly the course this one is likely to take. After all the evidence is in, several weeks will be required for briefs of counsel and an examination of the voluminous record by the commission. Hence it is unlikely that an order will be issued by the commission earlier than midsummer. It then will be two years past June 30, 1929, the date as of which the valuation would be effective, if one is determined. Any rate order, therefore, would be more than two years behind the valuation and in the meantime the company would have added millions of dollars of new operating property.

If a rate reduction is ordered, it may be assumed the company will appeal to the Federal courts on the ground that the rates would be confiscatory. It could assert that the valuation determined by the commission was not properly arrived at; that present fair value could not be ascertained without actual inspection, inventory and appraisal by trained engineers;

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Swedish View of German Finances.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AS to Germany's financial plight, allow me to present some facts as they have been brought out by the Swedish press after an exhaustive study of financial conditions in Germany as compared with other European countries, principally France and England. From this investigation one can see at a glance that Germany, although vanquished during the war, carries a burden much lighter than France or England.

The pre-war debt of Germany has been almost completely effaced by the inflation and fall of the old mark. Germany has been able to rise again by the aid of approximately 20,000,000,000 marks that her politicians have succeeded in negotiating in foreign markets since the war. If one adds to this the obligations accepted by the Reich by virtue of the Young plan, one arrives at the grand total of 55,000,000,000 marks which, multiplied by the value of the mark (6.08), gives approximately 334,500,000,000 francs. At the same time the French public debt attains the sum of 505,000,000,000 francs, which goes to show that every Frenchman (keeping count of the difference in population) carries more than twice the burden the corresponding German citizen would carry. In the case of England, this calculation would carry still farther because the British debt at this hour is much above that of France. Therefore, the German burden is considerably lighter than that which weighs down her creditors.

Why, then, has not Germany succeeded in balancing her budget? Here again the Swedish press furnishes the answer. The cost of running the German Government is very dear; she has since 1913 tripled her administrative expenses, although her territory has been considerably reduced. She has multiplied the functionaries of government, and their maintenance is excessive compared with salaries paid by private enterprises. In short, the difficulties in which the Bruening Cabinet finds itself are due to an imprudent gesture and inconsiderate expenses, and not at all to the reparations, whose grand total is easily conciliable with the equilibrium of a normally established budget.

To sum it all up, the total German aunuities and interest do not exceed 6,100,000,000 francs, while France pays a total of 22,000,000,000 per year. The approximate 12,000,000,000 annuity of the Young plan does not make up the great difference. It is well to keep these figures in mind when one hears Germany complaining and pretending that it is out of the question to live up to her engagements. DR. GEORGE J. HOBBS.

A Ritchie Admirer.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

CONCERNING your editorial, also recent letter, about Gov. Ritchie of Maryland: Out here on the edge of civilization, where the backward states begin, people like Ritchie. The prohibition inquisition did not faze him. He denounced prohibition when it was not considered nice or politically safe. He is a Jeffersonian Democrat par excellence. Lots of us would like to see him President. The fact that no prominent Republican runs against him for Governor merely indicates good judgment.

More La Follettes Needed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

GOV. PHILIP F. LA FOLLETTE is starting out right. He is already after the Power Trust in Wisconsin. He evidently feels that the "falling waters are the gift of nature and belong to all the people," and that they should not be used to oppress the people of Wisconsin. He believes in action and is advocating a system of putting the unemployed to work. He is not afraid to tell where he stands on any public question.

He wouldn't be a La Follette if he didn't believe in correcting evils, abolishing abuses and inaugurating reforms.

Watch Philip La Follette, Governor of a great state at the age of 33. Few men ever held the standard of responsibility higher than he. No monopoly has a mortgage on his brain or a deed of trust on his views.

The people of Wisconsin love the La Follettes because they have done so many good things for their State and the nation. What we need are more La Follettes.

Arkansas' New Name for Rabbits.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

KNOWING your predilection for facts, the glaringly erroneous and libelous statement of your special correspondent at Marked Tree, Ark., that "rabbits constitute a large part of the meat diet of the drouth sufferers," is duly resented by me.

This is written politely to inform you that such animals as rabbits no longer roam the hills and dales of this State. In order to give fitting dignity to the importance of this animal of late, by common consent rabbits have been reclassified as Hoover hogs. Do we hear any objection?

WILLIAM P. GRAY.

Batesville, Ark.

THE WASHINGTON TRUCE.

Mr. Hoover and the Senate have reached agreement in the matter of further Federal drouth relief upon the basis of a $20,000,000 appropriation for agricultural rehabilitation.

This leaves food relief to the Red Cross and assigns to the Government the task of alleviating the causes of distress. The Government has already appropriated $45,000,000 for seed and fertilizer loans. This $45,000,000 is now to be made available as well for feeding farm animals, and the added $20,000,000 is to be advanced as loans for agricultural credits under the supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The drouth, as the Post-Dispatch has pointed out, is only a contributing factor to the acute distress in Arkansas and Southeast Missouri. A much greater factor has been the destruction of credit by the failure of the cotton planters profitably to market their crop. To feed those who are hungry is to deal only with consequences. This is what the Red Cross is undertaking to do. In the agreement reached at Washington the Federal Government would strike at the cause itself. If the planters had credit, they could tide their labor over the winter. That is what they commonly do. The Arkansas Legislature realizes that this is the way out of the difficulty. It has therefore appropriated $1,500,000 for agricultural credits. This is in our opinion what Missouri also should do with the proposed $250,000 for drouth relief. It is a constructive policy, except for which the Red Cross might go on indefinitely feeding the hungry.

The acrimonies developed by the controversy in Washington should be forgotten. There was great sincerity upon both sides. But in a sense the President and the Senate were not talking about the same thing. The situation would not have occurred had the Red Cross told one story. What it did do was to tell the country in effect that the people were starving, and at the same time tell Mr. Hoover in fact that nobody was starving. As a matter of fact, except for the Red Cross a great many people would be starving. It has already spent more than $1,000,000 in Arkansas alone. It was an error of judgment for the Red Cross to announce that if Congress appropriated $25,000,000 for food the organization would not distribute it. That belligerency opened a gulf between the Red Cross and White House on one side and the Senate on the other, and it was across this gulf that most of the firing was done in the bitterest conflict of the kind since the days of President Andrew Johnson. Had the Red Cross told the country at that time what it told Mr. Hoover—that is, that it was able to afford all the food relief necessary—there would have been no quarrel. Not to have done so was a tactical error through which the Red Cross is as much to blame for what happened as are any of the members of the Senate. It can easily retrieve its prestige by making good its assurance that it can meet the food situation. No prejudice will attach to it if it finds a further appeal for money necessary to make that assurance good.

It goes without saying that if the relief projected by Congress proves inadequate, there will be more forthcoming. The protest that a Federal appropriation for feeding the hungry would be a dole was pure nonsense; nor is there any sound precedent, as Mr. Hoover contended, against the Government feeding the hungry if necessary. It would default as a government if it refused to do so. It was unwise for Congress to put urban and rural destitution in the same category. Like some other proposals during the debate, this was only a political trick. Urban communities in the United States, including Mr. La Guardia's city of New York, are abundantly able to take care of their own needy. It is not necessary for the Federal Government to feed their hungry. It was unworthy of Congress not to distinguish between the two things. Rural destitution which cannot be alleviated by such an agency as the Red Cross is the problem of the Federal Government and the states. It is gratifying to know that the Federal Government and the states have at last recognized this. It was important that they should do so, and from this time forth it ought to be possible for the country intelligently to deal with a very grave problem.

TARRING AND FEATHERING PUBLIC STATUES.

Another statue has been tarred and feathered in London, where they seem to take public sculpture much more passionately than in this country. It is the second time that Derwent Wood's female nude on the Chelsea embankment has been tarred and feathered. And the work of Jacob Epstein, the American sculptor, in London, has frequently suffered from this form of atrocity. Shortly after Epstein's "Rima" was tarred and feathered, the little statue of Peter Pan in Kensington Garden was similarly outraged, and it was popularly believed that devoted followers of Epstein had taken this revenge on a conventional sculptor's work. The same thing has happened in Stockholm, Sweden, to the vigorous work of Carl Milles. Here in St. Louis, we seem to recall, controversy raged for a while over the statue of Gen. Lyon. But the little General on the little horse has never been molested. The truth probably is that almost no one sees it any more. The stream of motor cars flashes by with never a glance. We are in too much of a hurry to take our sculpture with impassioned seriousness.

A THREAT FOR BUSINESS COMPETITION.

Another Federal venture in price fixing and another extension of Federal supervision—these are two valid objections to the Capper-Kelly bill, recently passed by the House, providing for fixing retail prices on trademarked merchandise. There is little prospect that the Senate will vote on the bill before adjournment March 4, and the measure as it left the House was so loaded down with amendments as virtually to nullify it. Nevertheless, there has been a steady fight to pass the bill, and its dangers should be recognized.

Both consumer and dealer benefit by the fact that the basis of retail business is competition. The consumer buys where quality and price appear best, and the retailer extends his business through enterprise in preparing attractive offers. With a fixed price, individual initiative in business would be greatly handicapped. The bill allows for exceptions in closing out lines, in selling damaged merchandise, in end-of-season sales and in receivers' sales. The difficulties of enforcing its provisions are obvious, and even a large force of Federal store-snoopers could not keep up with the evasions.

Though directed at chain store price cutting, the law would also handicap individual merchants, nearly all of whom on occasion offer "leaders" to attract business. The measure overlooks the basic fact that a fair commodity price is governed more by the merchant's overhead and business conditions in his district than by the manufacturer's idea of what his product should sell for. Government interference in competitive enterprise such as this bill contemplates is not in the best interests of the people or of mercantile business.

END OF A PAINFUL EPISODE.

So Mr. Hoover has at last agreed to dedicate the Harding memorial and we can all quit blushing over this painful affair. The cornerstone was laid on May 30, 1926, by Gen. Dawes, and the date for the dedication was announced as July 4, 1927. Mr. Coolidge, however, did not make arrangements to pay homage to the dead President. Resolutely he stared in another direction. When the year 1928 rolled along and the troublesome subject again arose, Republican party leaders, with what seems to us a severe seizure of tact, decided that it would be unwise to dedicate the tomb because of "political reasons." Mr. Coolidge, still looking out the window, is said to have heartily agreed. Meantime, the Harding Memorial Association and the late President's friends in Marion were getting madder and madder and redder and redder. Would Mr. Hoover do something about it?

Mr. Hoover was sounded out in April, 1929, shortly after he entered the White House. The committee got a reply from George Akerson, the President's secretary, whose contents have never been disclosed. Some members of the committee said the letter attempted to sidestep the issue and contained the suggestion that the dedication might occur without Mr. Hoover's presence. The months passed. More tempers cracked under the strain, more cheeks became encrimsoned. Either a President or an ex-President must do the job, that was agreed. Again the committee turned to Mr. Harding's immediate successor and his response ranks among the masterpieces of noncommittal correspondence. After receiving a letter from Hoke Donithen urging Mr. Coolidge to say what should be done about the dedication, the cautious Vermonter replied:

> My dear Mr. Donithen: I was very much pleased to get a letter from you which indicates you are in your usual good health!!! (Exclamation points ours.) I should be glad to talk with you the next time I see you concerning the interesting suggestion which you have made. I was much pleased to know the memorial had been so successfully finished.

In April, 1930, it was indicated at the White House that Mr. Hoover would dedicate the memorial "if and when a definite invitation is extended." Said members of executive committee: "Imagine us setting a date for the President of the United States." Summer came and went. Fall blew in and said farewell. Winter comes and finally, two years after Mr. Hoover's election, three and one-half years after the date first set, it is settled that Mr. Hoover will go to Marion "some time during the summer."

We await the event and Mr. Hoover's address with bated breath.

WHEN A JUDGE WRITES.

Fortunately for American life our Judges are coming to realize their mission does not bind them to speak in dry-as-dust language, but in truth calls for a tongue which has meaning for all who read, whether or not they follow in the law. The crystal-clear utterances of Justice Holmes have long been regarded as among the finest in our literature, and today on the bench he has an increasing number of colleagues in his vitalization of legal writings. Such a fellow worker is Chief Judge Benjamin Nathan Cardozo of the New York Court of Appeals. The excerpts, reprinted on this page, are from "The Nature of the Judicial Process," Judge Cardozo's profoundly lucid exposition of the Judge's place in the scheme of things. They contain a Confucian wisdom which suggests time and again the Sage of China, who could see that "what the superior man seeks is in himself, what the small man seeks is in others"; who knew that "sincerity is the way of heaven, the attainment of sincerity is the way of man." Judge Cardozo is a jurist with something to say who can say it. His work couples nobleness of purpose with conviction for meeting squarely the facts of existence which makes one lament in all sincerity that he could reach the age of 61 without some President viewing life largely enough to draft him for service on the Supreme Court.

TOMBSTONE'S LAST TITAN.

"As I look back, if I could live my life over again, I think I should like to live the same kind of life." William M. Breakenridge, last of the prominent figures of the explosive '80s in Tombstone, Ariz., who died last week in Tucson at the age of 84, made the remark several years ago upon completing his autobiography, "Helldorado." To those of us who have looked back and sighed "If I had it to do again . . .", the career of "Col. Billy" may give an indication of the life that is worth reliving.

When Adventure confronted the youthful Billy, he said "Hello" and reached for his boots. As soldier in the Civil War, as mule-skinner, freighter across the prairies, Indian fighter, guide, cowboy, prospector and peace officer, he drank romance and won perfect health—and swallowed the hardships of cold, thirst, hunger, weariness, poverty and danger. As Deputy Sheriff of Cochise County, Arizona, he confounded the tough citizenry of Tombstone by bringing law to the mesquite more with amiability than bullets. His arrests of outlaws were generally triumphs of a fearless and steady smile over a fearful and unsteady trigger finger. He shared blankets with the reckless rustler, John Ringo, and persuaded him to go to jail the next morning. He talked Curly Bill Brocius, wildest of the Wild Bunch, into helping collect taxes in the San Simon Valley, outlaw stronghold.

In later years, after his retirement as special officer for the Southern Pacific Railroad, he lived comfortably in Tucson. He had leisure, a competence, popular affection—and the ghosts of dead days. He alone was left of Tombstone's gusty glory.

A full bowl of life: a dash of adventure, a jigger of pleasure, a heap of friends, a dole of duties done, a bit of adversity for seasoning, a little ease at the end—and health in the quaffing. That's the kind of life that Billy meant.

And he will live it again in the legends. Whenever the history of the Southwest is read, Billy Breakenridge will ride once more along the old trails.

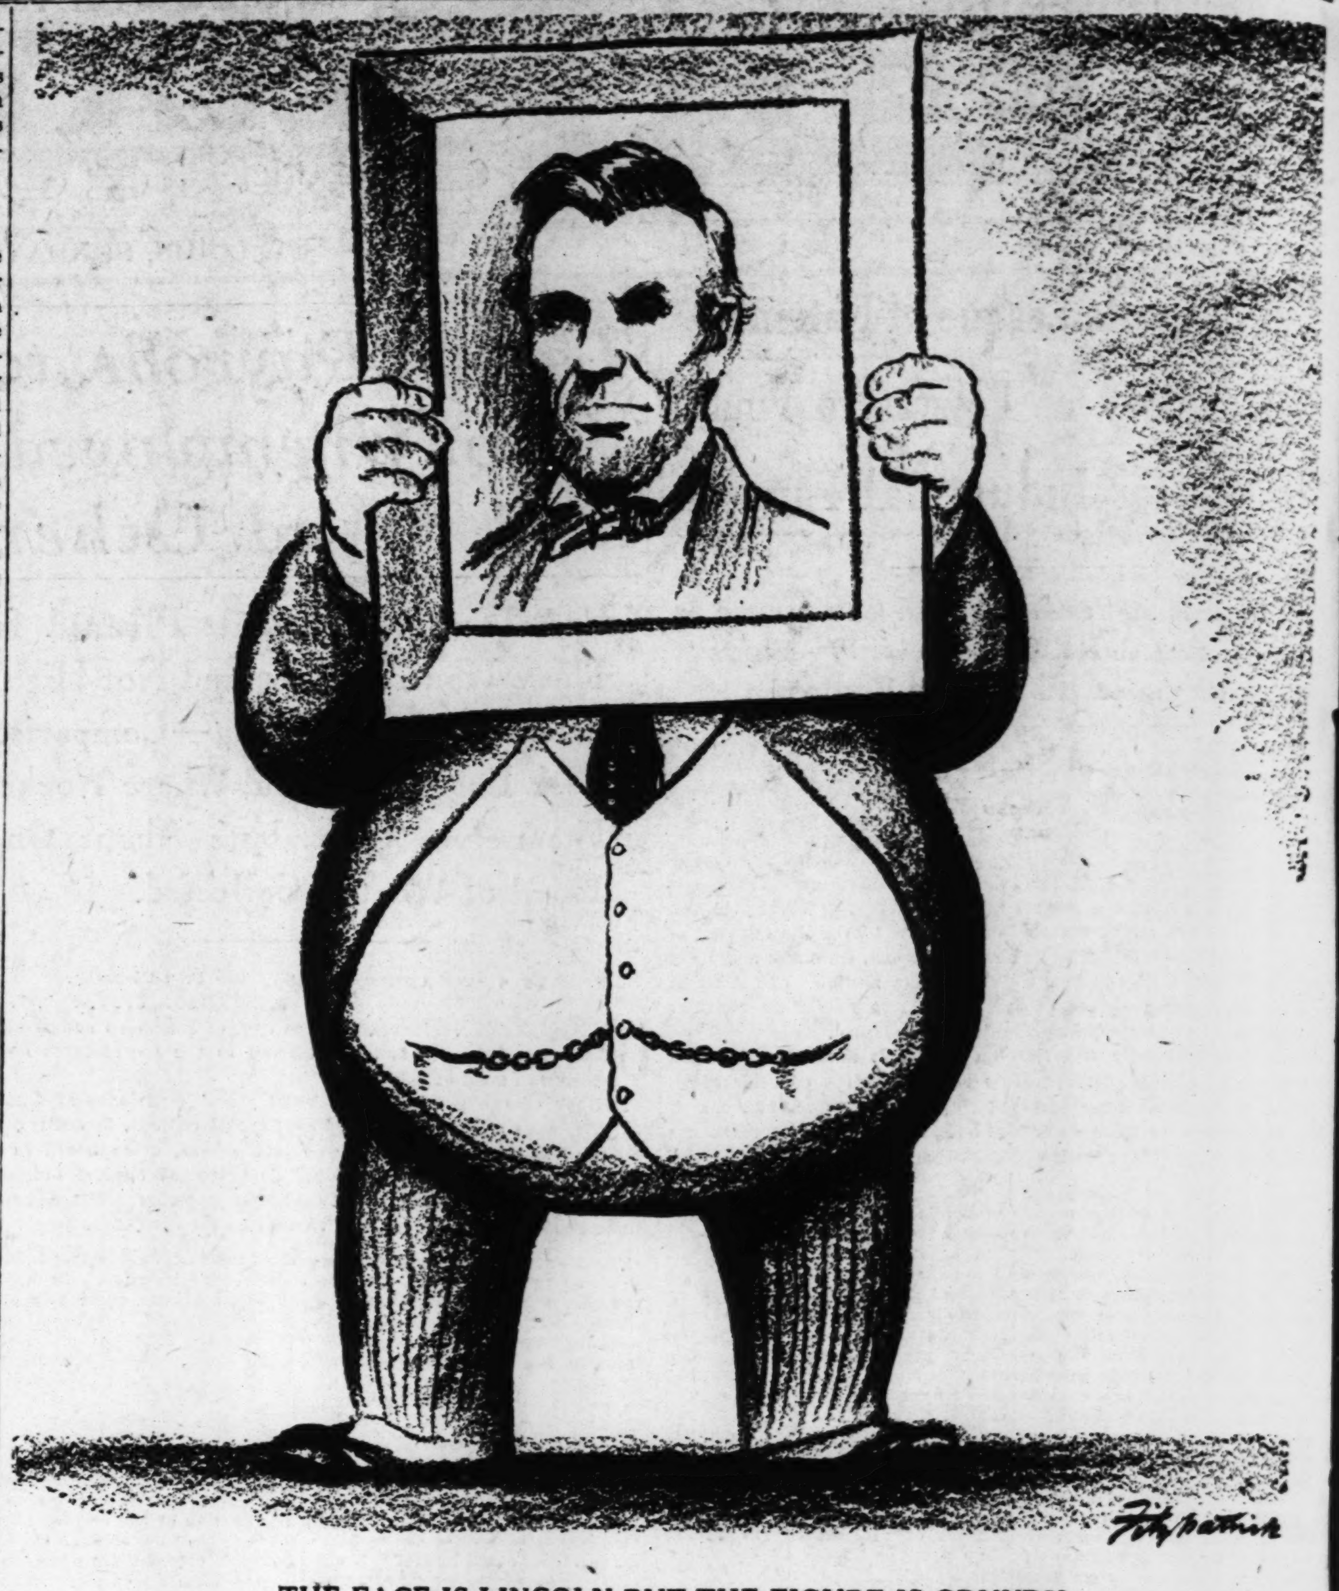
The Methodist Church is trying Bishop Cannon behind closed doors, and, since we never permit sentiment to influence our judgment, we're putting our money on the Bishop.



THE FACE IS LINCOLN BUT THE FIGURE IS GRUNDY.

Life as a Judge Sees It

From "The Nature of the Judicial Process" (Yale University Press) by Benjamin N. Cardozo, Chief Judge of the New York Court of Appeals.

JUDGES cannot escape any more than other mortals. All their lives, forces which they do not recognize and cannot name have been tugging at them—inherited instincts, traditional beliefs, acquired convictions; and the resultant is an outlook on life, a conception of social needs, which, when reasons are nicely balanced, must determine where choice shall fall.

Life casts the molds of conduct, which will some day become fixed as law. Law preserves the molds, which have taken form and shape from life.

Few rules in our time are so well established that they may not be called upon any day to justify their existence as means adapted to an end. If they do not function, they are diseased. If they are diseased, they must not propagate their kind. Sometimes they are cut out and extirpated altogether. Sometimes they are left with the shadow of continued life, but sterilized, truncated, impotent for harm.

• • •

Nothing is stable. Nothing absolute. All is fluid and changeable. There is an endless "becoming." We are back with Heraclitus.

There is an old legend that on one occasion God prayed, and his prayer was, "Be it my will that my justice be ruled by my mercy." That is a prayer which we all need to utter at times when the demon of formalism tempts the intellect with the lure of scientific order. I mean that when judges are called upon to say how far existing rules are to be extended or restricted, they must let the welfare of society fix the path, its direction and its distance.

• • •

Somewhere between worship of the past and exaltation of the present, the path of safety will be found.

The tendency today is in the direction of a growing liberalism. The new spirit has made its way gradually; and its progress, unnoticed step by step, is visible in retrospect as we look back upon the distance traversed. The old forms remain, but they are filled with a new content.

A spirit of realism should bring about a harmony between present rules and present needs.

Statutes are to be viewed, not in isolation, as pronouncements of abstract principles for the guidance of an ideal community, but in the setting and framework of present-day conditions, as revealed by the labors of economists and students of the social sciences in our own country and abroad.

The use of fictions has declined; and the springs of action are disclosed where once they were concealed.

I was much troubled in spirit, in my first years upon the bench, to find how trackless was the ocean on which I had embarked. I sought for certainty. I was oppressed and disheartened when I found that the quest for it was futile. I was trying to reach land, the solid land of fixed and settled rules, the paradise of a justice that would declare itself by tokens plainer and more commanding than its pale and glimmering reflections in my own vacillating mind and conscience. I found "with the voyagers in Browning's 'Paracelsus' that the real heaven was always beyond."

As the years have gone by, and as I have reflected more and more upon the nature of the judicial process, I have become reconciled to the uncertainty, because I have grown to see it was inevitable. I have grown to see that the process in its highest reaches is not discovery, but creation; and that the doubts and misgivings, the hopes and fears, are part of the travail of mind, the pangs of death and the pangs of birth, in which principles that have served their day expire, and new principles are born.

In the endless process of testing and retesting, there is a constant rejection of the dross, and a constant retention of whatever is pure and fine.

A constitution states, or ought to state, not rules for the passing hour, but principles for an expanding future. In so far as it deviates from that standard, and descends into details and particulars, it loses its flexibility, the scope of interpretation contracts, the meaning hardens.

• • •

It is when the colors do not match, when the references in the index fail, when there is no decisive precedent, that the serious business of the judge begins.

We may try to see things as objectively as we please. None the less, we can never see them with any eyes except our own. To that test they are all brought—a form of pleading or an act of parliament, the wrongs of paupers or the rights of princes, a village ordinance or a nation's charter.

• • •

The persuasion that one's own infallibility is a myth leads by easy stages and somewhat greater satisfaction to a refusal to ascribe infallibility to others.

The work of modification is gradual. It goes on inch by inch. Its effect must be measured by decades and even centuries. Thus measured they are seen to have behind them the power and pressure of the moving glacier.

We do not pick our rules of law fullblossomed from the trees.

Those who think more of symmetry and logic in the development of legal rules than of practical adaptation to the attainment of a just result remain troubled by a classification where the lines of division are so waving and blurred.

Hardly a rule of today but may be matched by its opposite of yesterday.

• • •

A brief experience on the bench was enough to reveal to me all sorts of cracks and crevices and loopholes in my own opinions when picked up a few months after delivery and read with due contrition.

• • •

Property, like every other social institution, has a social function to fulfill.

• • •

The thing that counts is not what I believe to be right. It is what I may reasonably believe that some other man of normal intellect and conscience might reasonably look upon as right.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.

RARELY since the days of John Sharp Williams, that fine old Southern leader who represented Mississippi in the United States Senate, has Capitol Hill heard so much poetry as at present.

When Williams was in the Senate poetry enjoyed an era that might rightly be termed golden. The Mississippian hardly could make a speech without incorporating rhymes of some sort. His choice ranged from the classics to bits of doggerel which he was fond of composing on the spur of the moment.

The Senator's habit of quoting poetry on the floor once so exasperated Borah of Idaho that he was moved to say: "While I usually enjoy the speeches made by the Senator from Mississippi, I must say that his poetry at times is rotten."

WITH Williams' departure, however, poetry was not heard so frequently on the Senate floor. George Norris of Nebraska, who likes to rhyme now and then, would be heard from occasionally. And Tom Heflin of Alabama—perhaps more than any of the others—delighted in punctuating his remarks with stanzas.

But since the Senate has had drouth relief under discussion, poetry has been spilled recklessly on the floor. Both good and bad is heard almost daily. For example, here's the poetic appeal for relief, written by a man in Arkansas, which Senator Caraway offered the other day:

We are not asking much: only a chance
To earn the food and clothing by hard work;
Do not deny this bit, O friend of ours.
The need is great; in name of mercy do not shirk.

There were six stanzas to this poem, all of which were "respectfully ascribed to the President of the United States."

• • •

A LITTLE later on the same day, Senator Heflin was making an impassioned plea for the drouth sufferers when he felt the urge to swing into a three-stanza poem, one verse of which went something like this:

The politician talks and talks,
The actor plays his part.
The soldier glitters on parade,
The goldsmith plies his art.
The scientist pursues his germ
O'er the terrestrial ball.
The sailor navigates his ship,
But the farmer feeds them all.

There are others which have been heard within the last few weeks. For example, there is "The Moneyless Man," which has for its theme:

Oh, search the wide world, wherever you can,
There is no open door for moneyless man.

There are six stanzas of it, too; eight lines to the stanza.

ST. LOUIS PROTEST AGAINST TAX BILLS SENT TO GOVERNOR

Chairman of Board of Chamber of Commerce Also Addresses Members of the Legislature.

TO GO WEDNESDAY TO JEFFERSON CITY

Opponents of Measures to Attend Hearing Before Senate Committee on Ways and Means.

Charging that some members of the State Legislature are trying to rush through the legislative mill the Survey Commission tax bills which St. Louis business interests assert would place 87 per cent of a huge State tax on St. Louis and Jaskson, Buchanan and St. Louis counties, Charles H. Morrill, chairman of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, made public yesterday a letter of protest he has sent to Gov. Caulfield and leaders of both houses of the Legislature.

At the same time, it was announced that opponents of the tax measures, following a luncheon meeting tomorrow at Hotel Jefferson, will travel to Jefferson City Wednesday to attend a hearing on the bills before the Senate Committee on Ways and Means. More than 200 train reservations have been received so far, it was announced last night.

"We believe the most pernicious piece of tax legislation with which any State was ever faced, is about to be railroaded through the House," Morrill's letter stated, "and if the one hearing promised in the Senate is all the consideration that it is to be given, it gives promise of being as hastily considered and jammed through the upper House.

Searching Study Necessary.

"May we respectfully call to your attention that the revision of the tax burden of this State involves not only searching investigation into the needs for which the funds are to be expended, which has been thoroughly analyzed over a period of nearly a year, but should take into consideration as thorough a research of the sources of finances necessary to meet them.

"The business taxpayer of the State who will foot the bill has not been fully consulted in the matter. It is true there have been three hearings held in the House by the House Committee this week, but upon the briefest sort of notice. It might be held, of course, that the Survey Commission's report has been out for some time and preparation was not necessary, but the first three bills which proposed to put the State Survey Commission plan into effect were introduced and made public only two days before the hearings were called, and until then there was no program of legislation or taxation available for study.

"The bills were introduced Tuesday, Jan. 27; the public appraised Wednesday, Jan. 28; Thursday the hearings were announced; Friday Mr. Gary was given a special hearing, and the other three hearings followed on the succeeding Monday, Wednesday and Friday, setting an example of expeditious handling which would bring the Legislature to an early conclusion if the same tactics were applied to all measures.

"Headed" by Committeemen.

"So-called opponents were positively heckled by members of the House Committee. From the apparent partisanship of the committee members, it was not surprising that despite all of the evidence produced at the hearing, including the fact that it meant a tax burden to the people of the State of $471,000,000, only 15 minutes executive consideration, according to newspapers, was necessary for the committee to report the bill out. Surely these minutemen of millions put it all over our most successful financiers in the manner in which they carelessly vote the people's tax money.

"Now the Survey Commission (and the business man fully appreciates the thoroughness with which they studied State needs) did not use similar diligence in consulting the taxpayer. The financial report of the experts hired to study the situation was never considered by the commission as a whole. Mr. Gary, former chairman of the Survey Commission, now a private citizen (the commission having terminated with the submission of the report), was accorded a private and unlimited hearing before the House Committee before anybody else was heard. In the brief time that was given to the so-called opposition, the main presentation was limited to 30 minutes and the speaker held exactingly to it to the extent of interrupting reminders of the rapidly expiring time.

"No similar tactics were used with proponents, and so far as could be observed the only stenographic report made was of those classified by the chairman as 'opposition.' The term 'opposition' does not express the position of the taxpayer who is in sympathy with the sensible correction of the needs, but who would like to see the House and the Senate Committee base their deductions as much on financial feasibility as on needs.

"Not Actually Consulted."

"The feeling is that the business taxpayer was impatiently heard and not actually consulted. This impression is further intensified by the information that the hearing of the Senate Committee on a similar measure will be limited to Wednesday afternoon and Wednesday night. We believe that the haste with which these limited hearings are called is evidence of the desire to railroad this drastic legislation without adequately consulting the taxpayer.

"By the admission of the chairman of the House Committee, who most courteously received the delegation, nothing more than a mere estimate amounting almost to guesswork has been made of the effect of these bills on the people. Not a single compilation of the effect in dollars and cents on the taxpayers of the State has been made, nor any specific calculation made of the total tax income which will be produced by this legislation. We would like to suggest the combination of a little arithmetic with the desire for State revenue. Why not substitute for this 'sight-unseen' hell-bent-for-election tax bill something that will bear the test of sound analysis when the hysteria for relief has passed?"

Wax Orchid, Only One in U. S.; at Shaw's Garden

Another Panamanian, the "Dancing Girl," Also on Display Today With Dozens of Rarities Seen Only Here.

Orchids which cannot be seen anywhere in the United States but here have been put on display in the Orchid Show at Shaw's Garden, reaching its finest today and to close next Sunday night.

Dozens of the rarities selected for display from the world's finest public collection of show orchids, cannot, of course, be seen elsewhere in this country. But, through the yearly Orchid Show, they have become familiar to thousands of St. Louisans. Some not so familiar are on display today.

This is the North American premiere of the Panamanian "wax orchid," a flower with cream yellow petals so heavy, and of so close a texture, that it looks scarcely real. The plant on display in a pergola on the east side of the Floral Display House is the only one in this country. A wax orchid was brought to flower at Shaw's Garden in 1927, but died, and another plant, extraordinarily delicate even among orchids, was brought from Panama by Superintendent Pring a year ago.

Drawing particular interest to the pergola on the opposite side of the display house are bright yellow sprays of another Panamanian, the "dancing girl." The name was imported with the orchid by Superintendent Pring from the common speech of the natives. The tiny petals form a vivid representation of a bonnet worn jauntily, a tight, dark bodice, outstretched arms and flaring ballet skirt. The "leaves"—slender, pointed bulbs—have an apt resemblance to stilletos.

Fragrant Colombian Cattleya.

Not to be found elsewhere in this country are the purple-lipped Flores de Mayo, of which half a dozen are on display today. This fragrant Colombian Cattleya usually shows but the barest hint of mauve and a golden throat, leaving the heavier range of mauves to its scentless fellow Cattleya, the Tulipan.

The unique exception was found among the thousands of Cattleyas collected in the Andes by Supt. Pring in 1923, and carefully propagated until the garden has more than a dozen plants with the purple throat. The color scale in the other Flores de Mayo which fill the flower house with fragrance is unusually rich. On a stand of that variety on the east side, for example, only two are typical albinos with the yellow throat.

Still, however, the most impressive of the mauve Cattleya shades are reserved to the Tulipans. The growing collection permits hundreds to remain in the show, at a period when, in other seasons, they would have been replaced by the later-blooming Flores de Mayo. They are an exquisite demonstration of almost infinite variation in one basic color.

Blooming in Bright Orange.

Standing out oddly in a bank of Tulipans and Flores de Mayo at the north end of the display is a plant blooming in bright orange. Its one-inch blossoms are in sharp contrast to six-inch flowers about it. It is, however, close kin—the Cattleya aurantiaca, or orange "pygmy" Cattleya.

Elsewhere in the garden other displays are bidding for a share of the interest given the aristocrats in the Orchid Show. There are, for example, the remarkable French hybrids of the Japanese Camellia, recently imported by the garden and blooming their pink-and-white loveliest in the red brick Linnaean House. And there is the Coffee Finca, in the greenhouse at the northwest end of the range headed by the great Palm House, where coffee berries are ripening and bananas turning yellow in a setting of tropical naturalness.

FIRING ENTIRE POLICE FORCE IN CHICAGO IS SUGGESTED

Citizens Committee Considers Seriously Feasibility; Finds Mayor Decides Character.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—An entire new police force for Chicago was suggested in the report of the Citizen's Police Committee, made public today.

The report said the committee is considering seriously the feasibility of seeking dismissal of the present force in its entirety, enrolling a complete force to operate under new statutes.

"It is quite within the range of possibility that the shortest road to police rehabilitation would involve mustering out the entire police personnel, and substitution of a new force, under new leadership and guided by new statutory arrangements," the report states.

The general public "largely determines what the character and quality of its police service shall be when it elects a mayor," the report declares.

HOMES DESTROYED BY FOREST FIRES IN NORTH CAROLINA

Mountain Roads Dotted With Refugees Carrying Personal Effects and Leading Livestock.

By the Associated Press.

MARION, N. C., Feb. 7.—Feeding on drouth-dried pines and underbrush and occasionally preying on the home of some mountain family, two forest fires raged today over thousands of acres of virgin forest lands in McDonald County.

To the north of Marion mountain roads were dotted here and there with men and women; some carrying children or personal effects, others leading livestock and still others driving carts loaded with household goods; all fleeing from spots where heaps of ashes and bits of twisted iron utensils marked what had been their home.

Many of the cabins in the rugged country are surrounded by clearings sufficient to save them, but others are built right in the brush.

Streams large enough to check the path of the flames are few and offer little protection to the homes of a people who depend on grazing cattle or sheep and raising a little corn for a living.

Volunteers and firefighters employed by the State, the latter having returned to work after a period in which no money was forthcoming, sought to quell the flames with little success.

G. O. P. BOSS BLOCKS TAMMANY INQUIRY

William Ward, 76, Westchester County Leader, Refuses to Aid Party Force Investigation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—William Ward, 76-year-old boss of Westchester County, who lives alone in a home called "The Castle" atop a hill in Port Chester, turned his back again today on overtures to bring him into line with the Republican state organization in the effort to force a state investigation into alleged Tammany corruption in New York.

Democratic judges have been resigning under fire. One has disappeared. Graft charges have been made against departments in the city government. The man who stands in the way of an investigation into these matters by the Republican-controlled legislature is a hidebound Republican who was once so eminent in party affairs that he dared snub President Taft by refusing to attend a dinner in the White House to the National Committee.

Instead of going to that White House function, Ward played rummy in a Washington hotel. When reporters asked him why he had refused to go he said, "I never attend dinners." Then for years, to make that explanation good, he didn't. Now he goes to one a year.

Holds Up Votes for Inquiry.

Ward has blocked the investigation into Tammany ordering the two Senators from his county to vote against it. Without those votes, the measure will be lost.

Twenty years ago, Ward was a man of national reputation. From 1904 to 1912, he was a member of the Republican National Committee, serving on its powerful executive committee. He was one of the six or seven men in the campaign of 1908. When Taft was renominated he remained regular, but his heart was with Roosevelt—and so he was skidded into nonentity so far as national politics was concerned.

In Westchester, however, he remains the benevolent despot. His friends say he would rather run Westchester than the nation. He doesn't like such frank language—"I'd rather do something for the future of Westchester than to be in a position of power that would enable me to do something for the future of the state or the nation," is more nearly his way of expressing it.

Precipitates Colorful Fight.

Whatever his reasons for preventing an investigation into Tammany-ruled New York City, he has precipitated a colorful fight.

Possessor of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, he carries on his political business at an old oak desk in White Plains, on which there is nothing except a bottle of mineral water and a scratch-pad.

He spends his Sundays motoring about the county, every inch of which he knows. He belongs to a country club from which all women are excluded, for the sole purpose of playing bridge there.

NEW GIRLS' COLLEGE IS BEING ORGANIZED

Treasurer Tells St. Louisans of Educational Project at Bennington, Vt.

A college for girls in which the educational program will be fitted to the individual is being explained to a group of St. Louisans by Frederick H. Kent of New York, who is treasurer of the projected Bennington College at Bennington, Vt.

Kent, who is stopping at the Coronado Hotel, is meeting with a local committee of which Mrs. Guy W. Oliver is chairman. The committee includes Wilford M. Aiken of Johns Burroughs School, Miss Virginia Stone of Community School, Charles Garrison of the Mary Institute, Mrs. George Gellhorn and others.

Already more than $1,000,000 has been raised for a progressive college at Bennington, Kent told a Post-Dispatch reporter, and it is probable that construction of buildings will begin in the spring, with matriculation of the first class of 80 girls in the fall of 1932. Final plans are dependent, however, on raising an additional $250,000 of endowment. Kent is making a tour of leading cities where he is conferring with educators and parents who favor progressive methods.

No Fixed Requirements.

"There will be no fixed entrance requirements at Bennington," Kent explained. "Admission will be determined by certain aptitude tests and by a careful examination of the girl's whole record, as compiled from reports of her teachers in the preparatory school, from the family and from her fellow students.

"The work of the college is to be divided into four major groups, the physical sciences, the social sciences, literature and history, and the fine arts. The whole aim of the first two years is to determine in what field the individual belongs and, therefore, each girl will take a course in each one of these four major divisions. In addition, each student will take a trial major conference course to help her to place her interests in the field best adapted to her capacities."

Indorsed by Educators.

The original idea for Bennington College came from Dr. Vincent Ravi-Booth, a Congregational minister at Bennington, who felt that the town in the Vermont hills was ideally suited for a college. Nearly $700,000 was subscribed at once among old residents of Bennington and wealthy outsiders who have summer homes there. The project has since received the indorsement of leading enducators throughout the country, among them Prof. John Dewey of Columbia University and President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago.

Unlike the system prevailing at other women's colleges, students at Bennington would pay for the whole cost of instruction, the tuition fee being $975 a year. However, one-fourth of the student body would be admitted on scholarships for all or part of the tuition. This, in Kent's opinion, would enable the school to draw a student body from every economic level and from every section of the country.

High Pay for Teachers.

There would be approximately one faculty member for every eight students and members of the faculty would be paid the highest academic scale, Kent said. Also, if an instructor was married and had a child he would be given $500 a year in addition to the standard academic salary. There would be a long winter vacation, extending from before Christmas through Washington's Birthday, to enable both faculty and students to travel and carry on research at distant points.

Answering the popular objection that women's colleges unfit women for marriage, Kent explained that one of the aims of Bennington would be to train women to make intelligent use of their leisure after marriage, assuming that a great many of them would marry. Thus, a special emphasis would be placed, since a great many of the students would come from wealthy families, on philanthropy and the social sciences.

Asked about the social life of the girls in the little Vermont town, 140 miles from Boston and 170 miles from New York, Kent explained with a smile that Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., was only 14 miles away and that a broad concrete highway connected Bennington and Williamstown.

The 140-acre tract that would form the campus of Bennington, the gift of the Frederick Jennings estate, is surrounded by hills that rise gently from every side. Robert De Vore Leigh, who was formerly the A. Barton Hepburn professor of government at Williams College, has been selected as president of Bennington College.

WAGE CUT PLAN REJECTED

Australia Decides to Restore Value of Currency.

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 7.—E. G. Theodore, Australian treasurer, told a conference of state premiers today that the Government had rejected the policy of reducing wages and instead proposed to restore the value of Australian currency to its 1929 level. This would result in an increase of 30 per cent in wholesale prices. It would not mean inflation, Theodore said, but it would increase the national income by $500,000,000 and would provide work for 200,000 men at present unemployed.

He hinted the Government planned to exercise drastic control over exchange rates and would reduce rates of interest.

that the commission's audit was not proper evidence of value.

Early Reduction Unlikely.

Pending decision on appeal, which might go as high as the United States Supreme Court and take several years, the company undoubtedly would continue to collect present rates under Federal Court injunction, possibly being required to deposit bond for refund of excess collections if the decision should be against it.

How such a case would be decided is a matter of conjecture. The utilities of the country have many victories under similar circumstances to their credit. Thus the distant end to which the litigation might go holds little hope for early reduction of rates.

The case is a commentary on methods of regulation and their effect on rates. More than a week has been consumed on evidence of the present value of land owned by the company in St. Louis. Its expert witnesses have appraised some parcels at more than three times what the city appraisers said was adequate. The company's claims for going value and working capital vastly exceed the estimates of the commission accountants and the city.

The indefinite formula of "a reasonable return on fair value" opens the way to extravagance in property investment and inflation of intangible accounts.

No Franchise, No Delay.

If a utility were strictly regulated to a reasonable return on its property, it would not enjoy any additional profit from increased business as long as that increase could be served by its original plant or property.

But additional plant investment permits greater profits to the company's common stockholders. The utility usually borrows most of the money for such additions, issuing therefor its bonds or preferred stocks at rates of 5 to 7 per cent. But the company is entitled to a return of 8 per cent on the total additional property value, including intangibles, and on that basis may issue additional common stock. The profit afforded by the difference between the 8 per cent earning and the average of 6 per cent or less paid for borrowed money goes to the common stockholders, usually making it possible to pay 10 to 12 per cent dividends on the common stock.

The consumer will ask, What can be done about it? Untermyer advised "No more franchises." The City of Detroit some years ago showed what this means. It refused to renew the franchises of its street railway company. The city government thereupon fixed the terms and conditions upon which the company might continue to operate, including among other conditions a rental fee of $200 a day. The United States Supreme Court acted upon this case, holding that the company, having no franchise, had no choice but to accept the city's conditions or remove its property from the streets; that it had no vested right for the protection of which it could appeal to the Supreme Court under the fifth and fourteenth amendments to the Constitution.

The street railway system has since been acquired by the City of Detroit, but other major utilities now operate under municipal permits with regulation exercised directly by the city and without delay.

Action Based on Unauthorized Deposits Made by Former Bookkeeper of Firm.

The suit of the Oriel Glass Co., 912 South Twenty-second street, on a claim for $47,151 alleged to have been wrongfully taken by a former bookkeeper, Joseph F. Zunz, has been settled out of court. A stipulation ending the case was filed yesterday in Circuit Judge Rosskopf's division and it was announced the plaintiff received approximately $20,000 in settlement.

The suit was directed against the First National Bank in St. Louis, but part of the funds applied in satisfaction was furnished by a surety company. It was alleged that Zunz without authority deposited various checks and drafts belonging to his employer with the Liberty Central Trust Co. and later with the First National, when that bank absorbed the Liberty Central. Zunz, it was charged, indorsed the paper and converted the proceeds to his own use.

According to the petition the two banks mentioned were not the regular depositories of the glass company. The alleged irregular deposits continued from June 1, 1923, until Aug. 7, 1929.

Yale Also Refuses $25,000 Bequest

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 7.—The Yale corporation today announced that it had declined the $25,000 bequest of the late Albert E. Pillsbury, whose will stipulated that the money was to be used for the purpose of "developing sound public opinion and action" against the modern feminist movement. This bequest has also been declined by Harvard, Princeton and Columbia.

German Breweries Prosper.

By the Associated Press.

NUREMBERG, Bavaria, Feb. 7.—Breweries in Germany are paying handsome dividends to their shareholders, despite the general business depression. Annual payments of from 12 to 16 per cent on the share, in some instances even more, are common.

CARAWAY RETRACTS 'UNKIND REMARKS' ABOUT HOOVER

Arkansas Senator Says He Is Sorry and Wants to Apologize for Statements in Debate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Senator Caraway said last night he was sorry if he had made any unkind remraks about President Hoover.

The Arkansas Democrat, who has been striving for relief for the people of his home State, made this statement in a radio address over Station WJSV on the drouth situation.

"I had been thoroughly convinced the people of my State and other states were hungry and cold and threatened with disease and starvation," he said.

"Feeling this way, I fought with every weapon at my disposal for relief for these people. But now that an agreement has been reached, I am laying down my arms and if I have said anything unkind, I am sorry and want to apologize.

"I realized that Mr. Hoover was President and had his responsibilities. But I felt relief should be provided and I fought for it. If I said anything unkind about him I am sorry."

Senator Caraway said the relief agreement reached yesterday by Senate and House leaders was satisfactory to him.

BUOYANT HEALTH FROM THESE MAGIC WATERS

UNCLE SAM selected Hot Springs as his first national park, site of one of his largest hospitals, because these famous spring waters through nearly a century proved their curative powers for muscle and nerve ailments. Thousands of visitors return year after year to this, Ponce de Leon's original fountain of youth, where they banish bodily poisons and retain healthful strength and vigor. Discriminating ones select the Hotel Majestic and Baths because in its delightful atmosphere, they have choice of a wide range of accommodations and, under the same roof, may bathe in U. S. Government supervised bath-house.

Golfing on two magnificent courses, facilities for other outdoor sports in the warm Dixie sunshine. For descriptive brochure, address Department A.

PRIMARY ELECTION CONTESTS TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Motions for Recount Made by Defeated Tenth Ward Republican Committee Candidate.

Circuit Judge Hartmann took under advisement yesterday motions by William F. Clodius and Mrs. Pauline L. Scholl for a recount of ballots in the primary last August, at which they were Republican candidates for Committeeman and Committeewoman in the Tenth Ward.

On the face of the returns, Clodius was defeated by Oliver Kratz by 27 votes, but says a fair count would give him 266 majority. Mrs. Scholl, on the face of the returns, was defeated by Mrs. Louis W. Schneider by 11 votes, but says a correct count would give her 346 majority.

The application of Mrs. Emma Engelmeier for a recount in the Thirteenth Ward Republican Committeewoman contest was also on the docket, but was continued. On the face of the returns the petitioner's opponent, Mrs. Frank A. Becker, won by 1194 majority. Mrs. Engelmeier avers this result was obtained by errors and asserts a recount would show her to be the victor by a majority of 552.

Gandhi Demands Britain Make Better Offer on Indian Policy

Nationalist Chief Asserts London Government Must Show by Actions It Really Wants Peace.

By the Associated Press.

ALLAHABAD, India, Feb. 7. — Great Britain will have to offer India something better than Ramsay MacDonald's declarations at the Round Table conference, Mahatma Gandhi said today, for there is little possibility of settling her problems on the basis of that declaration alone.

"I am willing to be converted." Gandhi said, "but tne delegates returning from the conference at London will have to bring with them something more than I can see in the Prime Minister's declaration. The British authorities will have to show by their actions that they really want peace."

Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, one of the delegates, came here from Bombay this afternoon and had a long tal kwith Gandhi but Gandhi, apparently unconvinced, only asked Sapru to meet him and other members of the Congress Party Working Committee here tomorrow.

Viceroy's Letter Disappointing.

Sapru had hoped to melt the long talk with Gandhi but Gandhi appeared more determined than ever and it was understood that he had received a disappointing letter from the Viceroy in answer to his plea for investigation of police activites against Congress Party volunteers.

The full working committee is to meet next Friday for formal consideration of MacDonald's proposal and discussion of the party's program in the future. It is possible that the committee, like Gandhi, will make no definite decision but will put the whole thing up to the next annual session of the party at Karachi next month.

Should that happen the decision must hang in the balance for weeks and meanwhile, if the Nationalists continue their civil disobedience campaign the Government is likely to resort to even stronger methods and peace would be delayed indefinitely.

Hopes to Visit America.

Gandhi hopes to go to America when he has won complete self-government for his country, he said today.

"I hope that God in His goodness may spare me to visit the land of liberty, but I must first win liberty for the millions of silent toilers who follow me before I can cross the ocean," he said.

He said that since his release from prison at Poona recently he had received many messages of congratulation and friendship from American friends.

He realized, he said, that India was a closed book for most Americans who on account of its great distance from the United States think of it merely as a distant and primitive colonial possession of the British Empire.

"I think," he continued, "that if I go to America I can do much to show Americans that the ideals of the Indian people are much the same as their own. They are based upon freedom, democracy, peace, and a kindly helpful attitude toward all mankind."

ASSAILS DESCRIPTION OF LINCOLN AS "UNKEMPT"

Custodian of Martyred President's Tomb Says Photographs Disprove Author's Account.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 7. — The description of Lincoln as "grotesquely dressed" which appeared in Edgar Lee Masters' New York, "Lincoln, the Man," brought a reply from H. W. Fay, custodian of the tomb in which the remains of the Civil War President repose.

"I have 300 pictures of Lincoln, taken at various ages after he was 5 years old, showing him in many poses, and not one even hints that he was 'unkempt,'" said Fay. "On the contrary, in each, he looks as though he had just stepped from a bandbox. His clothes were neat, his hair well-combed and his features pleasant."

The State Register said today that admirers of Lincoln were objecting to Masters' portrayal of him as "cold, crafty and unkempt," a term applied in the book. Likewise, it said, at Petersburg, scene of the romance between Lincoln and Ann Rutledge, there was talk of chiseling from the tombstone that stands over her grave, a laudatory epitaph, written by Masters in 1922.

10-YEAR-OLD NEWSBOY INJURED BY STRAY BULLET

Glenn Collins, 10 years old, was struck in the groin by a stray bullet last night in the rear of a cigar store at 608 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis.

Rolla Clavin, 21, of 909A St. Clair, was arrested for inquiry into the shooting and a robbery. Two men entered a saloon at 724 Collinsville avenue a short time before, and took small amounts of silver from four customers and a badge from a gas meter inspector. The injured boy, who was on his way to his home, 714 North Sixth street, from his work as a newsboy, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in a serious condition.

"She went out with him several times, but after a little she turned him down. Of course she couldn't tell him the reason. 'B.O.'—body odor—is a delicate subject. But how different things might have turned out if he had only known what his trouble was and how easily Lifebuoy could have ended it."

The secret cause

Experiences like this happen every day—all around us. Disappointments in love—lost opportunities in business. But other explanations are given. We seldom realize how often "B.O." is to blame.

For people, as a rule, don't know when they offend. We become insensitive to an ever-present odor. We don't notice it in ourselves—but others do. Yet we must perspire. Even on cold days our bodies give off a quart of odor-causing waste.

Now millions have the satisfaction of knowing they're safe, the easiest way imaginable—by washing and bathing with Lifebuoy. Its penetrating, antiseptic lather purifies pores. Makes every inch of the body fresh and sweet-smelling.

STORE BUILDING IN MAPLEWOOD BRINGS $120,000

ames C. Jones, Attorney, Makes Purchase—Second Large Deal of Year in That Section.

ALES REPORTED TO BE UNDER WAY

enerally Better Tone in Realty Market — Activity Both in Uptown and Downtown Centers.

By Berry Moore

James C. Jones, attorney, yesterday bought 7352-54-56 Manchester venue in the business section of aplewood, owned by Sol and Max einberg, for $120,000. Eugene J. ltheimer, Williams & Calmer, Inc., ack Dubinsky and Victor H. hodes, were the agents in the ransaction, which was on a cash asis. There is a business building containing three stores on the roperty. J. J. Newberry, Inc., occupies two of the stores under a 1-year lease. The other store is ccupied under a 10-year lease. It as not disclosed in whose behalf ones made the purchase.

This is the second large real state deal in Maplewood since the irst of the year. The other was a $500,000 trade by which the business building at the northwest corner of Manchester and Yale avenues, was acquired by the American National Assurance Co. from ack Dubinsky.

James C. Jones recently purchased the southeast corner of rand and Washington boulevard or the Frothingham estate, of hich Mrs. Dodds Farrell is the eneficiary. Jones and J. Lionberger Davis are trustees of this state.

A generally better tone was displayed in the real estate market he past week. A well defined demand is indicated for investment holdings, especially of the revenue ype. Several deals are under way n both the downtown and uptown enters. It is reported contracts for the purchase of a downtown building site have been executed, ontingent upon financial arrangements, with a Chicago investment house.

Writes on Plaza Prospects.

Revived interest in property in the vicinity of the proposed Memorial Plaza is reported by the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Real Estate Co. In reply to an out-of-town inquiry relative to property adjacent to this area the concern wrote:

"If you have been keeping informed as to the development of St. Louis, you will note that the new $5,000,000 Public Auditorium is to extend from Fourteenth to Fifteenth streets on the south side of Market street and that the entire space between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets from Market to Olive, is to be a public plaza and that this is also true of the block between Market and Pine and Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets. Also the old postoffice is to be enlarged and will take in almost all he space between Sixteenth and Eighteenth streets on the south ide of Market street, extending all he way from Clark avenue. Also he two blocks between Eighteenth and Twentieth streets on the north ide of Market street opposite Union Station, are to be developed into a plaza.

"From the above you will observe that between Twelfth street and Twentieth street, on the north ide of Market, there will be only three blocks that are not plaza and park so that these three blocks will be particularly fitted for hotel or similar purposes and will become very valuable indeed, especially since Market street itself is to be a 100-foot thoroughfare from Sixth street to Vandeventer and will be one of the leading thoroughfares in the city. This will give an indication of what we expect the value of Market street property to become and the reason why.

Interest in Lindell-Grand Site.

Noteworthy speculative interest has been betrayed in the property at the southeast corner of Grand and Lindell Boulevards, controlled by Barney F. and Otto J. Dickmann of the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., following the Frothingham estate's purchase of the southeast corner of Grand and Washington boulevards.

The site has 144 feet on Grand and 103 feet on Lindell. It is occupied by a modern two-story building under lease to the Studebaker agency in St. Louis, commanding one of the most important intersections in uptown St. Louis. The site is regarded as especially appropriate for a hotel structure, particularly in view of its extensive frontage on both Lindell and Grand Boulevards. It is diagonally opposite the Melbourne Hotel, which has been a notable success.

The argument is advanced that the value of the site will be en-

A generally better tone was displayed in the real estate market the past week. A well defined demand is indicated for investment holdings, especially of the revenue type. Interest in Lindell-Grand Site.

Noteworthy speculative interest has been betrayed in the property at the southeast corner of Grand and Lindell Boulevards, controlled by Barney F. and Otto J. Diekmann of the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., following the Frothingham estate's purchase of the southeast corner of Grand and Washington boulevards.

The site has 144 feet on Grand and 103 feet on Lindell. It is occupied by a modern two-story building under lease to the Studebaker agency in St. Louis, commanding one of the most important intersections in uptown St. Louis. The site is regarded as especially appropriate for a hotel structure, particularly in view of its extensive frontage on both Lindell and Grand Boulevards. It is diagonally opposite the Melbourne Hotel, which has been a notable success.

The argument is advanced that the value of the site will be enhanced appreciably by the widening of Lindell between Grand boulevard and Channing avenue, thus making Lindell, linked with Olive street, a 100-foot highway between Twelfth boulevard and Skinker road. Exceptions to condemnations incident to this project have retarded developments in this section of Lindell boulevard. There now remain, however, only eight exceptions in the damaged district. These are expected to be disposed of within a relatively short time.

Pythian Building to Be Sold.

Attention also is directed to the Knights of Pythias Building, northwest corner of Grand and Delmar boulevards, to be sold under a second deed of trust Feb. 18. This building is seven stories in height, with foundation and superstructure for 18 stories. The site, 150 by 150, has been appraised at $600,000, exclusive of the building.

11 BUSINESS PAPERS EXPECT TRADE GAIN

Their "Bales of Statistics" Basis of Prediction by Editor Rose.

Declaring a man buys a home not when it is cheap but when he can afford it, Marc A. Rose says there are indications that the tide of business generally is beginning to rise and beyond this there are fundamental factors now at work that will bring new activity to the real estate market. Rose, who is eiditor of Business Week, spoke recently at the mid-winter meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. He based his improvement predictions on observations and "bales of statistics" gathered by his and 10 other business publications covering finance, banking, construction, the power and light industry and other economic fields.

Chief among the factors emphasized were evidence that the Federal Reserve board intends to liberalize its policy and signs that in an indirect way the system may be sending a flow of money into banks, thus vigorously stimulating business.

He deplored the constant "prattle" about cheap and abundant money and said the long term funds required for realty development have been neither cheap nor abundant, but that they are getting so now.

Assailing talk of overproduction as a lazy dodging of the issue, Rose asserted there could be no overproduction when thousands of persons in this country were without homes, when several million homes have no bathrooms, and when one million homes within reach of power stations are without electricity.

Here he listed the provision of home financing plans for $2000 families as a major potential source of new business for real estate, pointing out that 40 per cent of the American people have incomes of this amount or less, and yet have the desire for home ownership.

"The country needs Ford volume in decent housing at a price the average man can afford," said Rose.

The five factors that point to general business improvement, he said, are:

1. Sentiment is better. This is most important of all.
2. There is plenty of money. It is idle; it hates to be unemployed. With long-term borrowing expensive, there can be no revival of business. Long-term money is getting cheaper.
3. Retail stocks are exhausted. Things are wearing out. Replacement buying is beginning.
4. Consumer purchasing power will be better. The dollar buys more today.
5. Highly important is the attitude of the Federal Reserve banks. There is evidence that the board intends to liberalize its policy. If the system pumped money into the other banks, its pressure would improve the bond market and vigorously stimulate business. There are signs that this may be taking place.

EXCHANGE SPONSORS 3 BILLS TO PROTECT DEEDS OF TRUST

Measures Prepared for Legislature are Aimed To Lessen Possibilities of Fraud—Kansas City Board Gives Indorsement.

The St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, through its Legislative Committee, headed by Past President Charles J. Daly, has prepared for introduction in the present session of the State Legislature three measures aimed to lessen the possibilities of fraud and thereby provide greater protection for the purchasers of deeds of trust.

The first bill proposes the compulsory identification by the Recorder of Deeds of notes or bonds secured by a mortgage or deed of trust or other instrument intended to create a lien upon real estate to secure the payment of a debt or obligation with the exception of mortgages or deeds of trust issued by public service corporations, such as railroads, telephone or telegraph companies which are subject to regulations by the Publice Service Commission.

The identification by the Recorder of Deeds of notes or bonds secured by a mortgage or deed of trust is now optional, and the Exchange contends that the making of the identification compulsory will add a great protection to the public because it will do much toward preventing the issuance of duplicate sets of notes or bonds.

The second bill aims to add a new section to Article 2, Chapter 22, Revised Statutes Missouri, 1929, to be known as section 3096A and proposes that the Recorder of Deeds shall not accept a trustee's deed in foreclosure for recording unless the unpaid principal note or notes secured by the deed of trust under which foreclosure is had, is presented to the Recorder and notation made on the note or notes and on the margin of the record of the deed of trust showing that a trustee or mortgagee's deed has been filed of record. The Exchange says the need for this bill is that when a foreclosure under a mortgage or deed of trust takes place the lien created by this mortgage or deed of trust no longer exists and that the proposed bill would protect the purchasers of mortgages or deeds of trust by preventing the sale of a deed of trust or mortgage and the notes secured thereunder without giving notice to the purchaser that the mortgage or deed of trust or the notes secured thereunder are no longer secured by a lien on the real estate.

The third bill provides that in case any person desires to release of record any part of the property described in the deed of trust or mortgage he shall be permitted to do so only by presenting to the Recorder of Deeds the notes evidencing the principal of the debt and the Recorder is obligated to note on the notes secured by the deed of trust or mortgage as well as on the margin of the record of such deed of trust or mortgage the fact of the filing of record of a partial release.

Under the present law it is possible to have a deed of trust executed as security for payment of notes on a number of separate parcels of property and merely by filing of record a deed of release and presenting to the Recorder the notes secured by the deed of trust or mortgage, the lien on several of the parcels of property could be released yet the notes and deed of trust would be precisely in their original form and would not give notice that a release on some part of the property has been filed.

The Kansas City Real Estate Board has endorsed these three measures, and the St. Louis Exchange is hopeful of having them passed by the Legislature.

SAYS FAMILIES SAVE RENT BY DOUBLING UP

Statistician Sees in This, Reason for Improvement in Conditions Later.

Families doubling up—a condition characteristic of periods of general business depression—is stressed by L. Seth Schnitman, chief statistician of the F. W. Dodge Corporation, in the February issue of the Architectural Record as a retarding influence in the recovery from the slump in residential building and as an equal reason for its expected improvement.

"That families forced by economic considerations to double up will take up abodes commensurate with their normal living standards when conditions permit is a foregone conclusion," Schnitman says.

"Meanwhile surplus space has been augmented materially, making more difficult the revival. The situation in lofts and offices is pretty much the same. Occupants of manufacturing lofts have doubled up while desk space arrangements have been on the increase.

"There is still large need for better housing for the masses whose incomes are small and for whom little new housing has been provided. To the extent that better housing for less money can be provided for the masses during 1931 will residential building show improvement.

"Acquisitions through foreclosure have put purchasers in a position of advantage over builders. Rentals on properties thus acquired can bring larger return than rentals on fairly similar conveniences in new buildings. It is not unlikely that further shading of rentals on foreclosed properties, if competition for tenants make it necessary, may become an important retarding influence upon new residential building.

"Lowered construction costs which are now variously estimated at from 10 to 20 per cent below those of a year ago will doubtless stimulate residential construction in sections where conditions of supply and demand approach the normal. Such new buildings will in all likelihood make for lowered rentals, which in turn will affect existing rentals in older structures."

SALES MEETING FOR REALTY DEALERS AND EMPLOYES

A sales conference for the active members of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange and their sales forces, sponsored by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will be held in the Roof Garden Ballroom of the Hotel Statler Friday, Feb. 27.

Guy W. Ellis, a former president of the Detroit Real Estate Board and director of Sales Conferences of the National Association, and Gerald Healy, president of a realty company in Flint, Mich., will conduct the conference giving the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange members practical selling plans and ideas which have brought profits to their own offices. Healy's subjects will be, "The Dollars Realty Brokers Are Missing Down the Street" and "New Approaches to Business Men." Ellis will speak on "How to Make Appreciative Prospects" and "Some Commissions Paid by Property Briefs."

The conference is divided into a morning and afternoon session, the morning session to be from 10 o'clock to noon and the afternoon session from 2 to 4.

A similar sales conference was held by the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange last spring and was attended by 350 persons. It is expected by Clarence C. Lang, executive secretary of the exchange, that the attendance at this year's conference will be much larger,

ST. LOUIS LEADS IN REALTY FINANCING

Baltimore Second, Minneapolis Third in January, Chicago Review Reports.

New first mortgage real estate financing in January—traditionally a month of large realty offerings—declined to the lowest level for that month in recent years, according to the monthly review of Nelson, Hunt & Co., Chicago.

New real estate financing in January totaled only $8,737,000, the lowest since May, 1930. This represents a decline of more than 72 per cent compared with the total in January, 1930, and of 18 per cent compared with the December total. There were no realty stock offerings in January, and approximately 50 per cent of the new financing was obtained by residential and institutional properties, chiefly through issues of collateral trust certificates and gold notes.

"This unusually small volume of January first mortgage financing," says the review, "is largely due to greatly reduced demand for new construction. Furthermore, there is little indication that any great volume of new building will be started before spring. The chief demand for money today is for refinancing loans on completed buildings."

Classification.	January, 1931.	January, 1930.	December, 1930.
Residential—	$2,250,000	$3,335,000	$4,425,000
Office and commercial—	762,000	20,405,000	1,550,000
Hotels	1,250,000	690,000	740,000
Clubs, churches, colleges, hospital, etc.—	2,100,000	400,000	190,000
Financial and miscellaneous—	2,375,000	7,137,500	5,000,000
	$8,737,000	$31,967,500	$11,905,000

"This year the financing is widely scattered with St. Louis leading for January with four realty issues aggregating $3,900,000, with Baltimore second with four issues totaling $3,150,000; Minneapolis third with $492,000, and Cleveland fourth with $225,000," says the review.

Gardner Steel Grave Vault
guaranteed 100 years

Naturally you want to protect your casket against attack from any outside source such as vermin or water. The Gardner Grave Vault gives this protection because it is air-tight and indestructible. Solid sheets of 12 gauge copper bearing steel especially manufactured for the Gardner Vault by the U. S. Steel Corporation will guard your casket indefinitely.

Any undertaker you select can supply you with the Gardner Grave Vault and will gladly show you illustrations of the various styles.

IN MEMORIAM

ASHAUER—In loving memory of Chas. Ashauer, who passed away Feb. 10, 1920.
ADELE ASHAUER PEER.

BATTMANN—In memory of our darling mother, Barbara Battmann, whom God called Feb. 7, 1930.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

DIXON—In loving memory of W. W. Dixon, who departed this life, Feb. 10, 1927.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by wife, MOLLIE, AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

ELBRECHT—In loving remembrance of of Mary C. Elbrecht, who died Feb. 10, 1930.
It's lonesome here without you,
Sad and dreary is the day;
Life has not been the same to us
Since you were called away.
Peaceful be your sleep, loved one;
'Tis sweet to breathe your name,
We loved you dearly in life;
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

ENDERS—In loving memory of my dear husband and our father, officer Charles C. Enders, who passed away two years ago, Feb. 7, 1929:
We do not forget you nor do we intend.
We think of you often and will to the end.
Gone and forgotten by some you may be.
But dear to our memory you will always be.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

ENGELHART—Amelia, in loving memory of our dear wife and mother who died Feb. 5, 1930:
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's worried troubles and trials are past;
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

FROEHLY—In loving memory of my dear husband, Emil Froehly, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 5, 1930:
We often sit and think of him,
When we are all alone;
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak,
When all other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green
And never fade away.
Sadly missed by WIFE.

JANSSEN, MINNIE—In loving memory of Minnie Janssen.
One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was his will
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Sadly missed by
HER TWO DAUGHTERS.

KORTKAMP—In loving memory of our dear mother, Amanda Kortkamp, who departed this life Feb. 13, 1928:
We often sit and think of you, dear mother,
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by her sons and family.
WALTER W. AND OLIVER N., AND ALL WHO LOVED HER. (c)

LEDERLE—In loving memory of Irene Lederle, who died Feb. 8, 1930.
Our love for her cannot be severed by death.
Sadly missed by her FRIENDS.

LINK—In loving rememberance of my dear husband and father, John H. Link, who departed this life, Feb. 10, 1930.
Just one year ago we parted
In a way which God thought best,
But my love for you still lingers,
And will, until I am laid to rest.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

LUPARDUS—In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Diana Lupardus, who died Feb. 6, 1930:
From this world of pain and sorrow
To the land of peace and rest,
God has taken you, dear mother,
Where you've found eternal rest,
When her listless hands were folded
Across her pulseless breast,
I know the gates of heaven ope'd
And mother was at rest.
Sadly missed by her
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

MISSLER—In loving memory of my dear daughter, Edna, who departed this life Feb. 11, 1927.
Your heart was the truest in all the world,
Your love the best to recall,
For no one on earth can take your place,
You are still the dearest of all.
Not dead to us who loved her,
Not lost but gone before,
She lives with us in memory,
And will forevermore.
Sadly missed by MOTHER, SISTER, BROTHER and all who loved her.

MORITZ—In loving memory of our dear mother, Lily Moritz. Mass will be offered at Blessed Sacrament Church at 5:30 a. m., Feb. 11, 1931.
Remembering is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of our heart.
Sadly missed by
DAUGHTER, SON, SON-IN-LAW, DAUGHTER-IN-LAW, GRANDCHILDREN AND FRIENDS. (c)

IN MEMORIAM

OCHS—In loving memory of Barney Ochs, who passed away Feb. 9, 1928:
Oh what would we give to clasp his hand
His dear, kind face to see,
To hear his voice, to see his smile,
That meant so much to us.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

REILLY—In sad and loving remembrance of our dear mother's birthday, Feb. 8, 1849-Jan. 7, 1929, Sarah E. Reilly.
Where the sunshine loves to linger,
And the raindrops quietly fall,
Sleeping there so peacefully our dear mother and father, waiting for us all.
Sadly missed by
THEIR CHILDREN.
Mass this morning at Notre Dame Church, Wellston.

SCHOPP—In loving memory of our beloved son, Erwin Schopp, who departed this life three years ago, Feb. 13. Gone but not forgotten. Sadly missed by his mother, sister and brother,
MRS. FRED SCHOPP, STELLA AND FRED SCHOPP JR.

SCHOTT—In loving memory of my dear husband and daddy, Erwin Schott, who passed away Feb. 13, 1927:
What is home without a daddy?
All things this world may send,
But when we lost our dear daddy
We lost our dearest friend.
Sadly missed by WIFE AND SONS.

STEBER—In remembrance of our dearly beloved son, Oliver Steber, who died Feb. 8, 1923.
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
MOTHER AND FATHER.

SEWELL—In memory of John W. Sewell Jr., who departed this life one year ago Feb. 6.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay.
But love for you who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.
His grandmother,
MRS. J. R. SEWELL AND FAMILY.

WALLACE—In memory of my hear husband, Mr. O. J. Wallace; died Feb. 2, 1930.
The face I loved is now laid low
His loving voice is still.
The hand so often clasped in mine
Lies now in death's cold chill.
I often sit and think of him
When I am all alone.
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
HIS WIFE, CAROLINE WALLACE. (c)

WEILAND, MARTHA R.—In loving memory, who died Feb. 10, 1929:
You're not forgotten, mother dear,
Nor ever shall you be
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. (c)

WIESLER—In loving memory of my dear wife and mother, Rose Wiesler, who passed away Feb. 7, 1930.
Our family circle has been broken,
Though we parted for a while,
We know we'll meet again.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you;
Life has never been the same.
In our heart your memory lingers,
Tender, fond and true.
There is not a day that we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by your HUSBAND, K. WIESLER, AND CHILDREN.

WILLIAMS—In loving memory of Hugh J. Williams, died Feb. 8, 1930:
No one knows how much I miss him;
No one knows the bitter pain
I have suffered since I lost him;
Life has never been the same.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true
There is not a day, dear daddy,
That I do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, ROSE M. WILLIAMS, AND SISTERS. (c)

HELP WANTED—MEN, BOYS

Men and Women WANTED

Amazing Opportunity to Make

$54 a Week

I want to get in touch with a man or woman in each locality who is ambitious to make money and who wants good, steady work. If you are that person I will make you a wonderful offer. I will give you a splendid opportunity to make $54 a week in pleasant, short-hour work that ANYONE—ANYWHERE —can do. You don't need experience. All you do is carry out a few simple instructions and help me handle my business in your locality. Work can be done in daytime or evenings.

Marek Clears $100 in a Week

My money-making business is time-tested and proven. W. A. Marek, a 21-year-old Connecticut boy, makes $65 to $75 a week with me—often as much as $100 a week. Mrs. Carrie McCalmant of Nebraska, a housewife with 2 children, makes $50 a week WORKING ONLY 2 DAYS A WEEK. Sol. Korenblit, a New Yorker, makes $110 a week. Mrs. Edgar Crcuthamel, of Penn., cleared $89.72 in a single week. These remarkable earnings show the wonderful possibilities. Is there any reason why you can't do as well?

No Capital Needed

In this small space I can't give you all the details, but if you will send me your name I will rush my written offer to you. You can get started making big money at once. No need to write a letter. Just mail the coupon. But do it now—before someone else gets in ahead of you.

MAIL THIS NOW

EMPLOYMENT MANAGER,
7472 Monmouth Av., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Please rush full details of the pleasant, short-hour work in my locality that offers a chance to make $54 a week—starting at once.

Whiteside, Ring and Ford

Three Stage Stars Here This Week in Two New Plays and the Revival of an Old One—Shubert Has "A Chinese Bungalow," Mary Hart Presents Comedienne in "Ladies of the Jury," While the Grand Central Has Stirring Crook Meller, "Broadway."

TWO plays new to St. Louis and the revival of an old, but popular one, are offered theatergoers this week for Walker Whiteside comes to the Shubert tonight in the Oriental meller, "A Chinese Bungalow," Mary Hart has brought that prime comedienne, Blanche Ring, on as the star of "Ladies of the Jury," which likewise gets under way this evening at the Orpheum, and tomorrow night "Broadway" begins a week's visit to the Grand Central with Wallace Ford as the guest artist in the role of the hoofer originated by Lee Tracy and played by Ford in the road tour of the piece some seasons ago. Blanche Ring, as the star in "Ladies of the Jury," has the part which is being played by Mrs. Fiske in Chicago at the present time.

The American Theater, still suffering from a lack of dramatic attractions, tonight will offer, for this evening only, the Denishawn Dancers, headed by Ted Shawn, in a classical program. The Grand Central, which has experimented with Thursday and Saturday as opening days for its stock company, is now making another switch and "Broadway," as said before, will open Monday night.

"THE CHINESE BUNGALOW" is reported to be ultra-modern and deals with the romance of oriental passion, high adventure and thrilling situations. Written by Marion Osmond and James Corbet, and first presented in London, "The Chinese Bungalow" has not yet been seen in New York, but Walker Whiteside has been starring in it since the early autumn of 1930.

Yuan Sing is the sixth Far East character in which Mr. Whiteside has appeared during the last several seasons. This particular Chinaman is a man of the world, equally at home in diplomatic circles abroad, and in the high councils of his Chinese government.

Sing's particular realm is the dense Malay jungle, wherein his rubber plantations and tin mines earn princely returns. Immured in an ornate bungalow are pretty Mrs. Sing and her handsome sister, both English. To this jungle Eden comes a stalwart young Englishman, who makes mad love to Mrs. Sing, with the result that Yuan Sing deems it necessary to wipe out the blot on the family escutcheon. His methods are typically Asiatic.

IN ADDITION to Miss Ring Mary Hart has imported three members of the original company for "Ladies of the Jury"—Hallie Manning, Lawrence Wall and Audrey Baird. Pierre Watkin will have a leading part in the play and Owen Davis Jr., stage and screen star who is now a permanent member of the resident company at the Orpheum, is cast in an important role. Others in the play will be Philip Lord, Walter Davis, Willard Robertson, Louis Tanno, Kenneth Bartin and Walter Wilson.

"Ladies of the Jury" is a comedy with its scenes laid in a court room and the action centering around a murder trial. Following the trial scene, which opens the play, the jury leaves to decide the fate of the defendant. From then on the story concerns the jurors and their own personal "trial" in the jury room. On the very first vote a deadlock is assured and the remainder of the play is given over to the bringing about of a very unexpected verdict.

The jurors range in character from a respected society matron to a slangy chorus beauty and from a young poet to a greengrocer. The situations arising from their viewpoints on the case are said to make "Ladies of the Jury" a most amusing comedy.

THE Grand Central Players this week present the largest cast they have yet assembled in "Broadway," which opens tomorrow night. As already remarked, Wallace Ford heads the company, appearing as Roy Lane, the small-time dancing man. Two other players also make their debut with the Grand Central organization tomorrow night—Arthur Pierson, for two seasons at the Orpheum, and Elain Melchoir, who happens to be a cousin of the famous German tenor, Laurenz Melchoir.

"Broadway" has to do with a gang-war over bootleg territory. There are high-jackers, gangsters, gorillas and gunmen, who plan the strategy of their warfare in the back room of Nick Verdis' Broadway night club.

Opposite Ford as the hoofer is Pierson as Steve Crandall, gangster and gunman with a gentlemanly pose. Lysle Talbot is the detective, Dan McCorn. Claire Trevor is cast as the innocent dancer Billie, and Elain Melchoir has the difficult dramatic role of Pearl, the avenging one. Others in the cast will be: Joseph Creehan, Sara Perry, J. Arthur Young, Charles Laite, Theresa Guerini, Doris Underwood and Jonathan Hole.

WALKER WHITESIDE'S first oriental impersonation was enacted right here in St. Louis at the former Century Theater some dozen or more years ago. The character was the Japanese diplomat Tokeramo in "Typhoon," a play which was destined to start the actor on the road of Far East delineations culminating with Yuan Sing in "The Chinese Bungalow," the piece which will bring him back to the Shubert Theater tonight after an absence of several seasons. Successful plays of the orient in which Mr. Whiteside has starred in recent years are "The Hindu," "Sakura," "The Arabian" and "Mr. Wu."

The older generation of theatergoers will readily recall Walker Whiteside's Shakspearean productions which were annual events at the Olympic Theater. The actor, then in his early manhood, starred in "Hamlet," "Richard III," "The Merchant of Venice" and "Othello," occasionally adding "Richelieu" and "Eugene Aram" to his repertory.

Then came "The Melting Pot." Written by Israel Zangwill, the character of the young immigrant David Quixano, typified the innumerable foreign born races struggling for existence and recognition in America. Whiteside traveled up and down and across the land in "The Melting Pot," and eventually acted the play for an entire season at the Queens and Comedy theaters in London. Then, for a decade he appeared in such dramas as "Heart and Sword," "We Are King," "The Man in Black," "Red Cockade," "Beloved Vagabond," "The Magic Melody," "The Master of Ballantrae" and "Royal Box."

Iturbe, Pianist, Soloist With The Symphony

JOSE ITURBE, the Spanish pianist, comes to St. Louis this week to make his debut as soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in its concerts of Friday afternoon and Saturday evening. Iturbe made his first New York appearance last season and was followed by three public recitals, three appearances as orchestral soloist and four other engagements in Gotham. He has appeared with the New York Philharmonic, under Mengelberg, with Stokowski at the Philharmonic Symphony concerts, under Koussevitzky with the Boston Symphony, under Stock with the Chicago Orchestra, and under Reiner with the Cincinnati Orchestra.

He will play here Mozart's D Minor concerto, with the Beethoven cadenzas, and later in the program appears a second time, playing Liszt's Hungarian Fantasy, which is the composer's own transcription for orchestra and pianoforte

Iturbe is soloist of Vladimir Golschmann's farewell program to regular symphony audiences this season. The young French conductor will present Beethoven's "Leonore No. 3" overture, the "Prelude and Love-Death" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde;" Debussy's "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun," and Ravel's "La Valse."

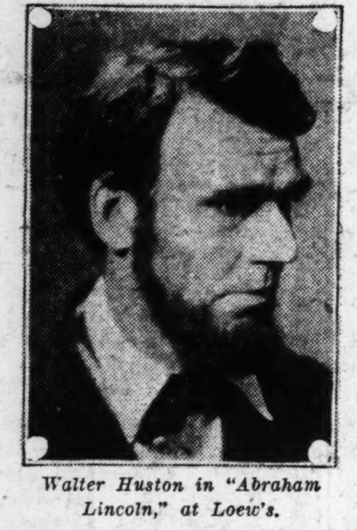
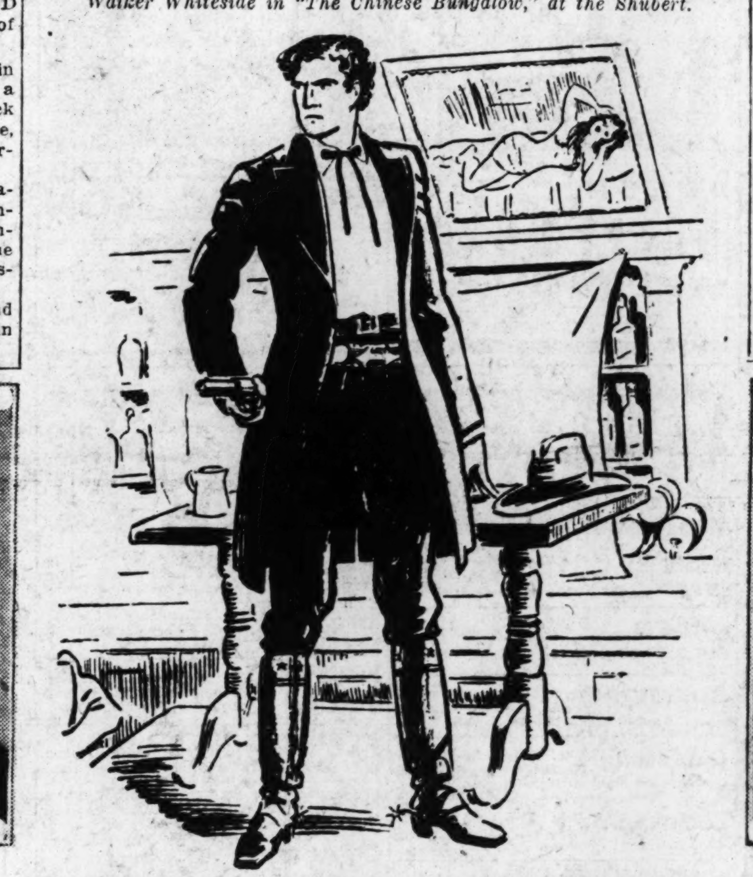
Shawn Here Tonight

A DIVERSIFIELD program of 17 dance numbers will be presented tonight in a single recital at the American Theater by Ted Shawn, Ernestine Day and the Denishawn Dancers. Shawn is making a short tour of America's leading cities previous to sailing early in March for a second professional visit to Germany.

The Denishawn programs have long been well known for their originality and variety. Naturally the principal novelties will fall to Shawn and foremost among these will be "The Divine Idiot" to the music of Scriabin. Another group will be four dances based on American folk music in which Shawn will dance an "An Old Fiddler's Breakdown" bearing the title "Sheep and Goat Walkin' to the Pasture," followed by the Negro spiritual "Nobody Knows De Trouble I've Seen;" a revival hymn, "Give Me the Old-Time Religion," and ending with the patriotic "Battle Hymn of the Republic."



Walter Huston in "Abraham Lincoln," at Loew's.



Richard Dix as Yancy Cravat in "Cimarron," at the St. Louis.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS — — By Nie

LOVE and hate, good women and bad women, real men with hearts of gold and outlaws with no hearts at all, figure in "Cimarron," the very best picture of the year, so far, at the St. Louis Theater. Made from and sticking very closely to Edna Ferber's glamorous romance of the adventurous days of Oklahoma, when the Indian country was the last outpost of the bad lands, the story literally thunders through the years up to the present time, taking in, during its journey, the land rush of 1889, the opening of the Cherokee Strip, the killing of the Southwest's most picturesque outlaw, Billy, the Kid, the discovery of oil, an echo of the Spanish-American War and a hint of the later struggle in Europe. A fairly large order that, and, of necessity, taking considerable time in the telling, but in the entire two hours and more which the film runs there is not a moment when the audience is not held spellbound. Richard Dix, one of the he-men of the screen, is the central figure, the Yancy Cravat, Miss Ferber's picturesque editor-lawyer-adventurer who sees, from the first, the tremendous future of the Indian country. Wealth and power are in his grasp many times, but always his thirst for new fields and new excitement carries him away and he dies, in the end, a broken old man, in the arms of his wife who has risen to the glory which might have been his. Irene Dunne is the wife and her performance perhaps equals that of Mr. Dix, while some magnificent bits are contributed by Rosco Ates, as a tramp printer who settles down, and by George Stone as an itinerant Jewish trader who becomes a merchant prince. There are others, many of them, but Dix towers above them all. The pageantry, especially in the early scenes of the land rush, when thousands of men and women battle for new homes and new towns, is superb, and "Cimarron" is one of the few epics to be written on the screen.

A Fine History Lesson.

WALTER HUSTON'S "Abraham Lincoln," down at Loew's is a great piece or work. To begin with Huston is one of the very best actors on the screen and in this story of the life of Lincoln—(which begins with his very birth and carries on, more or less episodically, through his assassination)—he has a great opportunity to display his talents. The picture is finely and carefully made and Huston has the best of support from an excellent surrounding cast, but, despite all of this, "Abraham Lincoln," as a film, is too much of an historical record to have, we are afraid, wide appeal to the regular movie customers. It is a more or less delightful text book surprisingly well illustrated, but a text book, just the same, and this is hardly a studious age among the people who lay their money on the box office shelf. History is closely followed in the making of the picture, although it does start off with a shipload of African slaves being brought to this country and singing, on the way, some mournful Negro spirituals—in pretty good English.

Clara Looking Up.

CLARA BOW, as we have attempted to point out several times, would be a good actress if she ever had the chance and in "No Limit," at the Ambassador, she begins to show what she can really do in that line. The picture comes close to being her best screen effort. The story is direct and reasonably convincing and the red-headed first page buster is not called upon to act cute and kittenish in an effort to splash IT all over the white curtain. As usual Clara is a poor, but honest, working gal—this time she is an usher in a movie chapel—who leads a gangster back to the straight and narrow path and then waits for him while he squares things with society by doing his stretch in Sing Sing. Harry Green, as a typical theater manager, and Stewart Erwin, as a kindly boy friend, help the picture a lot and Bernice Claire, who is a popular screen star herself, is appearing in person on the Ambassador's stage in Jack Haley's entertaining show so that Clara's picture ought to go over with a smash this week.

La Garbo in Love.

LOVE is the theme of Greta Garbo's film, "Inspiration," at the Box and love is displayed from a lot of different angles throughout the eight or nine reels. Garbo, who gives a really fine performance, is a weak woman with a strong appetite who passes up a lot of wealthy sweethearts to be with a nice boy who has everything the rich people have but money. The scenes are laid in Paris and thereabouts and the story is strikinkly like our old friend "Camille." So long as the Hollywood Dumas stuck to the Camille thing they were all right but when they struck out on their own and refused to let the heart-broken lady die in her rose-covered—or maybe it was snowbound—cottage the story sort of went to pieces and the ending was not satisfactory to fans who looked for a coughing finish or a final clinch with everybody happy. What they got was the suggestion that the lovely Garbo would be lonesome for the rest of her life.

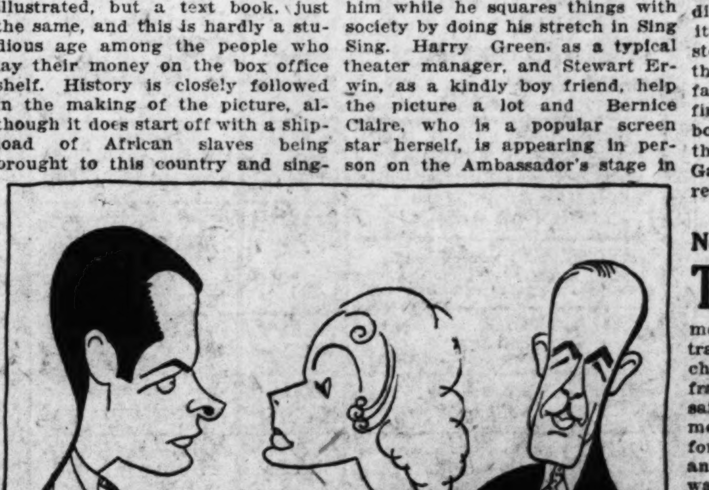
Not So Hot.

THE Missouri Theater's rather crude bid for the patronage of the youngsters in the announcement that "Today," the current attraction, was "not recommended for children under 18" was only half frank. The theater should have said that the film was not recommended for children under 18—or for any one else. "Today" is just an old line society meller which was considered rather daring as a stage play some years ago. It is rather well acted by Conrad Nagel and considerably overacted by Catherine Dale Owen, who attempts to show that a wife, used to pretty clothes, should not suffer for the lack of them when her husband goes broke in the stock market. Maybe it shows that she should suffer—we are not quite certain about the moral drawn.



Robert Armstrong, Greta Garbo and Lewis Stone in "Inspiration," at the Fox.

A 'Gentlemen's Agreement'

What Warner's Raid on the Paramount Lot Means to the Hollywood Stars—City Slickers and Gangsters Furnishing the Themes for a Rush of Underworld Films, and a Score or More Are on the Way.

IN connection with the break between the Skouras boys and the Warner Brothers and the probable realignment of the former with the Paramount organization, as told in these columns last Sunday, reference was made to the sudden battle for stars which has broken out between Warners and the Paramount studios. What is laughingly referred to out in Hollywood as a "gentlemen's agreement" was smashed to bits by the Warner's raid on the Lasky-Zukor lot. Ruth Chatterton and William Powell, stars, were the first taken in the raid. Kay Francis, who recently became Mrs. Kenneth MacKenna, was the third.

Studios long ago agreed unofficially that the organization developing the player had first the full rights to his services as long as it wanted them. Options usually took care of that.

The Warner move was somewhat of a surprise to Hollywood. The Warners were badly in need of starring material, but no one expected them to invade the ranks of a friendly competitor,

There is talk that Warners are not through yet. It is known that their agents tried hard to get Lew Ayres, who was borrowed from Universal to play in "The Doorway to Hell."

ANOTHER (co-called) gentlemen's agreement, one having to do with loaned players' salaries, is off. Originally 25 per cent above the salary was paid when a studio borrowed a star or featured player from a rival.

In the last few months, for some unaccountable reason, the market value of borrowed actors and actresses has jumped astoundingly.

Constance Bennett, who makes as many pictures for other studios as she does for her own, Pathe, is said to be worth $100,000 a picture. She gets a percentage of the "bonus." When Ann Harding is loaned out she is said to bring as much.

Formerly a player with good possibilities was never loaned for fear he might be ruined by a rival's picture. Today, however, a studio may loan a featured player and get back a star.

Ruth Chatterton's first big success came in "Madame X," for which she went to M-G-M from Paramount. Robert Montgomery came strikingly forward in "Three Live Ghosts," for which he was borrowed. Phillips Holmes was considered sensational in "The Criminal Code," and through it his value to Paramount was almost doubled.

CLARA BOW'S new picture, down at the Ambassador this week, is all about—or nearly all about—gangs and gangsters, and with something like a score of films on the same theme released, or soon to be, one wonders if they will meet the fate of the musicals.

The success of the first "filmusicals" was so tremendous that Hollywood couldn't make enough of them. The mad scramble to put them out brought overproduction, and suddenly the public wearied of them.

The fast-moving "Alibi," one of the first gangster talkies, led the present vogue. But "Alibi" can hardly be held responsible for the new development. That credit—if any—probably belongs to the gangsters themselves.

The movies, somehow, have given the gangster a romantic halo that ill becomes the real big-city bad man. And Hollywood is cashing in on that false glamour.

ONLY two of the newer gang pictures treat the subject semi-humorously. One is Jack Oakie's "Gang Buster," which the Missouri had last week, and the other is El Brendel's "Mr. Lemon of Orange." Incidentally El plays a dual role—a gangster and his own Swedish character.

John Gilbert's latest, "Gentlemen's Fate," said to be his best in some time, brings him into a new locale, the underworld. Richard Barthelmess is presently making a film based on the activities and death of a Chicago reporter who meddled in gangland politics.

AMONG some of the others are "Little Caesar," with Edward Robinson in the title role, said to have been suggested by the life of the "big boy" of Chicago gangdom. This was probably the best one of them all, by the way.

Had not Clara Bow been too busy with a little drama of her own, she would have been co-starred with Gary Cooper in a gang drama called "City Lights." Instead, Sylvia Sidney, a newcomer from the stage, will be with Gary.

Jack Holt has been in two pictures dealing with the subject, "The Last Parade" and "The Squealer." Others include "The Secret Six," "Skyline" and "Gun Smoke." At least eight others are in active preparation, and it is safe to say as many more are being considered.

Neeter Soloist in Pop Concert Today

THE St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will present Philip Neeter, its solo violist, in the role of soloist of the regular Sunday Radio Pop Concert at the Odeon at 5 p. m. today. Neeter is to play the Serenade for Viola from Marco Bossi's "Intermessi Goldoniani." He has an international reputation as solo violist, having been widely known in Europe, South America and the eastern United States before coming to St. Louis.

Vladimir Golschmann's program includes the "Largo" from Dvorak's "New World" symphony and the two most popular movements from Tschaikowsky's "Pathetic" symphony, the second and the third. It offers also Mendelssohn's tuneful "Ruy Blas" overture, Liszt's delightful "Liebestraum" and Chabrier's brilliant "Spanish Rhapsody."

Galli-Curci to Sing In Recital Next Week

AMELITA GALLI-CURCI, one of the best known coloratura sopranos, comes to St. Louis in recital at the Odeon Friday, Feb. 20, for her first appearance in this city in five years. Since that time she has abandoned opera altogether and has toured not only Europe, but the Orient, as a recitalist, coming here fresh from triumphs in England during the last months of 1930.

German-American Folk Play Tonight

"Die neue Heimat" (The New Fatherland) is the title of a new German-American folk play, which will be given tonight for the first time in St. Louis by the German Theater Stock Company in the auditorium of the German House, 2345 Lafayete avenue.

This is a German-American piece which describes the fate of a German family, which just has immigrated to this country. The language is half English and half German and numerous German folk songs are inserted.

Ted Shawn, dancer, at the American tonight.

Ferguson Will Sing Number by Goossens

BERNARD FERGUSON, well known baritone, will sing for the first time anywhere a new song, "I Hear An Army," by Eugene Goossens, next Tuesday night, in his recital at the Women's Club, 4600 Lindell boulevard. Goossens, former guest conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, is a great friend of the singer, who has often been the orchestra's soloist, and he has dedicated to the St. Louisan this, his latest work.

Ferguson's program contains a group from the old Italian, another from the French, while a third is representative of some of the greatest of German lieder writers. The final group has two Moussorgsky songs together with English and American numbers. Leo C. Miller will assist at the piano.

Sime Silverman's Variety has celebrated its twenty-fifth birthday. Few periodicals have achieved its distinction for fearlessness. Variety has tossed away thousands in advertising revenue because it championed what it believed to be right. Written in the rough and ready language of the stage alleys, it is read in every stratum of life and by innumerable persons who have no interest in its exclusive news of the amusements. Variety is often discussed in the academic halls of the big universities as an incongruity in journalistic appeal.

The playwrighting twins Will C. Lengel and Lou Levenson had no sooner finished dramatizing Bromfield's "Shatter Glass" than they turned to the dramatizing of Hergesheimer's "The Party Dress," believed by many his best story. Lengel, incidentally, when 14 decided to dramatize "Monsieur Beaucaire" by a then unknown author, Booth Tarkington. When almost finished, he learned Mansfield had been appearing in the play in Daly's in New York for months.

Father Coughlin Gets Up to 200,000 Letters in a Week

In a sparsely settled suburb of Detroit, a 40-year-old priest receives and answers as many as 200,000 letters a week. Within the parish of the Shrine of the Little Flower, on Twelve-Mile road, live 64 families. But the congregation which hears its pastor, Father Charles E. Coughlin, is numbered by the hundreds of thousands.

His secretarial staff numbers exactly the same as the families in his parish, and is divided into four sections, each in charge of a chief secretary. Everyone is a salaried employe. His expenses average $10,000 a week and his employes include a Washington correspondent. To take care of requests for copies of his sermons, he has 100,000 or more printed every week.

The letters come from persons who tune their radios to the CBS chain stations over which Father Coughlin each Sunday evening broadcasts a sermon on economic and social problems, unemployment, Communism, drouth relief, the responsibility of the church and of the employer.

His mail increased greatly after a recent protest to the Columbia System which brought a request to "temper" a contemplated sermon. He consented, but the next week delivered it with additions.

What's New in Radio Industry

Atwater Kent Sales Manager Here—Koerber-Brenner Co. to Distribute Majestic—Brunswick Sponsors Poll of Country on Commercial Broadcasting.

Atwater Kent Officials Here.

F. E. Basler, general sales manager of the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Co., Philadelphia, and H. L. Stockholm, Southwestern sales manager, were in St. Louis Monday and Tuesday to confer with the Brown & Hall Supply Co., Atwater Kent distributer, and dealers on the business situation. Bassler is making a tour of trade centers that will take him to the Pacific Coast.

Basler said he viewed the radio prospect as entirely favorable to every branch of the industry. "A Atwater Kent sees radio continuing as a major industry, paralleling other great industries of the country," he said. "The fact is that radio as a product, and radio as something of advantage to humanity, will compel its continuance as a major industry.

"Mr. Kent makes this statement: 'I am personally interested in my business, not for the present only, but for the years to come. And my policies will continue to be shaped with that single point in mind.' "

Basler holds that television in the home is a matter for the quite distant future. His reasons for so thinking include the small size of television pictures and difficulties in finding channels for television broadcasting, especially as thus far television and voices have not been synchronized for broadcasting and two stations are required. He said he expected greater improvement in broadcasting by many stations and by advertisers.

Majestic Distributer Named.

The Koerber & Brenner Co., 1115 Pestalozzi street, announces its appointment as distributer of Majestic receivers and refrigerators in the St. Louis territory. The appointment was made by W. Collamore, general sales manager of the Grigsby-Grunow Co., Chicago. Harry G. Koerber is president of the distributing firm, which has been in business in St. Louis for 26 years. Harry B. Bibb is general manager, having come to the firm in 1929 after 12 years with Brunswick in Chicago, and service previously with the Columbia Phonograph Co.

The new Majestic line comprises six models, all super-heterodynes. Three models have an eight-tube circuit—a mantel type set, a lowboy console in Sheraton design and a lowboy console in Tudor style. The other models have a nine-tube circuit, which includes automatic volume control. These models are a lowboy Tudor console, a Hepple-

Here and There on the Air

Pope's Voice to Be Heard Over All Three Chains, Feb. 12.—Maj. Bowes "Family" to Shift to Friday Nights, March 6—Henderson and KWKH in New Fight With Federal Board—Toscha Seidel's Recital Changed to Friday Nights — The "Three Doctors" Back on CBS Chain—WIL Opposes Petition for Teachers' College Station at Kirksville, Mo., on Its Channel.

Weather conditions over the Atlantic Ocean permitting, the voice of Pope Pius XI will be broadcast by both NBC chains and the CBS network about 11 o'clock next Thursday forenoon. The program will carry the two-hour ceremony marking the ninth anniversary of the Pope's coronation. It will be broadcast by the Vatican's new short wave station, HVJ, will be picked up by the powerful short wave receiving stations on the Atlantic Coast and then will be rebroadcast over the chain stations, including KSD, KWK, KMOX. It is presumed that the Pope will speak in Latin. Guglielmo Marconi also will be on the program, which will be the first sent out by the Vatican station. Tests with HVJ have been conducted by the NBC and CBS engineers for three weeks, and owners of short wave sets in this country, particularly in New York, New England and Nebraska, have reported excellent reception of its signals.

Maj. Bowes' Capitol Family programs, which have been a Sunday evening feature over KSD for several years, are to be shifted to the hour from 6 to 7 o'clock Friday nights, beginning March 6. KSD will be unable to broadcast the new programs, for some time, at least because that period is used by KFUO. Maj. Bowes proposes to increase his orchestra to 75 to 100 musicians and to feature radio and vaudeville artists and entertainers of national reputation.

Another program that lovers of the finer music were coming to rely on to make Wednesday night on the air more worth while was displaced by a commercial program of the popular type last week when the Sunkist Musical Cocktail took the place of Toscha Seidel, the violinist, and orchestra, on the CBS chain at 7:30. Seidel's recital has been shifted to 7 o'clock Friday nights.

After he gets a good start on his 26-week radio contract Maurice Chevalier's series over KSD, which will begin at 7:30 tonight, is to be increased to an hour. His first four programs are to be for half an hour, but, starting March 8, the time will be from 7 to 8 o'clock. This will give him opportunity to include four songs as well as more of his patter. The Dave Rubinoff orchestra furnishes the music. It is to make way for the hour-long Chevalier program that Maj. Bowes and the Capitol family will be moved to Friday nights.

Vaughn de Leath is billed to return to NBC chain within the next three weeks. She was loaned several months ago to WTAM, Cleveland. Baby Rose Marie will be back before a microphone soon. She has been making a vaudeville tour.

The Three Doctors—for a time known as the Three Bakers—are back on the CBS chain, at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoons. They're not to have a sponsor this time, but will be a sustaining feature, which, in broadcast parlance, means a program not paid for by an advertiser. The Three Doctors are Russell Pratt, Ransome Sherman and Joe Rudolph. They won fame for their hodge podge programs over WMAQ, Chicago. Their new program is their second introduction to the Columbia Chain, which had them for three weeks under a sponsor. They went off the chain because, they said, they refused to be "conventionalized" or become "continuity readers." It was said also that letters of protest came from the industry that their programs were intended to boost. They are to have a free hand in their new chain feature, which will originate at WMAQ as key station. Their local programs over WMAQ will continue.

With Congressman M. A. Romjue of Macon appearing as both counsel and chief witness, the Northeast Missouri State Teachers' College has appealed to the Federal Radio Commission for a permit to erect a new 100-watt broadcasting station at Kirksville, Mo. The application was opposed by WIL, St. Louis, whose wave length of 1200 kilocycles is sought by the school.

Romjue said that Northeastern Missouri was without a radio station, although its people regularly tune in St. Louis and Kansas City stations. The proposed school station, he said, would be devoted to educational broadcasts and would be supported by private contributions and by public funds, the latter to be made available by the State because the college is a State institution. Chief Examiner Yost, after pointing out that Missouri is overquota in radio facilities, took the case under advisement.

The police department of Jackson, Mo., has applied to the commission for authority to erect a 250-watt police radio station.

The fight between W. K. Henderson, owner of KWKH, Shreveport, La., and the Federal Radio Commission over the former's request for an increase to 30,000 watts power and the report against him by the commission's examiner, Elmer W. Pratt, has taken a new turn. WWL, the station at New Orleans that shares times on 850 kilocycles with KWKH, has asked the commission to let it increase power to 10,000 watts and have full time on the air instead of sharing with KWKH. WWL is owned and operated by Loyola College.

February Auto Production Increased 35 to 59 Per Cent Over First Estimates on Basis of Orders Received

Factories Tend To Hold Dealers Within Limits

By CHRIS SINSABAUGH.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 7.—February motor car production, although geared closely to demand from dealers, seems destined to be larger than the most optimistic executives thought a few weeks ago. On the basis of orders received, production schedules for the month have been variously increased from 35 to as much as 59 per cent over previous estimates.

Like the national automobile shows, local displays have been heartening to the entire industry. Buying power revealed at these expositions—not new attendance records—is the stimulus to renewed optimism. From such centers as Philadelphia, Cleveland, St. Louis, Washington, San Francisco and Los Angeles the industry has received reports of an increase in buying.

Local show crowds, like those at the national displays, have been smaller, but contained a higher percentage of buyers. Even 1929 failed to produce such large show buying as this season in many instances.

February is counted on to offer even more convincing evidence of an improvement in general conditions than did January. Although last month's production was considerably under the 285,000 units that slipped off the lines in the same month a year ago, the industry is not disturbed. It recognizes that the 1930 figure marked the beginning of a downward glide while the approximately 200,000 production last month indicated a turn in the other direction.

Ford's shutdown for inventory had its effect on the January production this year. With that company now back on heavy schedule, February's figure cannot fail to be cheering.

One can almost feel the sentiment about 1931 crystalizing among the industry's leaders. It is, briefly, that the second quarter will see buying considerably accelerated and that, if general conditions continue to improve, the third and fourth quarters will be excellent. Beyond that, with replacement buying gaining momentum, the majority think that 1932 cannot fail to be one of the best, if not the best years in the industry's history. Walter P. Chrysler, Alfred P. Sloan and R. H. Grant are three of the highest executives to express such convictions. Most of the others agree.

The about-face done by so many dealers is one of the most surprising phenomena now being encountered by the factory executives. In sharp contrast with their disquiet and lack of confidence a few months ago, dealers are ordering larger stocks of cars. In some cases they are going beyond the level the manufacturer regards as reasonable.

Dealer enthusiasm fairly swamped the car makers at the Chicago show. For the first time factory sales executives were for limited commitments.

Highway Engineers To Meet Here Feb. 18

The aannual meeting of the Highway Engineers' Association of Missouri is to be held at the Statler Hotel on Feb. 18-20. It is expected that most of the men interested in road building in the State will attend.

C. W. Brown is president of the association and C. H. Swift, secretary.

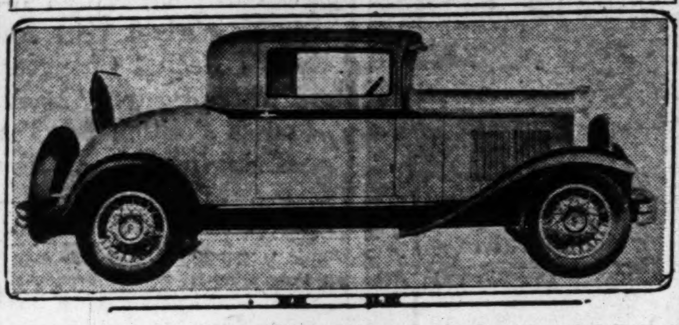
Hydraulic Brakes on Plymouth



The Plymouth coupe, with rumble seat, the lowest cost full-sized model, with hydraulic brakes.

How Group Idea Reduces Costs In Making Cars

Plymouth Operating Manager Explains Ways Large Econmies Are Effected.

The Plymouth car is a graphic expression of the most modern group idea in automobile manufacture. This idea results in producing a car which meets the general requirements of the industry and individualizes each of the foregoing factors for the benefit of purchasers in the lowest-price car group, according to P. C. Sauerbrey, vice president and operating manager of the Plymouth Motor Corporation.

Thus Plymouth enjoys a greatly reduced overhead. Quality is raised cost is considerably lowered, Sauerbrey says.

The largest single room under one roof in the world—the Plymouth plant—has a floor space of 22.7 acres. The building is only 150 feet short of a half mile long.

"The building of the Plymouth car has been called one of the most remarkable manufacturing operations in existence. Ten important principles making for economical production have been successfully worked out. They are:

"Minimized handling of materials and minimized transport.

"Exact convergence of materials and parts at all machines and assembly posts.

"Multiple-operation machines.

"Fully automatic machine tools.

"Minimized machining of parts through more accurately produced castings and shapes.

"Special machine tools exactly fitting Plymouth requirements, rather than standard tools purchased in the open market.

"Continuous gauging during manufactur.

"Purchase of outside-made units in the unfinished state, permitting better inspection as to quality.

"Long, straight assembly lines with working pits, to which all finished parts converge easily.

"Constant search for new processes.

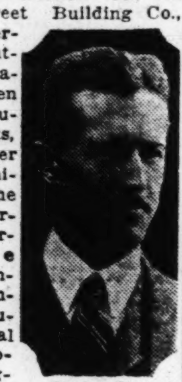
"An example of economy is found in some of the Plymouth machining operations. Where common practice requires a 100-pound casting to produce a 50-pound machined part, Plymouth methods save 40 pounds of wastage by getting the same finished part from a 60-pound casting. Similar economies have been achieved throughout the entire manufacturing process.

"In reducing the human factor which is responsible for the quality of workmanship, Plymouth engine production is a striking illustration. The engine assembly is a plant in itself, although the line runs into one of the two main assembly lines.

"Many of the machines in the plant were designed especially for Plymouth, and every rotating machine in the plant has its own individual electric motor."

Lionberger Heads New Truck and Bus Distributing Firm

Company Will Be Jobbers of Studebaker and Pierce-Arrow Commercial Vehicles.



—Strauss Portrait
J. S. Lionberger

The Eighteenth Street Truck and Bus Sales Co., a division of the Eighteenth Street Building Co., owner and operator of the Eighteenth Street Garage, has been pointed distributer of trucks, busses and other commercial vehicles made by the Studebaker-Pierce-Arrow Corporation. The lines to be handled include funeral cars, ambulances, funeral service cars, police patrol wagons, fire trucks and parts for all Pierce-Arrow and Studebaker commercial vehicles.

The firm's sales and display rooms are at Seventeenth and Chestnut streets, in the Eighteenth Street Garage building. John S. Lionberger, president of the Eighteenth Street Building Co., is head of the new concern. C. S. Clinton will be in charge of bus sales and J. N. Kellerman will be truck sales manager.

C. S. Clinton.

There are three chassis and 48 body styles in the new Studebaker truck and bus line. A light delivery body on the half-ton chassis comes in panel, screen and canopy top styles. There is a 136-inch wheelbase tractor type on the two-ton chassis. The one and one-half-ton chassis comes in 130-inch or 160-inch wheelbase, while there are three wheelbase lengths—136, 148 and 160—in the tractor and dump truck type.

Pierce-Arrow, returning to the truck and commercial car field this year, offers new truck engineering features in five chassis types rated at 12,000, 18,000, 24,000, 28,000 and 34,000 pounds gross weight. Body styles are varied and solid or pneumatic tires are optional. Six-wheel axles are optional on the three largest types. Engines are of four sizes, from 70 to 130 h. p., all with dual ignition and downdraft carburetion. All except the 12,000-pound model have air brakes.

Hudson's President Speaks Here

Father Coughlin Gets Up to 200,000 Letters in a Week

living room of his home, but now is a storehouse for pile upon pile of bundles of letters, which barely leave room for a couch and a bookcase, Father Coughlin told how it all started. The Bishop called him from Lapeer, Mich., and sent him to Twelve-Mile Road to organize a new parish. Before long he found himself with a parish debt of $89,000, plans for a $760,000 church shrine and 32 families.

He took up broadcasting from the pulpit in the little rough, temporary frame church building. He never has asked for money, but voluntary contributions have paid the expenses.

The neat white and green house purchased for the priest's home is the office. The secretaries work on two floors and in the attic.

The letters bring up many subjects, from international banking to family quarrels and simple expressions of appreciation. The priest is particularly interested in the domestic problems submitted to him. "I believe," he said, "that sometimes I am able to prevent as many as 200 divorces in a week."

Ten religious periods a week over 75 stations were broadcast last year under the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and the Greater New York Federation of Churches. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman and Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick took part in 32 weekly winter programs. Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman and Dr. Charles L. Goodell were on the air in 10 weekly summer programs.

Control on the Manifold.

Manifold heat control is provided in many of the new models. Its purpose, of course, is to facilitate starting. Unaccustomed to such a control on their old machines, many motorists are found to be overlooking the advantage conferred upon them by the designer. Familiarizing oneself with the new controls is too simple not to be done.

What's New in Radio Industry

white highboy and a radio-phonograph in Georgian design.

All the new sets use the new Majestic "multi-mu" screen grid tube, which was designed to help eliminate "cross-talk" interference and reduce "hiss" and background noises in general. There is also a control which can be used to mitigate the effect of "crackling" noises or to compensate for differences in wall and floor conditions in rooms in which a set may be operating.

Plans Program Poll.

In an open letter to listeners, R. W. Jackson, vice president and general manager of the Brunswick Radio Corporation, says it is his belief that commercial broadcasting is fulfilling all of its obligations, but announces a plan to poll the public by mail, through broadcast programs and by motion picture screen "trailers" on these three questions:

"Are advertising programs as now broadcast obnoxious? Are listeners willing to make financial contributions toward the establishment of noncommercial programs? If they are willing to make contributions, are they also willing to go forth and work among their friends to raise a reasonable cash quota which will be set by the committee as necessary for the maintenance of broadcasting stations presenting programs that they believe to be ideal?"

A committee appointed to conduct the poll includes A. H. Woods, the theatrical producer; A. Charles Einfeld, of Warner Brothers, to represent the motion picture industry; Lady Winfield Sackville Stoner, to represent the public, and a group in the Brunswick organization headed by Paul S. Ellison, advertising manager.

McAneeny Talks To Hudson-Essex Organization Here

Says His Company's Doubling Its Working Force Shows Its Feeling About Business.

"We are perhaps wont to lose our national historical perspective, worry about existing business depressions, indulge in despairing moods, when we might mort profitably recall what the country's record has been in the face of other depressions—and study its recuperative powers," said William J. McAneeny, president and general manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co., who was in St. Louis Wednesday to address a meeting of Hudson and Essex dealers, held by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co.

"There was no magic formula applied to restore business then. There was no sure-fire cure-alls. Men, having absorbed valuable lessons, called upon the same courage and faith in themselves that they had when they went into business—and things started to move.

"Some have started now, confidence is gaining. We know now that there was no 'new era.' We know that the slower, more certain rules for success were sound, that there was no big money in paper mergers whereby two negatives were united to make a positive and that sleight-of-hand financial tricks that looked like epochal new methods of finance do not work. The country merely acknowltdges that the hard laws of honest values, of service rendered for an honest price, will work today as they have always worked.

"Business and industry have the courage to go ahead. I can cite our own case as an example. During the past month the Hudson Motor Car Co., since going into production on new models, has more than doubled its payroll, which means that it more than doubled the number of its employes. That indicates the extent of our confidence in the future, and that confidence was equaled by that of our vast distributing organization.

"These men are business leaders in the cities in which they so ably represent us. When the leaders go forward, the doubters will follow.

"Our confidence is reasserting itself; our ability, our resourcefulness, our ambition, plus the vast resources, vaster than in any other country, are stronger than ever.

"But if we stick to it, we'll turn this corner as we have turned other corners, and we will find the road beyond the corner the same old road that we have traveled before."

Firestone Service Store Planned for Women Motorists

The Firestone service store, which is to be opened here about the first of March, will be operated with the requirements of women motorists especially in mind, according to S. D. Leland, who recently came here to be its manager.

The idea is to operate a complete service store for an automobile. There will be a Cowdrey brake tester for real equalizing of brakes; a machine shop for trueing brake drums and relining brakes; a Wheel-o-meter for measuring wheel alignment and gauges for measuring the camber and caster to correct excessive tire wear. There will also be apparatus to test the electrical equipment of cars, electrically-operated vulcanizing mechanism, a high pressure washing outfit, machinery for quickly changing tires, and five hydraulic lifts.

There will be a lounge in which women motorists may wait while having their cars gone over and serviced.

Elliot Emphasizes Strategic Position Of Willys-Overland

Among the visitors to the St. Louis auto show was W. A. Elliot, formerly of St Louis, now district sales manager for Willys-Overland with headquarters at Kansas City.

Elliot at one time was zone sales manager for Willys-Overland with headquarters in this city, and later acted as regional manager for the Willys-Knight division He now directs the sales activities of Willys Six, Willys Eight and Willys-Knight distributers and dealers in Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas.

With the introduction of its 1931 line of cars, Willys-Overland is in a particularly advantageous position, its manufacturing and assembly plants being located at logical positions to simplify manufacture and distribution of its products, Elliot said.

"The program for 1931 calls for operation of the factories at Toledo, O.; Elmira, N. Y.; Pontiac, Mich.; Los Angeles, Toronto, Berlin and Stockport, England, on schedules which permit the highest efficiency and economy. At the same time the resources of this great manufacturing organization make it possible for Willys-Overland to speed up its production over its set schedules at any time to meet increased retail sales demand."

Oakland Executives Visit St. Louis

W. A. Blees, vice president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car Co., who spoke to a meeting of Oakland and Pontiac dealers here Friday.

P. Wesley Combs, advertising manager of the Oakland Motor Car Co.

Says U. S. Must Make 9,000,000 Cars in 2 Years

Blees Declares 7,500,000 Autos More Than Six Years Old Must Be Replaced.

That the automobile industry of this country will have to meet a demand for at least 9,000,000 cars in the next two years is a conservative estimate, in the opinion of W. A. Blees, vice president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car Co. Blees so told newspaper men and Oakland and Pontiac dealers in St. Louis Friday.

"There are in the United States 7,500,000 cars that are more than six years old," Blees said. "It is costing most of their owners more to operate these old, out of date cars than it would cost them to buy new ones. These cars must be replaced within the coming two years.

"The American people can not get along with fewer cars than they now have. There was more operation of cars in 1930 than in 1929. The gasoline consumption records alone show that. Suppose all the automobiles in the United States were to stop running for a day, for a week. Think of the disaster that would follow.

"In addition to the 7,500,000 cars that must be replaced, it is safe to count on exporting at least 500,000 a year. In two years that will be 1,000,000 cars, making a total of 8,500,000. First time buyers coming of age will call for at least 250,000 cars a year, or 500,000 in two years. Thus we can conservatively count on a demand for at least 9,000,000 cars before the end of 1932. It may go even to 9,500,000. If, as seems possible, the output this year is around 4,000,000 cars, 1932 will have to meet a demand for 5,000,000 or more."

Blees said that the Oakland-Pontiac plant had just gone on a 20-hour a day working schedule because it had not been producing cars rapidly enough to fill orders. Every effort is being made, he declared, to put ahead of everything else the building of a reputation for Oakland and Pontiac cars and dealers of dependability and honest service.

He says he believes that the depression is behind us, that the automotive industry is already definitely on the upgrade and that business in general is bound to go along with it.

Several hundred Oakland and Pontiac dealers and their local bankers attended a meeting at the Coronado Hotel Friday afternoon and a banqet in the evening. At the meeting Blees; P. Wesley Combs, advertising manager; H. M. Stephens, Western sales manager; W. R. Huber, sales promotion manager; Ross D. Williams, St. Louis zone manager, all of the Oakland Motor Car Co., and Wade Leach, vice president of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, were among the speakers.

Doors of Chrysler Easily Opened After Test With Elephant

Nothing in Car Out of Line When 10,000-Pound Animal Gets Off Its Top.

An elephant weighing 10,000 pounds was used in testing the strength of the all-steel bodies used on Chrysler cars, according to L. M. Stewart, president of Mid-West Motors, Inc., the local distributer.

This was an unusually good test, Stewart said, because as the animal stepped around on the roof and shifted his weight from foot to foot, the varying strains were far greater than if a solid five-ton weight had been used, while the elephant was on top of the car, and afterward, Stewart said, the doors could be opened with ease, not a door or piece of glass in the car being out of line.

Stewart expressed much satisfaction over the results of the St. Louis auto show. As chairman of the Show Committee, he was in a good position to survey the show as a whole and to observe the reaction of the public toward the exhibits and toward the industry as a whole. That the public realizes the extent to which the industry has gone to give increased values in cars for less money is unmistakable, he declared.

Speaking of his own line of cars, he remarked that in addition to a low center of gravity, the factory engineers had designed into Chryslers another safety advantage—an independent emergency brake on the transmission, something that he believed other factories eventually would incorporate in their models.

Lee Heads National Auto Show Managers Body for Tenth Year

For the tenth consecutive year, the National Association of Automobile Show Managers at its meeting in Chicago last week, elected Maj. Robert E. Lee of St. Louis national president. Lee has been manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers Association for 22 years and of the St. Louis Automobile Shows for the same length of time.

Managers of automobile shows in 36 cities compose the National Association of Automobile Show Managers. Herbert Buckman of Cleveland is vice president, H. H. Shuart of Detroit and Claude Holgate of Newark, N. J., are directors and Leon F. Banigan of Philadelphia is secretary and treasurer.

Three 'Air-Cooled' Treads on New Tire Seiberling Is Making

St. Louis Dealers Told That a Revolutionary Type Will Be Available April 1.

A new tire was announced by F. A. Seiberling, president of the Seiberling Rubber Co. of Akron, O., at a recent meeting in St. Louis at which George Schattgen and A. P. Woekrle of the Beverly Rubber Co., and their associated dealers were present.

"This tire," Seiberling said, "has three tire lives instead of one. It will exceed in anti-skid mileage delivered the finest tires built up to this time by 33 to 50 per cent.

"It has been named the Seiberling Triple Tread air-cooled tire. The name is descriptive. There are three tire lives in it, and three anti-skid treads instead of one, all made possible by the fact that each separate tread is air-cooled.

"Heat is the most destructive force affecting tires. Heretofore it has been impossible to build thicker tire treads because the thicker the tread the greater the heat that destroys. Air cooling by transverse holes makes it possible to add two more treads, two more tread lives, to this Seiberling tire.

"Seiberling is in production on this tire, which will be in Seiberling dealers' stores on April 1."

'Spread' in Sunday Post-Dispatch Only Method Used to Notify Public.

A record for sales of automobiles in a given time is claimed by J. S. Mitchell, general manage rof E. J. Johnson, Inc., distributer for Willys-Overland, who reports actual completition of retail deals for 257 new 1930 cars for a total of $153,943, and sale of 493 automoibles at wholesale to his organization's dealers, all within two days.

This sale was advertized only in the St. Louis Prst-Dispatch of Sunday, last. A single 14½-column spread advertisement was used in the Post-Dispatch.

Mitchell informed the Post-Dispatch on Tuesday that plans for further advertising of the sale must be dropped because all of the cars had been sold. The automobiles offered for sale were new 1930 models which the company desired to dispose of at once, to clear the way for the 1931 Willys sixes and eights and Willys-Knight cars.

Mitchell stated that only '47 trade-ins were involved in the 257 retail sales of cars and that the total receipts from the retail sales were $153,143, the cars bringing an average of $599.

"Persons well informed on automotive history say that this sale establishes a new high record," Mitchell said. "They regard it as a definite indication that the buying power of the public is swinging back to normal.

"The result has conclusively proved that there is ample cash in St. Louis for normal buying, and that persons will buy when they are assured of dollar for dollar value."

Free Wheeling's Advantages Told To Hupmobile Dealers

The principle of free wheeling as used in all Hupmobile cars was explained to dealers in the St. Louis territory at a meetnig at the Marquette Hotel held Thursday by the Weber Implement and Automobile Co. The explanation was made by George Lipe of the technical division of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation.

The principal speaker was I. M. Kauffelt, assistant sales manager for the Hupp factory, who discussed the sales possibilities of the new Hupmobiles, said that the factory would not attempt to overload its dealers, and pointed out that stocks of cars in the hands of Hupmobile dealers were the lowest in the history of the organization. He stressed the fact that Hupmobile plans for 1931 included consistent newspaper advertising.

Maj. Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, also spoke. George Weber Sr., president of the Weber firm, presided.

St Louis Company Develops New Piston Replacement Ring

Something new in replacement piston rings has been developed by the Ramsey Accessories Manufacturing Co. of St. Louis. It is called the "Ramco" piston ring.

It has an outer ring that looks like an original equipment ring, but is made of soft gray iron without tension. Within this outer ring is an inner ring of special analysis steel which grips the piston, keeps it centered and restores the old-time snap and power to the engine.

This ring is also used when new pistons are installed and cylinders are reground, for it is designed to prevent piston rocking, piston slap, oil pumping, "blow-by" and compression loss.

Alcohol in European Fuel.

The use of alcohol in motor fuels is required in several European nations. Government regulations in Germany and Italy require 30 per cent mixture of alcohol with the white oils used for motor fuels. The French Government requires purchases of 10 per cent of alcohol by importers of gasoline.

More Olds Sales at Show in 4 Days Than In Full 1930 Exhibit

Dealers in his district sold more Oldsmobiles in the first four days of the St. Louis Auto Show the past week than they did during the entire show period last year, according to E. E. McIndoo, district manager for the Olds Motor Works.

McIndoo reported much interest among show visitors in the syncromesh transmission that is an added Oldsmobile feature for 1931.

The term, "shifting gears," is a misnomer insofar as the second and high speed gear ranges of the new 1931 Oldsmobile are concerned. These gears are constantly in mesh with the result that going into second, from second to third and from third back to second are accomplished quietly and without effort.

Quiet second gear operation is made possible by having these gears helically ground and in constant mesh and also by their location at the extreme rear of the gear shift. In a conventional transmission, second gear is located in the center of the shaft where play is more likely to occur, and the bending of the shaft even a thousandth of an inch increases gear noise. The rigid position of the Oldsmobile second gear at the shaft bearing point contributes to the quiet operation built into helical cut, constant mesh gears of its transmission.

In changing from first to second, second to third or third to second there is no movement of gears. Instead a sleeve is moved which engages a clutch connecting the gears in play. This clutch synchronizes the movement of the two gears and as soon as they are operating at the same speed they are automatically locked together.

First gear and reverse gear are located in the center of the shaft and are operated in the conventional manner. The movement of the gear shift lever throughout also follows conventional practice so that there is nothing new to learn or additional movements required in its operation.

M'KELVIE FINDS DISSENSION IN CO-OPERATIVES DUE TO PLOT

He Says Hostile Grain Dealers Are Employing Trouble-Makers; Submits Evidence.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — Samuel R. McKelvie, grain member of the Federal Farm Board, today charged hostile grain dealers were employing representatives to create dissension within co-operatives. He added that the Board was keeping close tab on the activities.

McKelvie said the Salina, Kan., Board of Trade had been actively engaged with other Farm Board enemies in fighting the Board's activities. He said he had submitted to Chairman Legge documentary evidence, and added that information "is not very complete" on "investments the private trade has made in getting others to speak for them against the program of this Board."

McKelvie named the Central City Republican, of Central City, Neb., as a paper used as the spokesman for grain dealers in opposing the Board's activities.

The possibility was mentioned that the Federal Trade Commission might be called to investigate advertisements in the newspaper.

WILL ROGERS GETS $2550 MORE FOR DROUTH RELIEF

MIAMI, Ok., Feb. 7.—Will Rogers arrived here today and collected $2550 for the benefit of drouth sufferers. He rattled into town in a flivver after his airplane had been forced to land five miles from the city because of fog. Frank Hawks is piloting the comedian.

Rogers said the emergency landing was perfect, although the ship barely missed a span of mules. Referring to Gov. Murray's plan for a dormitory to house the legislators "to keep the women away from them," the humorist said that after seeing the lawmakers he didn't think the bunkhouse would be necessary.

County Highway League Election.

The annual meeting of the St. Louis County Highway League for election of officers will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow at Knights of Columbus Hall, Woodson road, Overland. The proposed superhighway to carry U. S. highway No. 40 across St. Louis County and other roads will be discussed. This association wants the superhighway routed over Page avenue.

Sales Increase at New York Show.

Sales of cars introduced at this year's New York automobile show not only exceeded those of 1930, but in several instances showed remarkable gains. Attendance was somewhat under the previous high records, but the crowds represented a larger proportion of people who were actively in the market for new cars than was the case last year.

Italian Flyers Leave Brazil.

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 7.—Gen. Italo Balbo and his trans-Atlantic flight companions started for home today by steamer with an escort of Brazilian Government planes flying above them as the ship moved over the horbar. The Italian leader's last official act was a visit to Gen. Getulio Vargas, the president. Later he was the luncheon guest of Ambassador Cerrutti aboard the Conte Rosso.

SUBSTANTIAL REBOUND IN BOND PRICES DURING WEEK

Financial Markets Recover From the Unsettling Influences of the Soldier Bonus Controversy — Watchful Waiting Most of Week Among Stock Traders.

JANUARY HIGHS ARE PASSED AT WEEK-END

Last Half Hour Turnover Amounts to 600,000 Shares — Group Movements Are Rather Well Defined Which Labeled the Advance as Professional.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The financial markets recovered from the unsettling influences of the soldier bonus controversy last week, and while bonds recovered about half their losses, shares pushed up to the best average level of the New Year.

Business news indicated some hesitancy in the recovery which was so marked early in January, and the stock market adopted a policy of watchful waiting during most of the week. Trading came close to a standstill on numerous occasions. What looked like a concerted drive against the bears gave the list a vigorous boost in the final session, however.

Despite the large amount of projected financing, both corporate and municipal, new bond offerings for the week were only about one-tenth of those marketed during the preceding week, indicating the uncertainty occasioned by the threat of a huge Government loan to redeem the veterans, compensation certificates. Confidence appeared to be returning at the end of the week, however, as reports from Washington indicated a more conciliatory attitude. Several municipal loans are expected to appear on the market next week.

International bankers are hoping that the investment market will soon reach a condition favorable to the resumption of foreign financing. They explain that the concentration of gold in New York and Paris makes it incumbent that both cities develop international capital markets to aid in the restoration of world economic conditions. In modern times France has never been an important capital market internationally, but in the post war period, New York assumed an importance previously enjoyed only by London. With the Bank of England's gold stock reduced to only about one-fourth that of France, and less than an eighth that of the United States, London is severely handicapped as a world banker. Paris now has under consideration some minor foreign loans.

Most Gain Made Last Day.

The stock market made a net gain of only 3.3 points, as measured by the price index of 90 shares and most of that was recorded in the bear retreat in the last hour of trading on Saturday. The market was in the main only a professional trading affair, as was indicated by the concentration of activity in a group of speculative favorites, but it at least gave little encouragement to the bears. On only one day, Thursday, did the list close lower.

The Stock Exchange's monthly figures on the total market valuation of all listed shares indicated that as of Feb. 1, total borrowings to support marginal accounts amounted to only 3 1-3 per cent of the total market value of shares. This compared with 5¾ per cent a year previously, and indicated that the market was on a cash basis more thoroughly than at any time in years, certainly more thoroughly than at any time since comparable statistics have been compiled.

Breaks Through January Highs.

After three vain efforts, the stock market finally broke through the January highs today to establish the best prices of the year, as measured by the average of 90 leading issues.

Something like an old-fashioned rally swept through the list in the last half hour when the turnover amounted to 600,000 shares. Group movements were rather well defined, especially in the motor, chemical and office equipment stocks, which labelled the advance as professional. The strength of the bull faction, derived partly from

KEY BOILER EQUIP. STOCK SALES ARE FEATURE OF WEEK

Selling of Shares Said to Represent Collateral for Loans Enlivens Week's Market — General List Lower.

The offering on the market Friday of more than 12,000 shares of Key Boiler Equipment stock, stated in the street to be liquidation of securities held as collateral on loans made to Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co., enlivened an otherwise generally uninteresting week's business on the St. Louis Stock Exchange. The shares came out through about seven houses, but support was given to the stock through one house which took all the offerings of that session at prices between 18½ and 24½. At the final session of week 565 shares of Key Boiler sold between 19 and 23¼, some intermediate and final small lot being "bought and sold" by same house.

As a result of the big turnover in the issue, total sales for the week were about 50 per cent greater than for the preceding week. Practically all active shares were down for the week. Some new lows for the 1930-31 period were recorded.

Transactions in International Shoe featured earlier week trading and there was indication that much of this represented special transactions of some kind.

Low-priced stock transactions helped materially to swell the total. Most of these closed lower. Several infrequently traded issues appeared during the week.

In the general trading list Landis Machine had a downward range of 2 points, but recovered some. Moloney Electric and Coca Cola Bottling closed lower for the week.

Missouri Portland closed higher. National Candy finished the week unchanged.

changes in the political outlook, threw the shorts into confusion and there was some lively bidding for many of the scarcer issues.

Sales for the two hours approximated 1,200,000 shares, equalling the volume for the full sessions of Monday and Tuesday.

Bonds and grains also improved, but bar silver recorded its third historical low of the week. Cotton eased slightly.

Operations for the entire Youngstown district next week were estimated 1 per cent higher. Preliminary guesses of U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage as of Jan. 31 were vague, but Wall street was convinced an increase would be shown and the courageous bulls capitalized this opinion.

Specialty stocks prominent on recent rallies came forward briskly. Auburn Auto rose 6, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Allied Chemical about 4. Underwood-Elliott-Fisher, Burroughs, Diamond Match, International business Machines, Worthington Pump, National Gash Register, Baking and Lambert were up a point or two.

New 1931 High on G. M.

General Motors made a new high for the year on a rise of 1¼ and was joined by Nash, Studebaker, Hudson, Mack Trucks, Bullard and Hupp, all up 1 to 2. Declarations of the regular preferred dividends by Radio's directors helped the "B" issue.

Rails advanced, although they failed to reach new highs for 1931. Atchison's gain of more than 3 points was prominent, but New York Central, Southern Pacific and North Pacific also rallied.

U. S. Steel, which had been off a point, closed with a gain of the same amount. There were net advances of 1 to 2 in American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, Anaconda, Sears-Roebuck Loew's, International Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Electric Power and Light, American Telephone, Union Carbide and North American.

Wheat and corn both closed a cent higher. Cotton's net reaction ranged from 3 to 9 points.

Sterling exchange continued to advance, with cables rising an eighth to $4.86¼. The French franc was up nearly as much, indicating the movement of funds abroad.

COPPER PRICE REDUCTION INCREASES EXPORT SALES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—A reduction in the price of export copper today brought about a better demand for the metal, with the result that the full quota allotted for foreign sale for Saturday was sold.

Copper Exporters, Inc., reduced the foreign price one-quarter of a cent a pound to 9.80 cents, C. I. F. European base ports, bringing the metal to a level of the 9½ cent domestic price.

Foreign buying for the half day today totaled 3,500,000 pounds, against a total of slightly more than 500,000 pounds for the full trading day yesterday. Domestic fabricators and users also are reported more active and at least one custom smelter is reported to have turned away business at 9½ cents a pound, delivered.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Cotton goods were in moderate demand today, with prices irregular on finished and gray cloths. More business is developing slowly on fine combed goods. Burlaps were firmer in anticipation of further curtailment of mill operations. Silk was dull and unchanged in primary markets, with silk goods in fair demand. Wool goods were holding about steady, with the demand moderate.

LOWER CLOSE TO COTTON MARKET AT NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—An opening advance in cotton was followed by reactions in the market today under a little more Southern selling and week-end realizing accompanied by talk of an easier technical position. May contracts after selling up to 10.98c on the early demand, declined to 10.86c or 5 points net lower and closed at 10.88c. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 3 to 9 points. Spot steady, midling 10.70c.

The opening was steady 3 to 5 points higher on overnight buying orders which were supposed to include further covering and continued trade buying. Rather free offerings of October cotton were in evidence at 11.50c; however, and after selling at 11.49c for that position prices turned easier. Support was less active after the initial demand had been supplied and while there was a bulge of several points during the middle of the morning, the market eased again in the late trading. New crop position were relatively easy with spot houses reported sellers of October and December and the difference between March and December narrowed from 99 points at the close yesterday to 94 points based on today's closing quotations. March contracts which had advanced to 10.70c early declined to 10.61c and closed at that figure, while October closed at 11.37c.

Much of the business was attributed to the usual week-end adjustment of the technical position, but trade and commission house buying was in evidence at the start, and some hedging was reported during the early trading. The trade buy was again believed to be partly for European account. Spot interests here seemed to be buying May and July against sales of October and December and there was further switching from near to late months.

Liverpool cable reported covering, trade calling and foreign buying in that market supplied by realizing or liquidation and hedging and said there were moderate cloth sales for shipment to south America and Africa. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 71,000 bales against 129,000 last year. Fertilizer tax sales in the Southern states for January were 72 per cent of the sales for January last year and 76.10 per cent of January, 1929, according to figures published here this morning.

Liverpool Spot Steady.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 7.—Cotton—Spot quiet; prices steady; American strict good middling, 6.49d; good middling, 6.14d; strict middling, 5.89d; middling, 5.74d; strict low middling, 5.59d; low middling, 5.29d; strict good ordinary, 4.74d; good ordinary, 4.34d; sales, 3000 bales, including 1500 American; receipts, 2000; American, 100. Futures closed quiet and steady. March 5.64d, May 5.73d, July 5.84d, October 5.95d, December 6.04d, January 6.06d.

St. Louis Spot Cotton.

Spot cotton was unchanged in St. Louis today. Quotations: Good ordinary, 6.90c; low middling, 7.90c; middling, 9.40c; good middling, 10.15c.

GOVERNMENT BONDS FEATURE OF TRADE

Record Best Levels of Week at Final Session — Foreigns Up.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Rising tendencies were again shown by the bond market in the short session today but the trading was rather quiet.

The bright features of the session were the advance of United States Governments to the best levels of the week, and the activity in some of the European Governments.

While some of the governments idled, Liberty 3½s advanced three-sixteenths, the long term Treasurys found a good market. The 4s gained seven thirty-seconds and there were small rises in the 4¼s and 3⅜s. As a result of their comeback in the last five sessions Treasury issues closed the week within less than a point of where they stood before the soldiers bonus agitation sent them tumbling.

There was activity in German, Italian and British bonds. Denmark 5½s and 4½s touched new year's peaks.

Trading in corporate domestic issues was dull and activity centered in a comparatively small list which advanced fractionally. Stock privilege issues and some others that move in sympathy with stocks improved. American Telephone convertible 4½s rose a point, and Erie 5s and International Telephone bonds gained about the same.

American and Foreign Power 5s, Federal Light and Traction 6s, and New England Telephone and Telegraph 5s were among the strong utilities.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Raw sugar was unchanged today, with refiners showing interest in nearby supplies at 3.30c, but holders asking 3.32c. The only sales reported were in shipment Philippines and these were all purchased by operators. They included 31,500 bags at 3.38c and 36,000 bags at 3.39c for March-April shipment and 72,000 bags for April-May shipment at 3.42c.

Price changes in raw futures were narrow and after opening unchanged to one point higher on covering and a little European buying, prices reacted under hedge selling, closing two points lower. The volume of business was only of small proportions, with operators apparently inclined to limited new commitments and await fresh developments. What little selling there was seemed to be principally against purchases of duty frees in the spot market, but there was enough covering and local buying to absorb the offerings and prevent any decline of consequence. Approximate sales 4300 tons; March closed 1.21c, May 1.31c, July 1.39c, September 1.47c, December 1.54c, January 1.57c.

Refined was unchanged at 4.70c for fine granulated with demand light and supplied through second hands at around 4.60c to 4.62½c.

THE BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange today were $5,700,000 compared with $11,000,000 yesterday, $6,900,000 a week ago and $5,842,000 a year ago. Total bond sales from Jan. 1 to date were $326,190,000 compared with $274,068,000 last year and $315,624,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99-24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted:

UTILITIES LEAD TRADING ON CURB

Have Rather Vigorous Advance for Short Saturday Session.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Utilities resumed their leadership in a rather vigorous advance in today's session of the Curb.

At least, the advance was vigorous for a short Saturday session, on the basis of recent standards. Sales for the two hours aggregated 275,000 shares, only 25,000 less than the turnover in five hours of trading yesterday.

Electric Bond & Share resumed its traditional role as "the U. S. Steel of the Curb" with an advance of more than 2 points in active trading, accounting for a sizable slice of the day's total business. American & Foreign Power warrants, Insull Utility Investment and United Light A sold up a point. Duke Power advanced 3 in a light turnover.

Vacuum was a buoyant feature of the oils, making an extreme gain of nearly 5 points. General Petroleum, formed as a holding company to effect the projected merger of Vacuum and Standard of New York, advanced 4. Other oils were mostly steady to firm, Gulf advancing nearly 2.

In the industrial and specialty division, Technicolor continued to advance vigorously, getting up more than 2 points to 14⅝, compared to last year's low of 5½. Ford, Ltd., and Stutz rose a point each, in sympathy with motors on the big board. Deere, however, lost 2½ points, and Northwest Engineering declined 3 to a new low.

Newmont Mining gained 2 points, but Noranda sagged fractionally.

WEEKLY METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The copper market again declined ¼ of a cent when neither foreign nor domestic demand for metal improved. Buying form abroad was restricted, owing to the steadiness with which the C. I. F. price was maintained above a normal parity with the domestic price until a readjustment was made at the close of the week. The price for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut valley was quoted at 9¼ cents, custom smelters offering at this level, but brokers remaining out of the market.

Tin price movements were irregular. There was firmness for a time with quite a fair resuming interest, but the latter subsided when the market turned down toward the close of the week. The action of the London market proved a disappointment.

Lead prices were reduced rather sharply and this movement met with a fair consuming business for prompt and nearby delivery. Consumers were not anxious at this time to cover much of their forward requirements.

Zinc for a time displayed a decided steadiness, but the consuming interest was a disappointment and some sellers late in the week showed a tendency to shade asking prices.

Price changes in antimony were not important. The market generally lacks consuming interest, with the weakness of silver continuing an unsettling feature.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for Feb. 7, 1931: $12,400,000; corresponding day last year, $17,000,000; this year, $584,000,000; corresponding period a year ago, $718,600,000. Report of debits for Feb. 6, 1931, were: Debits to individuals accounts, $19,600,000; total to date, $789,400,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts, $11,300,000; total to date $403,500,000; combined debits to individual and bankers' accounts, $3,900,000; total to date, $1,192,900,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Bar silver, 26⅛c.

GRAIN FUTURES CLOSE HIGHER IN LOCAL TRADE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 7.—The grain market was a weather affair and wheat seemed to be influenced by idea of what might happen if a sudden freeze should develop after recent moisture. Probable frequent alternations of temperature was all that was forecast. Report of indication of increases in U. S. visible and in grain on passage was heard. Corn was said to be influenced by idea that any wintry weather would increase feeding.

The Liverpool market was ⅛d to ⅝d higher at the close.

Winnipeg closed 1⅜c to 2⅛c higher.

July wheat opened at 65⅜c, May corn 65⅞c and July corn 67c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 135,800 bushels, compared with 116,200 last week and 78,400 last year, included 62 cars local and 35 through. Corn receipts, which were 99,400 bushels, compared with 93,800 last week and 107,800 last year, included 55 cars local and 16 through. Oats receipts, which were 125,400 bushels, compared with 96,800 last week and 61,600 last year, included 47 cars local and 10 through. Hay receipts were 19 cars local and 4 through.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was mostly steady to ½c lower. The decline was recorded in limited transactions in light garlicky grain. With the exception of a few mill orders, the demand remained the same. Stabilization agent supplied the chief outlet, buying straight country run No. 1 at 81c, mill storage grain at 1c discount; light garlicky at 3c discount and medium garlicky at 6c discount. This purchaser took about 80 per cent of the grain on sale, the remainder going to local elevators and shippers. Sales of No. 1 were on a basis 1c and 2c below the Chicago old May figure and No. 2 at 5¼c below. Hard wheat was steady. Offerings were light and cleared readily. There was a fair demand with both mills and elevators in the market. Sales of No. 1 were on a basis 4⅛c below the Chicago old May figure and No. 2 at 5⅛c below. Corn was steady to ½c lower, except for No. 2 yellow which sold at ½c higher price. Movement was quite draggy. A little of the yellow variety was taken by elevators. Oats were ½c and 1c lower. Offerings of seed oats were heavy and only a small part sold, and this at ½c and 1c lower prices.

MILL FEED FUTURES MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 7.—Corn futures were again higher which imparted some strength to mill feeds. A strong cash feed market was likewise a contributing factor. The demand continues to hold off to a considerable extent while offerings are small. Bran closed steady to 15c higher; gray shorts 10c to 25c higher; standard middlings 25c to 40c higher. Sales totaled 700 tons.

BUSINESS NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The progress of retail trade during the initial week of February did not show material change from the last half of Janury, reports in New York indicate. Consumer sales resistance continues quite marked, with the result that most stores are relying on the promotional appeal of lower prices to tide over until spring purchasing by consumers becomes more of a factor.

With a consistently strong demand for some domestic sizes of anthracite and a variable call for others, anthracite producers have had difficulty in meeting the requirements of their markets, Saward's Journal says. The heavy demand for pea coal and the lack of orders for egg, stove and nut sizes present a serious difficulty to producers.

Reports that current retail sales of china and glassware exceed expectations were brought to the New York market this week by buyers here to replenish present stocks and order for future delivery. Promotional events now in progress in retail establishments, it was said, have been satisfactory in both units and dollar volume.

WHEAT CLOSES IRREGULAR AND CORN LIST HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Despite rains and snowfalls over a wide expanse of drouth territory, wheat and corn prices today went steadily upgrade. The rise was chiefly ascribed to misgivings that wheat crop dangers had been made worse by moisture insufficient apparently except to relieve top-soil dryness for the timebeing, whereas likelihood of damage in case of a sudden freeze was intensified. Crop experts said a quick switch to low temperatures would not only catch plant sap in circulation, but would cause soil-heaving and frozen-crust pressure.

Wheat closed irregular, ⅛ cent off to ⅞ up, corn 1@1⅛ advanced, oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Fears of a cold wave were based largely on an official forecast that referred to probable frequent alterations of temperature next week. No definite prediction of any severe low mercury was issued, but some traders were prompt to act on a suggested possibility rather than await something more tangible. In most quarters, opinion prevailed that the rains and snowfalls in drouth sections were altogether inadequate beyond affording temporary help.

Wheat purchases here against simultaneous equal sales at Winnipeg had a decided bullish influence on the Chicago market, especially during the last part of the day. The effect, however, was somewhat offset by socalled spreading operations here between corn and wheat, with corn being bought and wheat sold. Nevertheless, the price difference between Winnipeg and Chicago deliveries of wheat narrowed to the smallest disparity attained in a long while. Indications that the amount of wheat on ocean passage would show an increase Monday were ignored, and so too were signs of enlargement of the United States wheat visible supply next week.

Corn showed more upward impetus at times than did wheat. Wintry weather stimulated corn demand as promising increased use by feeders. Corn primary arrivals were 823,000 bushels, compared with 1,136,000 at this time last year. Oats sympathized with corn and wheat strength.

Notwithstanding declines in hog values, provisions were responsive to upturns in grains.

Export Copper Price Cut.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The price of export copper was reduced ¼ of a cent today to 9.80c a pound, C. I. F., European base ports.

The reduction brought the foreign price on a parity with the domestic level of 9¾c a pound, delivered, the price at which the metal has been selling in the domestic market for the past few days.

New Low for Silver.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Bar silver again dropped to new historical low in the New York market today.

The quotation was 26⅛ cents an ounce, a drop of ⅝ of a cent.

Wall Street News and Comment

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Inland Steel Co. has ordered 158 cars from the Lorain Steel Co., Railway Age reports. The Railway Refrigerator Car Corp. is inquiring for 100 refrigerator cars and the Board of Transportation of New York City is inquiring for 15 cars. During January there were only two locomotives ordered from domestic makers.

Walgreen Co. and subsidiaries reported January sales of $4,452,339, an increase of 3.9 per cent over $4,282,366 for January, 1930.

Real Silk Hosiery Mills reports the largest volume of sales in its history for 1930 and estimates the year's net profit at between $4 and $5 a share against $9.29 a share in 1929. It was explained declining silk prices reduced the profit ratio to sales.

Several leaders in the development of the natural gas industry, includinng three members of the Executive Committee of the Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation, have been granted a permit through North Central Gas Co. to construct a natural gas line from the Muskrat field near Casper and Riverton, Wyo., through Glenrock and North Platte Valley into Western Nebraska.

John D. Biggers, president of the Linbbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., said January business showed a substantial improvement, the percentage of gain in the plate, window and safety glass having been in excess of the normal seasonal increase. As a result, he said, operations at both the Toledo and Rossford plants have been increased and the company has been able to provide work for 581 additional men since Jan. 1.

W. L. Allen, chairman of the board of the Gleaner combine Harvester Corporation, has resigned following the filing of a petition of receivership for the company. Mr. Allen said that during the past month the company had been making progress and was negotiating a foreign order which would have kept the plant busy for three months.

January production of Chevrolet Motor Co. totaled 70,766 cars and trucks, described as a new record output for January in any year and the third month in succession to establish new high production marks over previous months since the company brought out its new line in November. Production in December was 64,019 cars and for November 45,000 cars were produced. The schedule for February calls for 67,429 units.

January sales of the J. C. Penny Co. totaled $9,724,562, a decrease of 8.35 per cent from $10,610,055 reported for the like month of 1930. Earl C. Sams, president, said that dollars sales being only slightly less than the same morth of 1930, which showed unusually heavy gains over the preceding year, indicated a marked increase in unit sales and a return to normal retail buying. He added that a study of present retail prices, compared to those January last year, showed a reduction of approximately 21 per cent.

Indications at the end of the week point to an acceleration of steel mill activity. In the Chicago district ingot production advanced one or two per cent this week to between 48 and 49 per cent of capacity, according to estimate and steel wire mills were slightly above the previous week's rate, at between 40 and 45 per cent, it was privately estimated. Operations in the Youngstown district next week will advance 1 per cent to 50 per cent of rated capacity, an estimate said.

National Capital News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—A Mexican presidential decree, effective Feb. 4, reduced the rates of export duty on petroleum products in order to stimulate exportation. The new rates, in Mexican pesos, per cubic meter, are as follows with the old rates being shown in parenthesis: Combustible petroleum, 0.75 (0.80); gas oil, 1.0 (1.86); crude gasoline, 2.50 (3.76); refined gasoline, 1.0 (1.88); crude kerosene, 0.80 (1.20); defined kerosene, 0.30 (0.60); and lubricants, 0.75 (1.12).

To these basic rates of export duty should be added the usual surtax of 2 per cent of duty.

An agreement increasing the price of gasoline throughout Argentina by two centavos a liter has been signed by all important oil compaines established there, the Commerce Department has been advised. It is effective on Feb. 9.

This advance is equivalent to about $0.076 a gallon. In Buenos Aires there is an increase of 3 centavos, the extra centavo going to the provincial Government, to result in an income estimated at 26,000,000 pesos annually over a 25-year period. This provincial income is to be applied exclusively to road construction and maintenance.

$10,823,688 Paid for Tobacco

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 7. — With close of the ninth week of the Lexington tobacco market last evening a total of 62,747,375 pounds had passed over the breaks for $10,823,688.39, a general average of $17.24. Yesterdays sales amounted to 1,413,545, at an average of $11.10.

As an indication that the season is drawing to an end four of the 20 warehouses on the market closed their doors at conclusion of yesterday's sales.

COCA-COLA CO. 1930 SALES AND NET PROFITS WERE RECORD

Company Reports $13,515,535 Net Profits After Federal Income Taxes and All Operating Charges.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 7.—The Coca-Cola Co. annual report shows 1930 net profits were $13,515,535.18 after deduction of Federal income taxes and all operating charges. This represents an increase of 8.6 per cent in earnings per share on the common stock over 1929.

President R. W. Woodruff in a statement to stockholders said that during the year 1930 total sales as well as net profits exceeded all previous records. "A conservative policy of expansion has been continued; reserves have been increased, and the financial position of your company is stronger than at any time in its history. We look forward to 1931 with confidence," he added.

During 1930 a dividend of $3 per share was paid on all outstanding class "A" stock, leaving available earnings of $11.15 per share on the common stock of the company. This figure was an increase of 8.6 per cent over 1929.

Since the issuance of the class "A" stock dividend in January, 1929, the company has utilized a substantial portion of current earnings in acquiring this outstanding stock, bringing its present investment therein to $11,141,304.80.

The ratio of current assets to current liabilities, not including the class "A" stock owned by the company, was 19 to 1 at the close of business on Dec. 31, 1930.

The item listed under assets as good-will, formulae and trademark was increased $1,185,487.05 during 1930, through the acquirement of additional subsidiary companies. In this connection there was the statement that net profits of subsidiaries in 1930 accounted for 14 per cent of the total net profits of the Coca-Cola Co., as compared with minus 2 per cent in 1926.

Total sales of Coca-Cola syrup in 1930 reached a new all-time record of 27,798,730 gallons.

Advertising was increased by $1,000,000 over the record expenditures of 1929 and sales effort increased by $500,000.

The Coca-Cola management has already laid plans for 1931. They have announced a material increase in every form of advertising medium, including, among others, publications, in which latter classification greater emphasis will be placed on newspapers.

NEW OPPORTUNITIES FOR HOME BUILDING

Head of Co-Operative Project Says Bargains Are to Be Had for Purchasers.

The present is an open season for seekers of bargains in homes, according to George A. Martin, president of Railroad Co-operative Building & Loan Association of New York, in a radio address over a national hookup. Martin's was the first of a series of nation-wide talks on home financing and planning under the auspices of Home Owners' Institute of America and the Y. M. C. A.

Low material costs and high efficiency of labor, reflected in lower labor costs, contribute to offer exceptional opportunities in home buying and building, Martin declared, urging his hearers to "take that money out of the old sock" and put in into a home before a business pickup starts building prices definitely upward.

"Now it happens that bargains are to be had in the small home field at the moment," he said. "They are to be had by the individual home builder. They are to be had right now, and probably, though not absolutely, during the coming spring. Not absolutely, for the present low level of prices may start its rise shortly. Most price and commodity authorities are of the opinion that prices have found their lowest point in the scale and that they will shortly begin to mount.

"Secretary of Commerce Lamont has said: 'With recent drops in prices of important building materials, an ample number of highly skilled building trades workers available, contractors anxious to obtain work, and first mortgage money generally available at reasonable terms, conditions are now favorable for home builders who have the resources and intend to build, to go ahead.'

"So to the home seeker who has been planning home owning for some time past I say, 'Start building that home of yours right now and save money. Prove yourself a thrifty person. Prove yourself a good bargain buyer, a man who knows a good thing when he sees one.' "

Concentration!

Comparing 1930 with 1920, advertisers in St. Louis increased their space in the Post-Dispatch by 1,192,520 lines and reduced it in all three other newspapers.

	Agate Lines
Post-Dispatch	1,192,520 GAIN
Globe-Democrat	2,642,400 LOSS
The Star	1,978,800 LOSS
The Times	519,900 LOSS

The Post-Dispatch was the only St. Louis newspaper to carry a greater volume of advertising in 1930 than in 1920.

COURT REFUSES TO DISMISS THOMASSON ANNULMENT SUIT

Judge Overrules Motion Despite Request Signed by the Capitalist.

The second attempt of attorneys for Mrs. Grace Caroline Thomasson, to obtain dismissal of her wealthy, elderly husband's marriage annulment suit, was overruled by Circuit Judge McElhinney at Clayton yesterday. One of the 28-year-old Mrs. Thomasson's lawyers introduced a motion signed by Thomasson and requesting dismissal of the suit.

Judge McElhinney's ruling was taken to mean he will not dismiss the action until Thomasson himself comes into court, or until the lawyers who were representing him in th action, ask for dismissal. So far they have maintained Thomasson is being kept away from them and that all of their efforts to reach him have failed.

ROBBER, FOILED, USES TEAR GAS TO COVER GETAWAY

First Use of Fumes by Holdup Man in St. Louis—He Makes Escape Before the Air Clears.

UNSEEN ASSAILANT SLUGS, ROBS NEGRO

Manager of the People's Finance Co. Is Knocked Unconscious on Way to Bank, $191 Taken.

Tear gas was fired at two employes of the Jennings-Ramsey Manufacturing Co., 315-19 Spruce street, yesterday morning by a young man when his attempted holdup was frustrated. He escaped while Miss Mardell Shad, a stenographer for the company, whom he attempted to rob, and Clarence Bales, a clerk who came to her assistance, were trying to free their eyes of the gas.

Miss Shad, whom the man evidently thought had the payroll, was preparing to enter the building when he halted her and pressed what appeared to be an automatic pistol against her. Her screams brought Bales from the second floor, where the company offices are, downstairs to her aid.

Seeing the two of them confronting him, the man drew his weapon and fired. Only a slight noise was heard and gas filled the air. Nothing was taken, as Miss Shad, who has carried the payroll in the past, did not have the money today. Police say it was the first time tear gas has been employed in a holdup here.

Arnett Lindsey, Negro manager of the People's Finance Co., 11 North Jefferson avenue, was robbed of $191 yesterday morning as he was walking north on Jefferson avenue near Lawton avenue to a bank and was hit on the head by someone back of him.

Lindsey told police that he was passing the mouth of an alley when he was knocked unconscious. The money was taken from one of his pockets, but $100 which he carried in another pocket, was untouched. He was treated at City Hospital No. 2 for a gash on the scalp.

WICKERSHAM CENSURES U. S. FOR STAND ON WORLD COURT

Says Failure to Adhere Is "Example of Lagging on Our Part," Dodges Dry Report.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Chairman Wickersham of the Law Enforcement Commission tonight criticised failure of the United States to adhere to the World Court as a "striking example of a great lagging on our part." In his first public statement since the Commission completed its much discussed dry law report, Wickersham said nothing about prohibition in addressing the annual dinner of the George Washington University Law School.

The former Attorney General devoted much of his paper to an explanation of the technicalities arising under the five reservations to American adherence, voted by the Senate in 1926. He dealt particularly with the fifth, containing Senate restrictions to "advisory opinions" by the court.

The Senate's five provisions voted five years ago have been embodied in a protocol supplemental to the original protocol of the Court. This has been accepted by President Hoover and is now before the Senate.

"The sum and substance of the matter therefore is this," Wickersham explained. "Under the fifth reservation, accepted by the signatories, if the United States objects on the grounds it has, or claims an interest in the subject of the inquiry, and is unwilling that the Court should act on the request, that ends the matter.

"But when a proposal to submit a question to the Court comes up in the (League of Nations) council or assembly, notice shall be given to the United States and an exchange of views had. The objection of the United States to requesting the opinion is to be given the same force and affect as that of any other state represented in the council or assembly. If unanimity is required, objection by the United States would end the matter."

CORRECTION ON CUBAN AFFAIR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — State Department officials said today they had been in error in stating that John T. Wilford, publisher of the Havana American, had filed a claim against the Cuban Government in connection with his recent deportation from the republic. The erroneous information was given out, Department officials said, through confusion over a claim against the Cuban Government filed by Wilford last year as a result of a raid on his plant.

Wilford filed a protest against his deportation with Ambassador Guggenheim, but has filed no claim for damages, officials said. Wilford's claim in connection with the raid will be given due consideration, it was said, with a view to determine whether international law is applicable to make a claim against Cuba justified.

HOOVER FORMALLY NOTIFIED OF SENATE BAR ON SMITH

Notice of Rejection of Nomination of Power Board Head Sent to White House.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—President Hoover was notified formally today of the rejection by the Senate of his nomination of George Otis Smith as chairman of the new Power Commission. At the same time the Senate told the President it had reconfirmed the nominations of Marcel Garsaud and Claude L. Draper as commission members. The three nominations were acted on Wednesday but the Senate withheld notification of its action until the period for reconsideration had expired.

All three members are continuing in office, by virtue of President Hoover's contention they were legally confirmed by the Senate Jan. 19 and 20. The Senate will institute legal proceedings to test Smith's right to office, in view of his rejection.

AMERICAN RETAILERS TO MEET TOMORROW

3000 Delegates Expected — Style Pageants to Feature Evening Meetings.

About 3000 retail merchants from various parts of the country are expected at the fifteenth semi-annual convention of the American Retailers' Association which opens at Hotel Statler tomorrow morning.

Due to the fact that most of the delegates will be occupied with inspection and buying during the day, sessions will be held mainly in the evening. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, educational sessions are scheduled and on Thursday evening the convention banquet. Samuel W. Fordyce, president of the Industrial Club of St. Louis, will be principal speaker at the banquet.

A style pageant, with the display of fashions for spring, will be held each of the first three evenings after the educational meetings.

Speakers will include Dean George W. Stephens, Dean Isidor Loeb, Prof. K. M. Klamon and Prof. Isaac M. Lippincott of Washington University and Prof. W. F. Gast and Prof. K. L. Richards of St. Louis University. Their addresses will deal with retail and merchandising problems.

R. F. Clinch Left $2,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—The inventory of the estate of R. Floyd Clinch, filed today, showed the capitalist and philanthropist left approximately $2,000,000. Major items were $804,000 in bonds, $528,000 in stocks and $280,000 cash. The widow, Mrs. Katherine Clinch, and their two children, Duncan and Margaret, share the estate. Clinch, who died Nov. 9, was one of the organizers of the Crerar-Clinch Coal Co.

MUNICIPAL OPERA PRICES UNCHANGED

Scale of 10 Years Ago to Stand Despite Increased Costs of Productions.

The price of seats at the Municipal Opera this year will be the same as in former years, directors of the Municipal Theater Association announced. The directors are confident the 1931 program will attract greater audiences than ever before, and at the scale of prices established 10 years ago there will be 4529 seats at 25 and 50 cents; 2880 at $1 and $1.50, and 826 box seats at $2, notwithstanding increased production costs.

A comparison of the cost and attendance figures for 1921 and 1930, the directors point out, shows that in 1921 the average cost of each of eight productions was $18,443; in 1930 the weekly production cost was $43,054; in 1921 the average paid attendance was 17,79? persons each week and last season the average weekly attendance was 41,308 persons. Cost and attendance have kept practically apace, the directors state.

Although an audit of the opera accounts shows a loss of $27,000 last year, the directors explain that $54,000 was spent for permanent improvements and that a profit of $27,000 would have been made had the improvements been postponed. There are more guarantors for the 1931 season than ever before in the history of the opera.

GEORGE SPITZ SETS WORLD INDOOR HIGH JUMP RECORD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Russell Chapman, the greatest half-miler to appear on the United States horizon since Lloyd Hahn came from the Nebraska plains three years ago to set the track world afire, raced two half miles tonight in the Millrose A. A. games in the times of 1:55:2 and 1:58:8.

Chapman made the better mark, the second fastest half mile ever run in America, in defeating Seraphin Martin of France, world's record holder at 800 meters, and Dale Letts of the University of Chicago in the international half mile.

The two great half miles were run only an hour apart, Chapman being forced to do almost his best to carry his Bates College mates to victory in a two-mile match relay with the University of Pennsylvania, preliminary to the international race.

George Spitz, New York University freshman, leaped to a new world's indoor high jump record of six feet, seven inches, a quarter of an inch above Burt Nelson's old record.

Nelson of Butler University, was in the field Spitz defeated.

Harold Osborn, Illinois A. C. veteran, was second, clearing six feet six. Anton Burg, also of the Illinois A. C. national outdoor champion, was third at six feet four. Nelson was fourth at six three.

Spitz a black-haired smiling youngster, was the interscholastic world's record holder while a student at Flushing High School, Long Island. Still a comparative novice at the game few could be found who would even attempt to predict what height he might some day attain.

Fred Sturdy, former Yale star now competing for the Los Angeles A. C. won the pole vault at 13 feet, 9 inches. Barney Berlinger all-around star of the University of Pennsylvania was second at 13 feet, 7½ inches. Barney split his knee cap in making his best heighth and was forced to forego an attempt at the higher bar.

Rolls a 300 Game But He Won't Get An A. B. C. Medal

WILLIAM LUDWIG of the U. S. L. team reached the heights of bowling at Heidel's Alleys last night when he rolled a perfect score of 300 in a house tournament. But virtue will have to be its own reward for Ludwig because he will not get the medal usually awarded by the American Bowling Congress for perfect scores for the reason there was no foul judge present when Ludwig performed his feat, which makes it impossible for him to gain recognition by the A. B. C.

Frank Heidel, proprietor of the alleys, said that the tournament had so few entries that he was trying to save all money possible in order to swell the prize fund and one of the economics was the elimination of foul judges.

WILLIAM LUDWIG of the U. S. L. team reached the heights of bowling at Heidel's Alleys last night when he rolled a perfect score of 300 in a house tournament. But virtue will have to be its own reward for Ludwig because he will not get the medal usually awarded by the American Bowling Congress for perfect scores for the reason there was no foul judge present when Ludwig performed his feat, which makes it impossible for him to gain recognition by the A. B. C.

Frank Heidel, proprietor of the alleys, said that the tournament had so few entries that he was trying to save all money possible in order to swell the prize fund and one of the economies was the elimination of foul judges.

TIGERS HAND HUSKERS THEIR FIRST DEFEAT

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 7. — The University of Missouri tonight stemmed the victorious march of the Cornhuskers of Nebraska toward the 1931 Big Six basketball championship by defeating the Nebraskans, 33 to 20, in a game before 3000 persons. The Tiger victory marked the first Big Six defeat of the season for Nebraska and constitutes the major upset of this year's Big Six play.

Victory for the Missourians failed to move them out of their fifth place position in the conference standings, but nevertheless changes the whole complexion of the Big Six cage race by enhancing the championship opportunities of several other higher ranking quintets. The Missouri victory was all the more an upset in view of the 42 to 32 drubbing the Tigers took from Nebraska earlier in the season.

APPLEBY RETAINS 18.2 BILLIARD TITLE

HOLMES IS 41 PINS BEHIND AFTER 10 GAMES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 8.—Ray Holmes, 23-year-old St. Louis star, will enter the second block of his 40-game bowling match with Eddie Krems of Chicago 41 pins behind. The Mound City bowler averaged 203-2 to Krems 207-3 in the opening block of 10 games at the Goldammer-Harding Alleys here last night, staging a brilliant finish to over come a big lead piled up by the veteran Chicago shooter.

Starting the seventh game, Holmes trailed Krems by a margin of 183 pins. His sweeping hook ball finally found the "pocket" and

WRAY'S COLUMN

Wanted: Home for Big Fight.

THE Stribling-Schmeling title match has been made, but so far there is no place for it to settle down to the job of creating gate receipts. Chicago was scheduled and it was to have been run by the Garden Corporation of Illinois, with the "benefit" going to the New York Milk Fund.

But Chicago rose up. It did not want to be "milked." Chicago, not New York, charities, must be aided. And so the event was whisked away from Chicago.

It is barred in New York because Schmeling is out of the commission's glad eye. So is Joe Jacobs.

There remain Jersey City, where the cost of building a new arena is prohibitive; Detroit, where the population center is not as large or as compact as in the East; and Philadelphia, where the first Dempsey-Tunney fight was held.

At this writing Philadelphia seems the city most likely to get this historic heavyweight boxing championship. Filling the Sesqui-centennial stadium with a Stribling and Schmeling attraction is quite another task than packing it with a Dempsey-Tunney contest.

Our sympathies go out to the Milk Fund.

With a Grain of Salt.

THE Cleveland Indians are having their annual trouble in filling the vacant dotted line with Pitcher Wesley Ferrell's signature for 1931. It is suggested that the club is greatly peeved and that Wesley had better sign, or—

And right there the official mind pauses as to just what will follow that "or."

To put Wesley on the bench involves the total loss of one of the game's standouts. To trade him means to equip some rival team with the very element that might defeat Cleveland. While to sell him—

Well, the balky imagination refuses to rise to this contingency. Possibly, Cleveland would have to play all its games away from home and its officials would have to ride about the city in armor-proof vests.

Fans will put up with just so much, in a city with only one baseball club. So just write it down that Wesley Ferrell may be a trifle late hanging up his hat at training camp, but he'll be there, a satisfied customer.

Mr. Barnard Speaks.

PRESIDENT E. S. BARNARD, whose fame as a prognosticator zoomed wildly, about three years ago when he picked the despised and lowly Browns to pull a surprise party in the American League race, (they surprised by finishing third), predicts a close race in the American League this year. Back from Florida, he is quoted as follows:

"I feel sure this time that we are going to have a good race. We can be more certain about it for the reason that not in several years have we made so few radical changes in the personnel of the clubs in the league. The better clubs have made few improvements while most of the second divison teams have acquired young players who should

Time of halves 45 minutes with one extra period of 30 minutes in case of a tie.

Place—Sportsman's Park.

Kick-off—3 p. m.

The most colorful game of the local soccer season is offered today in the meeting of the Ben Millers and the Coca Colas at Sportsman's Park. This is a cup match and the winner will be St. Louis' lone survivor, well advanced on the highway that leads to the national championship. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Taking cognizance of the tense feeling that exists with so much at stake, officials of the St. Louis Soccer League have sent to Cleveland for Referee James McFarlane. He is the official who handled the national cup final two years ago between the Madisons and St. Louis and the Hakoah Club of New York, and is regarded as one of the outstanding referees of the country.

In their local league games, the Coca-Colas have defeated the Millers twice, by scores of 3-2 and 1-0. Another game was tied, 2-2, and the fourth went to the Millers, 3-2. Thus, the Cocas have scored 8 goals against 7 for the Millers. In their two most recent league games, the Cocas have shown greater scoring power, beating the Hellrungs 3-2 and the Tablers 3-1, while the Millers have beaten the Tablers 1-0 and tied the Hellrungs, 1-1. The Millers are the weakest scoring team in the league, with 21 goals in 14 games, as compared with 28 for the Cocas in the same number of contests. Their defense, however, has been very good, particularly in the past two months. Eighteenth goals were scored against them in their first three games but since then, in 11 games, only 17 goals have been counted.

Hill's Absence Will Hurt.

The loss of Hughie Hill, who returned to Chicago a week ago, will unquestionably reduce the effectiveness of the Millers, but Manager Foley and George Miller have a lot of confidence in Eddie Croak, who will be playing right halfback in place of Hill.

At the start of the season, it was the Tablers and the Hellrungs who appeared destined to play the local cup final, but Manager Phil Kavanaugh, by constant plugging, judicious trades and excellent training methods, whipped his Coca-Colas into a winning club. There is nothing very pretty about this team, but they have the winning spirit carried to the nth degree. They have won five straight games and they're going to be hard to stop.

Foley's team has been upset all season. Erbe, Curran and Tracy reported late, there was a great lot of experimenting at center forward, Vaughan was injured and other players were in and out of the lineup. The acquisition of Hill worked immediate and vast improvement; Halfback Joe Diaz has proved a star, and Larry Kickham has developed into a fine center forward (when he keeps his hands to himself). Hill is gone, but otherwise the team is sound.

Amateurs in Preliminary.

A preliminary game between the Biy-Moss team of Group Two, Fairground Park, and the Spanish Sport Club of East St. Louis, will start at 1:30 p. m., it was announced late yesterday by Phil Riley. Because his team has suffered numerous injuries, Manager Frederick will probably use two men of the Russell team.

If weather and field conditions are good the game should be a thriller.

Storm began fast, was rated back of the pace under strong restraint first three-quarters, responded stoutly when called upon and, wearing down Yankee Doodle, won thereafter. The latter had fine speed, saved ground and held on well, but was overmatched. Sister Zoe, well up and saving much ground, held on evenly through the final five-sixteenths. Paul Bunyan began fast and was in excellent position at the first turn, but was forced back, raced wide in the final half mile and could not get to the leaders, but held on fairly well. Kadiak had no mishap. Bide A Wee was on inside during the stretch run.

$2 mutuels paid: Storm, win $21.60, place $7.90, show $4.30; Yankee Doodle, place $28.60, show $11; Sister Zoe, show $4.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7.—Running one of the best races of his turf career, Mrs. H. Pyne's Storm today showed a clean pair of heels to the Fairground's best to win the Edgewater Gulf Handicap and $2370.

Given little consideration in a race in which Paul Bunyan was the hot favorite, the 4-year-old chestnut offspring of Audacious stepped the mile and one-eighth in 1:52 4-5 to lead B. S. Mitchell's Yankee Doodle by one and one-half lengths. His backers profited to the extent of $21.60 for $2 in the mutuels.

For the first part of the journey, Jockey J. McCoy rated Storm back of the pace, but at the three-quarter pole gave the word and Storm responded with a burst of speed that soon carried him out in front of the field of 11. Yankee Doodle set the early pace, but was not equal to Storm's stretch drive, although easily defeating Sister Zoe from the Four Oaks Stock Farm for the place.

Watkins Signs Card Contract

George Watkins, brilliant young Cardinal outfielder, has signed his contract for the coming season, he informed the Post-Dispatch last night. Watkins was in conference with Branch Rickey at Cardinal headquarters yesterday afternoon and he departed for his home in Houston, Tex., last night.

"Everything is under control," Watkins said. "I came here to discuss terms, found things satisfactory and signed. I am returning home immediately and will report to the training camp at Bradentown, Fla., a few days ahead of schedule."

65 SCORE GIVES CRAIG WOOD LEAD IN TEXAS GOLF

By the Associated Press.

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 7.—Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., shot a 65 today to lead the field for the first 18 holes of the $3500 Harlingen Open Golf Tournament. Wood shot seven birdies, with a 34 out and a 31 in. Par on the course is 72.

Despite a stiff wind, Wood had good drives, and kept his second shots under control. On the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth holes, he was under par with two 2s and a 3 on the back nine Wood beat 36 par by five.

Horton Smith Second.

Close on the heels of Wood came Horton Smith of New York, with 69 strokes 35 out, and two under the more difficult back nine for 34 in.

Four players registered 71s for third place in the field. They were Harry Cooper of Chicago, John Golden, Noroton, Conn.; Al Espinosa of Chicago, and Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn.

Both Golden and Cox bettered par going out but on the homeward stretch, lagged a bit. Grouped at 72 were Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y.; Charles Guest, Los Angeles, who had tied with Wiffy Cox for a 33 going out; Tony Manero, Elmsford, and Pat O'Brien, Harlingen pro.

Harlow Leads Amateurs.

Abe Espinosa, winner of the Texas Open, was off on his putting and after getting into a water hole at the tenth, finished with a poor 76.

Among the amateurs, Bob Harlow, Buffalo, carried off honors with a 75.

Foreign players practically shot themselves out of the running. John de Forrest, Surrey, England, took 80, as did Harry Brown of Mexico City.

The final 18 holes will be played tomorrow afternoon.

Summary—Score at end of half: St. Louis 15, Drake 9. Officials—Fenenga and Thumser.

By Dent McSkimming.

Despite the fact that they had in their team two of the best all around basketball players seen here this season, Drake University took a severe lacing at the hands of the Billikens at St. Louis University Gymnasium last night. Except for three very long shots by Lynn King, Drake showed nothing in the way of attack and lost by a score of 27 to 12. St. Louis also beat Drake at Des Moines in an early season game, 13 to 8.

The two stars on the visiting team were King and Monahan, and both played guard positions. Schultz, a six foot three inch center, added further strength to the defense, holding Grandone to one field goal, but there was no coordination in the attack. Iverson, Pound, Brody, Buzzard and Essick were used in various combinations, but the St. Louis defense was almost impenetrable.

Hunt Smashes Drake Defense.

Against such guarding as Monahan, King and Schultz offered the Billikens had to be better than an ordinary team to win. Possibly, the forwards and center would never have been able to gather points. For a few minutes the situation looked serious and then suddenly Les Hunt solved the problem by breaking through to score three sensational field goals. At half time the Billikens led, 15 to 9, largely because Hunt had been able to smash the tight Drake defense. In the second half Hunt again scored, returning to the game after he had been forced out because of an injured wrist. For the first time this season Hunt played the sort of basketball that has been asked of him, for he was once regarded as the finest guard in the city.

McCarthy Plays Full Game.

Perhaps the brightest feature of the game, from the St. Louis standpoint, was the fact that Owen McCarthy was able to play practically the entire game. He scored only one field basket but his influence in steadying the team, both on attack and defense, was too great to be measured by the points he himself scored. His absolute control of the center feed attack was a thing which visibly upset Drake. Monahan is an exceptional guard but it was not until late in the game that he was able to break up the play.

Frank Kennedy's two field goals in the first half and his third, later in the game, were well executed and he was never far from his target but he found guarding Lynn King as difficult as trying to pick up quicksilver with gloves on.

Drake was beaten by Washington U. on Friday night, 29-26.

St. Louis now prepares for a short trip, playing the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater on Tuesday and Arkansas U. at Fayetteville on Wednesday. They return to meet Grinnell next Saturday night.

The Billiken Freshmen defeated the St. Louis Chapter of DeMolay in a preliminary game, 23 to 13.

Of the many reserves sent into the game by Nyikos, Joe Wynne was outstanding. He seems to have a lot of instinctive basketball skill.

Hunt's injury appears to be a slightly sprained wrist, probably not serious.

About 1500 witnessed the game.

Summary—Score at end of half—Concordia 18, Kirksville 8. Time of periods: Eight minutes. Referee—Lewis.

By Harold Tuthill.

Concordia Seminary gave the Kirksville Teachers College a 31 to 27 lesson in the art of winning a basketball game, but it took the Preachers an extra five minutes to do it. The game, which was played at the Washington University Field House last night before a crowd of 1100, was tied at 26-all at the end of the regulation 40 minutes.

The battle began in a desultory fashion and did not become exciting until the middle of the second half, when Kirksville steadily overhauled Concordia and reduced the eight-point lead which the Preachers owned at the end of the half, until the score was 22 to 21, Concordia up.

At this point, Harold "Hoss" Brauer tossed a one-hand shot through the hoop, but Carl Pettigrew kept Kirksville in the running with a field goal. The Teachers went ahead for the only time in the evening on Guy Curtis' field goal making the score, 25 to 24. Brauer tied the count and Ervin "Shires" Hartman regained the lead, each with a free throw. With less than a minute to play, Gil Lehmann fouled Curtright, who made the try successful and the extra period was necessary.

Herb Etzler, the leading scorer of the evening with 11 points, sank a field goal and a free throw and Hartman a field goal, while the best Kirksville could do was to score on McCartor's free throw in the overtime play.

The victory was Concordia's second straight and the third of the season.

PERKINS WINS TOURNEY FOR GOLF CHAMPIONS

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 7.—T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur titleholder, won the national amateur championship of golf club champions here today when he downed Mallie Reynolds, Jacksonville ace, 3 and 2, in the final 36-hole match.

CREIGHTON WINS TO TIE FOR VALLEY LEAD

STILLWATER, Ok., Feb. 7.—Creighton University swept into a tie with Washington University for top place in the Missouri Valley Conference tonight by wrestling that position from the Oklahoma Agiges in a wild, hotly fought basketball game won, 39 to 31.

Silver Skates Carnival Feb. 17 At Winter Garden

AN indoor setting has been decided on for the oft-postponed Silver Skates Carnival. The sixth annual event will be held in the Winter Garden Feb. 17, it was announced yesterday by Henry Kemper, president of the Missouri Skating Association.

A general admission fee of 50 cents will be charged for the carnival, with 75 per cent of the proceeds going to Chief Gerk's unemployment fund. The remaining 25 per cent will be used in sending St. Louis skaters to the North American indoor skating championships at Chicago, Feb. 27 and 28.

Leading skaters of Chicago, Detroit and other cities are expected to compete in the St. Louis event. Records made will be officially recognized.

PESEK ON CARD PROPOSED BY NEW MAT PROMOTER

Louis "Curly" Fishman, who, with Benny Reuben, Chicago, is interested in a new wrestling promotion in St. Louis, yesterday presented a tentative program to Seneca C. Taylor, Missouri Athletic Commissioner for the St. Louis District, for a program which he proposes to present at The Arena Friday, featuring John Pesek of Ravenna, Neb.

Fishman was unable to say who Pesek's opponent would be as Taylor enjoined him from making the card public until it has been approved or disapproved by the commissioner. However, Fishman did say that Ray Steele was not to meet Pesek Friday but that he hoped to close the Steele-Pesek match while the Nebraskan is here.

As has been told, Steele has posted a $5000 check with Taylor to bind a match with Pesek and a side bet for that amount and while Pesek has wired the Post-Dispatch that he would accept the match and the side bet of $5000, he has not forwarded his money to Taylor, nor has he signed to meet Steele.

Taylor said that he would decide today whether to permit Friday's card to be held, as he told Fishman and Reuben that he would not approve a match between Pesek and an opponent whom Taylor did not consider to have a chance with Pesek.

O'Shocker and Dusek Likely to Meet in Packs' Headliner.

That Pat O'Shocker would meet Rudy Dusek in the main event of Tom Packs' next wrestling card at the Coliseum Feb. 17 or 20 became apparent last night when the promoter issued a statement declaring that Jimmy Londos was demanding a prohibitive sum of money for a bout with Ray Steele. O'Shocker and Dusek wrestled a 30-minute draw on last week's card.

Packs stated that the purse demanded by Londos was so large as to preclude any possibility of profit for himself unless he would raise the scale of admission prices above the $1, $2 and $3, which has prevailed at his shows, a move, incidentally, which Packs does not care to make.

U. S. Riders and Horses Shine in Race in England

By the Associated Press.

LINGFIELD, England, Feb. 7.—Making his first start over an English steeplechase course, Victor Emanuel's Bangle II, an outstanding American contender for the Grand National, romped home three lengths in front of a field of six jumpers to win the Trespassers Amateur Handicap Hurdle race at Lingfield Park today.

Under the guidance of G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, 20-year-old millionaire American amateur rider and polo player, Bangle II finished the two-mile course three lengths in front of C. M. H. Harmsworth's Michaelmasday. Completing the American triumph, A. C. Bostwick, brother of Pete, brought S. Wotton's Sobrino down past the judges' stand in third place.

Backed by a great reputation made over the jumps in the United States, and the knowledge of young Bostwick's riding ability, Bangle was made the 3 to 1 favorite. Michaelmasday and Sobrino managed to stay with the Emanuel ace to the last hurdle but could not match his speed on the flat as they dashed for the finish line.

Bangle raced in America for Emanuel's Dorwood Stable and Thomas Hitchcock Sr., uncle of the Bostwick brothers. In 1929 he ranked as one of the best over the jumps but was held back in training last year because of illness.

prove finished performers. Connie Mack may find the field against him more formidable, this year, unless he can develop pitchers to help out Earnshaw and Grove."

Make It a Handicap.

WELL, boys, as it looks to us 1931 is going to see a close race in Mr. Barnard's league—for second place. And if Connie Mack really has acquired any more pitching than he had last year we rise to inquire just why this event should not be made a handicap, instead of a scratch event?

More and better pitching for Connie is a nice slogan—for Mack. But if this race is really to be close, Mr. McGillicuddy ought to slip Grove and Al Simmons to the Browns and Earnshaw and Foxx to Bob Quinn.

Otherwise, if the Athletics take the field as of 1930, the only thing, in all probability, which can make a close race of the American League is a train wreck.

It's Just Funny.

IN Cincinnati the next "world championship" wrestling match will take place, Tuesday. Jimmy Londos, champion of Philadelphia, will defend his title against no one else but Fred Grobmeier, who is running Milo Steinborn a great race for the honor of being the most-defeated mat man in the circuit! Grobby has lost eight of his last 12 bouts here; even Milo Steinborn won from him.

Still, the situation is so serious for Londos that they had to go out of town before they get a referee good enough to handle the match impartially!

It Happened Before.

TOM MEANY, writing in the New York Telegram about the invasion of New York wrestling by the Sonnenberg group, says:

> In a few days the rival wrestling groups are certain to be issuing defies, challenges and counter-challenges as fast as the mimeograph machines can turn them out. Huge sums of money will be mentioned carelessly and the upshot will be that the laugh will go out of wrestling. And when the laughs leave, so will a great percentage of the fans.

Modern wrestling may not be a laugh, but its opponents have had to grin and bear it.

Can Be Capitalized.

JACK O'CONNOR, who is planning to pulmotor the boxing game from a comatose to an active sport in St. Louis, may have an inspiration. But he will have to have some real matches to put it over.

There is, however, encouragement to be found even in the 1931 red ink record. That is, shown by at least one boxing failure here this year, when 8333 persons paid to see an indifferent card at The Arena.

An item in a Milwaukee paper points out this fact: "The official attendance at the Tut-Petrolle fight in St. Paul was 10,249."

It was a "natural" and therefore exceeded St. Paul's best previous fight attendance by 3670 persons! The show was a big money-maker.

St. Louis lost money on a house that exceeded St. Paul's best previous attendance by nearly 2000!

If O'Connor can attract 8000 fans to the Coliseum, he will be a poor promoter indeed if he loses money. That attendance ought to show a sure profit, instead of a loss.

The right kind of matches will start boxing on the right foot. The 8333 gate shows that normal interest is here.

Too Late, Now.

THIS writer, long before St. Paul closed the Tut-Petrolle match, suggested it for this city. That would have brought out a packed Arena, even in these times. But the chance passed. These boys are in the "big money" now. We could not afford them.

There is, however, a pretty good fighter coming up who hasn't quite made the big tent. Before he acquires an expensive reputation some one ought to sign him with a fighting opponent for St. Louis. He is Frankie Battaglia, from the same stable as Tut. The grapevine has it that he will be Mickey Walker's successor. He ought to be worth a look.

U. S. Hockey Team Leads in Victories But Stands Second

KRYNICA, Poland, Feb. 7.—With only one game to play, the University of Manitoba grads today took a commanding lead over the Boston Hockey Club in the battle for international amateur hockey supremacy. The two teams meet in the final game tomorrow.

An 8-to-0 victory over Austria while the United States was defeating the strong Poland outfit, 1 to 0, gave the Canadian representatives a six-goal advantage. The title is decided on total goals and the University of Manitoba team has scored 13 in four games as against the Boston club's seven.

Charle Ramsey scored the lone goal in the United States contest with Poland. Sensational playing could not match the Canadians' scoring ability, however, as Watson counted three goals, Morris and Pidduck two each and Hill one, in the game with Austria.

Soldan Defeats Principia, 28-14

Soldan High School, leaders in the City High School League basketball race, defeated Principia Junior College last night at Principia, 28 to 14.

The Principia team was handicapped by the absence of Nolte and James, regular guard and forward.

Stitt scored 13 of the 17 points made by the Principia A team which lost to St. Charles High, 31 to 17. Bacon was high scorer for St. Charles with 11 points.

NORTHWESTERN BEATS CHICAGO FOR 5TH IN ROW

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Feb. 7.—Chicago gave Northwestern a huge first period scare tonight, but sagged under the pace and the Wildcats scored their fifth straight Western conference victory, 31 to 16.

The high-powered Northwestern offense was completely stopped in the first half, although the Wildcats led by 6 to 4 going into the second session. Northwestern failed to connect for a field goal in the first half, but free throws by McCarnes, Riel and Reiff, kept them in the lead.

Chicago made one field goal in the opening period, a short one by Sid Yates after 17 minutes had elapsed. The Maroons held on for three minutes of the second half before the Northwestern attack caught hold and made it a run away. Northwestern's accuracy from the foul line was a big factor, Wildcat warriors making 13 out of 18 charity shots.

Holmes checked in with scores of 210, 246 and 256 in the seventh, eighth and ninth games but slipped to 184 in the final session, while Krems was chalking up 183. Krems opened with a rush, counting 236 to Holmes' 188. The Chicagoan followed with 238 and the Wooster Lamber shooter fell to 171. Krems again grabbed the next game, 199 to 183 and Holmes counted his first double century score when he chalked up 212 to Krems' 235.

Holmes had five errors in the first half of the match. Krems went through the series with but one error, a "cherry" in the second frame of the ninth game.

The second block of 10 games will be rolled tonight and the final blocks will be rolled at Charlie Peterson's alleys next Saturday and Sunday. Announcement was made preceding the match that the winners will challenge Joe Scribner of Detroit for the match title.

The score:

TILDEN WINNER IN SINGLES AND DOUBLES

PUNTA GORDA, Fla., Feb. 7.—Big Bill Tilden, who swings his racquet as a professional these days, easily defeated Emmett Pare of Chicago, 6—0, 6—3, in lawn tennis singles here today. Pare missed many forehand shots during the two sets, played under rules governing amateur play.

Tilden and S. Jarvis Adams Jr. of Punta Gorda, defeated Francis T. Hunter, former No. 2 player of amateur ranks, and Sidney H. Smith, New York amateur, 6—3, 6—1, in doubles.

OKLAHOMA RALLY UPSETS KANSAS

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 7.—The Oklahoma University "Sooners" upset the dope and for the first time this season crashed the win column when a fast last-half rally gave them a 33 to 30 win over the University of Kansas. Kansas led, 20 to 8, at the half.

MAJOR GOLF MEETS TO BE HELD THIS YEAR IN MIDDLEWEST

By W. J. McGoogan.

St. Louis golfers who want to play in important tournaments this year will have plenty of opportunity to do so at a minimum expense for most of the big events of the 1931 golf season are to be held fairly close to this city and one of them—the women's Trans-Mississippi tournament—is to be held at the St. Louis Country Club.

There has been a rather strong movement among golfers for years to hold the big tournaments in the Middle West because of the greater accessibility to the whole country and a consequent reduction in expenses for competitors.

National Amateur at Chicago.

The National Amateur is to be held at Beverly Country Club, Chicago, Aug. 31-Sept. 5; the National open at the Iverness Club, Toledo, O., July 2-4; Women's National at Buffalo, N. Y., Country Club, Sept. 21-26; Western open at Miami Country Club, Dayton, O., and the Ryder Cup matches, Columbus, O., June 26-27.

The professional championship tournament site has not been set at yet, but conversation among the leading professionals during the St. Louis open here last fall indicated that they were all anxious to have the event decided at some Middle Western club.

The Western amateur tournament is to be held at Portland, Ore., July 13-18 and that is about the only large tournament in which it will be difficult and expensive for St. Louisans to compete for the National Municipal tournament and the Men's Trans-Mississippi are to be held at St. Paul.

The Missouri amateur also is scheduled for North Hills Country Club and it is likely that the Missouri open will be held in St. Louis.

Therefore there will be no lack of competition for district golfers this season, although the general depression has hit the insurance and the brokerage business which will likely retard somewhat the entrance of local stars in out-of-town events.

It has been seven years since the U. S. Amateur was held in Chicago. Max Marston won the title that season over the Flessmoor course, defeating Jess Sweetser, one up in 38 holes.

Beverly a "Tough" Course.

At Beverly the contestants will find a course admirably suited to golf. It is long and difficult, but natural terrain is so splendid that St. Louis golfers, accustomed generally to baked fairways, should find the turf there so good as to make up for the additional yardage they will have to cover at Beverly in comparison to local courses.

There is only about one "relaxation hole" in the entire layout. That is No. 12, 110 yards long, a short pitch hole, and even that requires a delicately executed shot over water. But aside from that one the par threes are plenty long and most of the par holes require two wood shots to reach the green. And there are enough traps scattered about the place to make it necessary for all shots to be straight for a penalty is usually exacted for any carelessly hit shot.

Beverly is 6702 yards long with a par of 71, 36 out and 35 back.

The Open was held at Inverness in 1920 when Ted Ray won with Harry Varden, Leo Diegel, Jack Burke and Jock Hutchinson tied for second place.

Qualifying Rounds Here.

For both the Open and the Amateur qualifying rounds in sections will be held throughout the country. The Open qualifying round for the St. Louis district is scheduled to be held at Normandie June 8, while the trial for the amateur is scheduled for the west course at North Hills, July 28. Each of these trials is a one-day event, 36 holes of medal play.

The amateur qualifying round will include golfers from Missouri, southern Illinois, Tennessee, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Arkansas and southern Iowa. Golfers with club handicaps of four or less will be eligible to enter. The number permitted to qualify has not been determined as yet, but it likely will be on a percentage basis of the entries.

Clarence Wolff, secretary of the St. Louis District Golf Association, and Chick Irwin of North Hills, will supervise the amateur try-out for the United States Golf Association.

Are backing Little Brown Jug to win.
Ha, ha, ha, you and me,
Little Brown Jug, how they love thee!

But Little Brown Jug, claim quite a host,
Is making but an empty boast.
Ha, ha, ha, you and me,
Little Brown Jug, they don't love thee.

In other words, they have a hunch
That Little Brown Jug has lost his punch.
Ha, ha, ha, you and me,
Little Brown Jug, they don't love thee.

They'll soon go to it tooth and nail,
The winner taking all the kale.
Ha, ha, ha, it will be
A "battle of the century."

HAND it to Branch Rickey and his staff when it comes to selling the Cardinal organization to a minor-league town. Ordinarily when a big league club decides to move in, it sends Scout Joe Doak or Ninth Assistant Secretary Oscar Doughnuts to represent the club in negotiating and in handling the business affairs. Naturally Mr. Doak or Mr. Doughnuts doesn't sell himself in a big way to the people of the farm town and any resentment at the invasion is fanned rather than ameliorated.

But that isn't the way the Cardinals tackle the assignment. No, sir. No, sir. Here's how they marched on Springfield, Mo., when they decided to make it a part of their chain-store system:

Charley Barrett, the great scout, and Gene Karst, publicity man, motored to Springfield. Phil Bartelme went to Charleston, Mo., picked up Oliver French, business manager of the St. Joseph club and they motored to Springfield. Branch Rickey journeyed to Springfield by plane and then the assembled forces marched in company front into the business sector.

Naturally the Springfielders were impressed by the visit from all the big shots of the Cardinal organization and before many hours had passed the word was being circulated through the town that there was going to be some important baseball there next season and that the Cardinals were going to put the team over in a big way. The biggest men in town will co-operate with the Cardinals and if Springfield is as good a baseball center as Rickey and Bartelme think it is, it soon will become one of the most important links in the Cardinals' chain.

"It will be a handy place for our donkeys," Barrett remarked on his return. "We can just put a delivery tag on their coat and put them on a bus for Springfield."

"It's farther south than Danville," Bartelme suggested. "The weather should be better, it will be handy by airplane and there is a fine park there for training purposes."

How Hornsby Stands.

FREQUENTLY a fan remarks that Rogers Hornsby will have a tough time in Chicago and that he is not popular. But Rogers stands high with baseball men and baseball writers throughout the country. Here's a few paragraphs about Hornsby written by Tommy Holmes, baseball writer of the Brooklyn Eagle:

"One thing about Hornsby he doesn't deal the old hooey off the arm in expressing his opinion of anything. You can depend on what he says and, if he says that he thinks he'll be ready, you can bet money, at reasonable odds, that he will be.

"I recall last August when Hornsby had rejoined the club to sit on the bench after his broken ankle had healed somewhat. Perhaps the wish was the daddy of the idea, but the Chicago writers couldn't conceive of Rog being out the rest of the season. They kept knocking off yarns that Hornsby would be in there again in a couple of weeks.

"Along about that time I saw Hornsby down on the bench and asked him how his legs felt.

"'Terrible,' he replied 'I'm out for the year, all right.'

"He did get back for a couple of days in late September, but he was so slow that he couldn't help the club.

"Hornsby will be 34 years old in April. He is old enough to make the task of coming back as a regular after serious leg ailments and a season of virtual idleness tough enough. But he's not so old to make the comeback an impossible task. Or even improbable, if his broken ankle has been well set.

"Outside of Chicago there are probably a million fans who hope that he makes it. In St. Louis in 1926 when Rog was manager of a world champion team he was the most colorful leader the major leagues have had for the past decade. Not so two years later, when Hornsby managed the Braves. If anything could make Hornsby sick the Braves did, wallowing hopelessly in the second division. But with the Cubs this year it will be different. Without Hornsby, Chicago will be a contender; with him, Chicago will be THE team to beat."

BEARS TO PLAY THREE VALLEY LEAGUE BASKET GAMES IN WEEK

By James M. Gould.

Basketball and swimming schedules make this one of the busiest winter weeks in Washington University athletics. Tonight the Bears depart for Madison, Wis., there to play the Badgers' basketball five tomorrow night. Returning after their one-game trip, Coach White will have only one day of practice before engaging Concordia Seminary at the Field House, Wednesday night.

Again, there will be a one-day interval and the hard-working basketeers will be called upon to face Grinnell here Friday night. Saturday night will be given over to the swimmers, the Washington varsity meeting the Chicago University team.

The scheduling of a game with Concordia indicates that the Bears are going after the city collegiate basketball title in earnest. Concordia already has played two games with the St. Louis U. Billikens and stands all square with them in the series. The game between the Bears and the Billikens was one of the most sensational of local basketball history, requiring two extra periods before the Billikens won by a single field goal.

There was a disposition on the part of observers to count Washington out of the valley conference race following the disqualification of Saussele and Whitehouse, but the remaining members of the team refused to let the loss of these two stars put them off stride and now are decidedly in the competition to retain their title with three victories in five games.

The rejuvenation of Joe Hahn has, perhaps, been a vital factor in the work of the Bears. Hahn, playing center, has proved his right to the position, and, against Drake, Friday night was high man of both teams with a 10-point total. Wise, the little sophomore, called upon to fill the shoes of the clever Saussele, has not let the importance of the assignment fluster him and is proving a good running mate for Capt. Constance on the forward line.

SIDNEY GRANT DEFEATS PETO BY A LENGTH IN DISTANCE RACE

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7. — Jockey Albert Robertson, second rider in the C. V. Whitney stable, continued to shine in the saddle before a large crowd here this afternoon. Robertson, who rode four winners out of five mounts Friday, had his first mount on Traitor in the third event and was a driving winner. Then he rode his contract employer's gelding Angry to victory in the Perrine Handicap, a six-furlong dash, fourth on the card, defeating a good field.

Robertson had no mount in the Hialeah Park Handicap, the mile and a sixteenth feature. This event went to A. Bartelstein's Sidney Grant, which beat Peto, the favorite, by a length after a hard battle down the stretch. Raccoon was third, five lengths back of Peto, with Son O' Battle and then Sun Shadow completing the small field.

Peto led the way into the stretch pursued first by Son O' Battle and then Sidney Grant, the latter being rated close up and saving ground. Jockey Kurtsinger gave the winner a strong ride to get first to the pole.

Angry defeated a fine field of sprinters in the fourth.

Silverdale, the heavily played choice, was second a length and a half back, and a half length in front of the early pace-maker, Okaybee. Angry never let Okaybee get far away and saving ground on the stretch turn, caught Okaybee in the final furlong and drew clear. He had enough to hold Silverdale at bay, when the latter came with a rush at the end.

FORTY PERSONAL FOULS CALLED IN GAME

CHARLESTON, Ill., Feb. 7.—Forty personal fouls were called tonight as the basketball team from the State Teachers' College, Normal, Ill., trounced the Eastern Teachers 41 to 29. The eastern pedagogues led at half time, 16 to 15. Zook of the State team and Wasem of the Eastern counted 12 points each.

JOCKEY ROBERTSON RIDES SIX WINNERS IN TWO DAYS AT MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7. — Jockey Albert Robertson, second rider in the C. V. Whitney stable, continued to shine in the saddle before a large crowd here this afternoon. Robertson, who rode four winners out of five mounts Friday, had his first mount on Traitor in the third event and was a driving winner. Then he rode his contract employer's gelding Angry to victory in the Perrine Handicap, a six-furlong dash, fourth on the card, defeating a good field.

Robertson had no mount in the Hialeah Park Handicap, the mile and a sixteenth feature. This event went to A. Bartelstein's Sidney Grant, which beat Peto, the favorite, by a length after a hard battle down the stretch. Raccoon was third, five lengths back of Peto, with Son O' Battle and then Sun Shadow completing the small field.

Peto led the way into the stretch, pursued first by Son O' Battle and then Sidney Grant, the latter being rated close up and saving ground. Jockey Kurtsinger gave the winner a strong ride to get first to the pole.

The race was worth $2580 to the winner.

Angry defeated a fine field of sprinters in the fourth.

Silverdale, the heavily played choice, was second a length and a half back, and a half length in front of the early pace-maker, Okaybee. Angry never let Okaybee get far away and saving ground on the stretch turn, caught Okaybee in the final furlong and drew clear. CITY CHAMPION AT POCKET BILLIARDS

E. W. MOORE.

E. W. Moore Wins Pocket Billiard Final, 100 to 99

A strong finish, in which he scored 13 points, when his opponent needed only one, gained E. W. Moore the city pocket billiard championship last night, when he defeated A. L. Jackson, 100 to 99, in the final match, at Peterson's Academy.

The match was completed in 27 innings, and a crowd that filled the billiard theater was thrilled by the game. Play was fast and when the score was 93-80 in favor of Jackson, both shooters showed nervousness. They missed for three or four innings and then Jackson, with 99 points to his credit, missed a side pocket attempt. Moore then steadied and ran out the necessary 13 points for victory and the championship.

Jackson had a high run of 24 and Moore one of 14.

Allen Hall, former St. Louisian, runner-up in the national three-cushion billiard championship tournament, will appear in exhibition matches Feb. 19, 20 and 21, at Peterson's, opposing Bud Westhus and Gene Deardorff, local amateur stars.

VALLEY BOXING TOURNEY WILL BE HELD IN MARCH

The second annual Mississippi Valley Amateur Association boxing championships will take place at the Coliseum the last week in March, it was announced last night by the Executive Committee. The members of the committee are James McGinn, president of the M. V. A. A.; Dick Esser, secretary; Jul Kummer, former president, and Tom Pivac of the Croatian A. C.

The tournament was held at the South Broadway Athletic Club last year, but owing to the growth of amateur boxing in this city during the past year officials of the M. V. A. A. agreed that the Coliseum would be the logical place for this year's event.

150 Boxers to Compete.

Championship will be decided in eight divisions and the boys who won championships last year, providing they have not turned professional, will be permitted to defend their titles. It is expected that about 150 boxers will enter.

A belt, emblematic of the divisional championship, will be awarded to each of the eight successful fighters. The losing boxer in each of the final events will receive a silver medal and each fighter entered will be the recipient of a bronze medal.

The Croatian A. C., Tower A. C. D. A. Club, National A. A., Wesley House, Sherman Park C. C., South Broadway A. C., Senate A. C., Collinsville, Ill., A. C.; Overland A. C., E. K. A. C., Jefferson Barracks, Business men's R. C. and Elliott S. M. Club are the local boxing organizations that already have promised to enter their entire boxing squads.

Two Amateur Shows This Week.

Two amateur boxing shows are scheduled this week, the first at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 3547 Olive street, under the auspices of the D. A. Club, is set for tomorrow night, while the other is to be held Thursday at the South Broadway A. C.

Ten bouts are on the D. A. program, including four special events. Morgan Lingenfelter, who has won three of his last four bouts, will meet Danny Durso in one special. These boys were to have met at the Croatian A. C. recently, but the contest was postponed due to Durso's illness.

Carl Taylor, Jefferson Barracks welterweight, conqueror of Elmer Polkinghorne, champion, is to meet George Biehl, Sherman Park, in another special, while Pete Little of Wesley House opposes Dick Kogel, Sherman Park, and Bil Kardewski, Belleville, meets Lloyd Cartwright in the other two.

The preliminary card:

Bill Fisher, South Broadway, vs. Ben Fengelbaum, Jefferson Barracks; Walter Wilbert, Wesley House, vs. Charles Clark, Senate A. C.; Eddie Green, Olympian A. C., vs. Charley Weinhoff, Senate A. C.; John Mucci, Taylor Springs, Ill., vs. Mike Paul, Wesley House; Johnny Vinton, South Broadway, vs. Virgil Neimeyer, E. K. A. C.; Emil Okie, Croatian A. C., vs. Roy Gareau, Jefferson Barracks.

Miles to Meet Schulte.

A return bout between Les Schulte, National A. A. U. junior heavyweight titleholder, and Johnny Miles, light-heavyweight champion of the Mississippi Valley A. A., was announced last night by Matchmaker Willie Miller as an inter-club feature of Thursday night's amateur boxing tourney at the South Broadway.

The match will afford Schulte a chance to redeem the setback he suffered at the hands of Miles in a recent encounter at the South Side club.

A return match between Harold Downs of the Business Men's A. C. and George Brendel of the Tower A. C., is sought by Miller as another feature. Downs shaded Brendel in a lively feature of the last South Broadway show.

Joe Huff, Dick Kogel, Johnny Bush and Farrell Moore, leading local contenders of the welterweight division, comprise a group from which Miller plans to select the principals in another special attraction. The preliminary events are open to registered amateur boxers of every weight division.

BOB SLED RACERS COVER MILE AND HALF COURSE IN MINUTE, 52 SECONDS

By the Associated Press.

LAKE PLACID CLUB, N. Y., Feb. 7.—The Saranac Lake Sports Association won the first North American and A. A. U. four-man bob sled championship race here today. The total time for four heats over the mile and a half course was seven minutes 31.35 seconds. The fastest heat was made in one minute 52 seconds.

The Milwaukee sled, captained by Hunter Goodrich, finished second, and the entry of Harry Grayson Martin of New York was third.

THE ART OF SOCCER No. 16

By ANDY WILSON.
Of Scotland and Chelsea.
(All Rights Reserved.)

I HAVE been asked if tactics must be varied for the different types of ground that a side meets with. Most certainly they should and perhaps this subject is useful as a general lesson.

When the ground is soft, kick the ball hard; when the ground is hard, kick the ball gently. That is very nearly a motto that can be adopted blindly and in good faith. In those places where hard grounds are the most common, the close game is by far the best to use, then you can adopt the short midfield cross pass, the back passes which I have described, and the triangular formation down the wings, which is, of course, made up of short passes.

But these passes are absolutely useless on a muddy ground, when the ball will not travel. What is the use of a tap pass when the ball travels just an inch or two and then sticks in the mud? They merely play into the hands of the other side.

Invariably when the ground is bad the edges of the field are fairly good; certainly they are the only parts of the ground where fast progress can be made. So you must give the ball to the wingers and let them do the advancing. You cannot plow through mud with the ball at your feet; you must, therefore, let the players who have the decent parts of the surface do the advance work.

The secret of this game lies mainly at center half and inside forward. Look at the diagrams of past lessons and study the method of getting the ball out to the wing with wide passes. That is the way to play on a bad ground.

Iron-Bound Grounds.

When Chelsea, my club, was playing in South America we were hopelessly lost for a long time with the hard, concrete-like grounds, grounds that obtain in many Continental places, too. Though we played a closer game than usual, we still found the ball racing away from us. A moderate speed pass sent the ball scudding out of play. Those passes that would have been ideal on our grounds were utterly useless there. In time we realized that wide passes were hopeless.

Even in England in the early stages of the season and later on, we get these hard, fast grounds, and it is then that we revert to the game down the center, with the back passes as the chief method of attack.

Wind High—Ball Low.

Playing on a windy day is another difficulty that often upsets a team. There is another saying that can be kept in mind for such an occasion. "When the wind is high, keep the ball low." That was told to me when I first took an interest in football and I have always kept it well in my mind. Here again the close game is best. Wide, long passes are no use; they will simply be carried astray. By the way, if you win the toss, always kick with the wind in the first half.

There are two reasons for that. In the first place you may as well have the advantage offered, in case the wind drops for the second half of the game. But the more important reason is that if you oppose the wind in the first half you will be more tired for the second. The other side may get goals with the advantage of wind, and in the second half, though you will gain some help that will be negatived by your early endeavors.

STRIBLING, SCHMELING IN MIAMI EXHIBITIONS

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—Pa Stribling, who announced a Mickey Walker-Johnny Risko fight for Feb. 24, sime time ago, said today the bout would go through as planned, despite Risko's defeat last night at the hands of Charles Retzlaff at Detroit.

Pa was quoted several days ago as saying he might put W. L. "Young" Stribling and Tom Heeney or another opponent in the ring, if Risko failed to show proper mettle against Retzlaff.

Young Stribling will be on the program, however, in an exhibition match. In another exhibition on the same card will appear Max Schmeling.

AL LIVINGSTON TAKES FEATURE HAVANA RACE

HAVANA, Feb. 7.—Al Livingston a 4-year-old son of Whisk from the Cuban-owned Calmito Stables won his third race in six starts at Oriental Park today when he led a cheap field of claimers home in the Santa Clara purse.

Nearest him at the finish of the mile and quarter journey was A. G. Tarn's Lancer. African, racing in the silks of H. C. Hatch of Canada, showed a flash of his one-time brilliant form, when running for the late R. T. Wilson, but could do no better than third.

Al Livingston stepped the distance in 2:10 3-5 to pay 4 to 1.

Columbus and Sherman Soccer Teams Again Tie

A fifth game will be necessary to settle the Playground Soccer League championship. In the fourth game of the final series, played yesterday afternoon at Fairground Park, Columbus Square seemed assured of victory for they led, 1-0, with only two minutes remaining to be played. Then Sherman's concerted attack suddenly bore fruit and Outside Right Ernst scored on a short shot to tie the count. Because of the soft condition of the field officials declined to order extra periods for fear of working an injury to the young players. Each team has won one game and have played two ties.

The fifth game probably will be played next Saturday, at Grounds Two, Fairground Park, but it has been suggested that it be scheduled as a preliminary to one of the Municipal Soccer League elimination games, Feb. 15.

Joe Zagari, inside left forward, a very sturdily built lad who has been conspicuous throughout the series, put Columbus in the lead 10 minutes after the start when he followed up a long shot and drove the ball into the net as Goaltender Moran fumbled. Columbus seemed far stronger throughout the first half but Sherman put on repeated attacks in the second period, gaining four corner kicks and trying numerous shots.

The kicking of the Columbus fullbacks, Nolan and Bommarito, was far superior to that of Dempsey and Keenoy. Mullen, at center half for Sherman, was largely responsible for his team's strong finish.

SHERMAN (1).	Positions.	COLUMBUS (1).
Moran	Goal	Siesienski
Dempsey	R. F.	Nolan
Keenoy	L. F.	Bommarito
Friel	R. H.	Gemke
Mullen	C. H.	Kenneth
Brockmeyer	L. H.	Corcoran
Ernst	O. R.	Genaro
Murphy	I. R.	Ucinski
Barry	C.	Saputo
Devereaux	I. L.	Zagari
Driscoll	O. L.	Dattilo

Goals—Zagari and Ernst.
Referees—Harry Donovan and Bill King.

C. B. C. Opposes Memphis Five in Contest Tonight

The Christian Brothers' College basketball team will resume athletic relations with C. B. C. of Memphis when it meets the Southern five in an intercity game at the Brothers' gym tonight. In two encounters last year, one played in St. Louis and the other at Memphis, the locals had the better of the argument, winning both contests by close scores. The game starts at 8:30 o'clock, with a preliminary game between the girls' teams of St. Marks and Rosati-Kain High Schools, scheduled to start at 7:30.

Coach Jack O'Reilly will have his strongest lineup available for the encounter, and from advance reports concerning the Memphis team, he will probably need it. The visitors are leading their league at present, having dropped but one contest this season, and are defending the city basketball title which they won last year.

Woody Foley, stellar forward who has been out of the lineup for the past week because of illness, will probably start at forward for the locals, along with Busch. Kilgus is to draw the assignment at center, with Fuchs and Braudrich at the guards.

ARGUS FIVE TO PLAY KNOXVILLE COLLEGE TEAM HERE THURSDAY

The Argus Bulldogs, champions of the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. Basketball League are scheduled to meet the strong Negro quintet from Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday night at the Pine Street "Y." The preliminary contest will be between "Y" Directors.

The Knoxville quintet has won 11 out of 12 games. This record includes some of the strongest Negro College teams of the South while the Argus Bulldogs have an enviable record of 20 victories and two defeats this season.

The visiting team have scored a total of 389 points to their opponents' 250.

Concordia Games Today.

Three games are scheduled today at Zion Hall, Twenty-first and Benton, in the Concordia Lutheran League. The games: Zion Greens vs. Grace Wellston, 2 p. m.; St. Andrews vs. Immanuel, 3 p. m.; Zion Blues vs. Bethany Seniors, 4 p. m.

Equipoise 4-1 Favorite For Derby in Future Book, With Jamestown Out

Although nominations for the Kentucky Derby, to be run next May, have not yet been announced. Equipoise has been made favorite for the rich event at the short odds of 4 to 1. Nominations closed several days ago but the list of candidates awaits the arrival of mail from the Pacific Coast.

Thomas Kearney, who sets the style in future book odds in this vicinity, said yesterday that Equipoise looked like a standout in the event, no matter what the field might be, owing to the announcement that Jamestown has not been named for the event and has not been given any early preparation for it.

In Kearney's opinion, Equipoise holds all the other candidates safe. He mentions the odds on other candidates as follows: Twenty Grand, 6 to 1; Mate and Insco, 10 to 1; Vander Pool, Siskin, Epithet, Don Leon and Knight's Call, 20 to 1; Barometer, 30 to 1. Other candidates are quoted up to 500 to 1.

What's in a Reputation?

There will be much discussion as to the odds quoted above, especially since Twenty Grand of the Greentree Stable has taken the measure of Equipoise, as has Vander Pool, unbeaten 2-year-old of last season and winner of a long list of races.

Insco, owned by Griff Watkins of Alton, which has had long rest, will get a lot of play, undoubtedly, as will Epithet, which owns a victory over some of last year's leaders, including Jamestown, considered the best 2-year-old of 1930.

E. R. Bradley's Barometer doesn't figure on paper, but a heavy play in the future book has kept down his price. True Blue Pal at 100 to 1 is being touted as the "dark horse" of the event. Pittsburger, 17 hands high and the biggest horse of all those expected to figure in the nominations, is also quoted at 100 to 1.

Sun Beau Choice at Caliente.

St. Louisans are also keenly interested in the advance booking on the Agua Caliente Handicap, which will be run March 22 in Lower California. The arrival of the great handicap horse Sun Beau at the Caliente track dealt a severe blow to his odds out there. He is now quoted at the prohibitive price of 3 to 1—a figure at which he will not be popular, even though he is carrying top weight of 129 pounds.

Sun Beau stands to win more than $100,000 on this event, and if he is successful in the race he will have won during his career $364,000, a world record winning total.

Of the other nominations for the Caliente Handicap, Pigeon Hole at 8 to 1 is second choice. Alex Pantages and Lady Broadcast are held at 10 to 1 each. Mike Hall, himself a famous handicap racer, is also on the grounds and is quoted at 20 to 1. Mike failed to return to form last year, but will be formidable if at his best for the big race, turf followers believe. Challenger II, the imported entry, is quoted at 15 to 1.

Among the entries declared out of this race are Chariot, Chief John, Crack Brigade, Don Leon, Jean Lafitte, Jean Valjean, Jim Dandy (conqueror of Whichone and Gallant Fox), Naishapur, Oscillator, Sailor Boy, Starpatic and Upright.

Greeleys Win City Handicap Bowling Tourney

With the last five-man team rolling yesterday, the Greeleys of the Alhambra Grotto League, won the city annual handicap tournament of the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association with a 3097 score. The Schmitts, the last to roll, bowled over 2980 pins and finished fourteenth. The Greelys received $130 and gold medals went to its five members.

The Mid-City Recreation team rolled the high single game of the tournament with 1094. The individual high single game in the team event was 269 and was rolled by L. Watkins.

The tournament, which is being rolled on the Mid-City Recreation Alleys, has one more week to run, with the doubles and single events.

All-Star Tenpin Matches Tonight

With the afternoon matches in the St. Louis All-Star Individual Tenpin League on the Washington Alleys discontinued for the present, this week's entire program of seven matches will be presented this evening.

After five weeks of the schedule only five points separate the holders of first and eighth position. Ten of the 16 bowlers in the league have better than 200 averages for the 40 games rolled to date.

On the first squad, which is scheduled to start at 7 P. M. three matches are scheduled, the contest between Hank Summers and Ray Holmes having been rolled earlier in the week due to Holmes being in Chicago for his match with Eddie Krems. Holmes captured nine of the 12 points from Summers.

The schedule:

7 P. M.
Buzz Wilson vs. Sam Garafalo.
Fred Krems vs. Oscar Whitehead.
Roy Nelson vs. Herman Hahn.

8:30 P. M.
Ben Cohen vs. Chris Sottrei.
Harry Deen vs. Ray Ziegler.
Lee Martin vs. Cone Hermann.
Frank Kastner vs. Mitzi Weinstein.

FLINTS BOWL 1187 GAME AND GET 3302 TOTAL

The Flint bowling five established a new St. Louis single game and three-game team total in the weekly round of the Peterson Scratch League when they collected 1187 for one game and 3302 for three in whitewashing the Hellrung team, who totaled 2814.

In the Flints' high single game score, 24 pins separated the high and low men on the team. Harry Deen, with 246 was high and Oscar Whitehead, with 222, was low. Buzz Wilson totaled 245, while Herman Hahn and Freddy Krems each collected 237 total.

In the other match the Witter Razz team totaled 3076 and won three from the Sunshines who totaled 2961. Otto Stein Jr., with 663, led the Razz team, while D. Robert Bruce, with 684, was high for the Sunshines.

The Wooster Lamberts, with 3065, won the odd game from the Petersons, who totaled 2961. Ray Holmes, with 673, led the Lamberts, while Monnig, with 669, was high for the Petersons.

The South Side Chevrolets, with a 3123 total, won the odd game from the Schmitt Ready Mixers, who totaled 3019. J. Duchek, 706, led the Chevrolets, while J. Ludwig, with 678, was high for the Schmitts.

M. V. A. A. TO SUPPLY GROCERIES FOR BOXERS AT BANQUET, FEB. 16

Officials of the Mississippi Valley Athletic Association have taken the amateur boxers who recently asked for groceries as prizes at their word and are going to give them a dinner at the Fairground Hotel on Monday, Feb. 16, at 7 o'clock. In fact, the officers are going the boxers one better, for the boys only asked for staple groceries and they are going to get a supply of the fancy kind.

And not only will the winners of bouts be invited, but all the boxers registered with the association, the judges and the referees, as well. About 200 bids have been sent out.

FLYERS PLAY FOUR HOCKEY GAMES IN FIVE DAYS HERE THIS WEEK

Owner of Flyers Continues Lease on Arena for Year

WALTER WHITESIDE, owner of the St. Louis Hockey Club announced yesterday, that he had continued his lease on The Arena for one year. The lease calls for use of the building by the hockey club for 10 years, but one year has practically expired and Whiteside has been unable to finish the work of fitting the building for hockey which, under the terms of the lease, he was to do.

However, he stated yesterday that he hoped to have his affairs in condition for the work to be completed by Nov. 1.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Four games in five days are on the American Hockey League schedule for the St. Louis Flyers, to be played at the Winter Garden. Duluth is down for games tomorrow night and Tuesday night, while Buffalo calls for a pair of contests Thursday and Friday.

These four games should enable hockey followers to determine whether the winning pace which the Flyers showed against Chicago in their first home game is to be maintained or whether it was just a flash.

The Flyers are in pretty good condition at present, although Coach Kenny Mackenzie is ill with a cold and Nobby Clark, defense man, has not entirely recovered from the injury which kept him out of the contest with the Shamrocks.

Despite the fact that his club is in last place and that he is ill, Coach Mackenzie is optimistic over the outlook. He says he expects the team will climb out of the cellar before the present season ends and declares that he has several young men who will develop into real stars by the time another season rolls around.

Praise for Goalkeeper.

Herb Rheaume, which the coach pronounces "Rayoom," is one of the best goalies in the business, according to Mackenzie, and if he had been on the job all season there would have been a different story to tell about those 23 games, of which the Flyers lost 19.

Not only was the club in need of a goalie when MacKenzie joined it on the opening day of the season, but one look at the outfit was sufficient to show MacKenzie that he needed other new players, and after a telephone conversation with Walter Whiteside, owner of the club, he set out to get them. He obtained Red Jackson, Kendall, Pattenden, Bobby Kirk, Creasey and Singer as rapidly as he could, but the fact that new men were coming in all the time made it impossible for the team to develop combination play, especially when they were on the road all the time and unable to find ice on which to practice.

But in addition to Rheaume, MacKenzie believes he has coming stars in Kendall, Jackson, Singer and Creasey, at least, and hopes that some of the others will develop.

Club Has Had Troubles.

The club has been up against a very tough proposition all year, being forced to play away from home all the time; suffered lack of practice, and in addition lack of finances, which has caused paydays to be few and far between. Right now the players are behind in their pay, but they have faith in Whiteside and hope to see the treasury fortified enough during the next week to get their money.

Some of the players, although they realize that pioneers in any sport sometimes have to put up with inconveniences, do not look upon empty paydays cheerfully, and their grumbling has added to MacKenzie's worries, although he is no better off with respect to pay than the rest of the men.

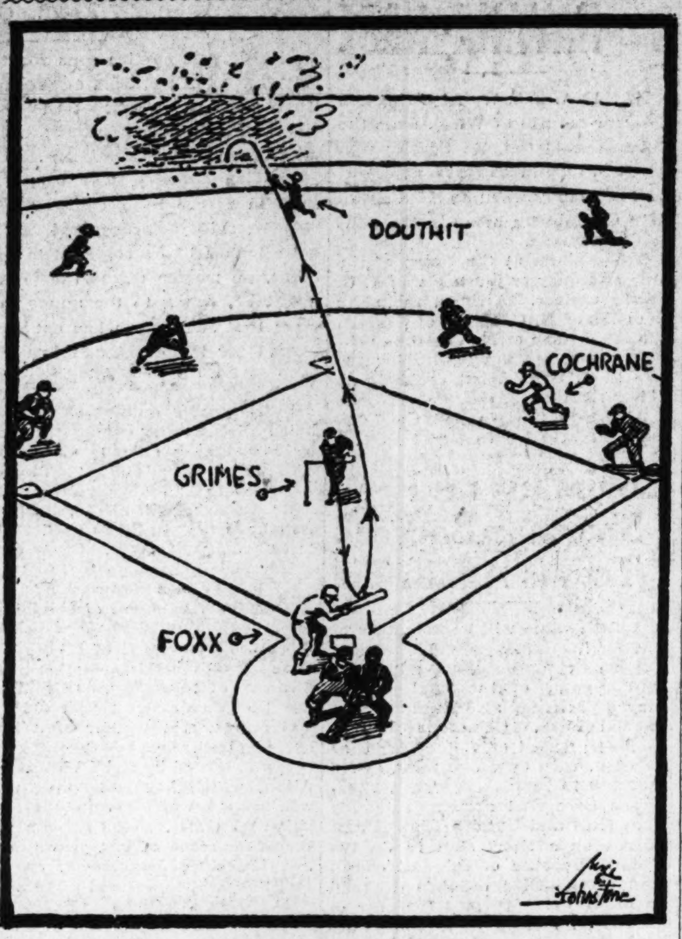
One saving feature of being on the road constantly has been the fact that the players have been housed and fed at the expense of the club, which has always managed to dig up the wherewithal for necessaries.

Visiting clubs receive only $250 per game in the American League, and this sum has not been sufficient to pay all expenses of the Flyers on the road, so the club has had to make up the deficit. At home, of course, the home club has the benefit of any large crowds it may draw, so the players are hoping for big turnouts at the Winter Garden this week.

ELLINGTON (MO.) BASKET TEAM WINS 20 IN ROW

ELLINGTON, Mo., Feb. 7.—The Ellington Whippets won their twentieth consecutive basketball victory of the season last night, defeating Fredericktown, 24 to 20. This was thec losest game Ellington has played in many weeks. Just before the end of the third quarter the score was tied, 16-16, but Adkins was sent into the game and scored five points to give Ellington a commanding lead.

McGraw Says Foxx Outguessed Grimes on Homer in Fifth Game



According to Giants' manager, Jimmy gambled that first pitch would be a curve and that's what it was.

By John J. McGraw,

Manager, New York Giants.

The great play of the last world's series—it might better be called event—that will live longest in the memory of baseball fans and baseball players occurred in the ninth inning of the fifth game, played at St. Louis, I mean that home run by Jimmy Foxx. It was the turning point in the series, and it was no lucky stab, no freak of luck.

That was an outstanding play because it finally wound up a guessing contest between Burleigh Grimes and the Athletics that had been going on for nearly two hours; the sort of contest that any old ballplayer likes to watch.

In a previous inning Grimes had outwitted Foxx for a strikeout that retired the side. On two occasions he had outguessed Al Simmons by laying aside his spitter and opening with a fast curve ball. All through the game he had worked with extreme caution on Mickey Cochrane.

Kept Close Tab.

While Grimes kept close tab on every move of that trio at bat he forgot, perhaps, that they were also studying him. He was finally crossed when he tried to repeat one of his most successful moves.

When Mickey Cochrane came up in that last round the Cardinals thought that Grimes had him struck out, but after a long siege up at the plate the umpire gave Mickey a base on balls. Grimes then turned his attention to Simmons and got rid of him on an easy pop fly to Gelbert.

In the meantime, young Foxx had been studying the procedure with a keen eye. He saw that Grimes had opened on Simmons with a curve ball and figured that Burleigh would try to put him in the hole in the same way.

At this stage of the game it was a matter of who got in the first good sock and the idea was to hit at the first good ball offered.

As he took his stance, it was evident that Foxx had decided to gamble on a swing at the first one. In fact, he said that he had made up his mind to take that cut and figured it would be a curve like that tried on Simmons. If the guess was wrong he would merely have to spot himself one strike.

But the young fellow had called the turn exactly. After faking a spitter by holding the ball to his mouth, Grimes came through with a curve ball, just as Foxx had expected.

The Fatal Blow.

He swung, the ball was there and the game was over. The thing that everybody had been waiting for, on one side or the other, had happened. When that drive carried into the bleachers there was a feeling that the Cardinals were sunk. The wind also helped to give the ball a lift over the barrier. Outfielder Douthit saw the play in plenty of time and had judged the ball perfectly, but was helpless when it dropped in the seats.

Yes, Foxx's home run will be remembered long after other great moves in that series are forgotten.

East Side Soccer Teams Battle for First Place Today

The lead in the East St. Louis Municipal Soccer League will be at stake this afternoon at Jones' Park when the second place Fairmont eleven meets the leading Dauers in the opening game of the double-header. French Village, tied with the Fairmonts in second place, also has a chance at the top if it defeats Lansdown in the second game and the Dauers lose the first.

The Fairmonts, winner of the first half title, made a sensational climb to the runner-up position after trailing in last place at the opening of the second season. The Dauers' lead was cut to a single point last week when the French Village team defeated the leaders, 2-0. Fairmont lost an opportunity to tie by being held to a 1-1 deadlock by the Lansdowns.

If the Fairmonts win today, they will lead by a point. A protest filed by that team against the Lansdowns is expected to be settled Tuesday. If this protest is allowed, it will give the Fairmonts an advantage that will be difficult to overcome as but two games remain on the schedule for each team.

French Village also has filed protest against the Lansdowns. This dispute also is to be settled Tuesday. A victory for the Villagers and a sustained protest will put that team deadlocked with Fairmont for the top and an elimination of the Lansdowns as title contenders.

The standings:

Team.	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Pts.
Dauers	3	[illegible]	1	7
Fairmont	3	[illegible]	[illegible]	6
French Village	3	[illegible]	[illegible]	6
Lansdown	1	[illegible]	3	5

Coach Harmon Resigns.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Feb. 2.—Coach Bill Harmon has resigned his position at Illinois College after 20 years of service. The resignation will take effect at the end of the scholastic year 1931-1932.

SCHENBERG TEAM IS FAVORED TO DEFEAT GEBKENS

With their start outside right, Barrett Long, out of the game with a broken bone in his foot, the Schenbergs will put an altered team on the field when they meet the Gebkens in the first of the Municipal Soccer League elimination games at Carondelet Park this afternoon. In the absence of Long, Manager Cromer probably will switch Joe O'Mara to outside right, necessitating another change at the inside position. O'Mara is an exceptional outside forward, but he has been used for the past six or eight games at the inside berth. Shifty Jim Rabbitt will take over his place.

The Gebkens, under the leadership of Joe Bunz, who has put his team into the elimination series for three successive years, are an eager crowd of youngsters who will supply all the fire and dash needed to make an exciting game. Bunz will be able to start his regular lineup, the only cripple being Jim Moore, the center forward, who has a bruised thigh. In the Gebken lineup are Eddie Kane, a brother of the Tabler halfback, John Kane; Tom and Jim Moore, brothers of "Dinty" Moore of the Tablers; John Schmitt, who played a couple of games at outside right for Billy Foley, and other players above the average.

Cromer has gathered together a team which, at least on paper, promises to go a long way. It is said to be the best representative of Carondelet No. 1 group in years. Dave Bartnett is a first-class goaltender; Walter Heidell and Dave Branconier are steady fullbacks; Tom Heidenry knows what it's all about at center half; Joe O'Mara has no superior at outside right, even among the professionals; Jim McCarthy is a good leader at center forward, and the left wing is experienced.

The Schenbergs must be given the edge, but better physical condition and determination may win for the Gebkens.

Dick Wall, considered the best of the Municipal League referees, will be in charge. Starting time is 2:30 with 45-minute halves. If the score is tied at the end of 90 minutes, two extra halves of eight minutes each will be ordered, and if a tie still exists, two more eight minute halves, at the end of which time the boys will cease firing, even though the winning goal has not been scored.

The probable starting lineups:

SCHENBERGS.	Positions.	GEBKENS.
Bartnett	Goal	Le Meur
Heidell	R. F.	Tuhro
Branconier	L. F.	Dulie
McLaughlin	R. H.	Breseuso

"Old Jess" Haines Real Hero In Cards' World Series Games, His Record in Classics Shows

By James M. Gould.

World Series games of the past five years have brought only small comfort to the St. Louis Cardinals and considerably less to the National League. Of the 26 games played from 1926 to 1930 inclusive, the National League has won exactly seven for a percentage of .269. While the Cardinals have lost two of the three series in which they represented their league, they are credited with six of the seven victories, the Chicago Cubs getting the other.

HAINES

This record being as pale as it is, neither the league nor the Cardinals have enshrined the records of their showings in any particularly garish niche, but, if there are any rewards around for distinguished world series service, both the league and the club might ship them along to one Jess Haines, in the winter, a fine automobile mechanic and, in the good old summer time, just as good a baseball mechanic in St. Louis and points East.

For, while others have been acclaimed as "heroes of the series," little praise has been handed Haines for his work in 1926, 1928 and 1930. Yet, this quiet Ohioan has won .429 of the games the National League has won and .500 of the games the Cardinals have won. In other words, he has won three of St. Louis' six victories and three of the seven National League triumphs. His personal series' percentage is .750. He lost his game in 1928.

In the 1926 series, Haines recorded two victories but the "play" was taken away from him by the dramatic performance of Grover Alexander in the final contest and by the unexpected batting streak of Tommy Thevenow. Yet, Haines' work in 1926 was superb. On Oct. 5, in St. Louis, he shut out the Yanks with five hits and won his game, 4—0, adding to the general joy by hitting a homer himself. In the final game—the one in which Alexander relieved him—Jess allowed eight hits to aid in the team's 3-2 victory.

A Victim of the "Breaks."

Of course, there wasn't much glory to pass around in the 1928 series when even Haines couldn't pitch the Cardinals to a single victory in the set of four played. Jess worked the third game of this series and allowed only six hits in the six innings he presided. The "break" against Jess came in the fourth, when a misjudging of a drive by Douthit gave the Yanks a pair of runs. Also, in the sixth, Haines was the victim of "unnecessary roughness" on a bad throw past first by Frisch and a dropped ball at the plate by Jimmy Wilson.

So, it may be seen that, in his only World Series' defeat, Haines of Ohio, really pitched excellently.

His third triumph came on Oct. 5, 1930, just four years to the day after he had shut out the Yankees at Sportsman's Park in the '26 series. In this game, Jess allowed the Athletics only four hits and one run, winnnig his game, one of the two won by his club, 3-1.

Haines' World Series Record.

Haines has to his credit 34 innings of World Series work. He worked one inning in the Cardinal-Yankee opener in New York in 1926, six innings in the third 1928 game and the full route in his three victories. In those 34 innings, the opposition scored only nine runs and made only 23 hits. Which, being interpreted, means that Haines permitted a run only every 3.8 innings and an average of 6 hits per game.

In his three victories, he gave up only three runs and allowed only 17 hits!

Which is a record which seems to call for considerable pointing to with pride made, as it was, by a man who seldom says much and of whom much is seldom said. The ballyhoo seems to have gone to others while Haines attended strictly to his knitting and compiled a brilliant record.

From the St. Louis angle, the best part of it is that Jess is still with us after more than a decade of service and is counted upon for more than a fair share of victories this coming season.

Some athletes are ever in the rays of the limelight. Sometimes, they belong there because of their efficiency. Sometimes, apparently, an athlete that deserves a brilliant "spot" is overlooked by the operator.

PRINCIPIA SWIMMERS DEFEAT KEMPER M. A. TEAM HERE, 39-27

The swimming team of Principia Junior College gained a 39 to 27 victory over the Kemper Military Academy tank squad from Boonville, Mo., in a dual meet in Howard Pool yesterday afternoon. Commodore Flint's boys took the 160-yard relay which opened the meet and maintained a safe lead throughout the contest.

Huntley Child, Principia, led in the soring with two firsts, winning the 40 and 100 yards free style events. Brenner, another Principia swimmer, was a close second in both races.

The summary:

160-YARD RELAY—Won by Principia; Hirsch, Utley, Child, Brenner. Time—1:25.3.
40-YARD DASH—Child, Principia, first; Brenner, Principia, second; Litt, Kemper, third. Time—:21.4.
100-YARD FREE STYLE—Child, Principia, first; Brenner, Principia, second; Litt, Kemper, third. Time—1:3.8.
100-YARD BACK STROKE — Howard, Kemper, first; Corbett, Principia, second; Ward, Kemper, third. Time—1:30.
220-YARD FREE STYLE—Hirsch, Principia, first; Grates, Kemper, second; Alan, Kemper, third. Time—2:48.
FANCY DIVING—Cotton, Kemper, first; Moore, Kemper, second; Brooks, Principia, third.
Final score—Principia 39, Kemper 27.

McKendree Will Hold Prep Meet Again This Year

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEBANON, Ill., Feb. 7.—Five hundred high school athletes of Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri were mailed invitations today to compete in the fourteenth annual McKendree College interscholastic track and field carnival, which will take place on Hypes Field, April 25.

Contrary to rumors that the interscholastic would not take place this year, Dr. Cameron Harmon, president of the college, stated that not only would there be such a meet, but that all efforts possible will be exerted to make it the greatest ever held.

GRAPPLING ANEW WITH THE SMOKE MENACE

Forces Being Gathered for a More Intensive Battle in St. Louis—History of Air Pollution Goes Back to the Thirteenth Century and Men Were Hanged for Breaking Law.

By [illegible] W. CHILDS
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

THE city man's ancient struggle against coal smoke has in the past year grown more intense. Cities all over the country, and New York among them, have recently taken more accurate records of the terrific cost in money and health of the smoke evil. And appalled, citizens' committees, political and civic groups, are everywhere drawing the smoke battle along more drastic lines.

Something of this sort is happening in St. Louis, where the anti-smoke campaign has been organized for nearly five years. Victor J. Azbe, probably the chief enemy of smoke in the city, is planning a new campaign against the smoking stacks of large industrial plants. Azbe, who is research chairman for the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League, intends to call public attention to those industries which continue to contribute to the smoke menace, even though they are equipped with smokeless firing devices and even though they may not be violating the strict letter of the law.

Engineer Azbe, whose zeal in the smoke warfare is of long standing, believes that the law is much too lenient. Eventually, he would go the whole way and forbid the creation of smoke—of whatever density—with a view to purifying the air, even in large cities, of all soot and smoke. But he concedes that such a measure in St. Louis today might occasion a revolt among the 250,000 householders who would be confronted with the necessity of spending extra money in order to burn coal completely and efficiently.

Too, before many months, St. Louis will have a five-year record of smoke prevalence, which will probably be more complete and more accurate than the statistics existing for any other city. Dr. George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden, has been employing for the past five years an Owens Automatic Air Filter, popularly called a mechanical lung, which automatically records the smoke content in the air at intervals of 15 minutes. An enormous mass of figures now must be compiled and co-ordinated, a task which will take perhaps six months, Dr. Moore says.

The director of Shaw's Garden has a very special and pressing interest in St. Louis smoke. For many years it was recognized that it was gradually exterminating a great many of the species in the garden. The orchids and more delicate tropical plants were removed some years ago to Gray's Summit, Missouri, 70 miles out, where the air is unpolluted. They were being gradually strangled in the smoky boundaries of the city. And now hardier varieties show marked signs of deterioration.

Though the problem has grown far more pressing since the rise of an industrial civilization—human beings have never before been subject to conditions such as exist at present—it is by no means a new one. In fact, it was in 1273 that the use of sea coal was first prohibited in England. Even the smiths were obliged by law to burn wood. But despite all laws and ordinances the use of coal became more and more widespread.

IT HAD come into widespread use in 1257. And in that year Eleanor, wife of Henry III, found it necessary to leave the town of Nottingham, where she had been sent to stay during the King's absence in Wales, and remove to Tutbury Castle owing to the unendurable smoke of the "sea cole."

Queen Eleanor set a precedent that has been observed ever since. The rich and the powerful, and some who are neither, trek to Southern climates in winter to escape smoke and cold.

Despite the law of 1273, the situation became so bad that in 1307 the King named a Commission of Oyer and Terminer to enforce the anti-smoke law. The commission received the following instructions:

"To inquire of all such who burnt sea cole in the city, or parts adjoining, and to punish them for first offense with great fines and ransoms, and for the second offense to demolish their furnaces."

One man who repeatedly disobeyed the royal edict was tried, condemned and hanged.

And though smoke laws have been violated ever since, the effort to abolish the smoke nuisance has never stopped. It first came to public notice in St. Louis in 1864, when a Judge declared smoke to be a nuisance and levied a heavy fine on the owner of a chimney that had been belching dense smoke. The first specific smoke abatement ordinance here was passed in 1893. Comparatively little was done until the formation of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League with a fund of $200,000. An incentive to intensive action was the appearance some years ago of statistics purporting to show that St. Louis was the smokiest city in the country.

These figures make Azbe see red. He says, with considerable indignation, that there is absolutely no way of determining whether or not St. Louis is the smokiest city. It may be, he adds, but no one can say so with any fairness or accuracy until the scientists agree upon a uniform measuring stick for smoke. At present there are three or four standards—soot-fall, particles of soot dust per cubic centimeter, number of smoking chimneys observed, and so on.

Azbe is of the opinion that the engineer who pronounced St. Louis the smokiest city simply came here for a few days, made superficial tests, compared the results with those from other cities and found that St. Louis belonged at the head of the list. But he might have done his testing, Azbe objects, on one of those days when, because of atmospheric conditions, a thick blanket of smoke lay over virtually the entire city. Azbe's charts show that such a condition can exist on one day, with the graph mounting way up, indicating thousands of particles of soot, and on the next, due to a sudden shifting of the upper atmosphere, the air is comparatively clear.

But if St. Louis is not the smokiest city, it is probable, Azbe believes, the most sulphurous. And it is sulphur in the air, in the form of sulphuric acid, that does the greatest damage to health and property. Sulphuric acid feeds upon such things as copper spoutings and building stone and sensitive human tissues. Copper gutterings in downtown St. Louis last about 10 years, in the West End about 20 years and in the country beyond the smoke zone they last almost indefinitely.

Smoke costs St. Louisans an estimated $19,000,000 a year. It costs New Yorkers $96,000,000 annually. And these figures take no account of the cost in impaired health, which includes loss of working time from illness, doctors' bills and dozens of other incidental expenses. The most conclusive studies of the effect of smoke on health have been made at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburg. A two-year survey showed a strikingly close relationship between the pneumonia death rate and the smoke content of the air as charted by wards. The presence of smoke increases the tendency to all respiratory diseases. It constantly irritates the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and mouth. The gradual deposit of carbon that is built up in the lungs of all dwellers in the larger cities slowly reduces the functional capacity of the lungs, impairs their elasticity. Autopsies performed on city dwellers show lungs ranging in shade from a chocolate color to jet black.

H. B. Meller, head of air pollution investigation at the Mellon Institute, and probably the foremost smoke authority in the country, recently had this to say:

"The constant inhalation of poison-laden air probably results in a gradual process of absorption by the human system of the poisonous products of combustion.

"THIS insensible intake may not give rise to any definitely recognizable acute disorder or specific disability. But the process of slow poisoning may eat away insidiously, like a mild canker, at vital tissues, making it impossible for body and brain to function at their points of maximal efficiency.

"The indirect effects of smoke upon the human organism are traceable to the various meterological states due to the products of combustion which get into the atmosphere and which, in turn, directly influence the body and mind. These are, particularly, the sunshine, clouds, humidity, fogs, temperature, electrical potential and luminosity. It has already been shown that smoke aids in the formation and prolongation of fogs, that it reduces the amount of sunshine, particularly the shorter wave lengths considered so beneficial, decreases the limit of vis-

"Living Memorials" to Five Great Confederate Generals in One Southern Town

Daniel Harvey Hill III and Jocelyn Hill.

Elizabeth Lee and James Rutledge Henderson III.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

CHARLOTTE, North Carolina.

THIS city, one of the centers of the South's modern industrial progress, knows the war is over, but it does not forget there was a war "between the states." For here, where Jefferson Davis convened the Cabinet of the Confederate States of America for its last meeting, are collected living memorials to five of the great leaders of the lost cause; one may meet them on the street any day. They are descendants, lineal or collateral, of Generals Lee, Jackson, Hill, Pickett and Barringer. Five families of children of the same stock as these warriors of '61-'65 have their homes here.

Particular attention was drawn to Charlotte's distinguished Confederate families when Mrs. Ann Jackson, widow of Stonewall Jackson, declined a pension voted her by the Legislature of North Carolina in recognition of her husband's service to the South. Mrs. Jackson, who spent her declining years in this city, suggested that the money voted to her be given instead to needy Confederate veterans or used to establish a school for wayward boys. As a result of her action the Stonewall Jackson Training School was built at Concord.

In 1857 Jackson fell in love with and married Miss Ann Morrison of Lincoln County, North Carolina, daughter of Dr. Robert Hall Morrison, one of the founders of Davidson College. When the General died he left his widow an infant daughter; he had seen his daughter only once, when his wife visited him in camp in Virginia.

THIS child, named Julia Neal, after her maternal grandmother, became the wife of Captain William E. Christian of Richmond, Virginia, author and newspaper man. Mrs. Christian died when still comparatively young, leaving two small children in the care of her mother, the widow of General Jackson. One of these children was Julia Jackson Christian. She was reared by her grandmother, with whom she continued to live until her marriage to Randolph E. Preston, a Charlotte lawyer. Her brother, Thomas Christian, now a Major in the United States Army, is an instructor at the University of Chicago, a post very similar to the one occupied by his noted grandfather, for whom he was named, in Virginia.

The eldest of the five Preston children, Anna, named for her great-grandmother, is a student at Salem College. She was voted the best all-round student at Salem last session and is a member of the staff of the college paper. Recently she was honored with membership in Alpha Chi Alpha, national journalistic society, which selects its members from those who have accomplished some literary achievement. As sponsor for the South at the reunion of United Confederate Veterans some years ago, she presented a biographical sketch of her great-grandfather, which was later presented to the United States Senate and ordered printed by that body.

The next child, Cortlandt, is a senior in high school. Julia Christian, named for her maternal grandmother, is a junior high school student. Then there come Randolph E. Jr., 7 years old, and Thomas Jackson, 4 years old.

The Lees of Charlotte are collateral descendants of Robert E. Lee. General Lee married Mary Anne Randolph Custer, only daughter of Washington Parks Custer, adopted son of President George Washington and the grandson of Martha Washington, thus linking by marriage two of the most prominent families in Virginia. His brother, Charles Carter Lee, married Lucy Taylor, of the same family as President Zachary Taylor, and they reared a large family of children. Among these was Henry, grandfather of the Charlotte children descended from the Lees.

Henry Lee married Miss Elizabeth Woolen of Guilford County. To them were born two children, the father dying when they were young. The youngest of these, Soule Olive, was born in Charlotte and named for her Grandmother Lee. She married James R. Henderson Jr., and is the mother of two children. The eldest, Elizabeth Lee, 10 years old, and more familiarly known as "Betty Lee," was born in Charlotte and now attends the Dilworth graded school. The other child, James Rutledge III, is 5 years old.

All Carolinians feel a possessive pride in General Daniel Harvey Hill, a native of South Carolina, who spent the better part of his life in North Carolina, where he devoted himself to the upbuilding of the State. His paternal grandfather, William Hill, in 1770 built an iron foundry near York, South Carolina, which was the only plant south of Virginia where ordnance was cast for the Colonial armies. Hill graduated from West Point and saw service in Mexico. He later became professor of mathematics in Washington College, Lexington, Virginia, where he married Isabella, eldest daughter of Dr. Robert Hall Morrison. He was commandant of a military institute at Charlotte when war was declared between the states.

General Hill was the father of three sons and two daughters, all of whom live in Raleigh with the exception of one, Daniel Harvey Hill Jr. of Charlotte, who married Miss Ruth Bainkenship. Of several grandchildren of General Hill four are in North Carolina. These are Pauline Hill Abernathy and James Hill III, whose parents live in Raleigh, and the children of Daniel Harvey Hill Jr., who were born and live in Charlotte.

The eldest of these is D. H. Hill III, born November 8, 1919, who began school in the building where 60 years before his great-grandfather conducted classes. The other child is Jocelyn.

George Edward Pickett IV and Virginia Pickett.

Interest in military affairs has persisted in the Pickett family. Colonel George Robert Pickett was on Washington's staff during the Revolutionary War, and served also in the War of 1812. After there was no more fighting to be done he settled on the ancestral home place in Farquier County, Virginia, where his eldest son, George Edward, was born. This young man entered West Point, graduated as a Second Lieutenant, saw service and was promoted to a captaincy in the Mexican War, and finally became a General in the Confederate armies. He enjoyed the friendship of President Lincoln and of General Grant. General Grant offered him the marshalship of the State of Virginia.

GENERAL PICKETT'S eldest son, George Edward Jr., following in his father's footsteps, entered the army and was promoted to the rank of Major. He served in the Spanish-American War and in the Philippine difficulties. George Edward Pickett III, of Charlotte, served as a Lieutenant overseas in the World War and was badly wounded. He married Miss June D. Oglevy, and to them two children have been born, George Edward IV and Virginia. The father is connected with the United States Veterans' Bureau in Charlotte.

General Rufus Barringer also was descended from a line of fighters, his ancestors having taken part in the early wars of the United States. Among the prized relics of the Barringer family are letters of commendation from Generals Robert E. Lee and Wade Hampton written to General Barringer while he was commander of the old First North Carolina regiment. At the close of the Civil War the General moved to Charlotte and established a law practice. His first wife was a daughter of Dr. Robert Hall Morrison, sister of Mrs. Stonewall Jackson and Mrs. Daniel Harvey Hill—three girls in one family having married men who later became Generals in the Confederate Army. His last wife was Miss Margaret Long.

ONE child resulted from this last marriage, Osmond Long Barringer, who married Miss Alice Cowles. They have four children. The eldest, Brandon, 24 years old, is in business in Charlotte. Osmond Jr. is 19 and a freshman at the Virginia Military Institute in Virginia. Alice Cowles, the only daughter, is 16 and a freshman at St. Catherine's, in Richmond, Virginia. Rufus, the namesake of his noted grandfather, attends Myers Park School.

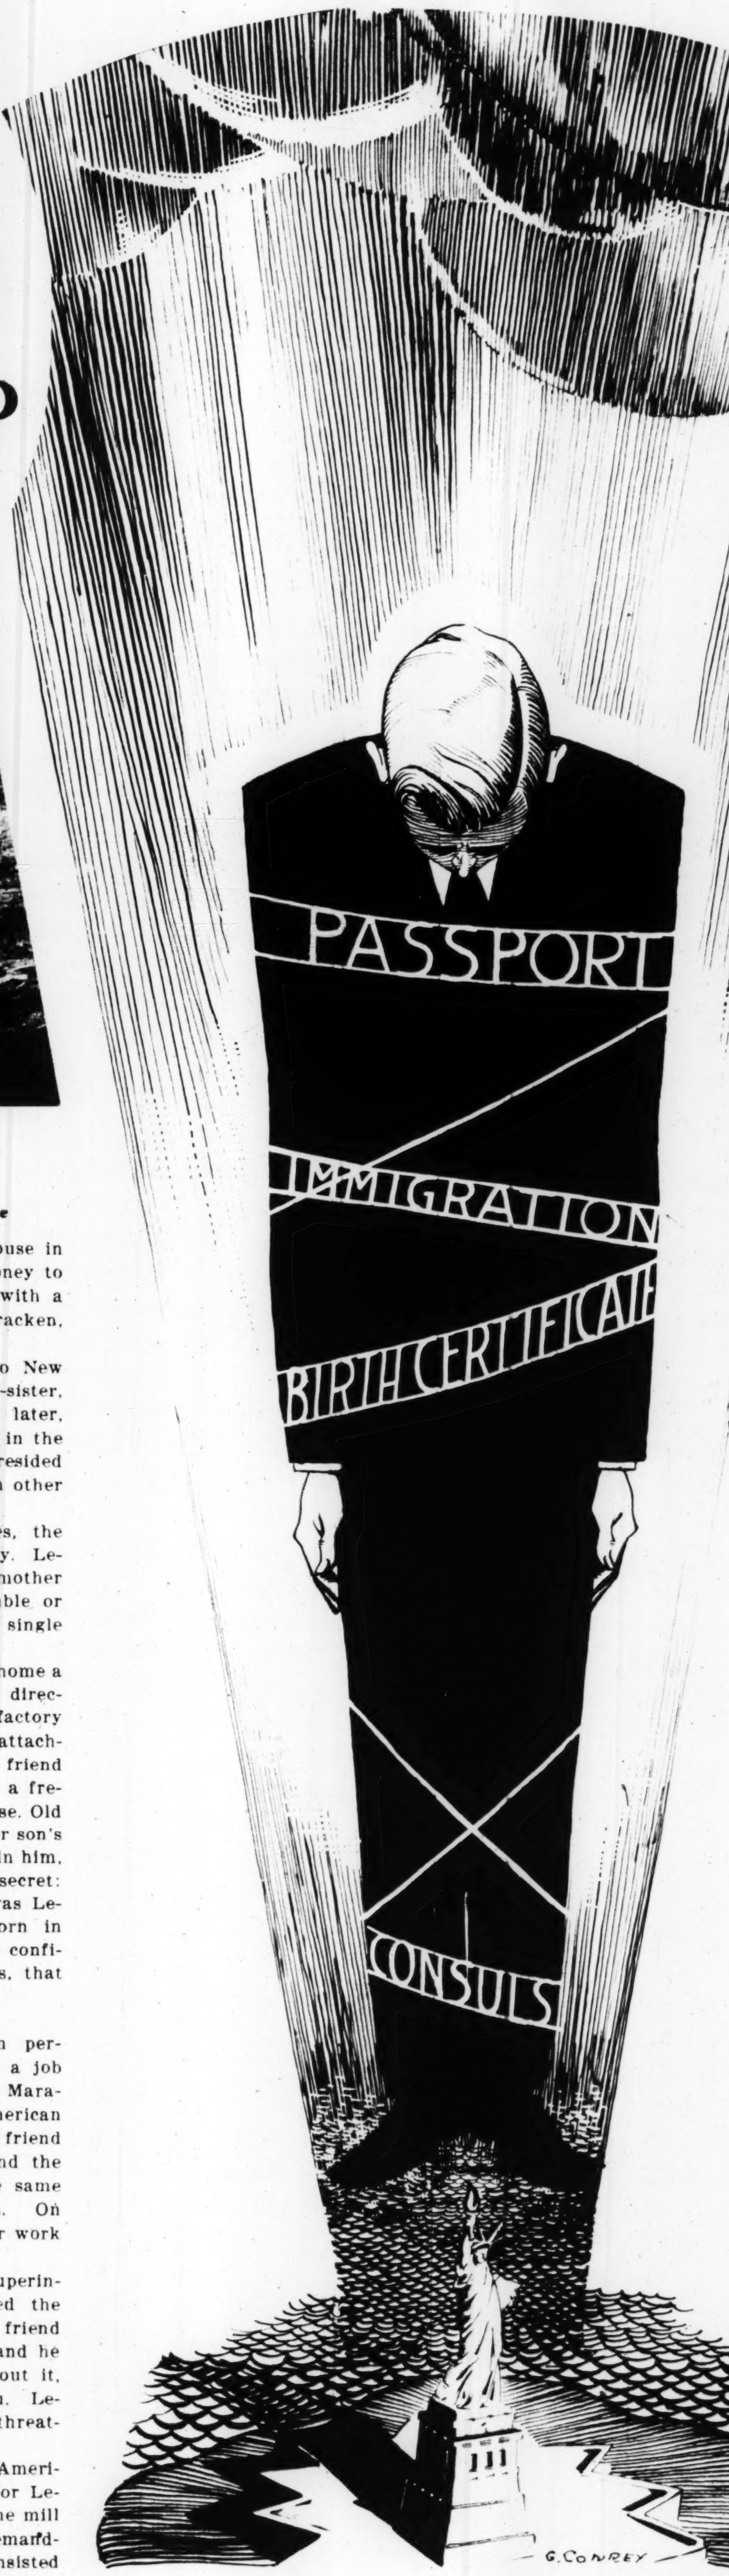
A curious analogy runs through the lives of these five Southern Generals. All of them graduated from West Point; each served in the war with Mexico and won higher rank. Three were educators and at various times taught in the colleges at Lexington and elsewhere. The three Morrison girls married three of these Generals.

Julia Preston and Betty Lee Henderson and Daniel Hill, before the Pickett family came to Charlotte, were chosen to represent their respective ancestors during the reunion of United Confederate Veterans in Charlotte in June, 1929. At the pageant in the armory in honor of the veterans, in which the days of the '60s were relived, these three little "Confederates," dressed in the costumes of ante-bellum days, were presented to the assemblage and received a thunderous welcome from the old soldiers.

FIGHTING the LETTER of the LAW to KEEP His CITIZENSHIP

How a Man Who for More Than 50 Years Believed He Was an American, Faces Deportation Through His Mother's Deception.

Letourneau, 20 years ago, when a mill worker in Louisiana.



Edward (Payette) Letourneau and his mother.

NEW ORLEANS.

IT SEEMED to the mother a harmless deception that she practiced on her eldest son for half a century. But the ". . . tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive" is now apparent to her. Caught in the web is her son, Edward C. Letourneau, who, after being shuttled back and forth from country to country and spending his life-savings in a vain effort to escape from the tangle, finds himself, at 57, facing expulsion from the nation he has always regarded as his, and separation from friends and family. Caught in it, too, is his mother, Mrs. Marie Payette, 73 years old, now apparently to be without the support and companionship of the son who has looked after her for nearly 40 years.

The secret of her son's paternity has come out. Mrs. Payette kept the secret for 50 years, then told—in confidence. Now the Government of the United States knows that the man who had thought since boyhood that he was Edward Payette, American citizen, is Edward C. Letourneau, Canadian born and still a subject of the King of England. If legal technicality is allowed to govern in this case, Letourneau, held here for final deportation hearing, must go back to Canada.

Mrs. Payette's deception was for her boy's own good, she thought. She wanted him to have as happy a childhood as he could. Her early years probably had not been very happy. Born in New Orleans, she was adopted as an infant by a couple who died during a yellow fever epidemic. Then she was adopted by another family and taken to Bay City, Michigan, which then was a small lumber town. There she grew to womanhood without learning to read or write. She married a Canadian lumberman, Edward Letourneau, and they moved to Pembroke, Ontario, where her first son was born, his birth and baptism being recorded in a Catholic church there.

HERE occurs a gap in the family history. Mrs. Payette is reticent concerning the period immediately following the birth of her son. She refuses to discuss the boy's father. Anyhow, she returned to Bay City when Edward was 5 years old and married Payette.

Three daughters and a son were born to the pair. Edward was made to believe that Payette was his father. "I didn't want him to feel there was any difference between him and his brothers and sisters," Mrs. Payette explained.

The family remained in Bay City until Edward was 13 years old, and he attended school there. Then it moved to Cripsen Island, near Brunswick, Georgia, where Edward walked four miles to school each day, and did chores in a sawmill after school hours to add to the meager family income. At 16 the lad was a full-fledged sawyer. During succeeding years his work took him to mill towns in West Virginia, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Florida. His family, meanwhile, had settled in Panama Park, near Jacksonville, Florida. After the death of his stepfather, Edward sold the house in Panama Park and gave the money to his mother, who went to live with a daughter, Mrs. Josephine McCracken, in Philadelphia.

In 1911 Letourneau came to New Orleans. His mother and a half-sister, Mrs. Roise Barbe, joined him later, and they bought a small house in the French Quarter, where he has resided ever since, when not working in other towns.

In comfortable circumstances, the family lived happily and quietly. Letourneau was a model son, his mother says. He didn't drink or gamble or even smoke. And he remained single and attentive to his mother.

One day Letourneau brought home a friend who worked under his direction as a saw-filer in a box factory near New Orleans. A strong attachment grew up between the friend and the family, and he became a frequent visitor at the Payette house. Old Mrs. Payette grew so fond of her son's friend, reposed such confidence in him, that she told him her great secret: that Edward's rightful name was Letourneau and that he was born in Canada. She exacted from her confidant a "sacred oath," she says, that he would never tell.

SOME time later this man persuaded Letourneau to take a job as operator of a sawmill at Maracaibo, Venezuela, for the American Pitch Pine Company. Edward's friend got a job in the mill, also, and the two went to Venezuela on the same ship, using American passports. On April 10, 1929, they began their work in Venezuela.

Within a month the native superintendent of the mill discharged the friend. Letourneau says his friend had been neglecting his work, and he had warned him repeatedly about it, but the man blamed Letourneau. Letourneau says his former friend threatened to get even with him.

About two months later the American Consul at Maracaibo sent for Letourneau, said he had learned the mill operator was a Canadian, and demanded his passport. Letourneau insisted he was a citizen of the United States. He suspected that his former friend had made up this tale about his nationality to cause him trouble. On the intervention of the mill superintendent Letourneau was allowed some time to see if he could settle the difficulty. But before long he was arrested and imprisoned.

Letourneau spent 10 days in a tropical prison. Then the Venezuelan authorities notified the American Consul they could not hold the prisoner any longer without charges against him, and he was released. He went at once to the Consul's office and arranged to return to the United States to get evidence to refute what he thought was a false accusation.

But it was not such a simple matter to leave Venezuela. Letourneau says his superintendent had him arrested, then removed from jail, in the superintendent's custody, to work in the mill. He also tells of a mysterious letter in Spanish, purporting to come from the American Consul, which was delivered to him at a hotel; he turned it over to a mill employe for translation, but all the man would tell him, he says, was that someone was trying to trick him.

A new Consul took office at Maracaibo, and Letourneau placed his case before him. This is what then occurred, Letourneau relates:

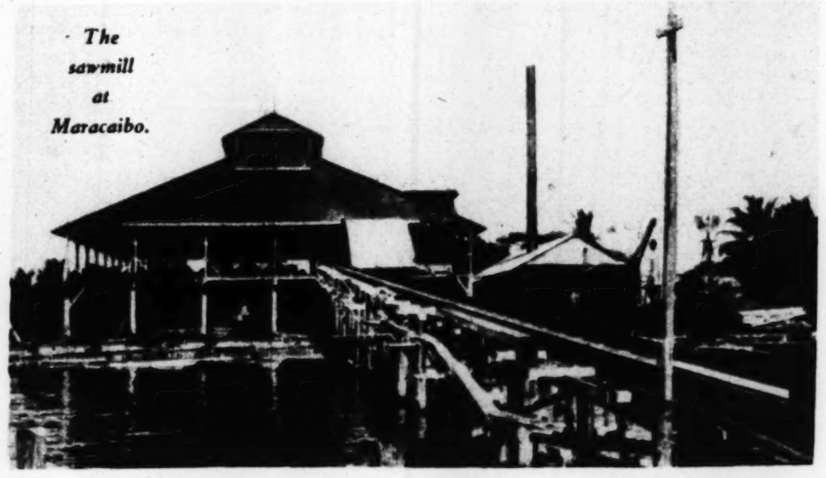
"He asked me if I wanted to make an affidavit for a new passport, but I told him the Government claimed I was a Canadian and I didn't know what to do. The Consul said he would wire Washington if I would pay for the cablegram. That cost me $20. He got a reply and gave me a paper to let me come to the United States.

"I paid my own passage back to New Orleans and gave the Consul money to cable the Government, so they would know what boat I would arrive on. I got here last August. I was sure my mother could prove I was born in Michigan and the whole thing would be dropped.

"But after the boat docked they wouldn't even let me go home to see my mother. They took me over to the immigration station and held me like a prisoner. I hired a lawyer, but he could not get me released. Finally, after several weeks, they gave me a hearing.

"They brought my mother and sister to the immigration station for this hearing. At first my mother told them I was born in Bay City, Michigan. She wanted to help me. Finally she broke down and admitted I was born in Canada—and I learned then that I was not an American and my name was not Payette.

"I still thought they would let me stay in this country, I had lived here so long. But after the hearing my lawyer said there was nothing else he could do and the immigration men took all my papers and shipped me back to Maracaibo. There I went to see the agent of the line which owns the boat I made the trip on. He is also the Danish Consul. He took me to the American Consul's office and asked if something couldn't be done for me. The Consul remembered me and said he was sorry I couldn't straighten the matter out, but the only way for me to get back was to get a British passport. We then went to the British Consul, and he said he could only give me a temporary passport to Canada, where I could get a regular passport if I could locate my birth certificate. I decided that was the best course to follow. It would be like starting life over again, but I figured I could get back to my mother and later get naturalized."



The sawmill at Maracaibo.

Letourneau got as far as Trinidad, off the coast of Venezuela, when complications again halted him. He was not allowed to buy a steamship ticket to Canada because it was argued that his rights as a Canadian had expired during his long residence in the United States. So he hired another lawyer, who, after investigation, informed him that he would have to produce his birth certificate before he could buy the ticket to Canada. Letourneau cabled his mother and she obtained a copy of the certificate from the priest of the church in Pembroke, Ontario, and sent it on to him. When he exhibited this document he was able to get a British passport with a visa to visit the United States for six months.

"When I got to New York," Letourneau relates, "an immigration official who seemed to know all about my case asked me if I didn't want to stay in this country. I told him I certainly did, and he changed my visa from temporary to permanent."

Jubilant at this development, believing his tribulations at last were over, Letourneau boarded a train for New Orleans. Most of the several thousand dollars he had saved in a lifetime of hard work was gone, but the homeward bound man wasn't wasting any grief over that; he was thinking that he could now tell his mother that he wouldn't have to leave her, after all.

LETOURNEAU stopped in Washington a few hours—and fortune took advantage of the opportunity to deal him another blow. He relates that two confidence men got $900 of his slender capital. He reached New Orleans with $55 left.

But it was just two days before Christmas, and it was particularly good to be home at that time. Mother and son forgot their distress of the previous year-and-a-half in the joy of their reunion. Their little house in the French Quarter was a happy place.

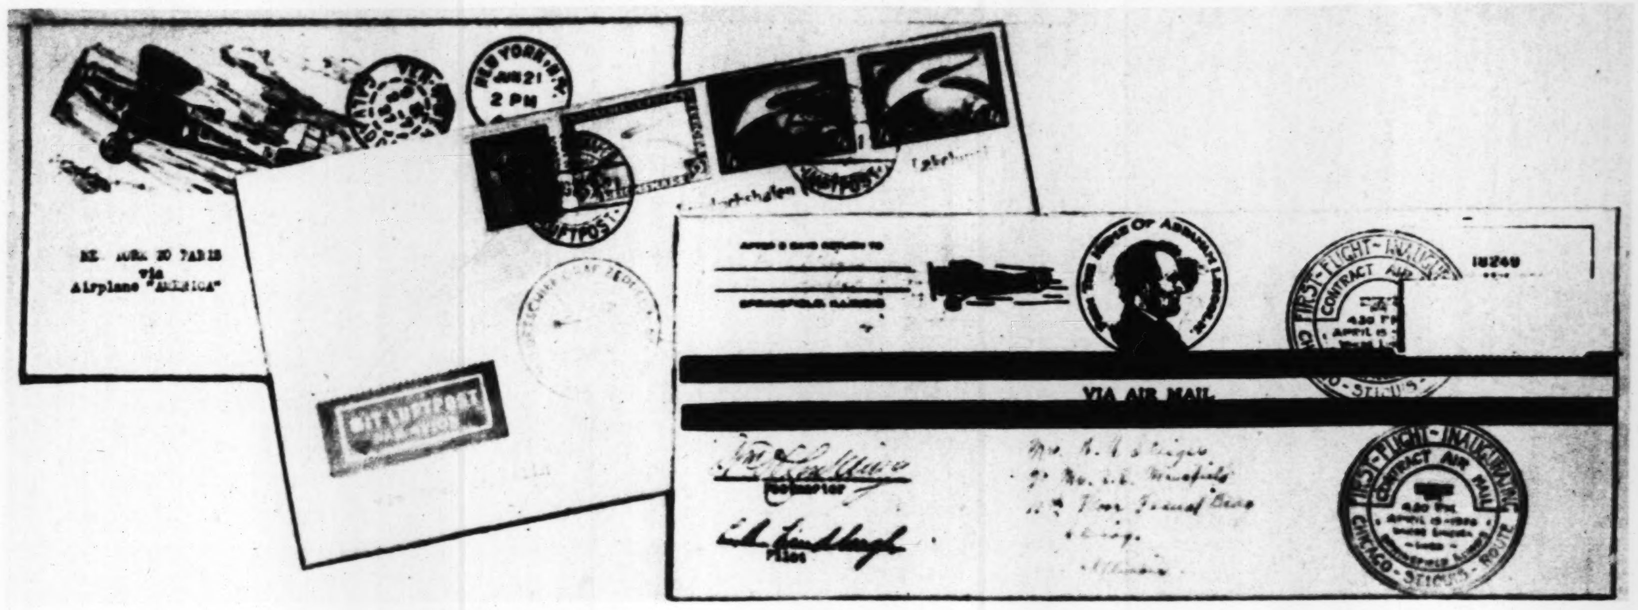
But their respite from adversity was brief. Shortly after the new year had begun immigration officers appeared at the home and arrested Letourneau. They said they had learned of his return from newspaper accounts of his misadventure with the confidence men in Washington. They held him for a final deportation hearing.

The immigration authorities maintain that Letourneau violated the law by entering the United States within a year after being excluded from the country as an alien. They say he was warned of this when his case was heard here last August.

Letourneau contends that he was told he could come back any time if he could get a passport. He seems to be bewildered by his predicament; a tall, lean, gray man, struggling rather hopelessly in the tangle created by an old deception.

High Pressure Days for the Stamp Hunters

Millions of Philatelists All Over the World Are Being Stimulated to Greater Activity Than Ever by Special Issues in Various Countries.



United States and German air mail covers.

By THEODORE D. IRWIN

NEW YORK.

THE Island of Madeira, off the coast of Africa, issues a new set of 21 varieties of postage stamps for one complete day to pay for the building of a museum. Peru and Argentina stage revolutions and introduce new stamps. King Boris decides to turn Benedict, and Bulgaria exhibits new decorations on its mail. Italy remembers that Virgil was born 2000 years ago, and 13 varieties of new stamps are issued. Practically every country in the world produces a bumper crop of air mail stamps, including Iceland, Estonia and little Malta. On all parts of the globe nations get out stamps to commemorate everything from the birth of a saint to the taking of a national census.

High pressure days for the stamp hunters!

King George's Mauritius stamp, $17,000.

All over the country broadcasting campanies are awakening to the existence, in the United States alone, of 1,500,000 stamp enthusiasts—millionaires and paupers, eight-year-olds and octogenarians — and instituting regular philatelic hours.

And our own country can hardly be called the ringleader in the stamp boom. Spain, last October 12, issued a new set of 27 varieties to mark the "Day of the Race," following this with a set of 25 varieties to mark the close of the Seville Exposition. Honduras has issued at least 55 varieties of air mail stamps in 1930 alone. Italy uses new stamps to memorialize St. Anthony of Padua and Ferrucci, a sixteenth century warrior. France has her Joan of Arc, Mexico her Carranza, England her Postal Union Congress, ad infinitum. Far-seeing governments everywhere are realizing that as an advertising medium new stamp issues are unsurpassable.

IN THE last decade, according to Kent B. Stiles, noted philatelic authority, almost 23,000 varieties of new stamps have been issued, with the year 1930 responsible for no less than 1700. The production of air mail stamps last year totaled more than 400, reaching its highest peak in history, while a crop of about 600 varieties of commemorative stamps broke all existing records.

New issues, apparently, have assumed the proportions of a lucrative racket. A number of small republics depend upon the collectors for a good part of their revenue, and larger countries are not loath to finance certain projects by furnishing practitioners of philately with pretty little, many-colored new stamps.

Hawker trans-Atlantic stamp, value $1350.

San Marino, a republic of 36 square miles within Italy, supports its Government principally through stamp issues. One of its notable prizes for collectors was manufactured to pay for the erection of a cenotaph in memory of the San Marinese volunteers in the great war. St. Kitts, a British colony in the West Indies, on one occasion put out 13 different stamps to raise funds for a public park and cricket grounds.

Andorra, in the Pyrenees; Liechtenstein, on the Rhine; Nyassa, in Africa; French Guinea, and many another minute republic or colony, produces its annual batch of stamps. Frequently governments, like the one in Nyassa, will sell their entire stock to one dealer, who distributes it in the stamp world.

Amundsen's expedition to the North Pole in 1925 was financed by Norway through a special stamp issue, which was held up and inflated in value. The Olympic games in Holland in 1928 were paid for by new stamps circulated by the Dutch Government. Uruguay, which sent a team to the Olympics in 1896, put out a new set of stamps to commemorate that event in order to pay the expenses of sending the 1928 football team.

The most valuable single stamp in existence, $50,000

Even Great Britain, when it issued a set of stamps to celebrate the most recent annual meeting of the Postal Union Congress in London, printed a one pound stamp which the public could rarely if ever use. It succeeded, however, in serving its purpose of tempting collectors, and as a result went far toward paying the expense of the congress. And France repeatedly issued new stamps to help pay her war debts to the United States.

Air mail stamps especially, are new quarries for the stamp hunters, many of whom specialize in this branch of philately. Since 1917, when Italy affixed the first Government authorized air mail stamp to a letter from Rome to Turin, more than one-third of the countries in the world have brought out special air mail stamps, many of the countries using surcharged stamps for air mail. After its first air mail stamp in 1918 the United States has put out 17 issues of varying denominations and designs, four having appeared last year.

It is in the special flight "covers" (envelopes containing the canceled stamps), however, that the stamp zealots get their most valued treasures. When Germany printed a special stamp for the Graf Zeppelin's trip two years ago it was the first time in philatelic history that any country issued a stamp for any such current event. The Lindbergh stamp three years ago was the first in United States history that was ever issued for a living man. Since precedent was against the use of his photograph, a picture of the plane was used instead.

When Colonel Lindbergh made his flight over his old air mail route from St. Louis to Chicago and return, more than 200,000 pieces of mail with the air mail stamp and a cachet characterizing the flight were carried in his plane. Most of the mail was destined for collectors. Incidentally, Lindbergh himself is a philatelist—to the extent that he collects air mail covers carried on his own flights.

The Chamberlin-Levine alleged first trans-Atlantic mail carrying was inaugurated against the wishes of the United States Postoffice officials, and yet stamp collectors contend that these covers constitute the first official air mail sent across the ocean from this country. There are only five letters known to be in existence of the 25 carried by the Columbia. The first real trans-Atlantic air post, the Harry Hawker issue by Newfoundland in 1919, is worth $1200 apiece now, even though the Hawker flight was unsuccessful.

Great fortunes have been made in stamps by both dealers and collectors. The most valuable single stamp in existence sold for $32,500 (not including war tax) some years ago at an auction of the famous Count Ferrari collection in Paris. It was a bit of magenta paper about an inch square and the only known copy of the British Guiana one-cent issue of 1856. Today it is valued at $50,000.

Arthur Hind, wealthy manufacturer of Utica, New York, who owns 75 per cent of the 50 rarest stamps, is the proud owner. He paid $55,000, a few years ago, for two Mauritius "postoffice" canceled stamps on a cover.

Decorative stamps of various countries.

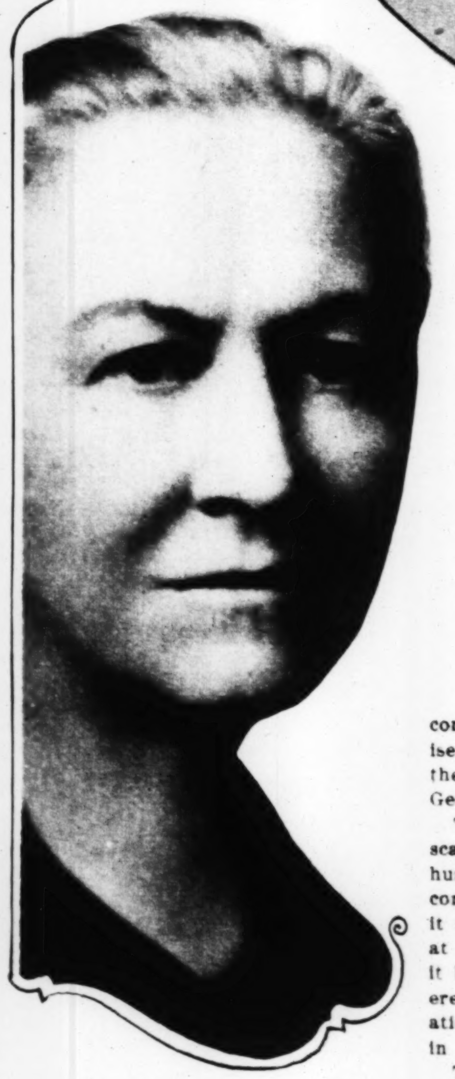
Reverend William Thomas Reynolds.

Mrs. Maude Bell Ford.



Mrs. Margaret du Pont Lee.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

PENNILESS, alone, in a top-floor room of a shabby boarding house on West Seventy-fourth street here, the life of the Rev. Dr. William Thomas Reynolds came to an end. He slashed his throat and wrists with a safety razor, and when other roomers found him in the bathroom he was dead.

Five years ago no one doubted but that the Reverend Reynolds was destined for a Bishop's chair or other high office in the Episcopal Church. He was still comparatively young, a man of promise, the favorite of his parishioners in the fashionable Washington suburb, Georgetown.

Then there was the beginning of a scandal. It was whispered about in hushed voices among the women of the congregation. It gained in the telling, it split the church in factions. And at last, with a dreadful thunderclap, it burst into public notice. The Reverend Reynolds died with the reverberations of that scandal still echoing in his ears.

This story should include a thumbnail sketch of Mrs. Margaret du Pont Lee. Because Mrs. Lee has so much money—she is a member of the Delaware du Pont family—she has for many years played a large part in things Episcopal in Georgetown. A plain woman, she has gone in for church work with zeal.

It was difficult to oppose her word in connection with the affairs of Grace Church parish and succeed. Once she got in a dispute over the trimming of a Christmas tree at the church and left in a huff to start a rival mission, with a plant costing $100,000, just a block away. In her church she put a swimming pool, gymnasium, library and club rooms. And soon she had taken most of the poor and humble from Grace Church. Grace Church began to go down hill. All the prosperous and fashionable members lost interest when there was no more mission work to be done, and Grace Church actually became shabby and was forced to call on the diocese for aid.

It took the brilliant and diplomatic Rev. Henry F. Durant to restore it to something of its former rank. And he did this by the very simple expedient of winning Mrs. Lee's affections for Grace Church again. He called on her and tactfully suggested that she visit the church for old time's sake. She came once. She came twice. And then the next thing the parish knew she had given $35,000 and her own mission plant to Grace Church.

At this point the Reverend Reynolds comes into the story. He succeeded the Reverend Durant. And he soon proved that he, too, had the makings of a diplomat. Mrs. Lee was his chief aide in the church. She put her limcousine at his disposal and in other ways tried to make herself essential to the work of the parish.

Shortly before the Reverend Reynolds' rectorship Mrs. Lee achieved her lifelong ambition—election to the vestry. For a time the Reverend Reynolds was ill and Mrs. Lee faithfully nursed him back to health. Everything was apparently pleasant, even though another woman, Mrs. Maude Bell Ford, a widow, had also become very active in the work of the church.

IT WAS not long before the bombshell was exploded. Mrs. Lee herself set off the charge. The Rev. Dr. Reynolds was holding a healing service at the mission chapel that Mrs. Lee's money had built. Mrs. Ford was assisting him with the invalids and the sick. Suddenly Mrs. Lee entered, proceeded indignantly down the aisle and confronted the pastor and his assistant.

She glanced first at the woman and then at Reynolds. Pointing an accusing finger at the pastor, according to charges in the civil suit that Mrs. Ford subsequently brought, she blazed away for the benefit of a little crowd of parishioners standing near:

"You're drunk!"

Then, shifting the finger to Mrs. Ford, the suit declared, she added:

"And you got him drunk!"

As if that weren't enough, according to Mrs. Ford, she turned around and said to several shocked bystanders:

"Why, she's no better than a common street woman. She's no good. And now she's got him."

And, having spoken her piece, she walked out of the church and back into her limousine and drove away.

The legal action quickly followed. Mrs. Ford brought suit against Mrs. Lee for $50,000 for slander, and the Reverend Reynolds ordered his attorneys to sue for an equal amount. At the trial of Mrs. Ford's suit some letters of Mrs. Lee's were read. One passage read:

"Do be careful in dealing with Mrs. Ford. You don't want to be dragged down by this adventuress."

And there was the now famous "Stormy Petrel" letter which revealed the 65-year-old Mrs. Lee as a very lyric letter writer:

"YOU cannot journey beyond the radiance of the Stormy Petrel's love, because precious as is the haven of those strong arms to her dearer is your happiness, your well-being, no matter where the seeking leads you. Have not these last few months taught us much, dear heart, and above all never to be disconcerted with the happenings of life.

"We are warm, pulsing human beings, consecrated to, and courageous in our devotion to each other, not simply struggling helplessly in the grip of forces mightier far than we. There is a binding cord not woven at Mashotah, but in the great loom of destiny, and from a substance time has not to destroy; nor fell circumstance to corrode. This is love! You heard the call to curse, as did Balaam of old. As answer your arms closed about the Stormy Petrel! . . .

"We do not know that [illegible] many women upon your horizon. [illegible] do not speak and multitude of [illegible] do not teach wisdom.' It is well for such a life as yours to have the ardent love of some absolutely sane woman. Love, dear heart, from your Stormy Petrel."

Mrs. Ford got a judgment of $4000 against Mrs. Lee, which, of course, meant nothing to the wealthy du Pont heir. The Rev. Dr. Reynolds dropped his suit, retired from the rectorship of Grace Church and faded out of the picture.

To the Reverend Reynolds it was a tragedy of the first magnitude. The sensation in which he had been involved was to follow him. Parishes were polite but dubious when his name was put forward as a potential pastor. The suicide was the final note of the tragedy.

"I am not surprised," was Mrs. Lee's only comment when she was informed of the Reverend Reynold's death.

The Latin Quarter's Famous Kiki Writes Her Memoirs

By DON CALHOUN

CAFE DU DOME

TELL Papa Chambon of the Cafe du Dome or an artist friend who has studied in Paris that Alice Prin has written her memoirs, and you will probably elicit a polite Vraiment? or Indeed? in the order named. Now, inform the same two subjects that Kiki has told all. Papa Chambon will smile indulgently and ask where one may borrow the book, or—with dogged recklessness—what one must pay for it. Your artist friend, who has been married since those student days on the Left Bank, may not smile, but he will be every bit as interested. "Does she go into much detail?" he will ask. "You know my wife is rather—that is to say, Kiki posed for me once or twice, and I merely wondered" . . .

For Alice Prin is Kiki, even though Kiki is no longer Alice Prin. She began life with her mother's maiden name, all the poor woman had to bequeath, but as this was too demure a tag for a girl who expected to get ahead in Paris, she became just Kiki.

Who is this Kiki, this tremendous, strange, flashing personality, not a little famous and perhaps a little notorious?

First of all, she is a woman of singular beauty, when she has a mind to [illegible] a comedienne, whose trick [illegible] hip 10 or 12 inches [illegible]ects a Parisian crowd [illegible] same way as Leon Errol's [illegible] does an American audience and whose rich, husky singing makes even a visit to the packed, smoke-filled "Jockey" bearable. She is an artist of ability, whose paintings have been praised by critics not ordinarily lenient with the queer folk of Montparnasse. She is better known, perhaps, to the Americans who have visited Paris since the war, than the Eiffel Tower. The very successful play, "Kiki," of a few years back, caught the spirit of her for its title role. And, above everything else, she is the embodied personality of the Latin Quarter and everything it represents.

NOW Kiki, at the age of 29, has written her memoirs. She characteristically calls the book "Kiki" and lets it go at that.

With the possible exception of one photograph of dubious artistry and a stray allusion or so to her adventuring, the book is not especially naughty. Its very restraint, indeed, has probably given offense to certain of the Quarterites who depended upon Kiki, of all people, to call a spade two spades. The English edition is, however, barred from this country, while the French version, or at least Kiki's conception of her written tongue, comes in unchallenged, on the theory perhaps that those who read French cannot be further corrupted. Ernest Hemingway has written a foreword to the English edition and the famous Japanese artist, Foujita, has done the same for the original French issue.

Hemingway calls Kiki "the girl who never had a room of her own"—which tells a great deal in 10 words, but which, like a police blotter, falls short of complete characterization.

Kiki, be it said, is a personage. Now that the word pagan has come to mean anyone who likes to throw his hat into the air on occasion, it won't do to call her that. And, though her motto, after Eva Tanguay, is "Je m'en fiche," or, "I don't give a hoot," she can't be dismissed as simply another Quarterite.

Some years ago, before the doctrine of moral turpitude had been formulated for our protection, Kiki visited New York. The sole object of her journey was to make a motion picture for Paramount, and she probably would have done it too, if she hadn't discovered on the way out to the studio that she had forgotten her comb. To the thousands of American girls who, given the barest hope of entering the films would willingly have hitch-hiked to Hollywood, such an incident would have seemed trivial enough, but to Kiki it was something in the nature of an [illegible] and succeeded in bringing on a [illegible] of Gallic tantrums, in the midst of which she ordered the chauffeur to return to the hotel. Within 10 days she was back in Paris.

Kiki, from a photograph by Man Ray.

This episode is treated philosophically in her autobiography. It is easier to look at pictures than to make them, she says, and besides, was she not hugged by a bear, bitten by monkeys and blinded by Kleig lights the time she acted in a French cinema?

The writer's acquaintance with Kiki was brought about through the chap who persuaded her to make her American film venture. He wanted a letter delivered to her. It bore no address. Just: "Kiki, Paris."

As it turned out, that was sufficient.

ON THE evening of my arrival in Paris I went to the famous Cafe du Dome to test that heralded liquid, the Anis de Lozo. It must have been an off-night, everything was so quiet. The fur-bearing, aggressively artistic habitues of the cafe were moping over their drinks, apparently too listless even to boast.

After a period of stillness, in which you could hear the franc drop, a noisy outburst at the table nearest the door heralded the advent of Quarter royalty. A woman entered. The salute was picked up by other tables as the newcomer made for the bar.

It was Kiki arriving at her "office," and, as is generally the case when the boss arrives, activities commenced immediately.

She is of Burgundian peasant stock, amply endowed physically, with black hair, a smooth, dark skin, magnificent cat eyes and lashes like soft, black feathers, which she daubs heavily with kohl.

This Kiki is no frail vessel. She is by no means petite. To borrow her own description of a friend, she is "elle a un metre cinquante en talon"—which is to to say that she is sturdily beamed. In the spring and summer she goes stockingless, her legs stained with walnut dye. On dress-up occasions she appears in American silk hose, filling all the girls of the Quarter with considerable envy. At such times she dresses as only a Frenchwoman can. At others, she is a dowdy bar-fly in a shapeless felt hat, a bedraggled sweater coat and a single bizarre earring.

Kiki's moods—she has a vast repertory—are expressed in the manner of doing her hair. When she is being the lady she wears a chignon. When it pleases her to appear a creature of mystery and romance she brushes her hair back in darkly shining wings, hiding her ears. When she is being Kiki it is geometrically banged and bobbed, something in the manner of Colleen Moore, which brings out the peculiarly feline quality of her eyes.

It was readily apparent, the first time I saw her, that she was a competent, two-fisted drinker. She laughed and chatted with her friends, without in the least stunting the growth of the stack of coasters at her elbow.

Although I had the letter with me, I made no attempt to deliver it. For some odd reason, it would have seemed too much like stepping up on the stage and interrupting a theatrical performance.

Kiki; a caricature by Mayo.

I ran across her again, several nights later, at the Jockey Club.

When I entered, the orchestra, made up of American Negroes, was taking time out for refreshment, and Kiki was leaning against the piano, singing without accompaniment.

At the end of each verse she would stop and sip her drink, while the audience rendered the chorus. This consisted of chanting "Aaaaah, aah, ah," until Kiki felt strong enough to resume.

SEVERAL times she attempted to stroll off to her table, but on each occasion the crowd roared, "Bis! Bis!" until she returned and took up the song. Finally, she was allowed to make way for a fat, loud-voiced girl known as "Chiffon," giving me a chance to carry out my mission.

The contents of the letter must have pleased her, for from that time on, wherever she saw my companions and me, she would approach, call us her Americans, and assure everyone within hearing that we were tres gentil, or, of course, very much O. K.

Kiki's popularity had attained such proportions that her presence in a cafe materially affected the amount of business done. She was aware of this and would make the rounds impartially until time to go on at the Jockey.

Seeing her at this period, it was difficult to realize that but a few years before she had been ignominiously kicked out of these very places because she had no hat. When she visited the cafe terraces in those days it was to hawk the Revue Montparnasse, on which she made 5 sous a copy: "Not much, but it put butter on my spinach." She counted herself lucky to find a loft or cellar in which to sleep, and more than one night was spent in a shed behind the Gare Montparnasse with a borrowed overcoat for covering.

Kiki's conquest of the Quarter was far from meteoric.

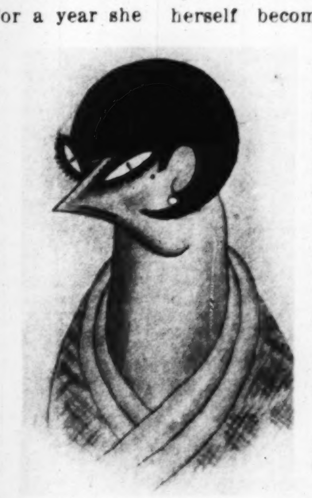
She had known squalor and hunger and insensate brutality as intimately as any of the raffish heroines of Zola's novels, and from her thirteenth year had fought them single-handed. In order to exist at all, she was forced to make concessions here and there along the line, and after these interludes are hinted at in her book, one reads the proud assertion: "But I did not beg," which would be funny if it were not pathetic.

Like David Copperfield, she begins her story with: "I am born."

This was in Bergundy, October 2, 1901. When she was a few months old her mother returned to Paris, leaving Kiki with her grandmother, who was already caring for six other illegitimate children of her four wayward daughters.

Her childhood was not a happy one in this community where the history of the "little Prins" was common knowledge.

When she was 12 her mother summoned her to Paris. For a year she went to school, quitting when war broke out to work in airplane and munition factories. Later on, these places were taken by women with husbands in the army or with children to support, and Kiki found work in a bakery shop. School teachers, gendarmes and employers, anyone, in fact, having the least authority to control her actions, are invariably described by Kiki as being "very wicked." The baker's wife was no exception. One day she caught Kiki blackening her eyelashes with burnt match sticks and called her a trollop. Kiki knocked her down, and so relinquished her last regular employment.



Caricature of Kiki by Tono Salazar.

The next day she made her first contact with art, when an old sculptor hired her to pose. Her mother soon heard of this, and one morning she trailed Kiki to the studio, where she melodramatically disowned her.

"Little by little," Kiki writes, "I was introduced into the artistic milieu, so full of mad charm."

By 1922 her services as a model were in constant demand, and it was about this time that she discovered that she herself possessed some talent with the brush. Often, after she had finished posing, Kiki would demand that the artist do the same for her.

Foujita describes one such occasion:

"She took my place before the easel, commanded me not to budge, and calmly commenced to sketch my portrait. By the time the work was completed she had gnawed away my crayons, lost my eraser and trampled on a box of camembert. She then demanded money for posing and departed triumphantly with the drawing under her arm. Three minutes later, at the Dome, a rich American collector purchased it at an outrageous price."

It was not, however, until Kiki's exhibition that her ability as a painter received general recognition.

The Paris Times says of this occasion:

"THE opening of Kiki's exhibit at the Galerie du Printemps was an event which mobilized the inhabitants of the Quarter en masse. For five hours they streamed through, and the little gallery resounded with excited comments. It was, in so far as we were able to judge, the most successful vernissage of the year. Those who came to jeer returned to buy, and before night a large number of paintings were decorated with little cards marked 'sold.'

"'Amusing, fresh, naive, graphic,' were the adjectives most frequently applied to that charming collection. Those who were ignorant of the fact that Kiki possessed real talent were agreeably surprised. Kiki, who for many years has been the inspiration of artists—Kiki of the beautiful eyes and the piquant mouth—has herself become an artist."

Kiki closes her story with the account of an adventure in Villefranche, where she was jailed for hurling a stack of saucers at a cafe owner who had hurt her feelings. The offense was aggravated by the fact that she had pummeled the Commissaire of Villefranche when he arrived to investigate the disturbance.

When her case came up the courtroom was crowded with friends, who shouted hilariously when her lawyer secured an acquittal by pleading that Kiki was a bit daft and not responsible for her actions.

"I am back in my Montparnasse," she writes in conclusion. "Montparnasse, the land of liberty. Here I can perpetrate my pranks without fear of having to live on beans and water once again.

"The people here are broad-minded, and that which, elsewhere, would be looked upon as a crime, is here simply a peccadillo.

"All the peoples of the earth pitch their tents here, yet we are one big family.

"Montparnasse, so picturesque, so colorful—it is as good as bread!"

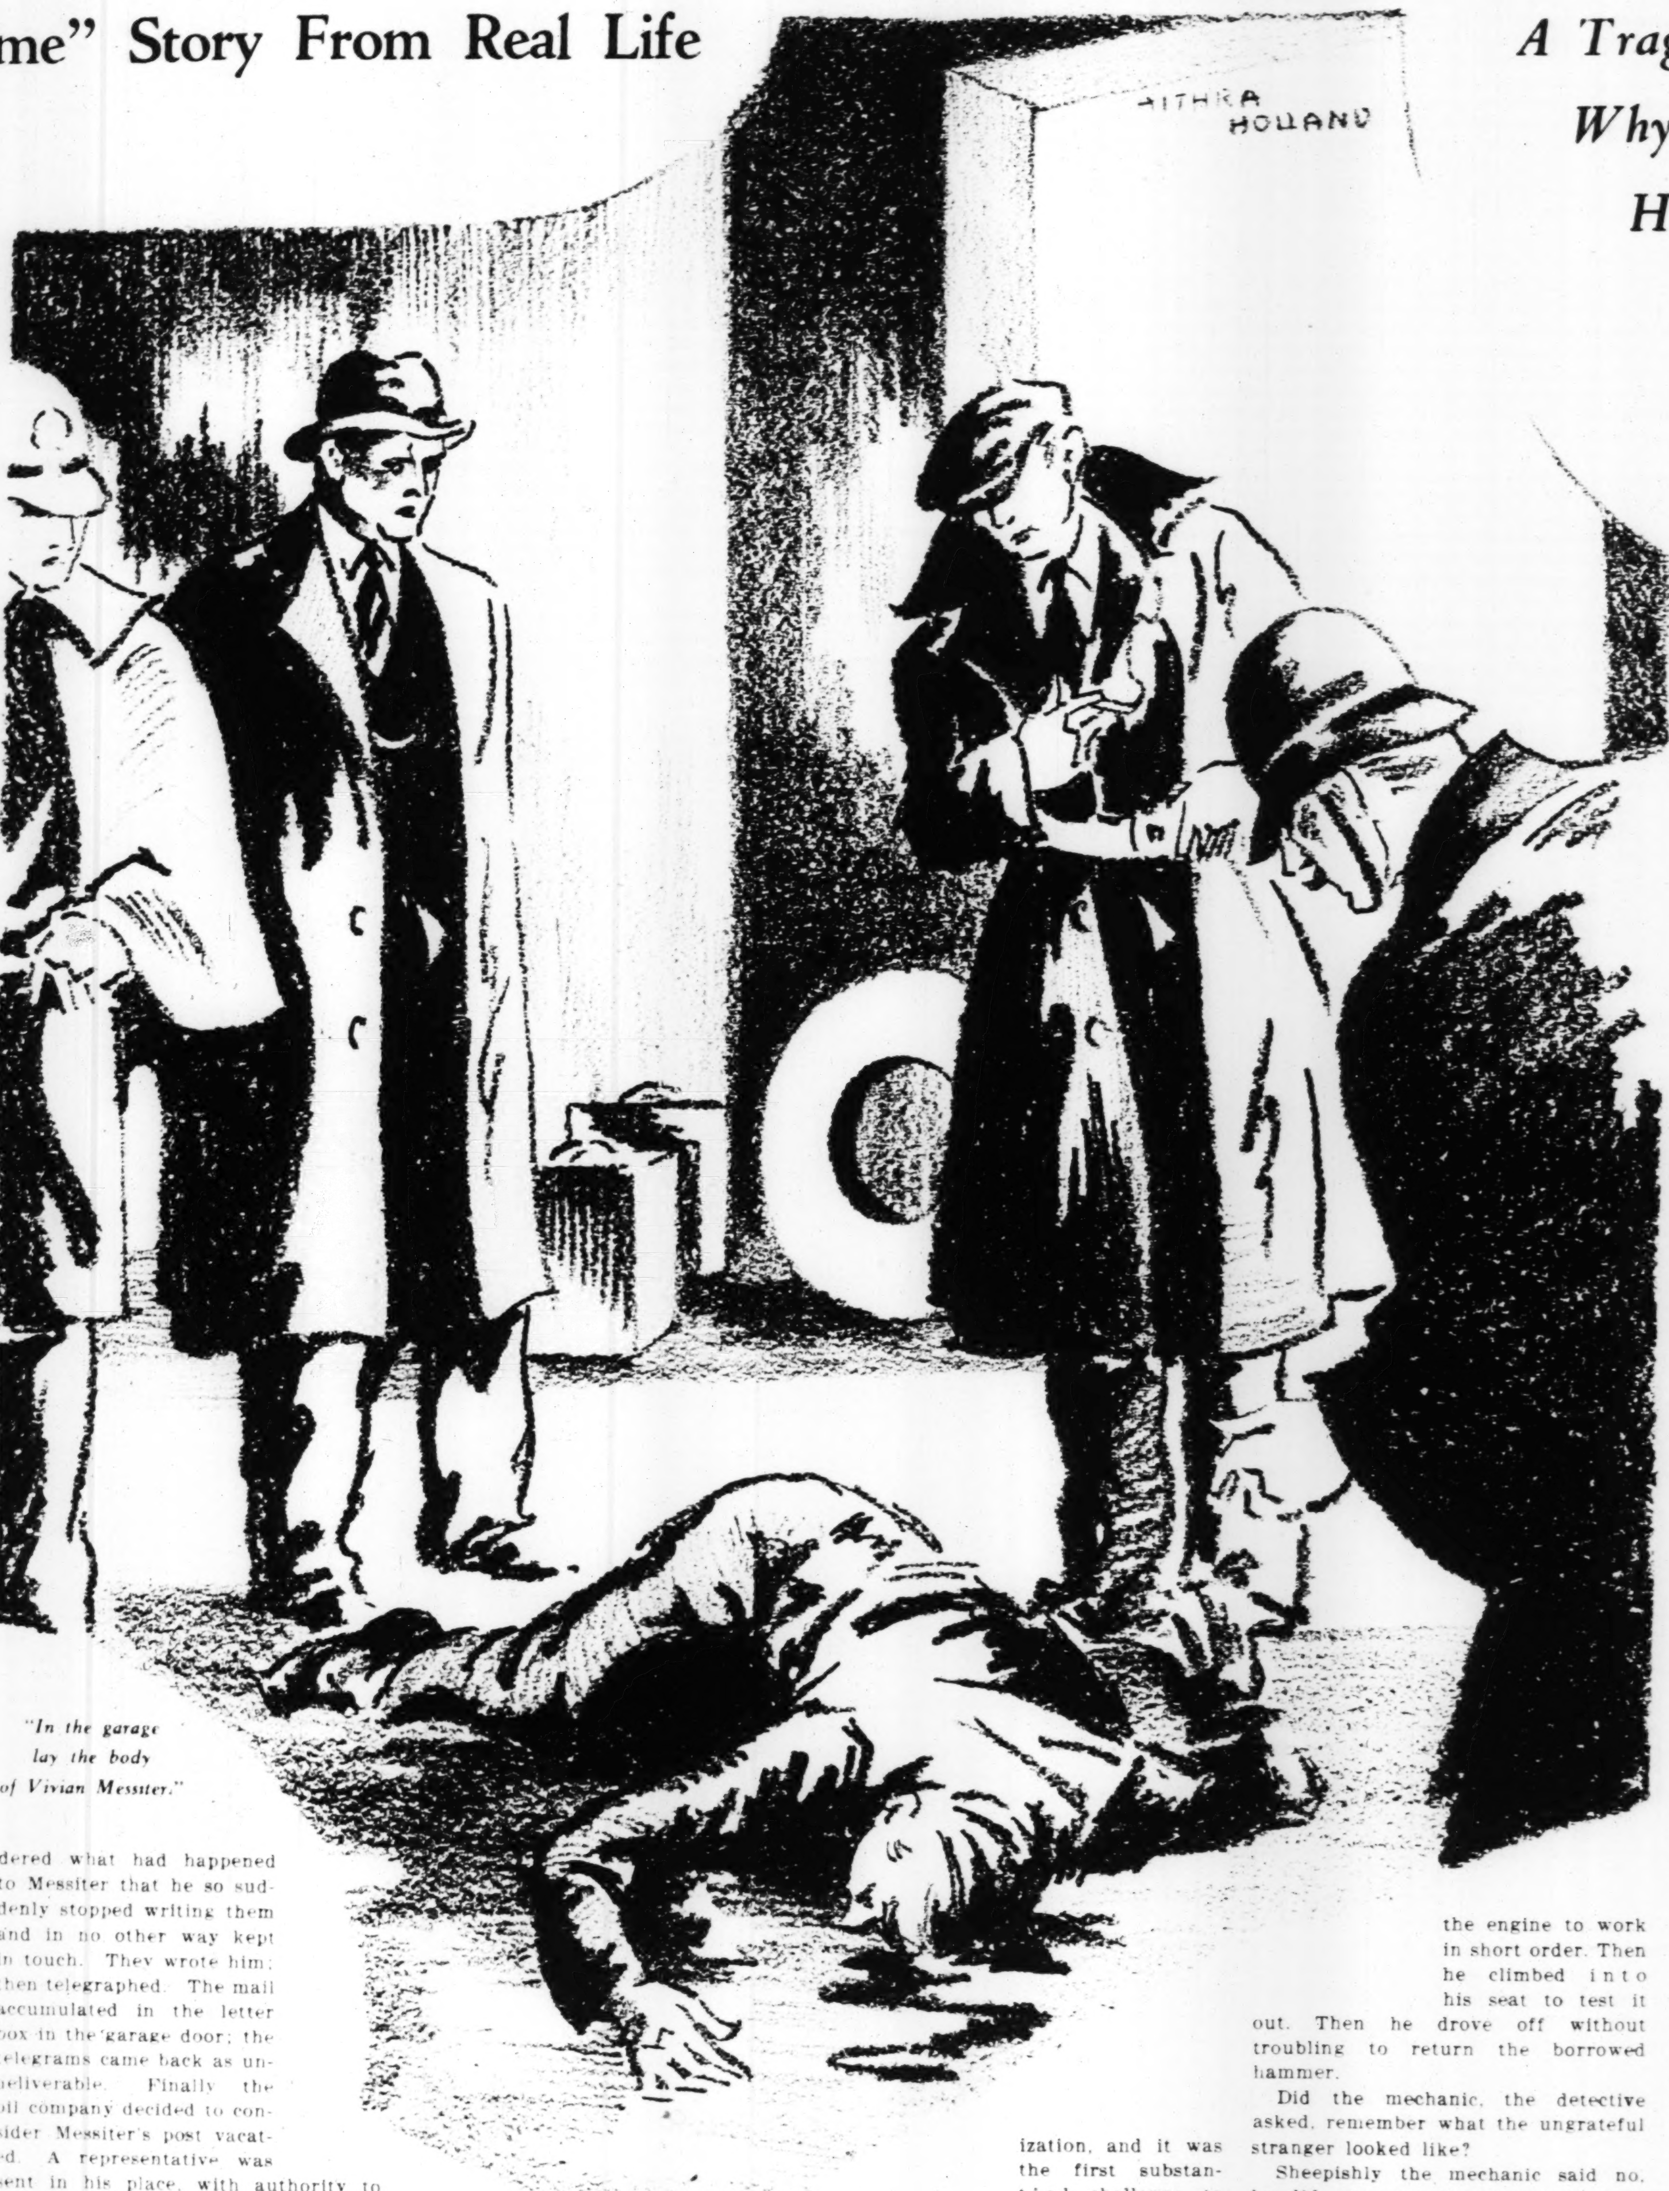
THE MURDER OF THE RETIRING MR. MESSITER

A "Master Crime" Story From Real Life

by

Joseph Gollomb

A Tragedy Which Reveals Why Scotland Yard Has Won Fame.



"In the garage lay the body of Vivian Messiter."

SOME people seem to attract the torments of life because they are weak, some because they are strong, and some apparently because they meet life's bullying with a puzzled, patient dignity which must enrage a tyrant. At least that was how Vivian Messiter met it. He was born and educated in England, but went to America soon after graduation, attracted by what he thought would be a wider choice there of career and fortune.

He had sensitiveness, but with him it seemed to be anything but an asset. He had practical intelligence, but it never brought him success. He tried ranching in New Mexico, business in Denver and constructional engineering in New York, without much satisfaction. Meanwhile he married, but even that failed and ended in divorce. He had a daughter who filled his need for some strong, warm human relation, but she was killed in an automobile accident.

The Great War came, and Messiter enlisted eagerly in the Canadian infantry, hoping for self-forgetting one way or another. But early in the war he was shot through both hips. That left him neither a cripple, which might have afforded him a measure of release from further striving, nor was he wholly cured, but had to walk with a cane.

At the age of 57 he found himself back in England, in Southampton, agent in that city for the Wolf Head Oil Company. He had a depot where the oil consigned to him was kept, and connected with it was a small garage for his delivery automobile. Here he spent his forenoons and early afternoons, meeting whatever customers came.

After work he went to his lodging, a single small furnished room in a boarding house in Carlton road. It was here that he attended to his business correspondence.

Mrs. Parott, who kept the boarding house, respected him and felt sorry for him. If ever a man lived alone it was Messiter. Not a soul came to see him; nor did Messiter ever visit any one outside of business. Letters, obviously not of a business nature, came often from America; always in the same handwriting. Except for this, Messiter seemed as much alone in the world as if he were one of life's orphans.

He never went out for amusement but spent his evenings alone in his room, smoking countless cigarettes and reading. This went on till late in October, 1928.

THEN one morning Mrs. Parott went into his room to make up his bed and found that it had not been slept in. She did not remember his coming back to the house the day before; so she looked for the usual tell-tale cigarette butts with which his ashtray was usually piled by morning. The ashtray was as clean as Mrs. Parott had left it the morning before.

Mrs. Parott wondered at her lodger's departure from his routine, but gave the matter little thought until the third morning came without a sign of Messiter. Then she began to wonder and to worry. A considerate lodger like Mr. Messiter would have let her know if he meant to stay away from the house for a number of days.

Mrs. Parott talked it over with her husband, and was going to notify the police. But with masculine logic Mr. Parott pointed out that Mr. Messiter's rent was paid up; that a single gentleman is entitled to go off on a trip without explanation; and that if their lodger should happen to be indulging in a quiet spree he would be justifiably angered if Mrs. Parott had meanwhile notified the police.

For a few days Mrs. Parott let herself be dissuaded; then she put on her shawl and without consulting her husband went to the police station and told her fears. The police went to Mr. Messiter's garage to investigate.

They found it padlocked, apparently by Mr. Messiter; for the lock was one of those that do not spring shut on pressure but have to be locked with a key. The police, too, were inclined to think Mrs. Parott's fears more feminine than logical; they refused to break the garage door open, and advised Mrs. Parott not to worry about her lodger.

Meanwhile, the home office of the Wolf Head Oil Company also wondered what had happened to Messiter that he so suddenly stopped writing them and in no other way kept in touch. They wrote him; then telegraphed. The mail accumulated in the letter box in the garage door; the telegrams came back as undeliverable. Finally the oil company decided to consider Messiter's post vacated. A representative was sent in his place, with authority to break into the garage and take possession.

The agent came to Southampton, found the garage locked and, with the aid of a crowbar, broke into the place.

In the garage, by the side of the delivery truck, lay the body of Vivian Messiter, many days dead. Blood was on the nearest wall and there had been a pool of it about his head, where it had fallen on the floor.

The skull was battered in, one blow struck from behind, another on the forehead.

The Southampton police looked for some weapon that might be the one which had dealt the blows on that shattered skull. After much searching of the premises they found behind one of the oil drums a hammer with a peculiar nose. It had dried blood on it; a human hair, but no fingerprints. The hair matched Messiter's.

They looked for other clues in the garage, but found none. They searched the dead man's clothes. There was no money in his pockets.

THEY opened a gold locket, a small, much-rubbed trinket he carried in a secret pocket. In it was a snapshot of a girl in a nurse's uniform.

The police then searched the dead man's furnished room.

They found a large number of letters, all in the same handwriting. There was not a place mentioned, not a date, not a single clew that would lead to some address. And not one of the letters was signed. Only Mrs. Parott's recollection that all the stamps on the envelopes, as they arrived at her house, were Canadian gave the Southampton police any indication as to where the letters had been mailed.

The contents of the letters revealed much, but helped the police little. The writer was in love with Messiter and was obviously loved by him. But even in their love letters the two must have used a sort of code; some of the passages, those which approached nearest an abandonment to emotion, were meaningless without the key. It was as if both Messiter and the writer of the letters dared not let themselves go, even in the privacy of their love letters; as if they were afraid of themselves or of some malicious fate that would one day open the door to the hiding place of their love.

The code was worked out by some expert in the Southampton police, but it brought them no nearer the identity of the writer. It only let the police read more fully the heart of Messiter.

And even as the police were working on the case another communication came, a cable, a frantic inquiry, unsigned, as to the meaning of the long silence on the part of Messiter. Part of the cable was in the code used in the love letters.

Messiter's former wife, his brothers and sisters were found in different parts of England. They had not heard from Vivian Messiter for many months; nor had they a single clew to offer, eager though they were to help run down the murderer.

The Southampton police were brought face to face with defeat in the Messiter case.

In the circumstances they called upon Scotland Yard to take charge of the case. Lord Byng had just been appointed head of the famous organization, and it was the first substantial challenge to Scotland Yard under him to show what it could do where other police had failed.

To Southampton came a squad of Scotland Yard men.

The fiction version of what has made Scotland Yard celebrated would indicate that it possesses some diabolical cleverness in dealing with criminals and their works; a more true conception would ascribe much of the success of Scotland Yard to an infinite capacity for taking pains.

Scotland Yard went over the same ground as the Southampton police.

ONE squad went to work on the hammer with which the death blow had undoubtedly been dealt. Every hardware store in Southampton, every manufacturer of hammers, was visited and questioned. In this way Scotland Yard plodded on till one day they found the factory that had made the hammer; then the store that had sold it. Then the district about that store was canvassed, until a man was found who said:

"Yes, this hammer belongs to me."

He was a mechanic in a local automobile factory, but had kept the hammer at his home in a working-class neighborhood in Southampton. He told of being here one Sunday when he saw a small delivery automobile standing in front of his house. The chauffeur was tinkering with the engine. The mechanic came down and asked if he could be of assistance.

"Yes," the stranger told him, "you might lend me a hammer for a few moments. I left mine in my garage."

The mechanic went indoors and came out with the hammer. The chauffeur of the delivery truck seemed intelligent about motor trucks, for he got the engine to work in short order. Then he climbed into his seat to test it out. Then he drove off without troubling to return the borrowed hammer.

Did the mechanic, the detective asked, remember what the ungrateful stranger looked like?

Sheepishly the mechanic said no, he did not note the stranger's face. The detectives investigated the mechanic and became convinced that he knew no more of the murder than he had told.

Meanwhile another squad searched the premises of the murder. Behind a drum of oil they found a crumpled piece of oil-stained paper, on it a notation in pencil: "Gar——Saty——10 am, or—12:30." It was obviously a note of an appointment at the garage for some Saturday; and it was on a Saturday that Messiter had been murdered.

The handwriting was not Messiter's.

The detectives from London then went through the waste basket of the garage office and searched and sifted other litter about the place. From these they selected as interesting several bits of paper which would have been passed by as worthless by other investigators. One was a screwed up fragment of a note bearing only the signature "Thomas." The other was also part of some memorandum, its contents missing, leaving only the signature, "W. F. Thomas."

There was nothing about these signatures to indicate that they were clews, but Scotland Yard made note of them, nevertheless.

At the same time the detectives examined Messiter's business books. Exhaustive investigation of the recorded entries yielded nothing. But the Scotland Yard men found also a receipt book, blank, but showing that nine pages had been torn out. On the tenth page, however, they found the faintest possible indication that something had been written on the page on top of it; the pressure of the writing had left its mark on the blank page beneath.

With the aid of powerful lenses and a special process used in the laboratories of Scotland Yard on such cases these indentations were finally read and photographed. What had been written on the ninth page of the receipt book was an acknowledgment of the payment of two shillings and sixpence as commission for the sale of five gallons of oil to "Cromer & Bartlett, Bold Street, Southampton."

The handwriting on this receipt, judged by a capital F, was the same as on the two signatures of "Thomas" found in the waste basket and in the garage litter.

Scotland Yard drew a complete blank when they tried to find "Cromer & Bartlett, Bold street, Southampton." There is no such street in Southampton; and a nation-wide search by Scotland Yard failed to find any firm by the name of "Cromer & Bartlett."

From this Scotland Yard concluded that a salesman, perhaps "W. F. Thomas," had been working for Messiter; that the salesman had collected at least one commission payment for a sale he had never made; that the entry for the "sale" had been torn out; and the likelihood was that on the other nine pages torn out were similarly fake sales recorded, indicating that other unearned commissions had been paid by Messiter, probably to Thomas.

MESSITER'S garage was in such a quiet neighborhood and he had lived so isolated an existence that no one knew whether any one was in his employ at the time of his death. So with "W. F. Thomas" as their only clew, Scotland Yard squads started out on a house-to-house canvass of Southampton.

Eventually the Scotland Yard men found a Mrs. Horne. She kept a cheap boarding house in Cranbury avenue in Southampton, and remembered that about the time of Messiter's murder there was a roomer in her house by the name of Thomas. Living with him was a blonde by the name of Lily, supposed to be his wife.

This Thomas was a stocky, smooth-shaven man with a scar on his jaw.

He had arrived with Lily October 20, some 10 days before Messiter's death. He told Mrs. Horne nothing of his business. The arrangement between Thomas and Mrs. Horne was that he would pay the rent for his room weekly. Mrs. Horne's account book showed that on October 27 a week's rent was due from Thomas but that he did not pay it till the afternoon of October 30, which was the day of the murder. Three days later "Thomas and wife" moved away. "W. F. Thomas" left a forwarding address for mail, "27 [illegible]wick Road, Birmingham."

Although Scotland Yard sent a detective to that address it did not surprise them to find that no such address existed.

ANOTHER squad of Yard men had meanwhile found that a building contractor by the name of Mitchel in Downton also had reason to remember a man by the name of W. F. Thomas, who, too, had a scar on his jaw. A week or two before Messiter's death Mitchel had advertised for a chauffeur. This Thomas answered the advertisement. Mitchel chose him for the job, which, however, was not to commence before November 5.

Thomas asked to be taken on earlier, as he had lost, he said, a wallet with all his money. So Mitchel advanced him some money.

On November 5 Thomas began working for Mitchel. Several weeks later he disappeared—with near [illegible] pounds of Mitchel's money.

Scotland Yard took Mrs. Horne, Mitchel, the mechanic whose hammer had dealt the death blow to Messiter, and Bowes, a grocer who had a shop near Messiter's garage, to look through Scotland Yard's extensive photograph gallery of rogues. Bowes, who said that he remembered seeing a stranger in Messiter's company on the day of the murder, was not sure whether he saw the stranger's photograph in the collection. The mechanic, too, would not swear that he recognized the face of the man who had borrowed his hammer and failed to return it.

But both Mrs. Horne and Mitchel were positive that in the photograph of William Henry Podmore in Scotland Yard's rogues' gallery they recognized "W. F. Thomas."

THE LOST EXPEDITION

The Tragedy of Andree's Fatal Polar Exploit as Seen From the Inside.

This is the twelfth installment of the official story of Andree and his associates, Strindberg and Fraenkel, who perished in the first attempt to reach the North Pole by air.

A Narrative Reconstructed From the Diaries of S. A. Andree and Nils Strindberg by Professor Hans W. Ahlmann, Professor of Geography, University of Stockholm.

Their Ice Floe Home Cracks Up and White Island Is Before Them.

"THE twentieth of September started out to be an unlucky day. The cooking apparatus (Primus Stove) which hitherto had not troubled us much, became mutinous and refused to do service.

"The soup stood there mixed, but could not be boiled. Great sensation. Fraenkel did this and that and experimented with blubber lamps, but got so little heat that he thought it best to take the unburned fat out of the lamp and cut slices out of it, which he laid on Schumacher's bread and offered to us.

"That was satisfactory, for it tasted splendid—it tasted just like bacon and bread, and we ate it willingly. By and by I succeeded in getting the apparatus so far in order that we managed—though with some difficulty—to boil the soup so that it could be eaten.

"It contained 1.3 pounds seal meat, 5 1-2 ounces seal blubber, 2 ounces Mellin's food and the rest water. After it had been boiled we ate it with an appetite.

"The seal meat seems almost to melt away on boiling. After boiling a few minutes it becomes exceedingly tender and delicate.

"Just when we had finished the meal and that untiring architect, Strindberg, had gone back to building, he cried out: 'A bear!'

"Fraenkel and I, who were still busy with our cooking apparatus difficulties, hurried out and then had the pleasure of seeing a magnificent bear quite near us.

"Strindberg and I were a little eager, I suppose, for each of us missed. But Fraenkel, with his shot, gave the bear his death wound.

"Great joy. We had increased our supply of food until on in April—to the close of winter—and in addition had obtained a magnificent skin.

"The bear is the polar traveler's best friend. This one had come to us from a distant little floe, 660 to 990 feet away, swimming through water so frozen that when we rowed out in it afterward we had to force our way through the ice with oars and shovel.

"When he was shot he had just turned toward Fraenkel and seemed ready to attack. When shot, he slipped backward into the water and at once gave up the ghost. We pulled him 'to land' by means of a grapple. Then we got a noose around his neck and a hind paw and easily got him out of the water.

"Our joy was great, for the bear was a big, magnificent animal. He was treated accordingly, was given a noose around each front paw and one around the neck, so that when pulled he glided along hair downward.

"He was drawn to the camp amid hurrahs. There Fraenkel and Strindberg rapidly carried out the first part of the cutting up, while I returned to my tinker's employment.

Before the bear was cut up and Andree returned to his work, however, the three comrades had been out on the thin ice to get a large and peculiar bird which Andree had shot after having seen it a couple of times. He gives a detailed description of the bird, which Strindberg and Fraenkel consider to be "only a young ivory gull," and adds, "Perhaps they are right."

All the while, New Iceland (White Island), which they had sighted two days before, could be seen clearly in the north, for they had now drifted opposite its southeastern side.

On preparing the supper, they again had trouble with the stove, although not so much as before.

"We got bear steak and the bear-blood pancake ready—the pancake, however, under extremely exciting circumstances.

"More than half of the mass (the lower) was solid, but the upper part was in a very fluid condition. The apparatus went out!

"STRINDBERG with uplifted matches. Fraenkel plowed bottom furrows in the pancake in order to get the fluid part to run down to the bottom and there solidify somewhat satisfactorily. The pancake was torn into pieces and turned as quickly as possible and so on, the final result being a delicate cake.

"Then the stove went out again. But we had not had coffee, and we wanted coffee, and so the bother began again. Now all three of us were at work.

"Fraenkel held the stove. Strindberg held the matches ready. I stirred and managed the cleaning needle (of the stove) and so we went on making the coffee with increasing hopes, which at last were crowned with excellent coffee.

"Tomorrow we shall try to find out what it is that troubles the cooking apparatus. It was most unlucky that the reserve parts for this were not brought with us!

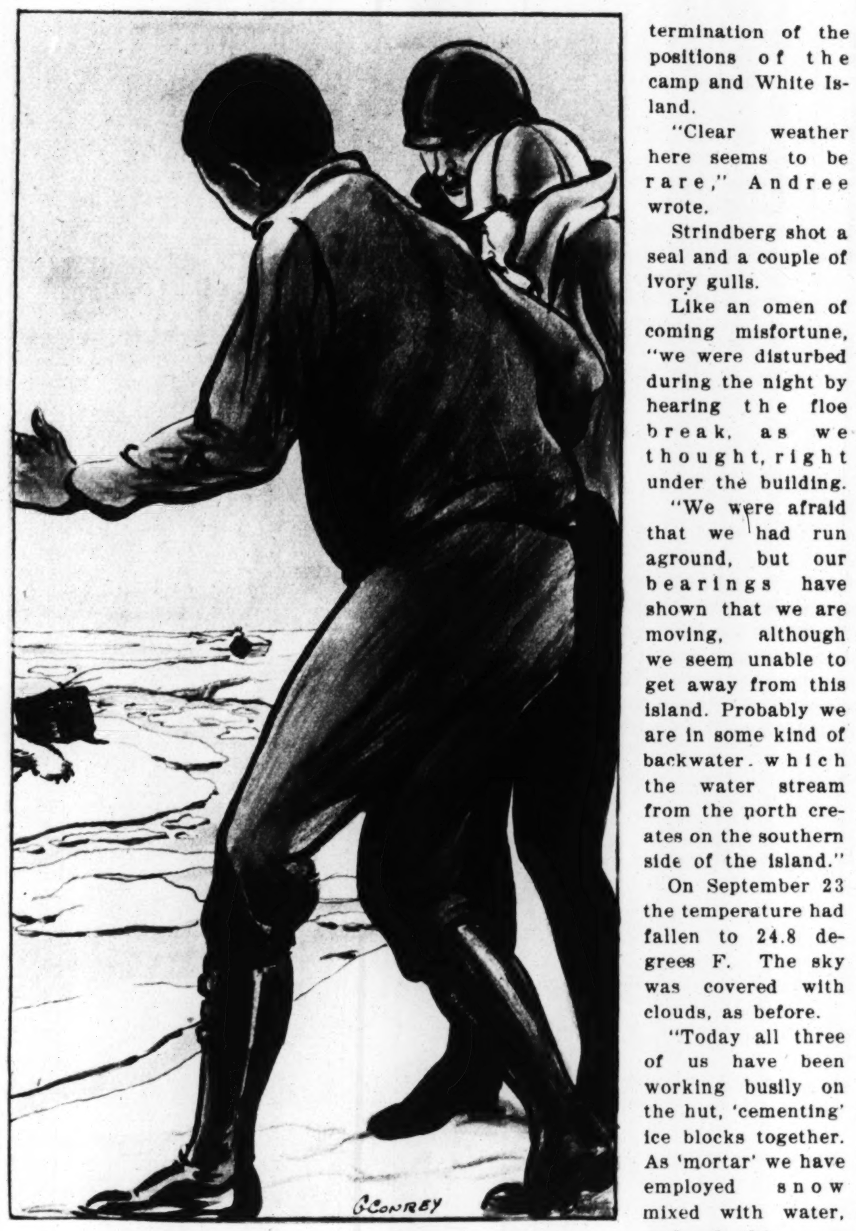
"We have now so much meat, blubber, etc., that it is difficult for us to protect it well during the night in the event of visits from bears. We pile it up near the edge of the tent and fence it around with all kinds of other things.

"The question of getting the house in order is becoming a burning one here, in the cold. During the last two days the feeling has been very pleasant, but, on the other hand, they have not passed without signs of differences arising between us. I hope, however, that this seed will not grow and develop."

On September 21 the three comrades were tired after the preceding long working day and not much was done.

Strindberg and Fraenkel worked at building the house, Andree cut up the seal and shot three ivory gulls.

The stove was repaired after it was found that impurities in the burner were causing the trouble. Then the explorers made seal blood pancakes of frozen blood, salt water, bits of meat, seal blubber, a pinch of yeast powder and another of salt.



"We rushed out and found that our large, beautiful floe had been splintered."

"It tasted excellent," Andree recorded.

On September 22 the temperature remained the same as during the preceding days—28.4 degrees F.—but during the day the wind swung around from northeast to south-southeast. The ice was measured and was found to be 5.6 to 9.9 feet thick. The fog and the misty air continued, so Strindberg was unable to get any reliable determination of the positions of the camp and White Island.

"Clear weather here seems to be rare," Andree wrote.

Like an omen of coming misfortune, "we were disturbed during the night by hearing the floe break, as we thought, right under the building.

"We were afraid that we had run aground, but our bearings have shown that we are moving, although we seem unable to get away from this island. Probably we are in some kind of backwater, which the water stream from the north creates on the southern side of the island."

On September 23 the temperature had fallen to 24.8 degrees F. The sky was covered with clouds, as before.

"Today all three of us have been working busily on the hut, 'cementing' ice blocks together. As 'mortar' we have employed snow mixed with water, and of this mass Strindberg has been making a vaulted roof over the last parts between the walls.

"We have got on very well, and the hut begins to take form a little. After a couple more days of such weather and work it should not be long until we can move in. We probably can carry our supplies in there the day after tomorrow. This is very necessary.

"We have now a very good arrangement of the day, with eight hours' work, beginning with three hours' work, after which we take 45 minutes for breakfast, then work until 4:45 o'clock, when we take dinner and supper in one meal."

They have now tried the meat of the great seal and have found it excellent. One of the best improvements in the cooking is that of adding blood to the sauce for the steak. This makes it thick and it tastes as if they had bread.

Andree considers that blood contains much carbohydrates, for their craving for bread is considerably less after they begin to use blood in the food.

Now six days pass without Andree making any notes. When, on September 29, he once more takes a pen, the expedition is still on the south side of White Island.

On September 27, when the weather was mild and when it even rained, "for the sake of a change," and during the night before the twenty-eighth, two bears had entered the camp.

"These by-night bears seem to be thief bears. The one that visited us yesterday night dragged away our big seal twice, and we would have lost it had not Strindberg succeeded in coming so near the bear as to frighten him and make him drop his booty.

"This morning, just as we came out, Fraenkel saw a bear, which we succeeded in enticing toward us. Strindberg shot him through the throat.

"I then gave him my shot.

"Fraenkel got his shot into him. It was a big, old, he-bear."

It awakened great apprehension when they found that the floe on which they had built their winter quarters began to divide in the immediate neighborhood of the hut.

The pressure of the ice, too, drove them nearer and nearer White Island. A large, old line of hummocks separated them from the shore, and Andree hoped that this wall would prevent a continued pressure of the ice.

On the evening of the twenty-eighth the expedition had moved into the hut, which was christened "The Home." All were pretty comfortable the first night, and hoped for greater comfort later. They were obliged to keep their stock of meat inside the hut during the night to protect it from bears.

There are no notes in Andree's diary for the twenty-ninth and thirtieth, but from Fraenkel's meteorological journal we know that the temperature fell so that in the afternoon of the thirtieth it was less than 17.6 degrees F.

During the afternoon of October 1 the temperature fell to 14 degrees F. It was a good day.

"The work with the hut went on well, and we thought we should have the outside ready by the second. But then something else happened.

"At 5:30 o'clock in the morning we heard a crash and thunder; water streamed into the hut.

"WHEN we rushed out we found that our large, beautiful floe had been splintered into a number of little floes, and that one fissure had divided the floe just outside the wall of the hut. The floe that remained to us had a diameter of only 80 feet, and one wall of the hut might be said rather to hang from the roof than to support it.

"This was a great alteration in our position and our prospects. The hut and the floe could not give us shelter, but we were obliged to stay there for the present at least. We were frivolous enough to lie in the hut the following night, too. Perhaps it was because the day was rather tiring.

"Our belongings were scattered over several ice blocks and these were driving here and there, so that we had to hurry.

"Two bear bodies, representing provisions for three or four months, were lying on a separate floe, and so on.

"Luckily, the weather was beautiful, so that we could work in haste. No one had lost courage. With such comrades, one should be able to manage under, I may say, any circumstances."

This record of that catastrophe early in the morning of October 2 concludes the last phase in the ice wanderings of the Andree expedition.

The men had maintained themselves on the drifting pack ice since July 14. During this period they had tried to reach Franz Joseph Land, and then the Seven Islands.

The ocean current had placed unsurmountable hindrances in their road, however, and had prevented them from reaching either goal.

From the moment they sprang from the gondola of the balloon Eagle they had been prisoners of the ice, but they had not surrendered until after a struggle lasting two whole months.

Now the ice floe on which they had intended to spend the winter had splintered beneath their very feet. "The Home" was in fragments, their belongings scattered.

"Exciting situation," are the only words Strindberg writes for October 3 and 4. No one had lost courage. Such men can manage under, we may say, any circumstances.

Grappling Anew With the Smoke Menace

ibility and affects the diurnal temperature.

"The action of these smoke-induced conditions upon the human being may be considered largely in terms of sushine dynamics. On the one hand are the influences of positive states of sunshine: brightness, luminosity, warmth, dryness, the presence of the infra-red, visible and ultra-violet rays, and high electrical potential. On the other hand are the effects of the negative states: gloom, darkness, cloudiness, fogginess, rain, moisture, cold, low electrical potential.

"ON CLEAR, dry, sunny days persons are more active, aggressive and enterprising. On the other hand, dark, humid days are devitalizing, and therefore lead to inaction. Depleted vitality and nervous exhaustion are inhibitory of action."

Azbe has long urged certain simple reforms that would contribute toward clarifying the St. Louis atmosphere. For one thing, he urges the use of coal low in sulphur content. He points out that Southern Illinois coal, from Franklin County, has approximately 1 per cent of sulphur; Central Illinois coal, that from the Madison County district, approximately 4 per cent. The former is slightly more expensive, but Azbe says the difference in cost is very nearly made up by the greater heating capacity of low sulphur coal.

Azbe has perfected a device known as the Azbe Downdraft Baffle, which, he says, can be installed in the ordinary household furnace for $25 and which will eliminate virtually all smoke. It consists primarily of a strip of tile or heat-proof metal that extends laterally across the furnace almost to the fire bed. This forces the draft over the green coal and up the flue, instead of sending it down through the green coal and onto the hot coals, producing a distillation which quickly becomes smoke. He illustrates this principle of combustion most simply with a cigarette. Inhale, and the live coal on the end of a cigarette is forced against the green tobacco, producing volatile distillation and smoke. Exhale and the live coal remains aglow, but the green tobacco is not forced in contact with it, having time to dry sufficiently so that it burns without smoke. Azbe did not patent his device and receives no profits from its sale and manufacture.

He believes now that possibly this was a mistake, as only a negligible number have been installed. He thinks that possibly if he had sold the patent rights to some large corporation with a financial interest in pushing it the results might have been more satisfactory. Azbe claims that the device saves more coal than its cost in a comparatively short time.

THE prospect of natural gas for St. Louis greatly encourages Azbe and the others who are leading the fight against smoke. But they feel that it will not bring a reform overnight, since the cost of installing gas equipment will deter many at the outset.

Azbe is now working on plans for a nation-wide conference on smoke abatement, to be held in St. Louis within a year or a year and a half. It is hoped to co-ordinate all the plans of the various enemies of smoke at this conference. The medical men, the engineers, the smoke experts from all over the country will try to work out a uniform attack. One of the things which it is hoped will come out of this conference is a closely-knit national organization. Such an organization, with national backing, could do much that is impossible now in the way of influencing furnace manufacturers to incorporate smoke reducing devices.

One of the most ardent workers in the campaign against smoke in St. Louis is Mrs. Marion Clifford Blossom of 4526 West Pine boulevard. She is chairman of the Executive Committee of the Smoke Abatement League.

She fought for the St. Louis smoke ordinance, under which each chimney in the city is taxed $1 annually. The money thus derived—eventually about $60,000—is to be used to pay city smoke inspectors under direction of Commissioner Robert G. Gordon. Inspectors are being added, and trained to recognize violations of the smoke ordinance. Eventually there will be 150 to 200 inspectors.

Not long ago certain groups sought to put through an ordinance that would virtually have abolished the present smoke ordinance, removing the provision for the chimney tax and the machinery for enforcing the law. Just before this came to a final public hearing Mrs. Blossom got word of it. With three or four other members of the league she appeared to present arguments.

The move to wipe out the smoke ordinance was defeated.

THE present ordinance makes illegal only smoke of No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5 density. Everything under No. 3—that is, approximately, smoke which can be seen through—is legal.

The Smoke Abatement League is already formulating plans for a stricter ordinance. It will be one more skirmish in a war that has been going on since 1273. But the city dweller is growing more and more weary of smoke-laden air. There are hopeful signs that he will not tolerate much longer the innumerable ills that arise from this source. Perhaps a victory is in sight such as has never before been won in the battle on smoke.

The Murder of the Retiring Mr. Messiter

showed [illegible] he was at that [illegible] a six months' sentence [illegible] Wordsworth Prison for [illegible] from a contractor [illegible] Scotland Yard men went to see Podmore.

He proved to be a chunky, smooth-shaven man in the late twenties, with a scar on his jowled, square jaw; he had heavy features, a sensual mouth and dark, heavy-lidded eyes that did not match.

The police had no difficulty in finding a blonde by the name of Lily who was as interested in Podmore as he was in her.

Podmore's record as a criminal went back to his childhood when at the age of 9 he tried a bit of burglary and was put on police probation for a year. Four years later, for stealing a cash box, he was sent to a reformatory. Four years after that he resumed burglary and got three years for it. Then came other thefts and other prison terms.

Meanwhile he married but deserted his wife while she was pregnant. There followed a succession of mistresses; and at the time of the Messiter murder Podmore was, as has been said, living with his golden-haired Lil.

Podmore was taken back to Southampton and a coroner and jury tried him for the murder of Vivian Messiter; then he changed his mind and told this story:

YES, he was "W. F. Thomas." Yes, he answered an advertisement of Messiter's for an oil salesman. Messiter wrote him to call at the garage for an interview. The interview was a satisfactory one and Podmore, under the name of Thomas, went to work for Messiter. On the day of the murder Messiter was to meet at his garage both Podmore and another applicant for the job of salesman for Messiter, a man by the name of "Maxton" or "Baxton"—Podmore said he was not exactly sure which. What he was sure of was that the other man was in the garage with Messiter when Podmore called, and that he was there after Podmore left.

At this interview, Podmore went on to say, Messiter gave him the name of "Cromer & Bartlett" as a possible customer. Podmore then, according to his story, went away. When he came back late that afternoon the garage door was padlocked; several times on subsequent days he found it still locked. Whereupon, Podmore said, he decided to find work elsewhere. He denied that the entry in the receipt book which recorded a commission for selling oil to "Cromer & Bartlett" was written by him.

Scotland Yard found no one by the name of "Maxton" or "Baxton" who in the least bore out Podmore's story.

The evidence Scotland Yard had gathered against Podmore was presented to the coroner and his jury. At the conclusion the cororner pointed out to the jury that they had only circumstantial evidence whereon to convict Podmore of murder; that even grave suspicion would not justify a verdict of guilty. The jury must decide, the coroner charged, whether the evidence against Podmore was such that they would be willing to send him to the gallows.

The coroner's jury went out to deliberate the verdict. Twenty minutes later they came back to have the coroner clear up some points of law and again retired. Fifty minutes later they returned with their verdict.

"THE death of Vivian Messiter was due to a fracture of the skull and the consequent injury to the brain inflicted by blows of a hammer. The murder was committed by a person or persons unknown."

Podmore walked out of the courtroom with a smile on his lips. His Lily joined him at the door for a brief greeting.

Then he was taken back to Wordsworth Prison to finish his six-month term for theft.

Scotland Yard thought it had gathered enough evidence to convince any jury, but apparently it had missed its guess.

At the expiration of his term Podmore prepared to leave prison. As he stepped out of its gates he was arrested again by a Scotland Yard man for the murder of Vivian Messiter.

This time he was tried by the Assize Court in the Castle of Winchester. All the evidence that had been brought against Podmore at the coroner's hearing was not brought out again, but this time it was reinforced by much careful work by Scotland Yard in the way of corroborating detail.

In addition there were three new witnesses against Podmore, fellow inmates of Wordsworth Prison. David Cummings testified that Podmore had talked to him freely of the murder of Messiter and had made little effort to hide his guilt. Joseph Deass told of a conversation with Podmore in which the murder was described in detail. William Street also testified, partly against Podmore, partly for him.

The jury went out and returned.

"How say you?" the clerk asked. "Is William Henry Podmore guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty!" the foreman replied.

"WILLIAM HENRY PODMORE, you have been convicted of the crime of willful murder," the clerk of the assize went on. "Have you anything to say why the Court should not give you the sentence of death?"

Podmore replied in a voice harsh with supreme effort.

"I still repeat that I know nothing whatever about it."

Everyone in the courtroom was asked to stand while the judge's clerk advanced with a square of black cloth and adjusted it on the wig of the Lord Chief Justice. Lord Howart said:

"William Henry Podmore, the jury have found you guilty of the crime of wilful murder and there is only one sentence known to the law for that. You are to be hanged by the neck till you are dead, and may the Lord have mercy on your soul!"

Podmore turned for a swift look to someone in the gallery of the court. "Golden-haired Lily" there had turned so white that those near thought she was about to faint. But Podmore could do nothing about it. He took his place between two men and was escorted to the death cell.

And in April he was hanged.

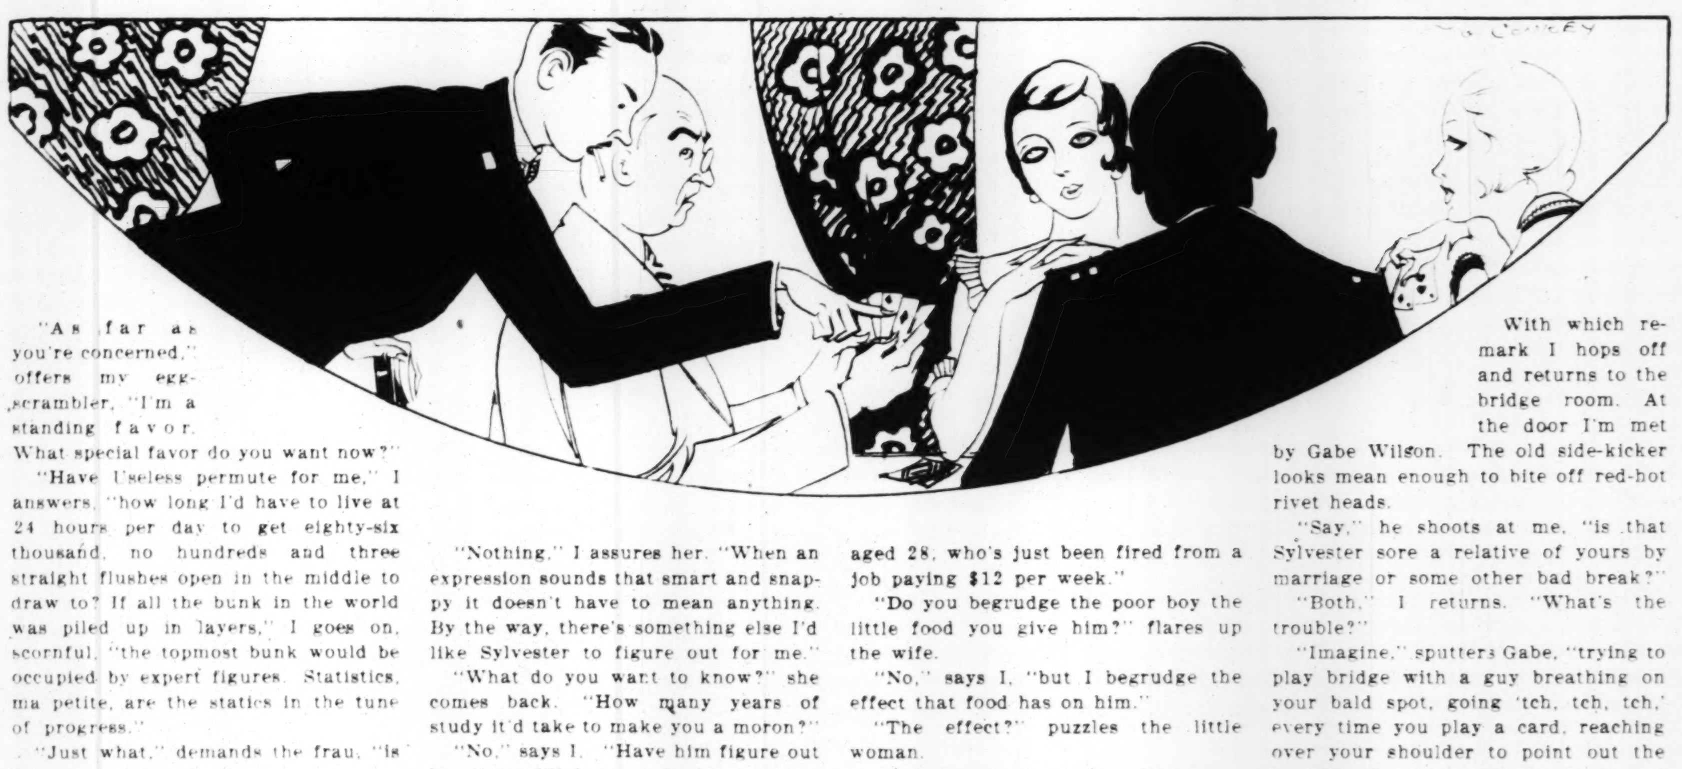
Cousin Sylvester Doesn't Mean Any Harm



I'M NO sooner cut out at the bridge table than I goes to the mat with the frau over Cousin Sylvester.

"If that miasmi doesn't lay off of me," I growls, "I'll smack you out of a relative."

"You and who?" she sniffs. "The Second Regiment of Philadelphia Lighthorse? Sylvester doesn't mean any harm. He just likes to share his wisdom with those not so well fortified between the ears."

"He does, does he?" I yelps. "Why doesn't he cash in on some of it himself instead of blowing it gratis down other folks' neck?"

"I told you," returns the missus, "it's against his principles to indulge in cards for money"——

"But apparently," I cuts in, "not for mine. The cheap kibitzer!"

"Kibitzer?" she queries. "What's that?"

"If I told you," says I, "you'd be nauseated. It's what comes running out when you lift up a wet rock. There's only one thing lower than a kibitzer"——

"I suspected," interrupts Minnie, "that you'd drag yourself into the conversation pretty soon."

"I refer," says I, "to a kibitzer with dandruff. But getting back to Sylvester. Of all the scum on earth"——

"DO YOU realize," snaps the wife, with the look that's launched a thousands tiffs, "that you are speaking of my cousin?"

"Yes," I comes back, apologetic, "but I couldn't think of a stronger expression at the moment. Tell me," I says, dropping the red-hot poker, "how come he's so good at cards if he's never played 'em?"

"Sylvester," she explains, "has a wonderful mind for figures and he's studied all the different card games for scientific reasons. Do you know what permutations and combinations are?"

"As who does not," I returns, "in the denaturing plant set. Combinations are something you frills wear and permutations are tricks you do with your hair when your bob doesn't make you look as young as you think you ought to."

"You're thinking, if any," says Minnie, "of transformations and quite another breed of combinations. I'm talking of arithmetic of the better sort."

"They must've taught it," says I, "the day I stayed home from kindergarten with a string of matched mumps. What'll these permutations and combinations get you? A cup of coffee when accompanied by a dime?"

"Well," comes back the missus, "if you know your permutations there's hardly anything you can't figure out. For instance, are you aware of the fact that the chances of filling an inside straight flush are one in eighty-six thousand, no hundreds and three?"

"Wonderful!" I exclaims, concealing my admiration with no effort whatever. "I must try it out. Will you do me a favor?"

"As far as you're concerned," offers my egg-scrambler, "I'm a standing favor. What special favor do you want now?"

"Have Useless permute for me," I answers, "how long I'd have to live at 24 hours per day to get eighty-six thousand, no hundreds and three straight flushes open in the middle to draw to? If all the bunk in the world was piled up in layers," I goes on, scornful, "the topmost bunk would be occupied by expert figures. Statistics, ma petite, are the statics in the tune of progress."

"Just what," demands the frau, "is that supposed to mean?"

"Nothing," I assures her. "When an expression sounds that smart and snappy it doesn't have to mean anything. By the way, there's something else I'd like Sylvester to figure out for me."

"What do you want to know?" she comes back. "How many years of study it'd take to make you a moron?"

"No," says I. "Have him figure out how long I'll have to feed a relative, aged 28, who's just been fired from a job paying $12 per week."

"Do you begrudge the poor boy the little food you give him?" flares up the wife.

"No," says I, "but I begrudge the effect that food has on him."

"The effect?" puzzles the little woman.

"Yeh, it permits him to live."

With which remark I hops off and returns to the bridge room. At the door I'm met by Gabe Wilson. The old side-kicker looks mean enough to bite off red-hot rivet heads.

"Say," he shoots at me, "is that Sylvester sore a relative of yours by marriage or some other bad break?"

"Both," I returns. "What's the trouble?"

"Imagine," sputters Gabe, "trying to play bridge with a guy breathing on your bald spot, going 'tch, tch, tch,' every time you play a card, reaching over your shoulder to point out the pasteboard you ought to lead, and winding up by giving you three sneers for making four spades on a hand that would have been good for two clubs if bid according to your house pest. Imagine"——

"He's just giving you the benefit of his permutations," I points out.

"What are they?" asks Wilson.

"Permutations," says I, "are the art of taking a set of figures of no interest whatever and producing a result that's utterly valueless. Give a first flight permuter the statistics on the annual catch of deep-sea eels at Maricopa, Arizona, and in less than no time he'll figure out for you the exact yardage of linoleum required to cover the Sahara Desert and Millie Doak's kitchen."

"Nice girl, Millie," remarks Gabe, "but what's the connection between cards and permutations?"

"Cards," I tells him, "are just full of permutations."

"All I've noticed about cards," he returns, "is that there are 40 spades in the deck when you're trying to make a heart flush. Beat it, kid. They want you back in the game."

I'm no sooner seated than I gets a clammy sensation of impending doom, combined with a portent of disaster and a couple of harbingers of ruin. I turns to find Cousin Sylvester perched on the back of my chair.

"THAT'S no way to shuffle," says he, as I ruffle the cards. "With that system not more than seven cards in the whole deck'll be changed, and the chances are [illegible] in 100 that the ace of clubs will fall into the same hand that had it last time."

"Boy," I comes back, "for 17 years come last Thursday I've held the world's non-stop shuffling record. When I'm through"——

"Deal," cuts in the wife, who's my partner. "If you win you can make the first payment on a hall."

The hand I deals myself is nothing to parade the troops for. It calls for silence, and not a great deal of [illegible] but not with me.

"One spade," I announces.

"Oh!" moans Sylvester, and clutches wildly at his breast.

"I made a mistake," says I contritely, "I meant two spades."

"Three," emits the missus.

"How'd you like my work?" [illegible] young Eczema.

"Criminal!" explodes Sylvester. "You didn't even have a hint of a [illegible] in that hand."

"No," says I, "but I wasn't counting tricks when I looked over the mess. I was permuting possibilities. I've been keeping track, and on Saturday night at 10:18 I was due to slip her a [illegible] hand."

"But this," scowls Sylvester, [illegible] only Friday afternoon."

"You," says I, "should have the education."

Miss Gallup and That Betsy Ross

CALLING on Aunt Sarah Gallup, the grand old lady of the Adirondacks, I found her busily engaged in sewing. Despite her age (she'll be 284 next Friday), the fingers plied the needle with youthful dexterity. No spectacles were needed to complement the keen old eyes.

"Sewing, eh," I commented, as I entered.

"No," said Miss Gallup, without raising her eyes from her work. "I'm riding the chutes at Coney Island."

"What is it you're making, Aunt Sarah?" I asked, unrebuffed.

"A flag," said she. "A flag to hang out on my birthday.

"Why, you're a regular Betsy Ross."

"I am a regular nothing of the kind," snorted Miss Gallup, fixing me with a pair of piercing gray eyes.

Ah, ha! Bad blood between La Gallup and La Ross, eh? I knew Aunt Sarah's moods.

"Didn't you—ah—get along with Miss Ross?" I ventured.

"You didn't like her, then?" I persisted.

"I tell you I have nothing to say. What does it matter now, anyway? She's gone. I'm still here. I bear her no malice. Life's too short."

"Oh, come, Aunt Sarah. Spill the story. You know perfectly well it'll go no farther."

"No farther than the papers," said she. "I know you newspaper men."

"Well, of course, if you really feel you don't like to talk about"—I began.

"I made my mistake," interrupted the venerable crone, "in introducing Ross to George."

"George Washington, you mean?"

"Who else, indeed? It's the mistake I've always made, introducing my girl friends to my beaux. I never should have introduced Jimmy Madison to Dolly, for that matter, nor Abigail Adams to John. Ah, well, I never minded. I never trusted women, anyhow, and when Dolly Madison got Jimmy away from me, you'd have been surprised at how little sleep I lost over it. As good fish in the sea, you know."

"How did it come—your break with Betsy?" I asked.

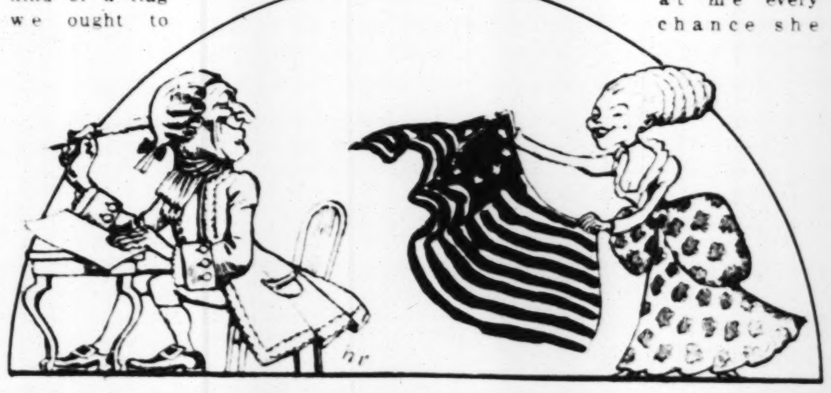
"Well, I certainly never wanted to make the flag," said Aunt Sarah. "In fact, I was the one who suggested to George that it would be nice to ask Betsy to stitch it up. I wasn't bothering about flags in those days.

"George said to me one day that the country ought to have a flag, and he asked me what kind of a flag we ought to have. I thought a moment and then told him it would be nice to have an oblong flag of red and white stripes, with 13 stars in a blue square in the corner, one star for each state. George liked that idea right away and asked me to go ahead and stitch up the first flag. I told him I was busy autographing copies of the Deck"——

"The Deck?" we repeated, puzzled.

"SURE, the Deck of Independence, for Tom Jefferson and Jack Hancock. I had no time for sissy work like sewing. I sketched out the main idea of the flag for George and told him to get Betsy Ross to do the tailoring. I thought she was handy with the needle.

"Well, she was that thankful to me for getting her the job butter wouldn't melt in her mouth, you'd think. And how she pestered George with that flag, grabbing every chance to run over and ask him questions about it, and him so busy. And getting in a crack at me every chance she could, too, as I found out later. Well, I never knew. I never was any hand at small talk. I didn't know she had a crush on Washington, and I didn't know she was jealous of me. George and I were perfectly platonic. It was just a beautiful friendship.



"She finally finished the flag, two weeks after she told George she'd have it done, and he came popping over to my house with it. He didn't know whether to laugh or be mad. You should have seen that flag. It was the neatest job of botching that had been done in North America up to that time. Stripes all crooked, basting threads all wrong, gores lopsided, and she hadn't hemstitched it. Furthermore, she had 16 stars in the flag. She never could count. And, funniest thing of all, she had trimmed it with lace. That was her idea of a battle flag.

"'Oh, well,' says I to George, 'I have to do everything around this Revolution, anyhow; give me that flag. And hand me my needle.'

"I had the flag done in two hours. The same flag that Betsy Ross got the credit for making. I wanted it that way. I insisted that George give her the credit. What did I care?

"Did I get any thanks? Why, the woman never forgave me. The stories she told about me would make your hair stand on end. What did I do? I ignored her. Never, except to you, have I told the true story of how Miss Betsy Ross did NOT make the first American flag. I can afford to be big about things like that. I bear her no malice, the little cat."

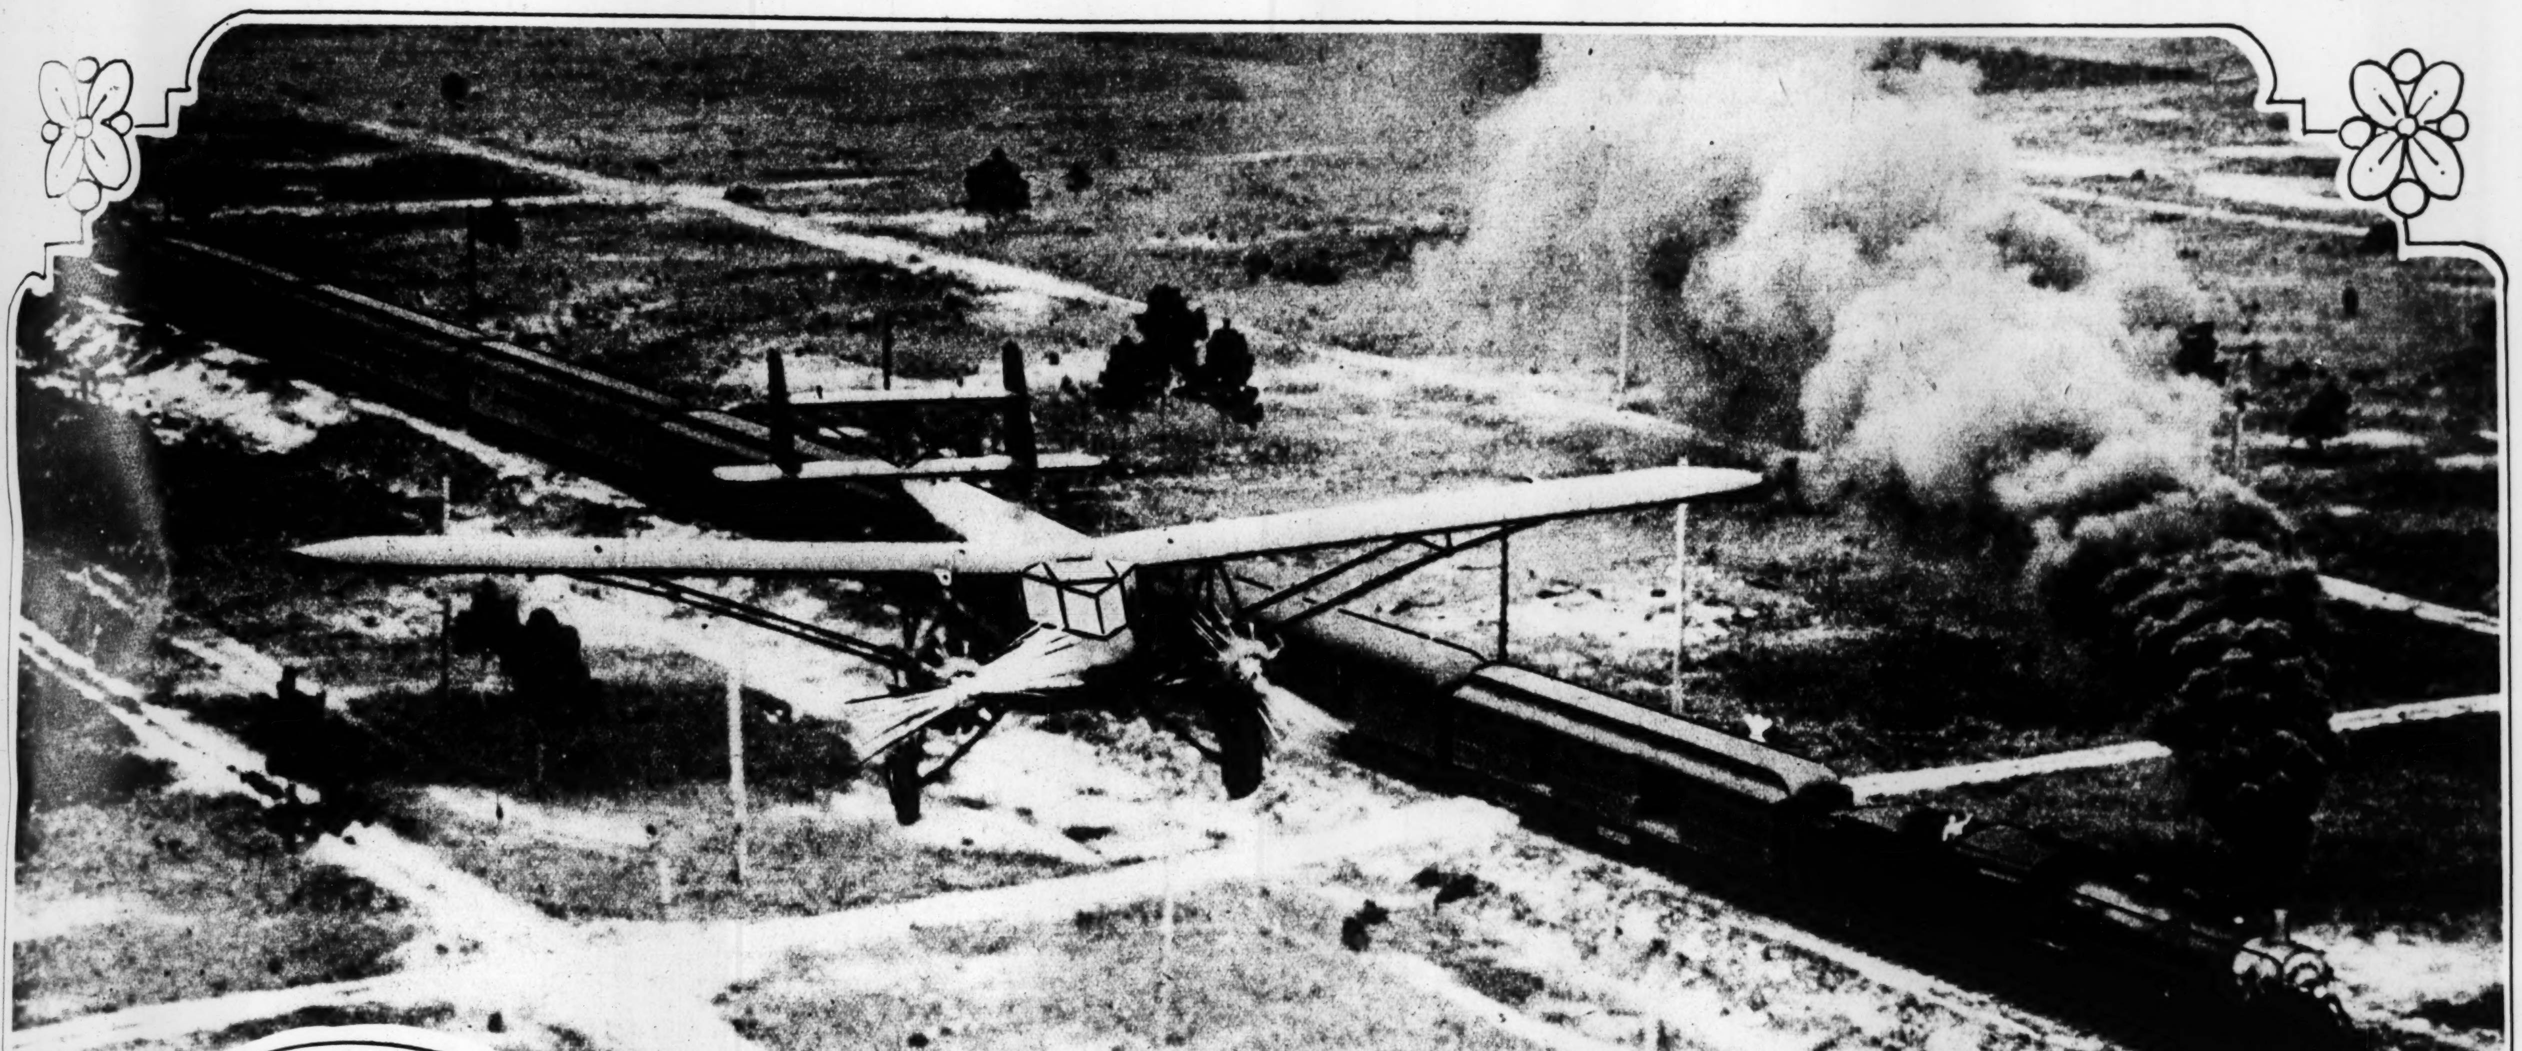
FEBRUARY 8, 1931



A RACE TO THE SOUTHLAND—Not much of a race, at that, but this photograph was possible when the Curtiss Kingbird of the newly inaugurated Eastern Air Transport Service passed the Orange Blossom Special running between New York and Miami as each was going at full speed down the Florida peninsula.

A CHINESE JULIET—Miss Margaret Kam, full-blooded Chinese girl, who plays the part of the heroine in Shakspeare's romantic tragedy in Hawaii.

AMERICAN TO RUN RUSSIAN ROADS

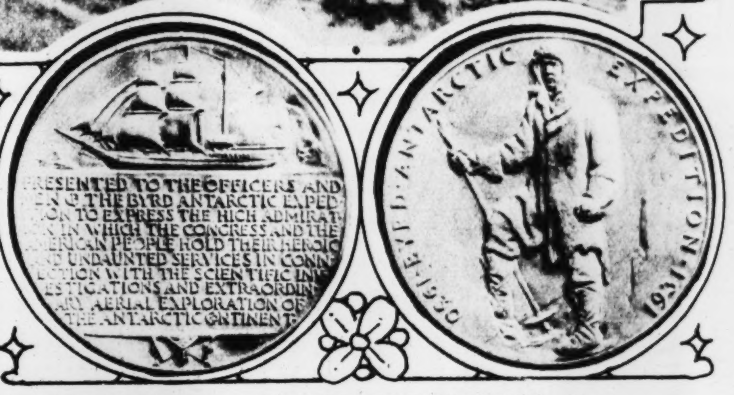
Charles A. Gill, B. & O. superintendent of motive power, who has gone to Moscow for Government transportation job.

PRESIDENT OF INTERNATIONAL COURT

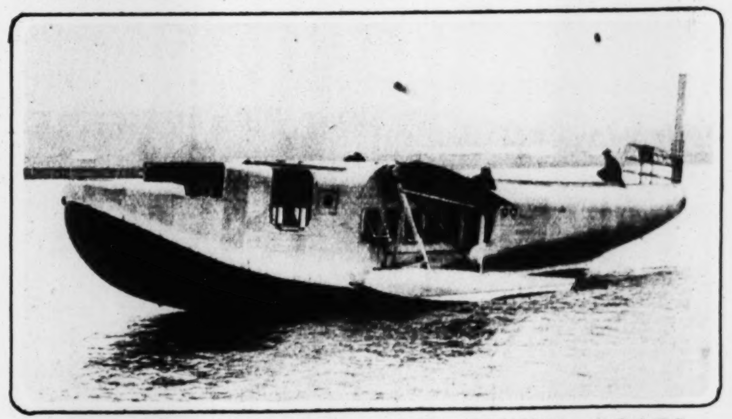
M. Adachi, Japanese Ambassador to France, recently elected to be head of Court of Justice at the Hague.

$350,000 WORTH OF PELTS—Here is the largest shipment of pedigreed silver fox skins ever to be received by a New York firm. Each pelt is numbered and the ancestry of some can be traced back for 20 years. The skins were sold at auction to furriers.

FOX CAUGHT IN TRAP—This photograph was made in Northern Ontario. Another pelt will shortly be added to the fur market.



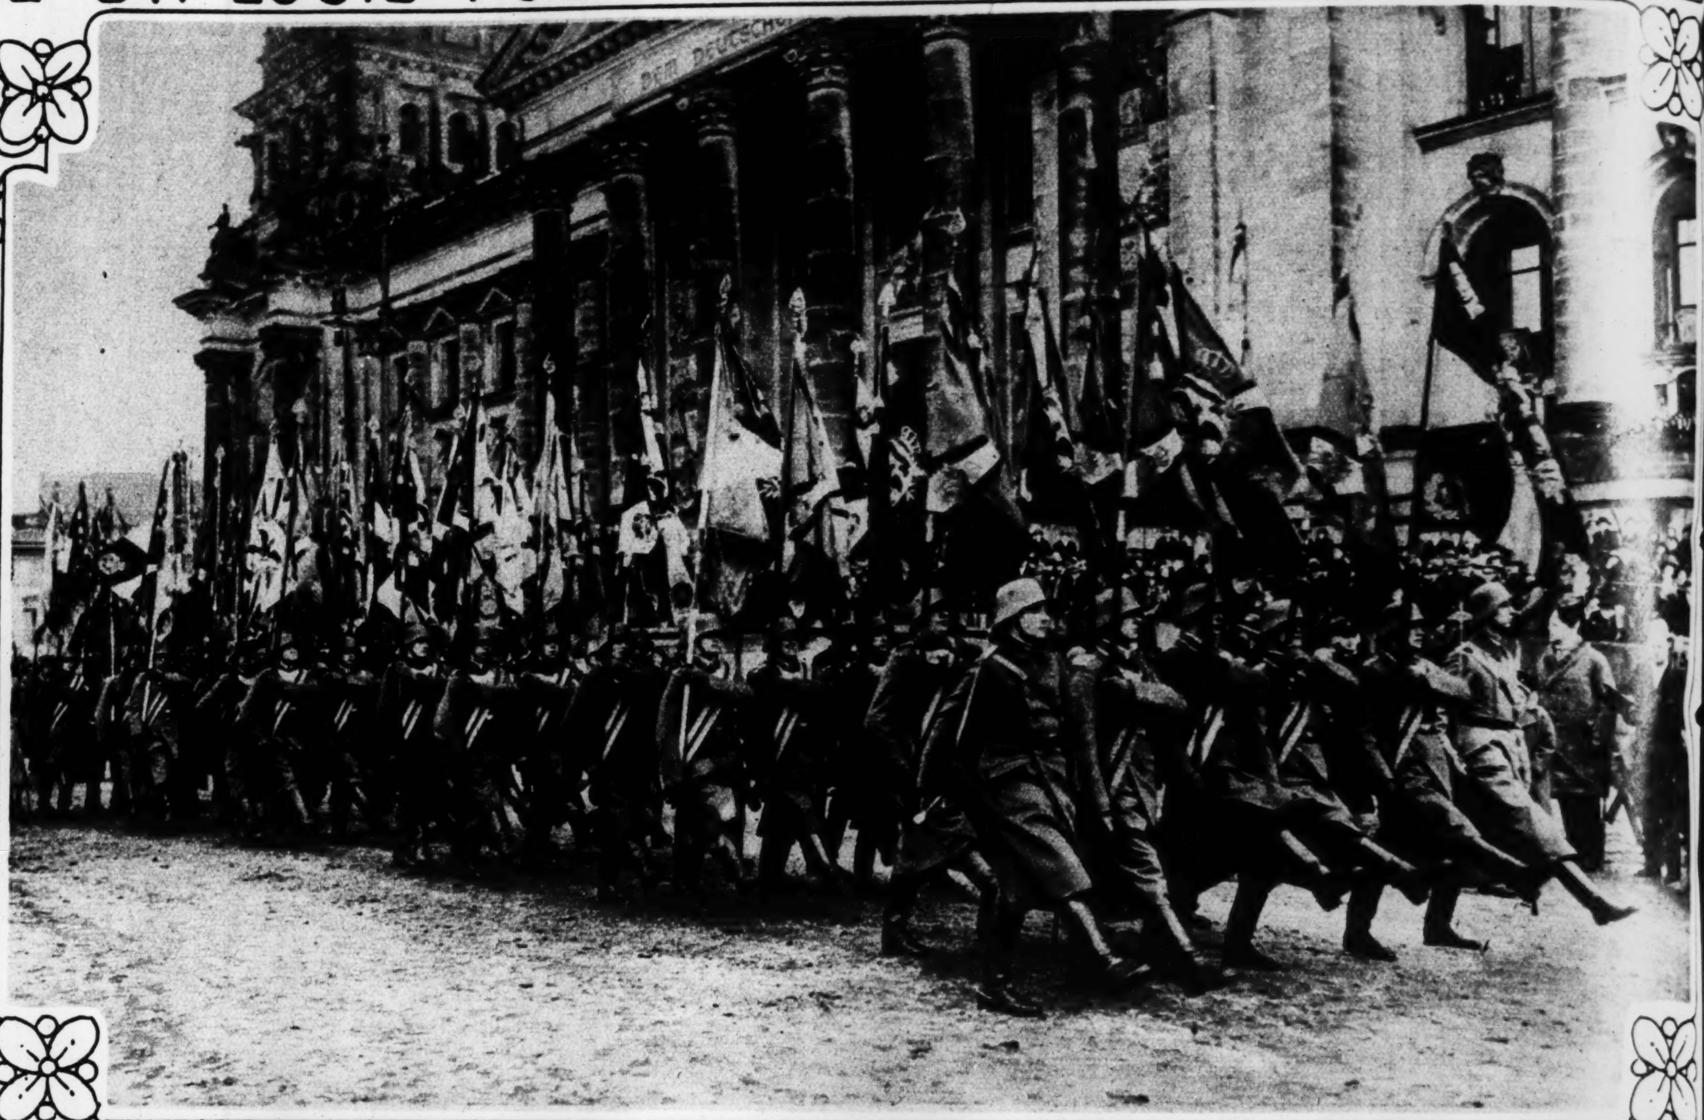
DESIGN OF MEDAL FOR BYRD'S MEN—Each member of the Antarctic expedition is to receive from the Navy Department a bronze or silver memento of famous exploration trip. The design is the work of Francis H. Packer, Rockville Centre, N. Y.



ENGLAND BUILDING HUGE FLYING BOATS—Fleet of amphibians being constructed for service between London and South Africa. Each will carry 16 passengers and two tons of mail.

AMERICA'S TWO RICHEST DEBS—On left, Doris Duke, whose inheritance from her grandfather is said to be worth not less than $50,000,000 at this time. Right, Barbara Hutton, whose grandfather was the late Frank W. Woolworth, and who bequeathed to her one-third of his $58,000,000 estate.

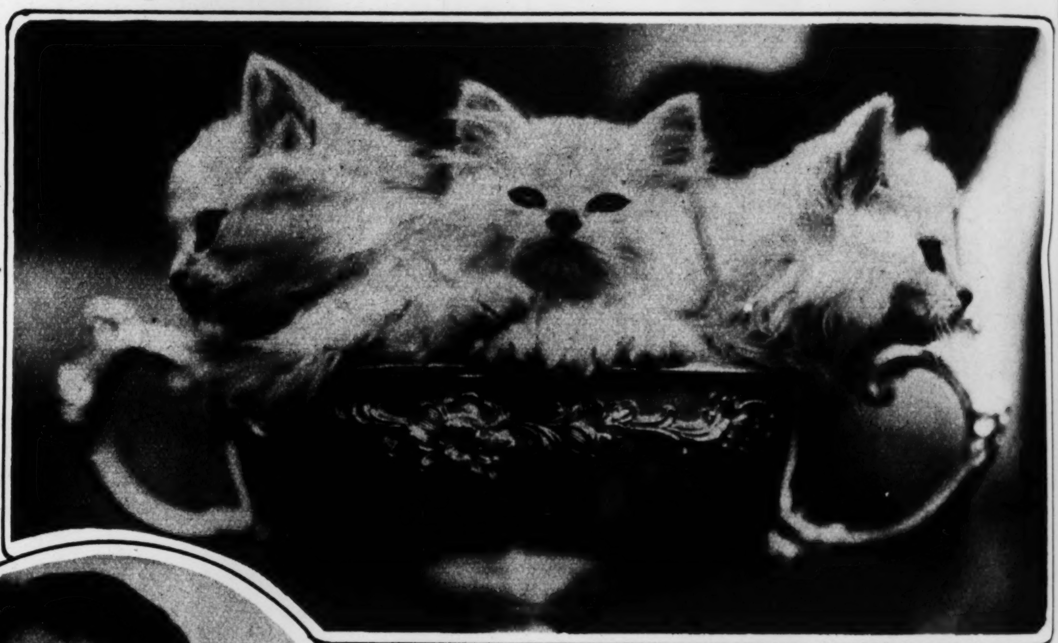
WIFE OF NOTED ARTIST—Mrs. McClelland Barclay, who first met her future husband when she was engaged by him as a model for some of his studies of lovely women used as magazine covers.



GOOSE STEP AGAIN RESOUNDS IN STREETS OF BERLIN—German soldiers marching in review before President von Hindenburg in front of the Reichstag Building to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Reich. The men are carrying different regimental banners.

TO CRUISE IN ARCTIC—Miss Louise A. Boyd, San Francisco heiress who, has already made two journeys towards the North Pole, will set out again this summer to cross the Arctic Circle.

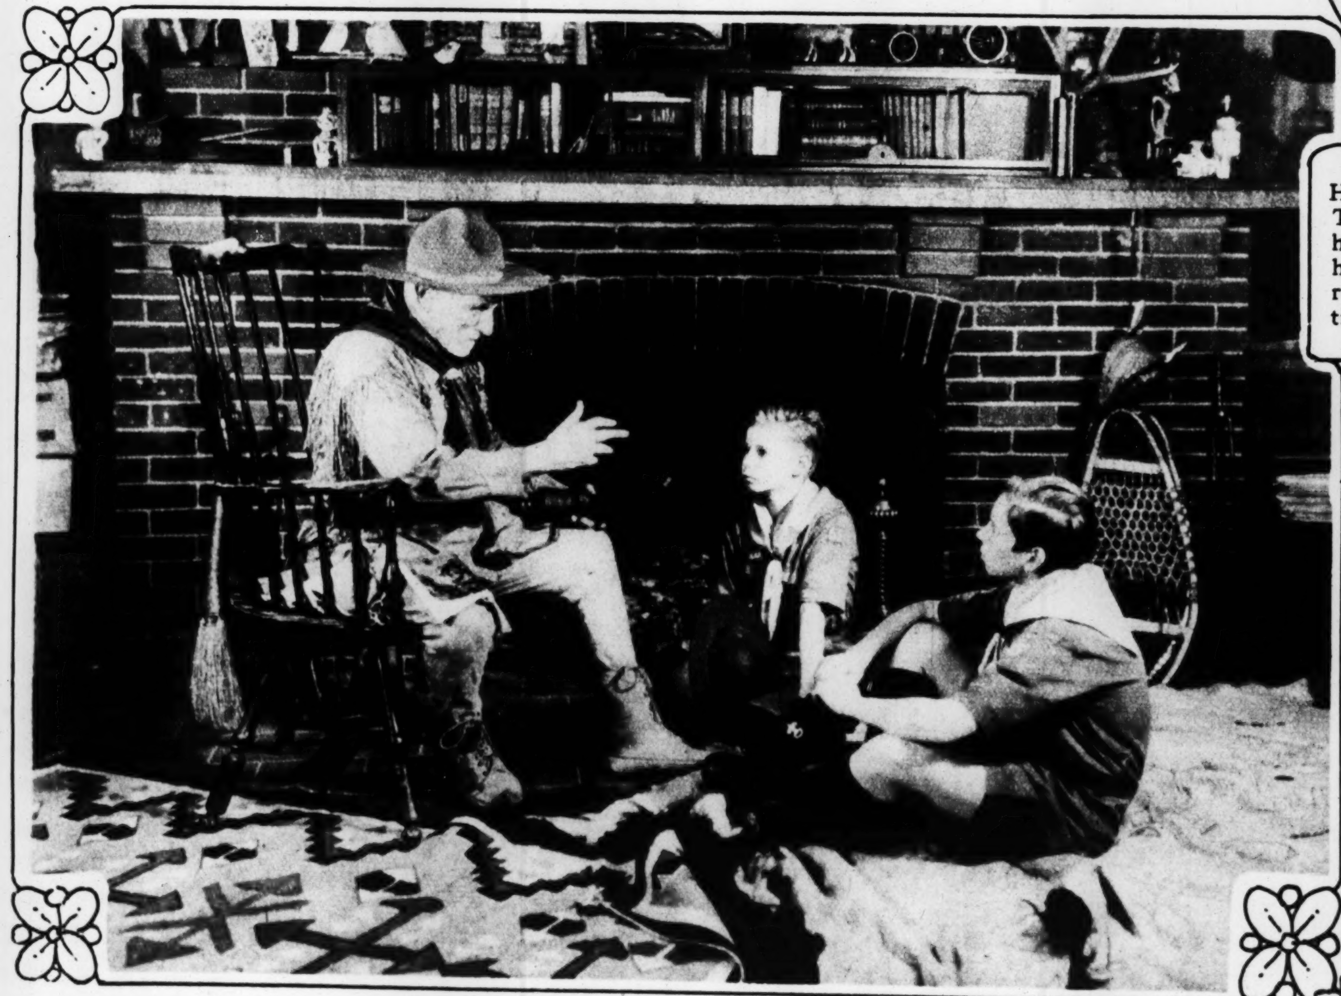
AMBASSADOR'S DAUGHTER TO MARRY—Miss Virginia Booth, daughter of Ralph Harmon Booth, American representative in Denmark, who is to be the bride of William D. Vogel of Milwaukee this spring.



THREE OF A KIND—Silver Persians owned by Mrs. M. A. Doucet of Miami, Fla., who were among the prize winners at recent show in Florida.

HALF WAY AROUND THE WORLD TO WED—Miss Lillian Frank of Oklahoma City, now on Pacific steamer on her way to marry Prof. Glenn E. Morrow, an American college professor stationed in Bangkok, Siam.

COME ON BACK!—This youngster is headed for the front gate and automobile traffic in Los Angeles street, but he'll never get any further. There's a reason—a police dog, who guards his little charge all day long.



LISTENING TO SAGE ADVICE—"Dan" Beard, 80-year-old Boy Scout Commissioner, in his own trophy room at Suffern, N. Y., telling a couple of tenderfeet of pioneer days. The Scout organization will be 21 years old this month.

PIG DRIVING CONTEST—Winter vacationists at Pinehurst, N. C., engaged in the annual gymkhana—one event being a contest between little porkers, each one on a leash held by a fair lady to guide her charge to victory.

MISS GERMANY—Ruth Ingrid Richard, 19-year-old Berlin girl, chosen as her country's most beautiful young woman for 1931.

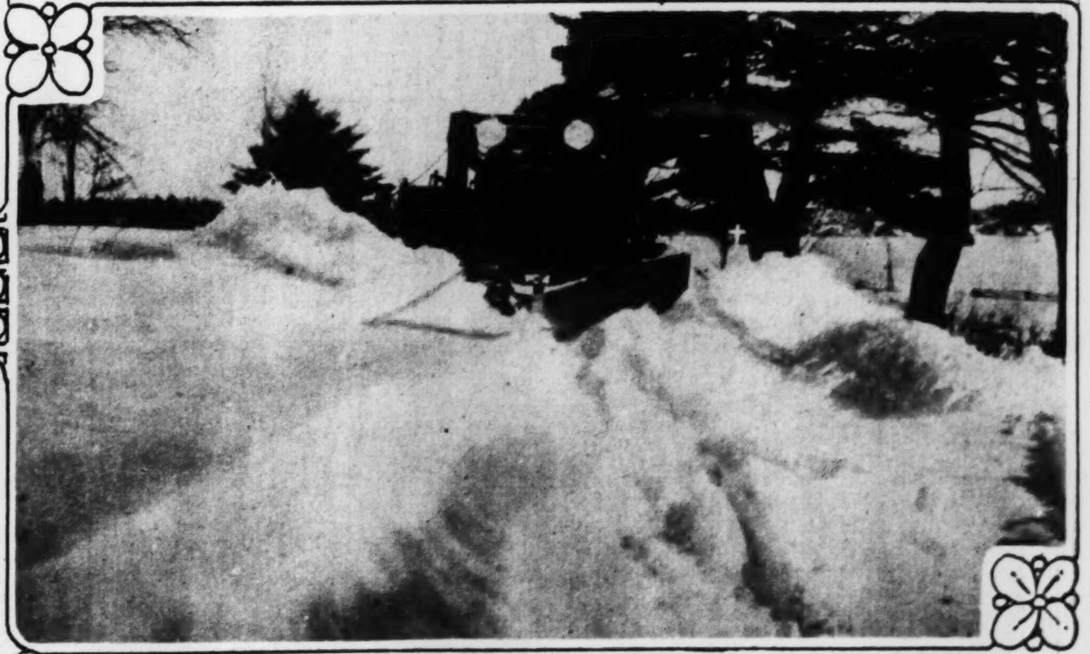
MISS MARGARET HOLEKAMP, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holekamp of Webster Groves, from a painting by George Ford Morris of New York.

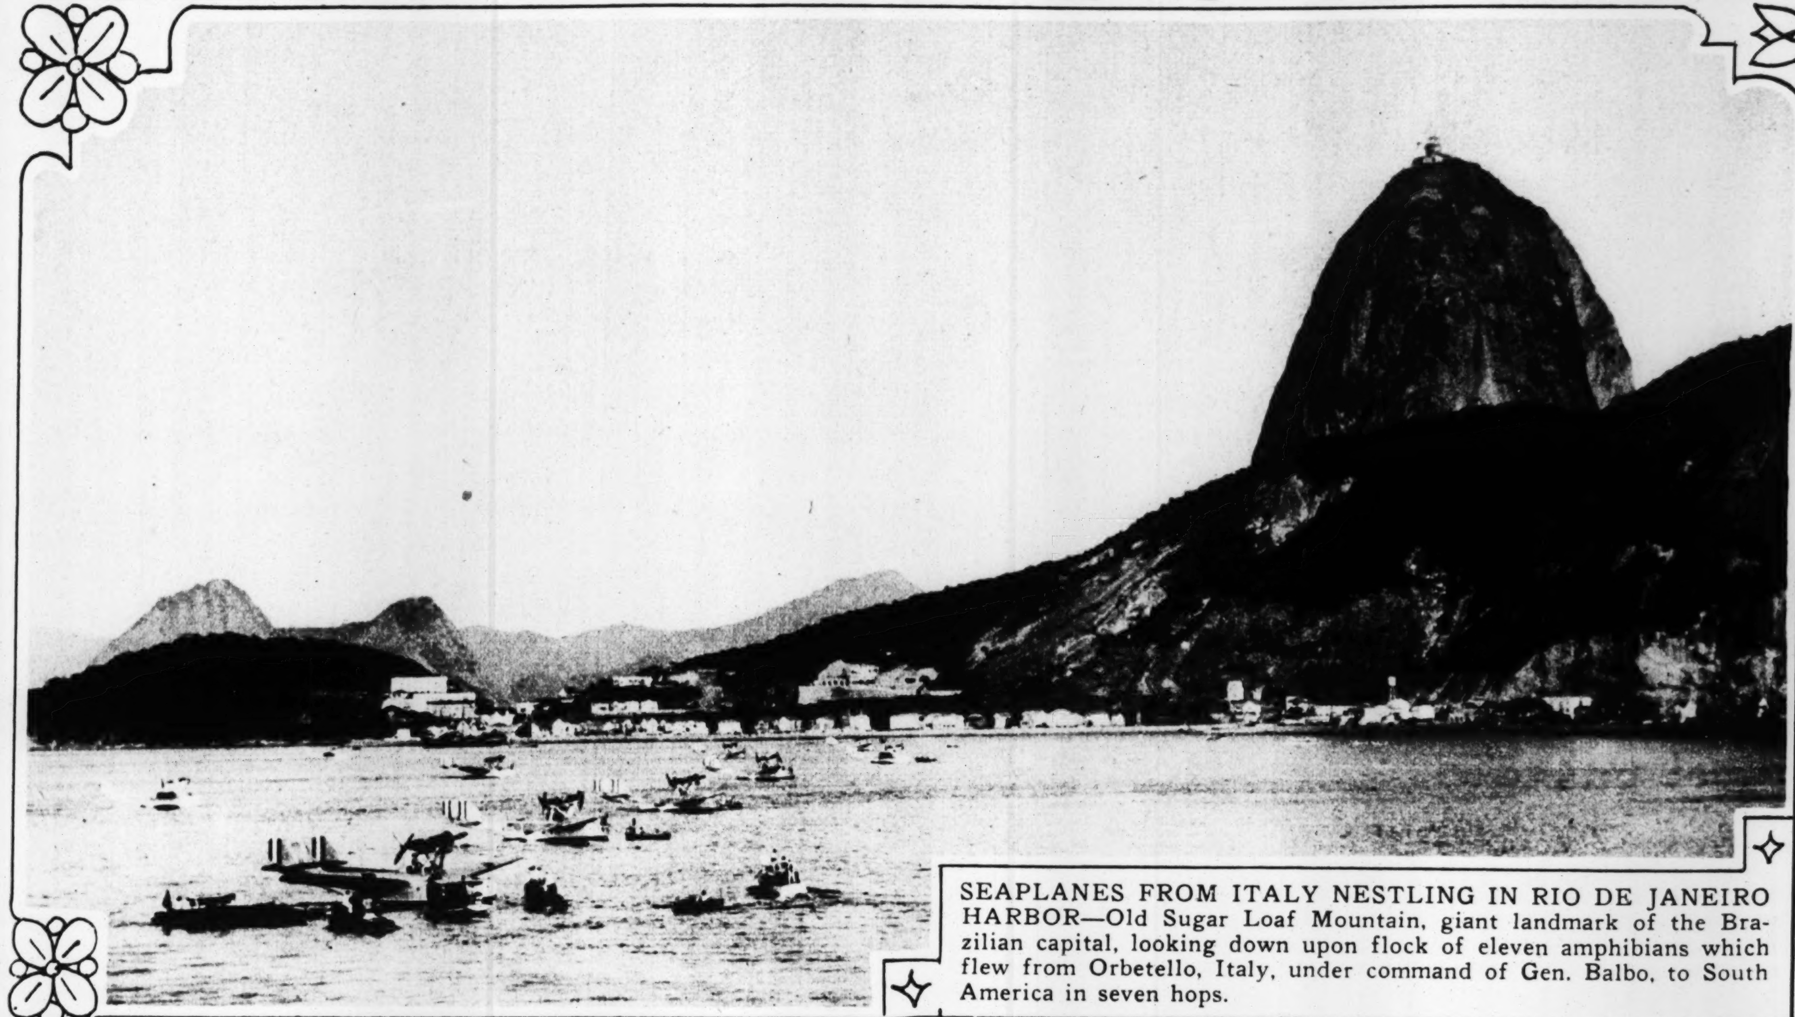
VICE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY—Mr. Curtis greeted by his office staff in Washington with congratulations on having passed a year beyond the three score and ten mark.

CHAMPION FLYER—Dorothy Deckard, aged three, of Hasbrouck, N. J., who has flown 6500 miles in the past two years with her father, Major H. C. Deckard.

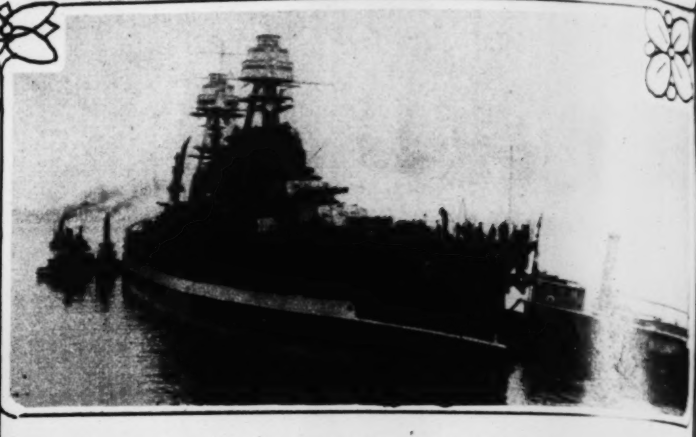
NEW WAY TO GET A THRILL—An outboard motor is now made to be attached to an aquaplane and, instead of being towed by a motor boat, as in the old days, the rider can now glide his plank wherever he likes—with an occasional spill, of course.



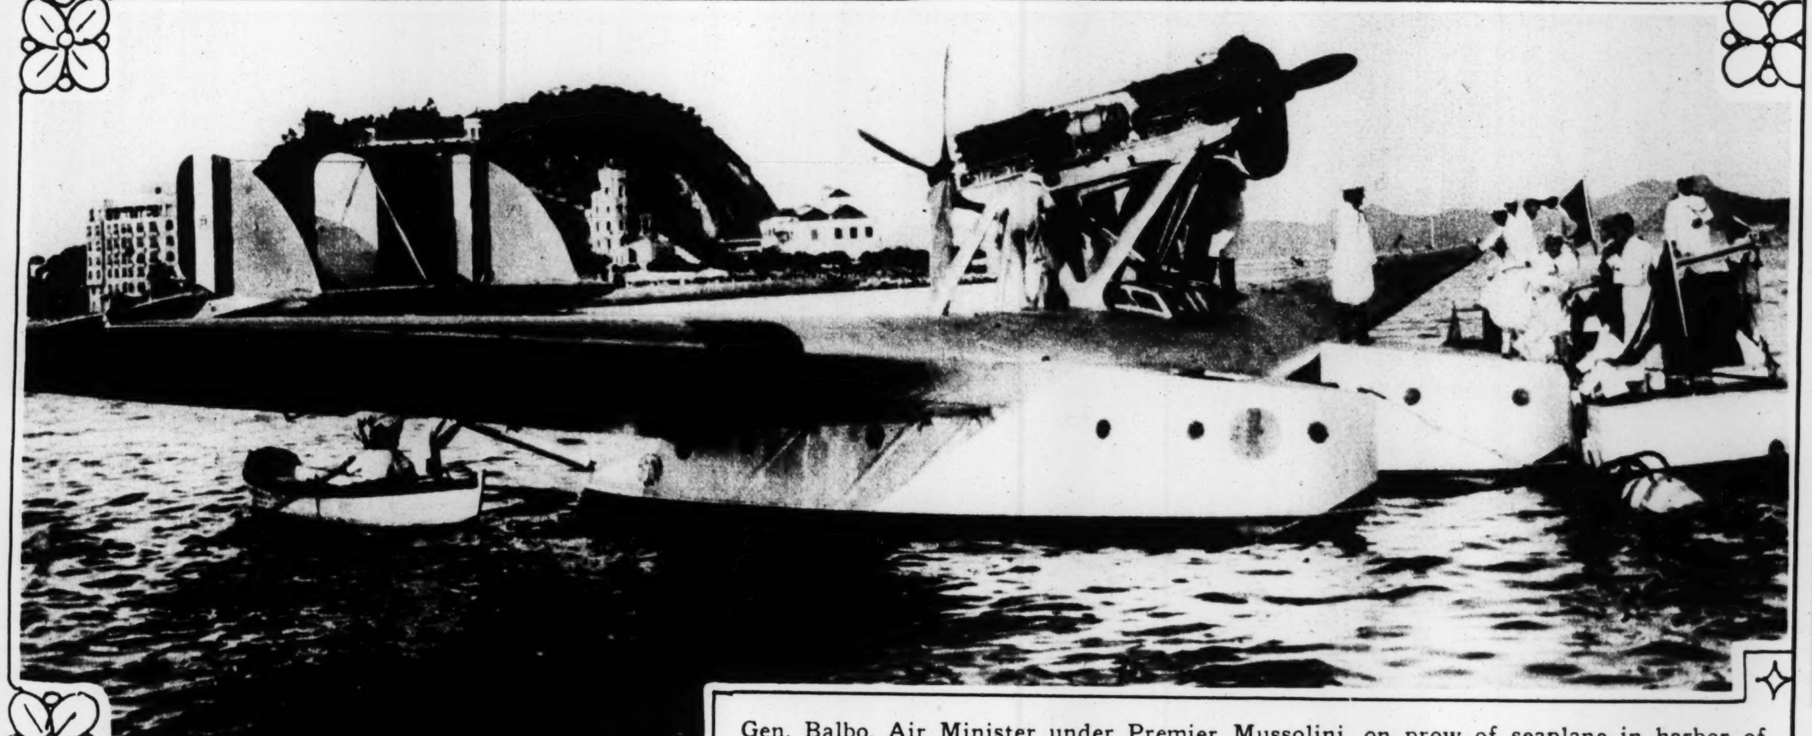
KEEPING HIGHWAYS OPEN IN MAINE—Motor plow making a clearance on one of the State's main highways. Each town has one or more of these powerful path makers—otherwise traffic would sometimes cease in the Pine Tree State.



SEAPLANES FROM ITALY NESTLING IN RIO DE JANEIRO HARBOR—Old Sugar Loaf Mountain, giant landmark of the Brazilian capital, looking down upon flock of eleven amphibians which flew from Orbetello, Italy, under command of Gen. Balbo, to South America in seven hops.



REBUILT AT COST OF $7,000,000—The battleship Pennsylvania with new masts, elevated guns, and added protection against aircraft and submarines.



Gen. Balbo, Air Minister under Premier Mussolini, on prow of seaplane in harbor of Rio de Janeiro, about to go ashore for official welcome.

These scientists

at The Kroger Food Foundation are testing and tasting to find why, how and when the humble, hearty Bean may be "Good"..."Better"..."Best"

CONSIDER the lowly dried bean — white or brown or red, canned or "home-cooked." Body-builders, all of them. Rich in proteins. High in mineral content—such as lime. Good for rough-and-tumble youngsters who need (and who consume!) lots of energy. These bean-facts are well known. Thousands of housewives serve beans, in some form or fashion, as the main dish, at least twice a week. But what else may be learned about beans?

Should beans be field-ripened to maturity? Or should they be picked while immature? Is controlled growth advisable? In preparing baked beans, for instance, should the beans be soaked over-night . . . why should soda be added . . . if it should be added . . . does oven-cooking really develop the true bean flavor and conserve all the food value?

It is questions like these that The Kroger Food Foundation will answer, by experience and experiment. And so you see them at work in their model kitchen—as they soon will be—testing and tasting pot after pot, can after can, of beans. Boiled or baked, sauced and seasoned just so!

Of course, The Foundation scientists know the established facts of food. But it is the unknown factors in food that they seek. In what ways may better foods be grown or prepared for appetite appeal as well as body value—to be as good to eat as they are good for you?

In an almost literal sense of the word, you can look over their shoulders as their work progresses. For the findings of The Kroger Food Foundation will be published here, regularly.

The Kroger Food Foundation is yours—Use It!

You, really, made The Foundation. For you made Kroger's. You made it necessary to establish more than five thousand Kroger stores to serve you . . . to build bakeries and branches, depots and warehouses . . . to criss-cross a good part of the country with trains and trucks, bringing to you the foods you need and want.

The Kroger Food Foundation, then, is to help you discover better ways of cooking and serving better foods. As you become more and more a part of this world adventure in foods, you will have suggestions or requests for The Foundation. Send you letter direct to The Kroger Food Foundation, Cincinnati, Ohio, or send it to your neighborhood Kroger Store. For anything in connection with foods is The Foundation's business—for you.

The Kroger Grocery & Baking Company

Serving You Through 5,184 Stores

Next Sunday this newspaper will carry the announcement of the name of the distinguished scientist and food expert who will direct The Foundation. Be sure to read about this man.

I'LL ADMIT THAT CHAIR NEEDS FIXING BUT YOU'RE NOT THE ONE TO DO IT. ALSO GEORGE BUNGLE, IT'S SILLY FOR YOU TO TALK ABOUT TAKING IT INTO THE BASEMENT TO WORK ON IT, BECAUSE THE MOVING MEN HAD A TERRIBLE TIME GETTING THAT CHAIR IN HERE. AND—WATCH ME! THAT'S ALL, WATCH ME!
SHALL I GO DOWN FRONTWARDS OR BACKWARDS? OH WELL, I GUESS IT WONT MAKE MUCH DIFFERENCE.
I SHOULD HAVE COME DOWN FRONTWARDS. I FEEL THAT I'M TURNING—
UP! UP! DOWN! COME ON, OR I'LL—WHOO!
ANYHOW THAT CHAIR LOOKS BETTER THAN IT DID. A LOT BETTER. STRAIGHTER. WELL NOW ALL I'VE GOT TO WORRY ABOUT IS GETTING IT BACK UPSTAIRS. AND ALTHOUGH IT SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE I FEEL AS THOUGH IT'LL BE TEN TIMES AS BAD GOING UP AS COMING DOWN... WHOOIE!

GOLLY, I HAD TO WEAR BOYS' CLOTHES TO GET THE JOB AS COOK AT BAR X RANCH, AND I'LL HAVE TO KEEP WEARING THEM IF I WANT TO ENTER THIS RODEO!
THE ENTRY FEE IS FIVE DOLLARS, KID!
OKAY! IT'S MY LAST CENT, BUT IF I WIN ANY ONE OF THE PRIZES I'LL BE ABLE TO KEEP MYSELF FOR A WEEK!
OUR FIRST EVENT WAS TO BE A GREASED PIG CONTEST BUT WE HAD TO CHANGE IT TO A CHICKEN-CHASING RACE BECAUSE EZRA BIGGS GREASED THE PIGS FIRST AND THEN COULDN'T CATCH THEM TO DELIVER 'EM HERE!
YOU CAUGHT THE CHICKEN AND YOU GET TO KEEP IT!
YES, AND I'M GOING TO HANG ON TO IT—I DON'T WANT TO HAVE TO CATCH IT AGAIN!
IN THE NEXT EVENT THE IDEA IS TO TRY AND SPEAR THE POTATO WHICH IS SUSPENDED ON A STRING! EACH RIDER ARMED WITH A SPEAR GALLOPS AT THE POTATO AND TRIES HIS SKILL!
OGEEGOSH, I WON'T HAVE A CHANCE AGAINST THESE COWBOYS! THAT FELLOW HAS MADE SIX IN A ROW! THAT MEANS I WON'T DO ANY EATING FOR A WHILE!
THIS IS YOUR LAST CHANCE, KID! YOU'VE HAD FIVE MISSES OUT OF FIVE TRIES!
I GUESS I CAN'T WIN NOW—AND THAT MEANS NOTHING TO EAT, UNLESS— AH! I HAVE AN IDEA!
KING ARTHUR HAD NOTHING ON ME!
FOR THE LUVVA MIKE! HE ISN'T EVEN STOPPING—HE'S RIDING RIGHT OUT OF THE ENCLOSURE!
COME ON, SISTER— DO YOUR STUFF! I WORKED FOR YOU—NOW YOU WORK FOR ME! BY THE TIME I FINISH PEELING THIS POTATO THERE WON'T BE MUCH LEFT OF IT, SO I'M DEPENDING ON YOU TO LAY AN EGG!

I'LL JUST LEAVE THESE ROSES ON ARCHIE'S DESK BEFORE HE GETS HERE- HE'LL BE SURPRISED- BUT HE'LL KNOW WHO THEY ARE FROM-
I WONDER IF MY DARLING ROSIE IS UP YET?
GEE! FLOWERS ON MY DESK- I'LL BET A STENOGRAPHER PUT THEM THERE-THINKING IT'S THE BOSS' DESK- BUT I KNOW WHAT I'M GOING TO DO WITH THEM-
I'LL JUST RUN UP TO ROSIE'S HOUSE AND GIVE THESE FLOWERS TO MY DARLING LITTLE GIRL-
ROSIE! ON MY WAY TO THE OFFICE I SAW THESE NICE ROSES-SO I BOUGHT THEM ONLY FOR YOU-
OH-YOU DARLING BOY! AREN'T THEY LOVELY?
BUT ISN'T IT A COINCIDENT? I WAS DOWN TOWN THIS MORNING AND I PUT A BUNCH LIKE THIS ON YOUR DESK-

IT'S HILDEGARD'S MOTHER-- SHE'S FRIGHTFULLY EXCITED AND SAYS SOMETHING TERRIBLE HAS HAPPENED TO HILDEGARD
WHY DON'T YOU RUN OVER AND SEE IF YOU CAN'T DO SOMETHING FOR HER?
I SCOLDED HER FOR COMING IN SO LATE LAST NIGHT --- JUST READ THAT TELEGRAM! OH, BOO HOO---
"MOTHER--AM TIRED OF BEING TREATED LIKE A TWO-YEAR-OLD-- HAVE ELOPED WITH EDDIE-- HILDEGARD"
THAT WORTHLESS EDDIE OF ALL MEN! BUT DON'T WORRY, MRS. HOOPS, I MAY BE ABLE TO STOP HER BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE
YES'M, HILDEGARD HOOPS AND EDDIE GURK GOT A MARRIAGE LICENSE HERE TODAY
AND YOU HEARD THEM SAY THEY WERE GOING TO THE JEWELRY STORE ACROSS THE STREET?
YES, THEY WERE HERE AND BOUGHT A WEDDING RING --- I SAW THEM DRIVE OFF TO THE WEST IN A BIG BLUE SEDAN
WEST---I'LL BET THEY HEADED FOR CLAYTON--THAT'S WHERE ALL THE ELOPERS GO TO GET MARRIED
EDDIE COULDN'T SUPPORT A CANARY BIRD --HILDEGARD IS SO IMPULSIVE, BUT I KNOW I COULD PERSUADE HER NOT TO MARRY IF I COULD JUST CATCH HER
YESSUM - A BIG BLUE SEDAN WENT BY HEADING FOR CLAYTON --THERE WAS A COUPLE OF SPEED COPS ON MOTORCYCLES CHASIN' IT, BUT THE COPS WILL NEVER CATCH THOSE BABIES
THEY WERE HERE IN THE TELEGRAPH OFFICE-- THE LADY SENT A TELEGRAM--THEN THEY WENT INTO THE FLORIST'S SHOP ACROSS THE STREET
I'M ON THEIR TRAIL ALL RIGHT-- THAT WAS THE TELEGRAM TO HER MOTHER THAT I READ
TELEGRAPH OFFICE --- CABLES TO ALL PARTS OF WORLD
YES--THEY WERE HERE--HE BOUGHT HER A LOVELY CORSAGE-- I JEST KNEW THEY WERE ELOPERS--- THEY WENT STRAIGHT FROM HERE TO THE PARSONAGE OF THAT LITTLE CHURCH UP THE STREET
OH, DEAR--- THEN I'M TOO LATE -- POOR DEAR LITTLE MRS HOOPS -- SHE'LL BE BROKEN-HEARTED
MRS. HOOPS, THIS IS BLONDIE-- I WAS TOO LATE, THEY'RE MARRIED
OH, NO THEY'RE NOT- HILDEGARD BACKED OUT WHEN SHE SAW THE PREACHER AND CAME RIGHT HOME TO ME --SHE'S HERE NOW CRYING ON MY SHOULDER - POOR CHILD, SHE FEELS TERRIBLE ABOUT IT ALL
HILDEGARD'S NO WORSE OFF THAN I AM --- A FLAT TIRE, OUT OF GAS AND NOT A PENNY IN MY PURSE--- I'LL 'PHONE HER AGAIN AND HAVE HER COME OUT AND HELP ME © 1931.
MRS. HOOPS, WILL YOU ASK HILDEGARD TO DRIVE OUT HERE AND BRING ME A COUPLE DOLLARS? THE RIDE WILL CHEER HER UP
SHE'S NOT HERE NOW--- CHESTER CAME OVER RIGHT AFTER YOU CALLED AND SHE WENT OUT WITH HIM TO A FRATERNITY DANCE
